Triangle Ceremony, Address Featured At Second Convo

Triangle Honor Society will hold its annual tapping ceremony next Thursday morning at the second all-student convocation in Johnston Hall. Beginning at 11:30 a.m., the convocation will also feature Rev. Arthur Freeman, who will deliver the Thanksgiving address.

This is the second of four all-student convocations of which students are required to attend three.

Members of Triangle will select new members for the honor society by tapping a selected group of people at the convocation. Members are accepted on the basis of three things, from which the name Triangle is derived (1) leadership in campus activities, (2) generally high standards of scholarship, and (3) spirit of service to the college.

Membership Limited

Membership may consist of students in the upper three classes, and it is limited to certain percentages of these classes. In choosing new members, Triangle does not necessarily have to select someone who, although he has attained all the qualifications necessary for membership, does not have the type of character desired by the group.

The Triangle constitution provides for the election of not more than three faculty members, by the same merits. The faculty members will act in an advisory capacity if requested, but otherwise will have no more say in the governing of the body than the student members.

Triangle was first formed in

Claudio Arrau Gives Concert Next Week

Celebrated pianist Claudio Arrau will be the soloist in the second Community Concert of the season, next Saturday night, November 22. The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Johnston Hall.

Students, who are automatically members of the Bethlehem-Moravian College Community Concert Association, can obtain their free tickets in the Business Office on North Campus.

Hailed as "the greatest of the pianists," Arrau is internationally famous. He is especially noted for his performances of the music of Bach and Beethoven. His concerts in New York, London, Prague, Tel-Aviv, Santiago, Munich, Berlin, and Zurich are always sell-outs.

Born in Santiago, Chile, he now makes his home in Long Island, N.Y. During the 1920's, he lived in Germany.

Arrau is married and has two children. He has made recordings for Angel, English Columbia, Columbia, and Decca records.

USG Approves Peaceful Pact In Rivalry With Muhlenberg

by Alan Lippman

A motion was passed at a regular meeting of United Student Government Tuesday evening to the effect that Moravian and Muhlenberg College continue a peaceful rivalry in respect to inter-school athletic events.

Other business covered in the 45-minute meeting concerned Moravian's entry into a proposed intra-school counseling board, the naming of students to a constitutional inquiry committee, funds to cover the expenses for certain provisions for the school mascot, and a resolution to extend Christmas vacation three days.

Robert Truches, president of the Muhlenberg College student body, introduced in the form of a letter to USG a resolution to adopt a code of behavior at athletic events so as to restrain "certain vandalous aspects" which might arise. A motion made to this effect was passed.

Football Trophy

Also as part of Truches' letter, it was suggested that a trophy be awarded to the winner of the football game played, traditionally, at the conclusion of the fall schedule. This form of rivalry would be basically the same as was begun recently with Upsala College.

USG President Joseph Prorok pointed out that the cost to Moravian of furnishing such a trophy would be approximately $30. A motion was made and passed regarding this aspect of the rivalry.

Experts Uncovering Historic Past In South Campus Moravian Buildings

by Gene Salay

By now the excavating and digging that is taking place on the Women's Campus is evident to everyone. Under the auspices of Historic Bethlehem, Inc. and the Kemerer Museum, in cooperation with Moravian College, the new facelift that will eventually present the Moravian buildings and grounds as they originally looked is well underway.

Leading the explorations is Mr. Ernest Frank, architectural consultant for Historic Bethlehem, Inc. Frank is the director of the architectural offices at Colonial Williamsburg. Mr. Stuart Bolger, newly appointed director of Kemerer Museum, as well as Mr. John Dreher are his assistants here.

