South Campus Renovated In $220,000 Project

The $220,000 renovations on South Campus are definitely a step toward improvement of the Church St. buildings as a permanent part of the campus, Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development, said in an interview Tuesday.

The changes, which center for the most part in Main Hall, establish the usefulness of this campus and also a relationship to historic Bethlehem, he added. Snyder stated that although the decision to spend such a large amount to improve these buildings as a hard one to make, he believes that there is now no question on the parts of those responsible that it was the right decision.

Besides the renovation of Main Hall, new classrooms have been built and areas repainted on other parts of South Campus. Main Hall itself is now entirely a women's dormitory, the interior completely modernized and the exterior restored to the state in which it appeared in 1854. Main Hall was the first building in Bethlehem with this flat roof, square-type architecture and the first public building in the city to have gas light. The white paint has been removed from the exterior, and the bricks have been repointed. Windows have been painted, and part of the molding removed to the original state. Seven false chimneys have been added, and windows have been made or removed to make the building authentic. The contractor for the entire renovation is E. C. Machin, Inc., of Allentown.

The top three floors of the building are dormitory floors, the second and third of which house

New System Devised For College Top Level Functions

by Marcia Morgan

A new system for the organization of college administrative functions has been devised and put into effect. It has been set up so that many administrative duties which were formerly handled separately for men and women students will be handled by one person. President Raymond S. Hauptert outlined the new program briefly at the opening convocation.

The new program is described in detail in the new edition of the faculty handbook. The following summary of the system with details pertaining to the student body has been taken from that handbook.

Under this system there are three separate areas of operation. These are the Area of Instruction, the Area of Student Personnel Services, and the Area of Facilities, Finance, and Development. Each area has two or three chief administrative officers which are directly responsible to the President of the College.

The Area of Instruction has three officers: the Registrar and Director of Admissions, the Dean of Instruction, and the Librarian.

The Dean of Men and the Dean of Women are the chief officers in the area of Student Personnel Services. The officers in the Area

Election Slated For USG Veep; Budgets Due Next Tuesday

Allocation budgets for all campus organizations and boards will be due at the first meeting of the United Student Government (USG) next Tuesday evening. According to USG President Joe Prorok, the meeting will be held in Room WC-203 (formerly 41) at 7:30 p.m.

Prorok also announced that nominations for vice-president of the USG will be received at the following meeting on Oct. 14.

Vacancy in the office of vice-president was caused when incumbent Jack Riedmiller did not return to college. Nominations will be received from the floor of the USG meeting, Prorok said. He added that any student may make a nomination; it is not restricted to USG members.

Up to four persons may be nominated for the office, according to the student body constitution. If more than that number are nominated at the meeting, the USG members present will limit the candidates to four.

Qualifications outlined by the constitution are that the vice-president have a 1.80 cumulative average, and that he may not be an editor-in-chief, associate edi-of Facilities, Finance, and Development are the Comptroller, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, and the Director of Finance and Development.

The Dean of Instruction, Marilyn A. Rader, is chief administrative officer for the academic program of the College. His duties are as follows: administer and supervise the academic program, including the curriculum, teaching methods, and faculty; prepare the academic calendar;

Also, to initiate arrangements for the academic phases of commencement; administer attendance requirements for classes, convocations, and chapels; head the program of academic advising; prepare reports on grade analysis; and serve in all matters of discipline falling in the aca-

Architect's drawing of the new dormitory shows the stone-faced buildings facing the football field. The two larger buildings on the ends will be living quarters, while the center smaller building will be a lounge.

Construction Of New Men's Dormitory To Begin Within Next Two Weeks

Construction of the new men's $635,000 dormitory will begin "within the next two weeks" according to Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development for Moravian College. Occupancy of the dormitory, which will house 130 students, is expected by next fall.

Written confirmation for a federal loan in that amount was received recently from the Philadelphia office of the Housing & Home Finance Agency of the Community Facilities Administration. The college will take a 40-year loan with the federal government at an interest rate of 2.78 per cent to pay for the new facilities.

Specifications call for two built-in wardrobes, bureaus, mirrors, and desks in each room, which will accommodate two men. The desks, which will also have a small bookcase, will be near the window. A small shelf will run the length of the room above the beds and above the shelf on both walls there will be cork bulletin boards.

Further specifications include two study rooms, a 40-by-26 foot recreation room, proctor's apartment, a 40-by-40 foot lounge, a small kitchen adjoining the lounge, a vending machine room and a glass-enclosed passageway connecting the two dormitory units to the lounge and recreation unit.

There will be 20 men accommodated on each of six floors with three floors in each unit. In addition there will be 100 more men accommodated on the ground floor of the unit on the west side. The building will be three and four floors high, with the deeper elevation facing west, and the lounge and recreation unit located in the middle.

The exterior of the building will be south mountain stone, similar to the facing of College Hall, Colonial Hall, and the Archives Building.