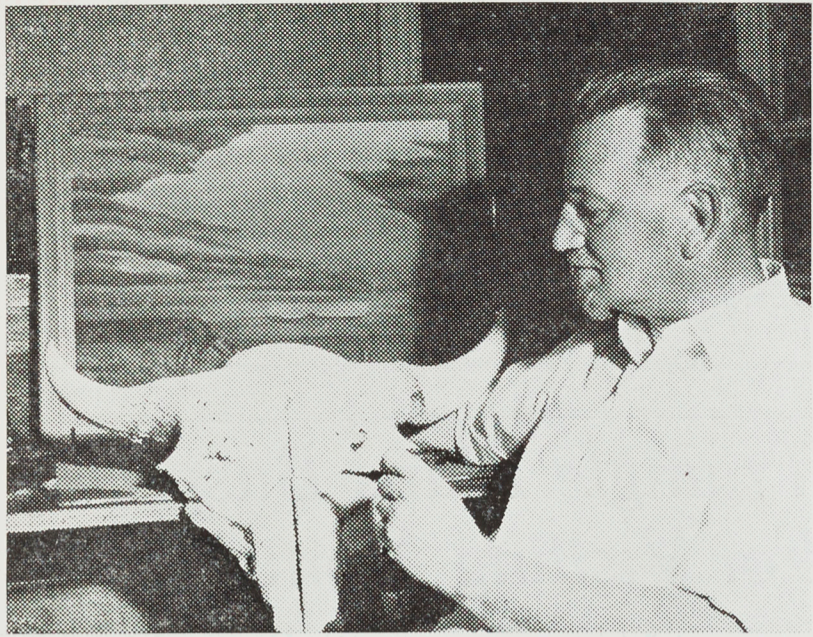

Brethren's House, South Campus, is described by Bolger as "being neither an Independence Hall, nor an elegant Williamsburg mansion, but is a unique 18th century building in the Germanic tradition still working hard after 200 years of constant occupancy."

The Brethren's House, which was erected in 1748 as a residence for the single men of the community, was the center of various trades, such as the cobbler and the scrivener, as different rooms and sections of the building will attest. The casting of bells was Moravian students Betty Ann Dickman, Jane Albrecht, and Bill Pfeiffer observe newly-discovered colonial bake oven at Brethren's House, South Campus. It is believed that after a fire had sufficiently heated the internal structure of the oven, the fire and ashes were removed to make way for the dough. The bricks stayed hot long enough to properly bake the bread.

Dr. Sam Zeller exhibits one of his prize possessions, a buffalo skull, which many years ago represented a diety to the Sioux Indians. The skull, which now hangs in the hallway of his home, was found last summer in the Shoshone National Forest in northwestern Wyoming by his son Karl who is a forest ranger.

Dr. Samuel C. Zeller: Artist, Professor, Chaplain, Friend

by Gene Salay

Every student at Moravian College, whether he be in engineering or education, in pre-theo or pre-med, has had, or will have, religious instruction. To us at Moravian College, Dr. Samuel C. Zeller, better known as "Sam," is the distinguished gentleman who teaches the subject of religion.

Sam, who is of German descent, planned to be a minister in a small German community upon graduation from Moravian. Because German instructors at that time were scarce, Sam was asked by Dr. Schwarze, then the President of Moravian College, to stay on as instructor in German.

In addition to his other duties at Moravian, for the past ten years, he was also chaplain. As former chaplain, Sam can be remembered by many as having listened with sympathy to their problems. In many instances he helped to solve them, in others he offered possible solutions.

He will be remembered at Conventions where he gave the invocations and benedictions in his deep, friendly voice. Others will remember him best as instructor in religion. Sam is a man of many talents—one especially outstanding—he is an artist specializing in oil painting.

For nearly 40 years, ever since he first became interested in oils, he has shown his talent many times—in landscapes, Indian subjects, and more recently, in Byzantine icons. Lorna Weil, an Allentown reporter, who this past summer did a feature article on him, describes his works as "far from ordinary." Those of us who have seen his works will definitely attest to this.

Indian Subjects

His paintings of Indian subjects give almost true-to-life impressions of actual historical events—the results of visits to Indian reservations and studies of the life and religion of the Sioux.