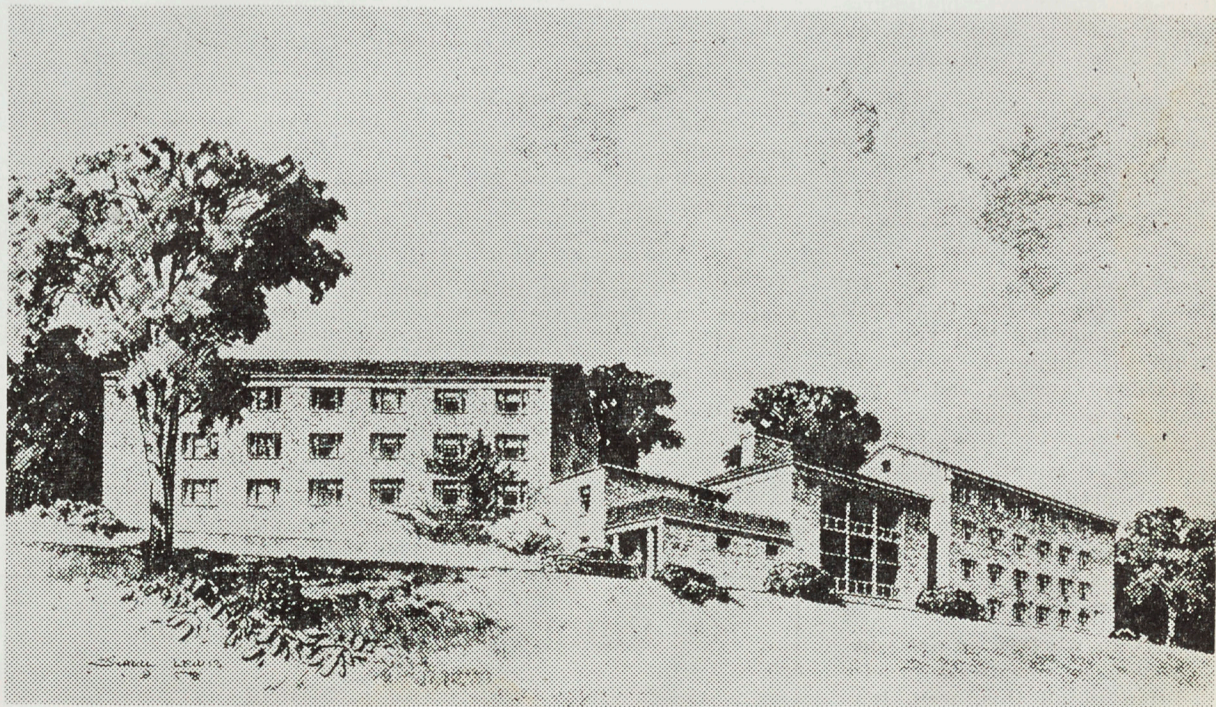

E. C. Machin, Inc. Allentown, contracting firm, will construct the building which will be located west of College Hall and the football field on the hillside. The front of the building will overlook the football field. Trautwein & Howard of Philadelphia are the architects.

The board of trustees emphasized that the college is concentrating on a small dormitory "in keeping with the scale of the college." The basic outline of the building was decided after an inspection tour of similar facilities at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut, last year.

According to present plans, when the new dormitory is completed, the accommodations for 26 men in Comenius Hall and 24 in the Omicron Gamma Omega House will be eliminated. Colonial Hall, with accommodations for 46 men

Much Ado About . . .

Well, like they say—here we go again. From the looks of all the "impossible" improvements made on both campi (especially South Campus, Main Hall), it looks like it is going to be a good year. So—welcome back up-erclassmen and a hearty welcome to all the frosh.

For the benefit of all upperclassmen and frosh who wish to have a successful four years at Moravian, here are a few suggestions. They were originally thought up by no less an authority than Robert Tyson, of the Department of Psychology and Philosophy of Hunter College in New York City. They were originally published in the National Education Association Journal. All of this simply means that the profs had been up to the tricks for a long time before we even arrived on the campus scene. Anyway—the advice runs as follows:

- (1) Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrate fiery interest and give him timely items to mention to the class. If you can't find any clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings. He thinks everything deals with his subject.
- (2) Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.
- (3) Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.
- (4) Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake) If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.
- (5) Laugh at his jokes. You can tell if he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.
- (6) Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.
- (7) If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.
- (8) Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match the books for size and color.
- (9) Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your brother's second-grade reader at that.
- (10) Call attention to his writing. It produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.

As to whether or not you want to do some work in addition to all this, well, it's controversial and up to the individual.

Why Not A New Dorm?

Without doubt, the renovations on South Campus, particularly the complete transformation of Main Hall, have caused a considerable amount of comment. Most of it has been favorable; the modern conveniences and the attractive decor of the dormitory areas seem to have made a very good impression on the freshman women, especially. Upperclass women are divided in their opinion, as they understandably have been used to an entirely different building in appearance.

Besides the usual complaint of male students that they can't find the classrooms that were once there, there has been a rather thought-provoking question on the practical side. Why did they spend as much as $220,000 on the South Campus dorm, when for a little more, they could have built a new women's dorm nearer North Campus? The latter idea had at one time found its way into future plans for expansion. Thinking about this further, we investigated some of the reasons why this was not done.

Probably the first answer from Mr. Snyder was "If we had built an entirely new dorm, what would we do with Main Hall?" The desire is to eventually move all classrooms to North Campus, so it would be rather ridiculous to turn it into a classroom building. The new classrooms in Colonial Hall were built only because there was absolutely no other space at present.

Secondly, the plans to build women's dormitories on North Campus were made with the need for expansion in mind, not just the need to improve what was already available. Therefore, even if new dormitories were built, they would be used as units additional to the ones already existing on South Campus.

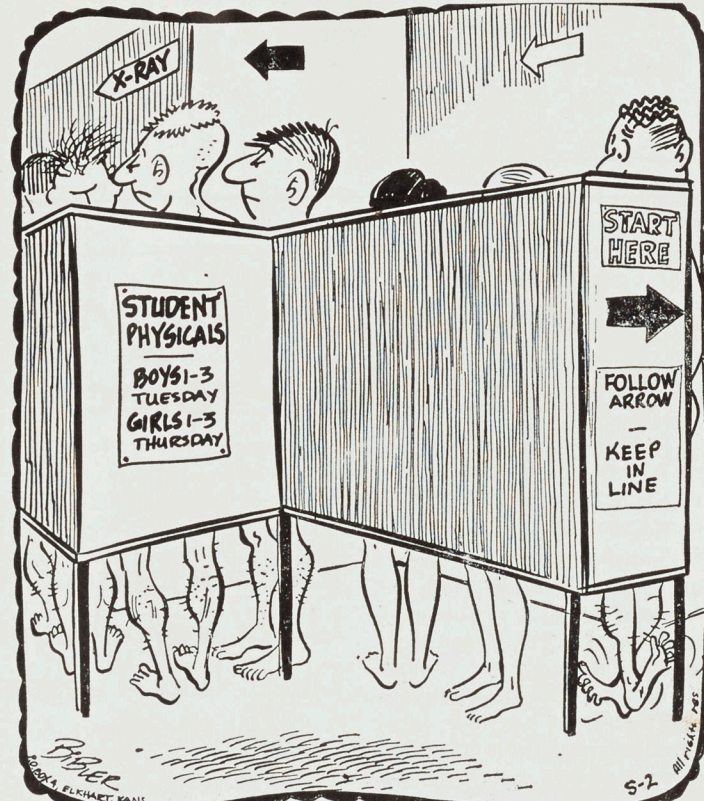

Even more reason for the decision that was made was the fact that there was no conceivable space on or near North Campus, either now or in the foreseeable future, on which to build a new dorm. In regard to the question of money, the average cost per woman dormitory student for the changes that were made was $4600. In comparison, the cost involved in constructing a new dorm would be approximately $5,000 per student, only $400 more. Possibly, the college could have put off all such construction for another several years until it could put out this extra expense. But, considering the other factors just mentioned, and the fact that dining facilities were not even considered in this estimate, the possibility was eliminated.

Mr. Snyder pointed out that the renovations as made will produce certain favorable "by-products." The changes definitely establish the usefulness of the campus, and because of the successful effort to restore the building to a former state, they establish a good relationship to historic Bethlehem.

In answer to the question whether Main Hall will be the only renovated building on South Campus, which would seem rather useless, Mr. Snyder pointed out that such a sum as $220,000 would never have been spent if there weren't further plans for improvement. Very definitely, he said, "the die is cast" on improving the entire campus. Thus, it can be seen that the money spent has not been money wasted on a campus, the use of which will eventually be discontinued.

We hope that this has helped to clear up some points in the minds of those who have wondered about the practicability of all this renovating, and that it will result in a larger sense of appreciation on their parts.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WE BETTER RUN BACK AND CHECK THAT SCHEDULE."

Gillespie Named Men's Dean; Will Remain As Athletic Head

by Gene C. Salay

Moravian College announced on August 4 that Harvey T. D. Gillespie, director of athletics since 1940, would assume the position of Dean of Men on September 1. He succeeds Dr. Richmond E. Myers, who will continue at Moravian as professor of geology. Gillespie's office is in College Hall.

Gillespie will keep his position as director of athletics and as head baseball coach. He will also expect of employees, etc., can be answered with the material that will be available.

Student Must Sell Himself

Since a project is only as good as what goes into its building, Dean Gillespie made the statement, "How much we can do for the students depends on how much the students wish to avail themselves of the placement material at hand—to set up an interview is one thing—final analysis shows that the student has to be able to sell himself to secure the position he desires."

In order that students may be kept up to date on the latest placement news, space in The Comenian will be allotted each week for information regarding full or part time job opportunities. He requests that all students take advantage of this information.

Other Duties

In order that students be better equipped to find answers to problems which may arise, Dean Gillespie's other duties include chairman of the hazing committee, faculty and men's dormitory counsellor, and head of the disciplinary committee. He also functions as the administration's representative to the student government.

He advises, "Since cooperation between the students and faculty is a prerequisite in achieving a harmonious academic season, students with problems or questions should not hesitate to see me."

retain the position of head of the physical education department, but will give up the teaching assignment.

A graduate of Bethlehem High School, Gillespie received his B.S. from Moravian and his master's degree from Lehigh University. Overcoming a polio handicap, he starred and captained the Moravian baseball and basketball squads during his undergraduate years.

On July 20, 1955, the 38th anniversary of the city's incorporation, he was awarded a certificate at the annual Bethlehem Day observances for community achievement. He has also received the Comenius Day Award.

Placement System

As Dean of Men, Gillespie will be in charge of placement. The placement system, which is in its initial stages, will bring the prospective employers into contact with the graduating students of Moravian College.

A placement library, which is nearing completion, will instruct seniors who wish to be interviewed. Such questions as how to prepare for an interview, what cor-

Painting Of Men's Dorms, Enlargement Of Emcee Among Summer Improvements

The painting of the men's dormitories, and equipping of the lounges with TV sets were among the campus improvements accomplished during the summer.

The Emcee also extended its service area into the space formerly occupied by the Comenius day student lounge.

Yearbook Sent To Printers; Due In Nov.

The 1958 Benigna, Moravian College yearbook, has been sent to the printers, according to editor Sandra Iobst. It will be issued free-of-charge to all last year's students, "probably around Thanksgiving," she said.

Proofs of the yearbook had lain in the office of Mrs. Ronald Sherry, faculty advisor, all summer. The page proofs were picked up early last week by associate editor Nancy Baker, and with Miss Iobst, she corrected the proofs.

However, the deadline for proof correction had passed. Miss Baker later said that the yearbook company, the American Yearbook Company, of Hannibal, Missouri, has accepted the proofs, although late, and will make the required corrections.

The only thing missing at the present, Miss Baker said, are the advertisements. According to Fred DeFrank, Benigna business manager, approximately $220 worth of advertising was sold to local merchants.

DeFrank said the copy for the ads were given to staff photographer Paul Starner, who was to take pictures for insertion in the ads. Starner, however, could not be contacted all summer and on Tuesday said that he doesn't know where the advertising contracts are. Miss Baker said that 20 pages have been set aside for advertising in the yearbook.

Harvey T. D. Gillespie, Dean of Men, in describing the improvements made to the men's dormitories, stated that further improvements will be made "where practical" in a general program, with work taking place during the vacation periods of the coming year.

The summer improvements included the painting of the interiors of all men's dormitories on North Campus and Clewell Hall on South Campus. Television sets, purchased by the college, have been placed in all the dormitory lounges, with the exception of the Colonial Hall lounge, where the set formerly in the Comenius lounge is now located. The Colonial lounge, situated in the basement, will be furnished with additional lounge furniture which is on order. Table tennis and shuffleboard facilities will also be added. The engineering drawing room, formerly located in the present lounge area, has been relocated on the fourth floor of Colonial Hall, South Campus.