One of his favorite paintings is "The Death of Crazy Horse," a Sioux chief who played an important role in the battle of the Little Big Horn in Montana in 1876. Beneath a darkened sky and setting sun, the chieftain is shown being taken into the badlands via pony drag.

Last June, Sam visited the area in which Crazy Horse was killed in 1877. He also visited the Crow reservation in Montana and the Pine Ridge and Rosebud reservations of the Sioux in South Dakota.

In 1951, he had the privilege of speaking to Masu Waza, or Iron Hail, the last Indian survivor of Little Big Horn, in the South Dakota Badlands. Iron Hail, who died several years ago, was 14 years old at the time of the battle. He recounted many of his early exploits through his son who served as interpreter.

A year after his visit, Sam painted a representation of Gen. Custer and his 7th U.S. Cavalry just before establishing contact with the Indians at Little Big Horn.

One of his most realistic paintings is "Reno's Retreat," showing another phase of the battle in which part of Custer's troops is being forced by the Indians to retreat over the Little Big Horn River.

Byzantine Icons

More recently, Sam has gone in for Byzantine Christianity and icons, which he describes as "an entirely different style of painting. Byzantine icons are more or less conventionalized. They stress the spiritual quality of the subject."

He has hanging in his home an icon of Our Lady of St. Vladimir holding the Christ Child, one of his attempts in creating a "flat" picture instead of three-dimensional.

Some 10 years ago, he presented to Moravian College a painting of the main building of Nazareth Hall, a Moravian school formerly conducted in Nazareth. This painting hangs in the lounge of Colonial Hall on the north campus.

Honorary Teke

An honorary member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sam most recently presented the brothers with a large coat-of-arms, symbol and crest of the TKE fraternity, which he had painted.

Long after we are graduated, our thoughts will unconsciously wander back to our college days. A certain class, a particular sports event, or perhaps an instructor who has made a deep impression on us, will be the object of our reveries. Alma Mater can mean many things . . . to many it will mean Sam.

Under the Table

by Nan Gingher

HEY, YOU! Put down that extra Comenian. If your grandmother wants copies of this paper, so buy her a subscription already.

Okay, so the pile you got this one from is brimming over. But are you aware, fair student, that this is getting to be a too-good thing? Before you can say "I dreamed I read the Comenian . . ." there'll be newsboys hired to charge through halls and classrooms screaming "EXTRA, EXTRA"—and then you'll have to pay for this journal. From now on only SNITCH IN SECRET!

Snitch sneaks are running wild around here. Seems that someone discovered two Moravian office signs in a dorm at Upsala after last Saturday's episode. They're going to be returned, though — by the cross-country team in person like. They'll run down . . .

Just a large reminder to all HEINTZISM communicants: don't forget to contract THE PHILOSOPHER about details necessary to all followers. In case YOU are not one of the chosen few, this is the latest school of thought available to very special floaters and other sundry species. But it's ROUGH. If interested, contact the committee on philosophical trends and they can give you particulars. You, too, can be a HEINTZER.

Big deal on campus—I-F weekend. All canine fanciers are looking forward to the coming of Steverino with much panting and gusto. The question is: is this worth the presentation of an actual degree? There've been many varied comments on this new academic policy, the top one: "Now we're REALLY going to the dogs . . ." But it sounds like fun anyhow. Heard many fire hydrants are being purchased, but guess it's just a rumor . . .

One good thing about the week-end—SESSION, by MGM. Now if you don't know what THAT is, you might as well crawl back into the sack and die. Contact the committee again.

Don't forget Family Day y'all. Food, game, movie, and all that. Somebody's trying to develop a tradition here, so why not help out and be cooperative once? Your parents and friends should enjoy it too; after all, since we don't have a college-type PTA, this is the next best thing, on a more SOCIAL level, naturally.

Bulletins: required Thanksgiving convocation next Thursday. And zealous congratulations to our "Much Ado About" buddy on his recent engagement . . . !

Welcome, Parents . . .