Lounge Furniture

Gillespie said that lounge furniture has been placed at both ends of the dormitory area on the fourth floor of Comenius Hall, but that no television set has been installed as the men living there have the Emcee television in their building.

According to Gillespie, there is also additional lounge furniture for the Sigma Phi Omega House on order. In speaking of the program, which included repairs on all existing lounge furniture, Gillespie stated that the aim of the program was to allow the men living in each dormitory to have recreational facilities available in their own living area.

Emcee Expanded

Lear Neiswender, manager of the college stores, announced this week that the North Campus Emcee has extended its service area into the space formerly occupied by the Comenius Hall day student lounge. According to Neiswender, the Emcee extension, which will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., will offer coffee and sandwiches and other light refreshment.

The room has several tables and chairs in it, with a snack bar at the north end. There are also speakers and selectors from the Emcee record machine.

Neiswender said that any college group wishing to hold a meeting in the room in the evening with a light lunch served by Emcee personnel should contact him. He mentioned that the Moravian College Band was the first such group to take advantage of this offer. The Band had a meeting and light lunch in the room on Sunday evening, September 21.

and the Sigma Phi Omega House with accommodations for 12 men, will continue to be used as housing units. Clewell Hall, men's dorm on Church Street, will revert to use by women students.

Comenian Sets Up Schedule; Positions On Staff Available

Neil Boyer and Ginny Dancy, co-editors of The Comenian announced this week that 27 issues of the campus weekly will appear during the coming school year.

Fourteen issues of the newspaper will appear this semester. Thirteen issues will be published during the spring semester.

The editors also emphasized that there are still openings on all staffs. Interested students should contact the editors in the Comenian office in the basement of the Arts Building between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Tuesday, September 30.

President Names Thirteen To '58-'59 College Staff

Thirteen new administrative and faculty members have been added to the Moravian College staff and have assumed their duties as of the beginning of the fall semester. President Raymond S. Hauptert presented nine of the new staff members at the opening convocation Monday. Induction ceremonies were held in the president's office following the convocation.

Two newcomers to the administrative staff are Miss Marvel Emma Rettmann and the Rev. Henry L. Williams. Miss Rettmann, an alumna of St. Olaf College, has done graduate work at the University of Oslo. She has been a teacher in Northfield and Mountain Lake, Minn., and recently held the position of YWCA Recreational Director in Madison, Wis. She will be the new Director of Women's Residence.

Rev. Williams, a graduate of Moravian College and Moravian Theological Seminary, will assume the position of Administrative Librarian. He also attended the University of New Mexico and Manchester University in England.

Teaching Staff

New members of the full-time teaching staff are Kenneth A. Bergstresser, associate professor of biology; Mrs. Rosalind Croman, associate professor of elementary education; The Rev. Henry A. Lewis, associate professor of Bible and religion, and Chaplain; Dr. John V. Machell Jr., professor of sociology and Department Chairman; and Surendra A. Raje, instructor in physics.

Bergstresser returns to the college staff following recent work in the industrial world. He is an alumnus and alumni trustee of Albright College, and has studied at the Universities of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania and Cornell University.

Mrs. Croman studied at Temple University, Columbia University, Pennsylvania State College, Maine University, and Colorado University, and has been responsible for the placement of student teachers in the Bethlehem School system.

The Rev. Lewis, pastor of New Philadelphia Moravian Church, near Winston Salem, N. C., has succeeded Rev. Dr. Samuel C. Zeller as chaplain. Rev. Zeller will devote his full time to the religion department.

Rev. Lewis was chairman of the Commission on Work among Moravian Students in Colleges and Universities and has been chairman of the Music Committee of the Southern Province.

Machell, who has just completed work as a research fellow at Yale Divinity School, graduated from Temple University and has studied at the University of Illinois, the Hartford Theological Seminary, and the School of Social Work at Washington University.

He has been a member of the faculties at the University of Toronto, Syracuse University, and Guilford College.

Raje, a native of Bombay, India, is an honors graduate of the University of Bombay and attended Harvard University, where he was research assistant at the cyclotron laboratory.

He has been associated also with the faculties at the University of Pennsylvania, LaSalle College, the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, Albright College, and Elphinstone College, Bombay.

New additions to the part-time teaching staff of the college are Mrs. James M. Griffith, Jr. instructor in biology, Miss Ellen Goodman, instructor in psychology, Mrs. Jane Rauch, instructor in biochemistry, Karlis Samtins, instructor in Russian, James S. Van Scoten, instructor in physical education and hygiene, and Edwin Woisard, instructor in physics.

Returning this Year

Returning to the campus this year are Dr. Daniel Gilbert, of the history department, and Miss Ruth Roberts, of the mathematics department.

Dr. Gilbert spent last year at Amherst College in Amherst, Massachusetts. While there, he served as Visiting Assistant Professor in American Studies under a Carnegie Grant.

He conducted a sophomore "problems" course in American studies and worked with the Junior Honor Seminar in American Studies. In addition he was responsible for a senior honor candidate in American Studies.

Miss Roberts spent the last year at the University of Pennsylvania studying for her doctorate in mathematics.

South Campus Renovations

the freshman women. A new coat of paint and new tile floors brighten the areas. The bath facilities have been consolidated into one identical unit on each floor, and large luggage and linen closets have been built in on each floor. To replace the old central stairway, two new fireproof stairwells have been built in the front and the back of the building.

Where the floor plans necessitated it, partitions were removed and new ones put up. On the second floor, the former language laboratory and classrooms have been made into bedrooms. All floors have new lighting fixtures, and an emergency lighting system can be used in case of power failure.

Central lounge areas have been created on the third and fourth floors. Because position of the bearing walls prevented a large enough lounge on second floor, the students living there will use the first floor lounge, which was formerly the Blue Parlors. This lounge will be exclusively for the women students, except for occasional teas. A television set and a small service unit are available, and the room will have modern furniture.

In the area of the Dean of Women's former office and the Director of Residence's suite are now the latter's two-room suite, with a small service unit, and the guest room. The office of the Dean of Women has been moved to the former office of the treasurer, with part of the hallway blocked to create a filing and storage area. The wall of the women's lounge has been extended past the area where the "red carpeted" stairway once was.

An 1854 living room replaces the president's office to the left of the main entrance and will serve as the reception room for Dean Sartwell's office and a waiting room. A large crystal chandelier on loan from a private owner is hung from the ceiling of the ceiling, and paintings are those of Grünwald, a member of the faculty from 1836 to 1860 who painted Bethlehem scenes. Most of the furniture is refinished pieces from the original Blue Parlors.

The reception office will serve the same purpose as before, with the added function of being a waiting room for the women students' guests. The lobby outside the room also is to be used as a waiting area. Both places are newly furnished with easy chairs and tables. The reception office will have a large drape to completely cover the north wall and a high screen to separate the post office area.

In the basement of Main Hall is a co-ed lounge, where the day student lounges formerly were. Two curved, sectional davenport units, two bridge-size tables, a coffee table, a piano, and a record player will be available. Students may sign out and return record albums to the reception office.

Across the hall from the co-ed lounge is a concession room and ping-pong table. The same arrangement for signing out balls and paddles can be made with the reception office. In the area where the central stairway used to be, large blow-ups of college scenes will be displayed. Although the entire area has been repainted, the Femsee and the adjoining room are essentially the same. A new kitchen unit has also been installed in the snack bar, and a small room at the end of the hall will be used for the commercial laundry service. Both the new door at the bottom of the stairwell and the door leading to the porch may be used. In the north-east corner of the building is the new laundry room for the dormitory students. Washers may be used for a fee, and the dryers are free.

The connection between Main and Colonial Halls has been entirely removed, and the east wall of Colonial is being restored to the original stone. During restoration, barriers will be used to separate the work area. All dormitory facilities have been replaced by faculty offices, the language laboratory and a large engineering drawing room on the top floor. West Hall now has three new classrooms on the second floor besides teachers' offices.

The dormitory facilities in South Hall have been expanded to two floors, and a new bathroom has been made on the third floor. All rooms, including the classrooms on the first floor, have been repainted.

Sigma Phi And Tekes Move To New Houses

Moravian College has two new fraternity houses on campus this year, the Tau Kappa Epsilon House located at 1131-1133 Monocacy Street and the Sigma Phi Omega House, formerly Swartz Hall, located at 1204 Main St.

The TKE House was a privately owned residence which was purchased by the college last spring and later leased to the Tekes. The fraternity brothers have worked most of the summer redoing their new house.

The Sigma Phi Omega House was used as a men's dormitory for the past several years. College officials granted the Sigma Phi brothers use of the building for this year. During the summer they painted and refurnished the inside of their house.

Hauptert Shows College Life Is 'Time To Build'

Challenging the student body to take advantage of its "time to build," President Raymond S. Hauptert addressed the opening convocation of the college Monday morning.

Hauptert stressed that "building" on the part of an individual must be a "deliberate decision, not left to the accident of circumstance." Building, he said, can be done, especially in the small college, on the levels of friendship, leadership, and character.

The opportunity for friendships in college is unlimited, Hauptert said, although many students go through college without building even one solid relationship.

In small colleges especially, he said, the student has a "worthwhile opportunity for acquaintance and friendship with faculty members who are in a position to help him." However, he added, these friendships are not thrust on the student, for he must make them on his own decision.

The small college also offers greater opportunities for developing leadership potential, Hauptert said, yet a high percentage of students resist all efforts to participate in extra-curricular activities. Citing a phrase "the older students have heard before," he added, "education is one of the few products in which students pay hard-earned money and then deliberately avoid the benefits."

Character, the president said, is not something which can be taught, but which rather is a by-product of the college education. It is also, he said, something that a person cannot expect to gain automatically, simply because he is a college graduate.

Discussing the college view of student ideas and suggestion, Hauptert said that Moravian is "open-minded" and feels a "value in the critical spirit." He cited that the best suggestions for improvements often come from students, and that "the ability to destroy and to build up" is necessary in the college family.

Dr. Samuel C. Zeller gave the scripture reading and the prayer. New Chaplain, Rey. Henry A. Lewis, pronounced the benediction, Richard R. Schantz, of the music department, was organist.

Under the Table

by Nan Gingher

Could hardly wait to crawl back into our hole here under this very special table and prepare for another full year of fun, excitement, and the usual campus dirt. Amid an assorted collection of summer stock programs, cruddy dish rags, and gritty sand left over from the summer's activities, we find that much has happened to the CROWD the last two months!

First of all, a great big WELCOME to everybody—especially to the new freshmen. You're a good bunch, gang—lots of luck this first year. You know, they range from Scranton, Pa., to Lake Mills (ever hear of it?) Wisconsin, and we even have the usual delegates from Vestal, New York.

Many, many new ATTACHMENTS formed this summer—and also a lot of new arrivals (and prospective M. students, in about twenty years). Diana Fetherman and Fred DeFrank were pinned; also Ann Corbett and Al Ebert, Madlyn Senick and Milt Correll (Lafayette), and Marcia Morgan and Bob Fish.

One step higher in progress is Chris Yamaoka, who became engaged to Henry Sonderegger from New York. The MARRIED ones include Dave Klein, Mrs. Bill Steers (Jan Keve. And he's a JET PILOT, no less!), Anita (Ott) and Ken Burkhart, Pat (Lucas) and John McKeown, Gloria (Szarka) and Charlie Fischel. New parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vince Ianucci (Susan), and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jardot, who had twin boys, Mark and Mike! So best wishes, congratulations, and all that to all. Let's see more of this . . .