The Comenian would like to extend its hearty welcome to all the families of Moravian College students who will visit the campus tomorrow. We are looking forward to seeing many familiar faces that were here for Family Day two years ago and also many new ones.

Family Day is practically the only time our parents can enjoy a day planned especially for them, centered around a "theme" of getting to know each other, the students, the faculty, and the college itself. It is one of the few times that families can see the campus at its best.

Since the last family day two years ago, North Campus has received several additions and South Campus has received a complete "facelifting." We are especially proud of our improved library reference room, Emcee annex, radio and speech studio, the new lounge in the basement of Colonial Hall, and the comparatively new fraternity houses, in addition to the improved dormitories and classrooms.

On South Campus, we are fortunate to have an entirely renovated women's dormitory, including a new hi-fi lounge, concession room, laundry room, and 1850 room, in addition to newly decorated floor lounges and rooms. Also interesting to observe are the renovations now in progress on Colonial Hall.

We hope everyone will have an opportunity to make as complete a visit as possible, not only to become acquainted with the buildings but with the people and the general atmosphere that are Moravian College.

The activities of Family Day are a lot to cram into one day, and we commend the Triangle Honor Society and Women's Activities Committee, who worked on this project in conjunction with the administration. The 470 reservations received from parents are evidence of a good program.

The results of their efforts appear to be an opportunity for a very enjoyable and profitable day. We are sure that our opinion will be confirmed.

Choir Had Good Time, But . . .

To the editor:

The article is last week's Comenian dealing with the Choir retreat to Camp Hope failed to put the activities of the week-end in the proper perspective. We feel that undue emphasis was placed upon the recreational aspect through the editing of the original article and the choice of headline for the story.

Also, in the published version of the article, proper recognition was not given to Miss Ruth Roberts, who served as chaperone, and Dr. Samuel Zeller, who conducted the Sunday morning service.

The main purpose of the retreat was a concentrated rehearsal schedule in which we accomplished the equivalent of three weeks of regular rehearsal time here at school.

We do not deny that we had a good time, but we feel that the enthusiasm pervading in the group is conducive to a more successful and profitable endeavor.

Sincerely yours,

I-F Queen Candidate Deadline Set For This Coming Monday

The annual Inter-fraternity dance will be held in Bethlehem Masonic Temple on November 23. The dance is open to all members of the student body. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Inter-fraternity council $2.00 per couple. Dress is informal for the affair.

Audubon Tour Tomorrow Nite Is On Africa

The second Audubon Screen Tour of the 1958-59 season will be presented as part of the Family Day program by Murl Deusing of Milwaukee, Wis. Sponsored by the Moravian College Conservation Association, the event is scheduled to take place in Johnston Hall tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Murl Deusing, a graduate of Wisconsin University and later a staff member of the Milwaukee Public Museum, now holds the position of Curator of Education, directing a program of nature education in schools and a visual aid service that reaches six million people per year.

Deusing's motion picture footage has been used in four Oscar award-winning nature films produced by the Walt Disney Studios, including "Beaver Valley" and "The Vanishing Prairie."

"Adventure in Africa" is the film Deusing will show tomorrow evening. Photographed in color, it will take the audience on a ten thousand mile safari through the wildlife areas of the continent.

The Audubon Screen Tour is available to members of the Moravian College Conservation Association and guests, with special student tickets still available. Other programs are scheduled for January 17, March 7, and April 4 and will feature guest speakers Ernest P. Edwards, Alfred M. Bailey, and Fran William Hall.

EBA Plans Trip To Reserve Bank, Guaranty Trust Co.

The Epsilon Beta Alpha Business Club in a meeting last Tuesday made plans for a field trip to New York City on Wednesday, Dec. 3. E.B.A. President Bill Davis outlined the itinerary of the day.

The trip will include a tour of the Guaranty Trust, a large New York banking concern, and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. If time permits, individuals may visit the New York Stock Exchange.

For the evening's entertainment the group will divide, half of which will attend the Broadway comedy "Drink to Me Only," and the remaining members will attend the N.Y. Rangers-Blackhawks hockey game.