Just to impress you with our great city — Bethlehem boasted Miss Pennsylvania this summer (Rosalie Samley, L.H.S. '56) who is now touring the state making various appearances (?) . . . But we are not to be-beaten! Did you know that Doris Nicholas was elected Miss Hot Dog Queen of the Lehigh Valley? Nice way to spend the summer . . . Regards!

If you haven't seen the new dorms on South, better go down. The place just isn't the same. All of Main Hall is dormitories (sorry, men), and includes new stair wells (fireproof), paint, furniture, and reception rooms.

Miss Rettmann Impressed By Moravian, Renovated Dorm

by Ginny Dancy

Old students at Moravian will be seeing a new face around campus this year, that of Miss Marvel E. Rettmann, Director of Residence in the South Campus dorms. However, Moravian is not a new face to Miss Rettmann, who had been here a number of times, prior to her appointment, for visits and meetings.

In an interview Monday, she said that the area is not at all foreign, and that "The people I knew and the people I've met have been very hospitable and have made me feel completely at home."

Miss Rettmann, in addition to being responsible for all the women in both Main and South Hall dormitories, has charge of the dining hall and any problems that may arise. In regard to these problems, Miss Rettmann says she is "still referring to the handbook" for rules, as it will take a while to become familiar with all the dormitory regulations.

Her work as director of residence is not at all similar to her previous job, she said. As recreational director of the YWCA in Madison, Wisconsin, she was in charge of developing the program for children through adult age, and this had nothing to do with the residence. However, in regard to her present work with young women, she stated that she has "enjoyed working with this age group" and that she likes the associations.

Likes The Dorm

In commenting on the new dormitory, she said that she likes the building very much and that when the ordered furniture arrives it should be especially nice. Miss Rettmann stated that most of the negative comments and reservations about the renovations she has heard have been made by girls not living in Main Hall. She believes that the Main Hall girls are actually very happy with the modern conveniences.

Now that all the freshman women are housed in one dormitory, there is no need for a freshman counselor. However, since South Hall is completely separate and will cope with different problems, the students there have a dorm counselor who is responsible to Miss Rettmann. The individual floors in both Main and South Halls will also elect floor presidents.

Miss Rettmann also supervises the system for guests to contact the women students. All callers will come to Main Hall, where someone in the reception office will use the public address system to call the desired floor in either Main or South Hall. Through this, the student can make her own arrangements for a meeting place, i.e. the lobby, the co-ed lounge, the Femsee, or the George Washington room, particularly for South Hall residents.

Miss Rettmann stressed the fact that men are not to use the front stairway to get to the snack bar and lounge, but may use the rear stairway, the door at the bottom of that stairway, or the door leading from the former carriageway.

Prorok said the general election will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 20 and 21.

Freshman Elections

Prorok also announced plans for a meeting of the freshman class to nominate officers on Oct. 7. Time and place will be announced, he said. There is no limit to the number that can be nominated for each office, according to the constitution. There is no primary election. The date for general elections will be announced later.

Censorship In College Papers Is Condemned

Resolutions condemning the censorship of material in college newspapers were passed at the Student Editorial Affairs Conference held in August at Ohio Wesleyan University. Eighty college editors were present at the second annual conference.

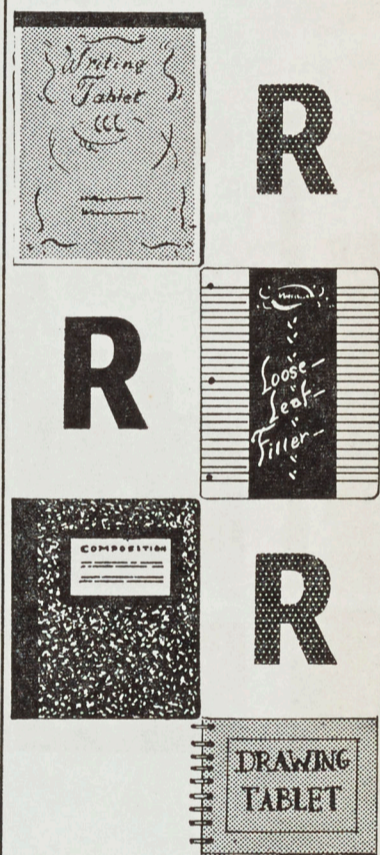

The first resolution passed was a basic policy of freedom of the student press: "The aims of the student press cannot be achieved unless its independence from all forms of external interference or censorship is maintained inviolate and complete."

Dealing with the freedom of information, the second resolution read: "The conference condemns the abridgement of freedom of information by university administrative, student governmental or faculty groups and by all public agencies, except in those cases where such information invades personal rights of privacy."

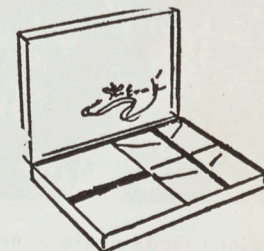

"Correspondingly, we recognize our solemn responsibility to publish such information only with due regard for what we, as individuals, consider the well-being of the communities we serve."

Many reports of censorship on college campuses were read prior to the passing of these resolutions.

A third resolution set up the Student Editorial Press Service (SEPS) to expedite transmission of reports of newsworthy events on one campus to other college campi throughout the nation. Publishing within two days time will be accomplished with the use of wire and special delivery postage.

The upper part of the molding on all of the windows has also been removed, and all woodwork is now an ivory shade. Upper right: Workmen pose after having laid the new tile floor in the basement, which will feature a new co-ed lounge and concession room. All walls have been repainted, and new lighting fixtures installed. Middle left: Eleanor Rellinghaus, arranges a suitcase in the new luggage closet on fourth floor. Each floor now has large closets for luggage and linen. Middle right: Connie Platt, Carol Gram, and Emma Lou Demuth, freshman

Lower left: Helen Georgeou, another freshman, studies in her bedroom, which was once the language lab on second floor. This is one of several triple rooms which have been made by removing and putting up partitions where necessary. Lower right: Workmen are nearing completion on the new door at the bottom of the rear stairwell. The door may also be used to reach the Femsee. In the area at the left can be seen the three-floored porch, which had to be made smaller because of the removal of the partition between Main and Colonial Halls.

Hounds Drop Scrimmage Tilt To Kings Point, 18-12

by Bob Fatzinger

Head coach Rocco Calvo unveiled the 1958 edition of the Moravian College football team in a scrimmage game against King's Point Merchant Marine Academy on Saturday, September 20. The game was played as a regular contest with the exception of kick-offs.

Although Moravian left the field on the short end of an 18-12 score, it must be noted that the Hound eleven dominated play throughout the game. This, plus the fact that Calvo inserted his second and third teams with great frequency, casts a shining light on an otherwise dismal day.

The Marines were given possession of the ball on their own 20-yard line at the game's outset. After three futile attempts to advance the ball, the Hounds gained possession of the pigskin on the 21 after senior guard Gus Rampone blocked a Marine punt.

On the first play from scrimmage, quarterback Nick Cuttic with a Cuttic pass being intercepted near the midfield stripe.

The Hounds scored the first time they touched the ball in the third quarter. Led by right halfback Joe Esposito, the Hounds drove downfield from their own 20 to the Marines' 25 in 10 plays. On their third down Cuttic hit right end John Olson with a pass good for 20 yards. Esposito crashed to the one and freshman Lew Rozelle bucked across for the tally. A pass attempt failed to gain two points.

Gannon Returns Punt

The rest of the third period was highlighted by a fine run by

Six Lettermen Return To Pace Harrier Squad

Cross-country coach Paul Kuklantz, who recently published a cross-country scorebook which is being widely used throughout the country, feels that this year's cross-country team has a promising future. He bases his opinion on the fact that the squad consists of six returning lettermen and a new crop of promising freshmen. The lettermen include Dennis Bleam, Robert Fatzinger, Dick Gross, Jack Jacob, John Layman, and Henry Sunyak.

To fully enjoy this sport, one must be familiar with the method of scoring. The team with the lowest score wins. The first competitor to finish scores one point, the second two points and so forth down the line. The team's score is determined by totaling the points of the first five finishers on each team.

The home meets will coincide with our home football games. The races will begin during the second quarter of the grid contests with the starting line within sight of the bleachers. The finish will take place during half time of the football game when the runners will sprint the last one hundred yards down the football field to the finish.

Last year's record was 2 wins, 2 losses and one tie. The reason for this mediocre showing was due to the fact that the team was handicapped by sickness and inexperience.

Coach Kuklantz believes that the toughest opponents will be Elizabethtown and Lafayette, but he also is expecting a fine season.

14 Lettermen Return To Boost Hounds' Grid Hopes

by John Layman

The Moravian Greyhound football campaign gets underway on October 4 at home against Wilkes College. With six days of practice remaining before the opener, the Hounds are in excellent condition.

Eight games are on the agenda for Coach Rocco Calvo in his fourth season at the helm for the Greyhounds. The team looks to be a darkhorse in the Mid-Atlantic Division. Coach Calvo will have experience at every position with 14 lettermen back from last year.

The team's greatest depth is at ends and in the backfield. Paul Noonan, John Olson, and Art Chap saw lots of action last year as ends and will probably repeat their performances of last year. Promising freshmen at ends are Bernie Medei, 6 foot 4 from Bethlehem, and Dave Coe, 6 foot 3, 205 lbs. from Ocean City, New Jersey. Returning backfield letter winners are Tony Matz, Nick Cuttic, Joe Esposito, Jeff Gannon and George Hollendersky.

Other veterans are Fred Lipari, center, Gus Rampone and Mike Payonk, guards, and Bob Haney, Jim Kritis, and Sam Maczko, tackles.

Bill Hershey, 6 foot, 180 pound standout pitcher and hitter of the Hounds baseball team has been the surprise of the Hounds pre-season drills. He has shown definite speed and ability as a halfback.

Russ Devore, all-league quarterback from Port Jervis, N. Y., and Ron Meyers, rugged halfback from Vestal, N.Y., are freshmen who show real talent in Calvo's backfield.

Greyhound heavyweight wrestler Charlie Bartolet and Joe Garbush have improved at their respective tackle positions. Sal DeLuca is working out at center with Lipari and is doing well. In last year's campaign he saw action at guard.

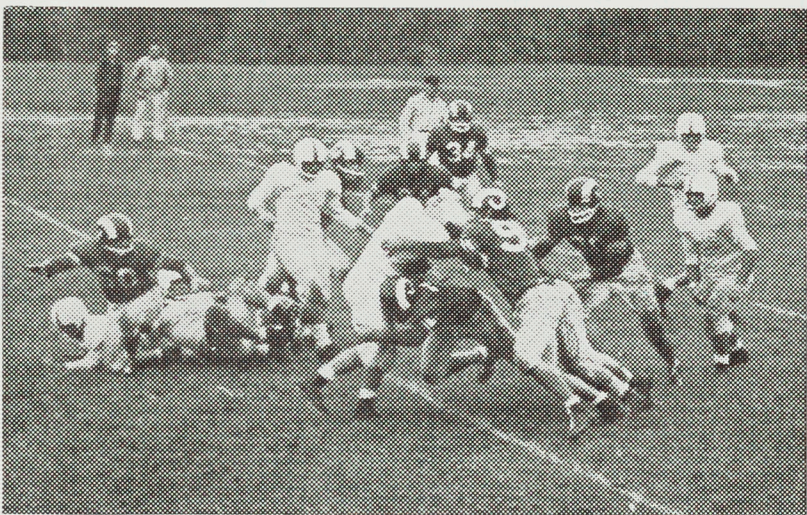

Another change in Calvo's backfield is Nick Cuttic who last year shared the quarterback duties with Matz and Russ Conover. Cuttic is now working out in the halfback slot.

A well established position on Calvo's team is his guards, Rampone and Payonk, back for their fourth season.