Football program selling is E. B. A.'s chief source of revenue. Davis, speaking for the Business Club, requested support by students purchasing these football programs at future games.

Accompanying the E.B.A. group will be Mr. John Gehman, its advisor, and Dr. G. Alden Sears, head of the business department.

What Caused The '58 Democratic Sweep? Recession, Lack Of Leadership Cited

by Dick Tewell

The off-year election of a party not holding the White House is not unusual. It has happened 29 times out of the last 30 off-year elections. The obvious question is, "Why is there such an overwhelming victory for the Democratic Party?"

There have been many opinions voiced as to this: Nikita Khrushchev called it a vote of non-confidence; Adlai Stevenson said, "it was a mandate from the people"; Meade Alcorn, GOP National Chairman called it a challenge to the Democrats to prove that they are as good as they say they are.

However, in general, political experts and columnists attribute the Democratic victory to the lingering recession, defects in foreign domestic policy (especially in the Little Rock situation and in the Near and Far East) and in particular, to the leadership, or lack of leadership, which is of great importance in our political structure, in the former two cases.

Still another reason for the victory is found in the campaign and the candidates. On the average of their Republican opponents. For instance, the average age of Democratic Senatorial candidates was 49 as compared to an average age of 61 of the Republican candidates.

The Democratic campaign began 6 to 8 months before the Republican campaign. The Democratic party was billed and campaigned a san organized, responsible opposition, thereby representing the party as having a solid platform around which both wings of the party would rally and support.

Republican Skirmishes

This was not and could not be done by the Republican Party. The skirmishes within the party were widely publicized and the party itself was so widely split between Liberal and Conservative wings, that when the party leaders did try to breach the gap, it was too late.

This breach is best exemplified by the Knowland-Knight hassle in California. The President went to California to try to solve the problem there and found he might just as well have stayed in Washington. Meade Alcorn in mid-August said that it just wasn't in the cards for the Republicans to win this Congressional election.

Unlike a football coach, a politician can't cry and say we're going to lose; he must say he is going to win even though he knows he hasn't a ghost of a chance. Alcorn was corned for saying this and had to deny he had ever said it.

Right to Work Laws

Another theory to the Democratic win involves the "right to work laws." Alcorn placed the GOP defeat in California at the doorstep of Mr. Knowland who endorsed the laws.

The unionized workers went out to the polls in strength to defeat them. And perhaps after they got there, they realized that GOP candidates endorsed these laws and voted against them too.

Secondly then, to what can we look forward in the next two years, in Congress? We can expect a Liberal squeeze play on the Conservative South within the Democratic Party.

The two wings have never been quite compatible and in the past the Liberal North has had to sweet talk the Conservative South. They will continue to do this if they expect to get Southern sympathy in 1960 for Senator Kennedy.

However, in the new Congress, the South is hopelessly outnumbered and will lose a great deal of strength. If the party leaders hope to maintain the solid organization they claim to have, they will have to formulate a moderate approach to appease both wings. Nevertheless, we can expect to see cross voting between the conservative wings of both parties.

A great number of people expect attack after attack on the President, but this is rather unlikely. First, the Democrats hope to prove that it has been the Democrats in Congress rather than the Republicans who have effected passage of suggested legislation by the President.

Secondly, there are several Democrats in Congress who have presidential aspirations. Therefore, it would be rather foolish for them to jeopardize their position by smearing the office they wish to achieve.

The structure of the 86th Congress now stands in this manner: House of Representatives — Republicans 153, Democrats 282 (with one seat contested); and in the Senate — Republicans 34, Democrats 62. Alaska will elect one Congressman-at-large and two Senators. This election takes place November 25th and the three delegates to Congress will probably be Democrats.

Popular Vote Of Art Contest Is Announced

The Founder's Day Art Contest Exhibition was removed from Johnston Hall last weekend. Some of the pictures were purchased by the college for its permanent collection.

While the paintings were on exhibition, an informal vote was conducted to indicate which painting was the most popular. The results were announced recently by Mrs. Ann Riley, head of the college art department.

The most popular vote went to "231 E. Market Street," painted by J. P. Heiden. Second was Luckenbach's Mills." "Calm After the Storm," which received third place, was painted by Will Behler. It was also the second prize winner in the contest.

Behler's picture has been hung in Dean Gillespie's office in Johnston Hall. Two pictures by Camillo Weiss have been placed in the hi-fi lounge.

Financial Reports

October financial reports for all United Student Government organizations must be presented to the USG Treasurer before Nov. 17.

Muhlenberg-Moravian Pact

In the desire to preserve the long tradition of friendly rivalry between Moravian College and Muhlenberg College, the following joint resolution has been adopted:

The respective student governments agree to accept the responsibility for a positive program on their campuses to prevent rowdiness and vandalism on the respective campuses.

Each school newspaper will feature articles emphasizing the nature of this agreement. There will be an exchange of newspapers between the two schools, each supplying sufficient copies of its paper to reach the main centers of student housing.

Responsibility for maintaining law and order, for disciplining refractory students, and for financial reparations rests squarely upon the student government of the two institutions. It has been agreed further that the minimum penalty for any persons apprehended in the act of creating violent or felonious damage to either campus will be payment of damages and, in the case of excessive vandalism or crime, recommendation by the respective student governments for severe disciplinary action.

BRING YOUR FRIENDS

The Benchwarmer

by Neil Eskolin

It certainly is good to see the enthusiastic participation and spirit given to the Intramural football league this fall. The intramural program provides an excellent opportunity for those men, who for one reason or another are unable to take part in varsity competition, to get a little extra exercise and at the same time promote some friendly rivalry and have fun doing it. This year's league came up with a few surprises mainly that of the powerful Seminary team who really put up a fine showing. Nice goin' fellas.

While on the subject of intramural sports though, let's remember that we're out there for a good game, and of course we're out there to win, but remember to be a good sport at all times, after all it is important to win but it's more important to show good sportsmanship. Don't forget to be a good loser as well as a good winner. The latter of course is a lot easier but not more important.

Now that the preaching is over, let's see what's going on tomorrow in the Valley. Lehigh, fresh from a big upset tie with VMI last week will play host to another tough squad, Buffalo. Buffalo at present is leading all contenders in the Lambert Cup race, signifying eastern small college supremacy. They have had a fine year and tomorrow they promise to give Lehigh a good battle. I'll pick Lehigh to win though, in a close game.

mighty Rutgers last week will take on Tufts. The highly touted Tufts team will probably not be able to contain the surprisingly strong Leopards. Muhlenberg raps up its home schedule tomorrow as they entertain the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall. Star halfback Herb Owens should see a lot of action for Muhlenberg and will no doubt spell part of the success the Mules should have over F&F.

Tomorrow our gridders entertain Wagner College as part of the Family Day festivities. The Seahawks too have a disappointing season, but they have staged a comeback in recent games. It should be a good game with our Hounds really starved for a victory. Just get out here and beat 'em guys!

How about those Moravian harriers of ours. They've really come alive in these past two weeks, with impressive wins over F&M, Albright and Haverford. Wendy Terry the freshman who has won six of the seven meets along with Ray Herman and Jim Worman have provided a great one, two, three punch. Nice goin' fellas; keep it up!

See ya on the bench.

Gridders Meet Wagner In Family Day Contest

The Moravian Greyhounds, after taking a terrible beating from Upsala last weekend, will attempt to bounce back and defeat Wagner College tomorrow afternoon.

The Hounds will be riding a sure-fire jinx into the game. They have beaten the Seahawks eight straight times with last year's score reading 32-14. Even in 1950 when the Hounds dropped seven out of eight games, their one victory was over Wagner 46-14.

Despite the fact that Moravian has had such great success with Wagner, all of the games have had their share of thrills and hard fought excitement.