When it comes to extra points and kicking problems, Hollendersky, 205 pound fullback will be available. Last season he averaged better than 39 yards per try to rank with the best in the nation.

The Hounds' schedule is as follows:

Oct. 4 Wilkes, home; Oct. 11 Juniata, away; Oct. 18 P.M.C., away; Oct. 25 Lebanon Valley, Homecoming game; Nov. 1 Albright, away; Nov. 8 Upsala, away; Nov. 15 Wagner, home; Nov. 22 Muhlenberg, home.

took the snap from center and flipped an 18 yard T.D. aerial to Paul Noonan. The Hounds failed in their attempt for a two point conversion.

After a neat 33 yard pass play netted the Marines a first down, they were again forced to punt as their drive stalled. The two squads took turns having possession of the ball but no further scoring occurred during the quarter.

Marines Score

The start of the second quarter saw a whole new team for the Hounds and the first of the Marines three touchdowns. Aided by a 50 yard aerial on the fifth play from scrimmage, the Marines drove to the Moravian 10. A right end sweep completed the drive into the Hounds' end zone. The entire Moravian line stopped the Marines' bid for two points.

One of the Marine lineman pounced on a loose ball in the Hound backfield and the boys from King's Point were off on their second touchdown march. Ten plays later the Marines struck pay dirt. Again their try for two points failed. The first half ended sophomore Jeff Gannon who gathered in a punt and sped down the sideline for a gain of 40 yards.

Midway through the fourth quarter, the Marines gathered strength and surged toward their third and game-deciding touchdown. Two passes good for 15 and 30 yards respectively, placed the ball on the Moravian 9. Another end sweep ended in six points. A running play failed to gain the conversion. Moments later time ran out with the Marines deep in Moravian territory. Despite the fact that King's Point scored in the final period, the Hounds dominated the play throughout the quarter. They held the ball for 13 consecutive plays but failed to enter the end zone.

First stringers George Hollendersky and Tony Matz, fullback and quarterback respectively, will be returning to practice sometime this week. Both were out with leg injuries. With the return of Holley and Matz and barring any unforeseen injuries during practice sessions, the Hounds should be at full strength for the season's opener against Wilkes on October 4.

Intramural Football

Any teams desiring to participate in the Intramural Touch Football League have been requested to turn in team rosters to Rocco J. Calvo at College Hall before Wednesday, Oct. 1, 1958.

Steel Field And Removal Of Fence Cited By Snyder

The fence surrounding the present football field has been taken down to allow spectators to watch games free of charge from the area at the end of the playing field. Admission will be charged as before for entrance to the bleachers by having those wishing to sit enter through a fence, according to Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development. The fence will be erected temporarily around the bleachers on the day of a game.

The removal of the fence will also add to the beauty of the campus and cease to separate the field from the rest of the campus area, Snyder said. Also, the cost of maintenance and the construction of the new dorm were factors considered in the removal of the fence, he added.

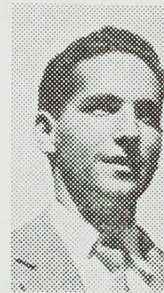

In regard to Lehigh University's Steel Field, Snyder stated that there was no immediate prospect of securing the field for Moravian's football games. The field, located at the corner of Elizabeth Ave. and Center St., "would be a nice addition, but there is no news that I know of pertinent to its acquisition at the present time," Snyder said.

The Benchwarmer

by Neil Eskolin

With the advent of a new year there are many changes around the campi. I'm sure you recall that Dick Steiner hung his hat in this corner each week last year and I want to add that he did an excellent job.

Because Dick has graduated, he is no longer available to The Comenian staff. Therefore I have been selected to carry on with the chit-chat. It's going to be hard keeping up the fine standard set by "Joan and Jack," "Igor" "Dick Steiner" and their predecessors, so please bear with me.

It's good to see Jim and Jack Van Natta back on campus again. They both had a fine year spending most of the season with the San Angelo Pirates, a Pittsburgh farm club in Texas. Jack won a berth on the all-star team and Jim finished the season with a most respectable 12-5 record.

Rollie Passaro can't be overlooked on the baseball scene either. He was named to the Class B Carolina league all-star team selected by sports writers and managers. Next season Rollie is to report to Rochester of the International League. Nice goin' fellas.

It's a welcome sight to see the footballers hustling all over the athletic field. It looks as though the boys are really working hard in order to gain that undefeated season that the flu robbed them of last year.

In case you see some strange looking individuals streaking over the countryside don't get panicky. We're not being invaded. It's only the cross country team on their extended daily constitutionals. This squad is fortunate enough to have the entire team from last year returning, so look for a vastly improved record.

How about those Yanks? That's a ball club's ball club for you. Nine league pennants in ten years. You just can't beat that. By the way, gang, look for them to top the Braves in six or less. Looking at the National League, just glance at who's in second place. Don't rub your eyes; it is the Pirates. A lot of early season crystal gazers who called for Pittsburgh to land in the depths of the second division will be eating their words (me included)!

See ya on the Bench!

Frosh Handbook Is Released; Extras Available In Office

The fifth in the recent editions of The Freshman Handbook was released to the student body during registration. The book, entirely new in format and content, was made available to all students in the college.

The handbooks are still available to students who may have missed them, editor Neil Boyer said this week. They may be obtained in the admission's office.

The major section in the new book is entitled General information. This includes campus regulations on parking, smoking, details of meeting scheduling, health program, grading systems, absence recording, extracurricular activities, yearly schedules, and other sections.

The book also includes the new constitution of the student body, constitutions of the Women's Athletic Association, Women's Activities Committee, Inter-sorority Council, and the Inter-fraternity Council.

Other sections of the book contain the codes of the USG constitution, revised college cheers and songs, summaries of the college buildings, grounds and history, and the intercollegiate athletic schedule.

The book was published by the Moravian College Board of Publications under supervision of the student government. One thousand copies were printed at a total cost of $737.21. They have been paid for with student government funds, Boyer said.