The Seahawks have dropped four of their seven games so far and will be going all out to beat the Hounds in what will be their wind-up game of the season.

Wagner, like Moravian, hasn't lived up to expectations this year. They have 12 letterman and 10 holdovers and possess a good passing attack.

Gigantic Ends

The Hawks have two gigantic ends, George Kling, 6-5, 225 lbs. and Al Ferris, 6-3, 200 lbs who will be on hand to receive the accurate, bullet-like passes of captain Don Trentalange who racked up 70 completions last season.

The leading gainer for the Wagner eleven this year is sophomore fullback Wally Pagan who combines speed and power to rack up the yardage.

Moravian suffered a few injuries last week but appear to be on the mend. Possible question marks will be Paul Noonan and Fred Lipari who suffered mild concussions. Mike Payonk and Dave Coe also had slight leg injuries but should be in top form for tomorrow's action.

Terry Wins Sixth Meet As Hounds Top Haverford

Once again paced by Wendy Terry, the Greyhound harriers eked out a 27-29 victory over a fine Haverford squad. The meet was run over Moravian's 4.5 mile on Friday of last week; Terry, in gaining his sixth victory in seven starts streaked over the rugged course in 26:22.

Midway through the race Haverford men were running 2nd, 4th, 5th, and 6th, but due to the steady pace kept by Terry, Ray Herman, Jim Worman and Bill Rinker, the

OGO's, Frosh, Cagers Prepare For Home Opener With PMC Dec. 3

Sigma Phi, the Frosh, OGO's and the Upsetters all picked up needed victories in intramural football action this past week.

Last week Sigma Phi rolled over the TKE's 20-0. Sigma Phi was sparked by the fine passing of Jim VanNatta who connected for three T.D.'s to Willie Wohlbach, Larry Fatzinger and Wayne Pysher.

Also in last week's action the Frosh came from behind to beat the Vets 18-13. The mainstays of the Frosh attack were Daryl Robert, Wendy Terry and John Bowman.

On Monday, the OGO's topped the TKE's 22-6. Rod Miller broke around right end for 35 yards and the T.D. for the OGO's first score. Gene Jani accounted for the second score on a fine 30 yard run. A Rod Miller to Joe Castellano pass play set up the final score for the OGO's.

The TKE's scored in the closing minutes of the game on a long pass from Walt Salaski to Bob Lipkin. Also playing standout ball for the TKE's were Kent Fretz and Paul Meilinger.

Tuesday the Upsetters won out over the Frosh, 18-13. Ken Sepe threw three T.D. passes to Chuck Paddock, Karl Fruedenberger and Charlie Lindner. Daryl Robert and John Bowman scored for the losing Frosh.

With less than a month to go before the basketball team opens its campaign, the cagers are busily working out on the hardwoods of Johnston Hall. Moravian will have eight lettermen back this year including four of last year's starters who compiled a respectable 11-9 record. In all 35 candidates reported to the opening practices last week.

Paul Marcincin, assistant coach and coach of the J.V. squad, is heading the practice sessions in the absence of head coach Rocco Calco, who is now working with the football team as their head coach.

Numbers after the following players are their scoring totals for last year.

The first of the 20 game cage schedule will be here at Johnston Hall against Penn Military College on December 3. The nucleus of the squad will be the following men, Dick Chergey (156), Bill Davis (71), Joe Keglovits (228), Lorenzo Martin (128), Ducky Potter (213), John Olson (18), Leo Stinner (95), and Russ Causley (233).

The Hounds will be looking for a good play-maker to step in where Fritz Toner left off last season. Toner, who graduated, scored 287 points, was the key man on the club and the fourth highest scorer in Moravian's history, scoring over 1100 points in his four year career.

There are quite a few promising freshman on the squad. Wendell Terry of Vestal, N. Y., is rated a good floor man with a neat outside shot. Jim Gano of Easton, Pa. was all East Penn League.

Hal Rice, from Wilson Borough, is a good outside man. Bernie Medei was a starter for Bethlehem's great team last year. Dave Coe, from Ocean City, N. J., Al McGee, Perkiomen Prep, and Tom Graff, Allentown Central Catholic, also look promising.

Moravian has a somewhat different schedule this year. St. Peter's of Jersey City, N. J. and Adelphi have been dropped and in their place the Hounds will meet Elizabethtown and Haverford.

Hapless Hounds Bow To Upsala In 26-8 Debacle

by Russ Simonetta

Upsala, inspired by Homecoming festivities and the awarding of the first Blue and Gray Trophy, handed Moravian their fourth loss of a thus far disappointing season last Saturday by a 26-8 score.

The Vikings continually beat the Hounds to the punch throughout the afternoon coming up with strategic plays whenever needed.

They scored in the first period on a 46 yard drive with quarterback Rocco Cafone sneaking over from the one. The pass for the extra two points was incomplete.

Cafone, who did a workmanlike job both running and passing, was instrumental in leading the way for the opening score and the other scores to come.

Midway through the second period Upsala scored again. Moravian's Matz fumbled on his 16 yard line and Upsala recovered on the three. On the very next play Halfback John DiTrani skirted right end for the score.

The Hounds seemed to be fired up as they returned the ensuing kickoff to the 34. Moving the ball steadily and well they put on what amounted to be their only real threat of the afternoon and moved 66 yards for their score. Ron Myers, freshman halfback, took a handoff from Russ Devore and passed from the 35 to John Olson who streaked the remaining distance for the score. Then Devore again passed to Olson for the extra two points.

Neither team threatened seriously in the third quarter but as the final period got underway the Vikings again built up steam and piled up the score.

Taking over on the Hounds' 33, the Vikings moved to the four yard line on 7 plays. On the third down with a scant foot to go, Bob Stavin dove through center for the tally. Halfback Ed Rillo took a handoff and passed to Stavin for the extra two.

Minutes later the Hounds received a punt on the 18 and were penalized to the 3 on a personal foul. Freshman halfback John Yelovich fumbled on the next play and Viking end Steve Avalone pounced on the ball in the end zone for the TD. This concluded the scoring for the afternoon.

An Upsala Homecoming crowd of 3,000 cheered at the end of the game as the newly initiated Blue and Grey Trophy, given annually to the winner of the Moravian-Upsala game, was presented to co-captain Rocco Cafone and Coach Arthur Pilch.

ment Association, has been proposed to act as a regulatory body for events which would concern the schools involved.

The board's function would be to counsel, rather than govern, such events, and would be represented by the executive committees of the student bodies of Cedar Crest College, Lafayette College, Lehigh University, Muhlenberg College, and Moravian. By a motion passed to that effect, it was agreed that Moravian enter as a member of that board.

A committee has been named to investigate the constitution of the student body for purposes of determining whether or not the constitution need be revised. Students selected to act as members of this inquiry committee are Ralph DeWalt, Donald Evans, Peter French, and Richard Te-well.

A motion was made and passed to provide USG funds to furnish a new blanket and collar for the school mascot, the Greyhound, Ogo.

A resolution was adopted by USG to extend Christmas vacation until Monday, January 5, 1959. The present schedule calls for classes to resume on Friday, January 2. A letter will be presented by USG to the school administration requesting the change.

A report by Ted Lekorenos, USG treasurer, stated that the treasury has paid out $17,600.15 of available funds totalling $18,819.24 to student organizations. Remaining in the treasury now is a balance of $1,219.09.

Prior to the evening's regular program, Dean Harvey T. D. Gillespie addressed the representatives present and reminded them of their responsibilities to the student body, appealing for a greater degree of decorum in the running of the assembly.

Beginning with Tuesday's meeting, minutes of USG proceedings will be mimeographed and distributed to all campus organizations. The agenda for upcoming meetings and committee reports will also be made available in printed form prior to each scheduled meeting.

also performed under its roof.

During the Revolutionary War it served as the General Hospital of the Continental Army, 1776-1778. In 1814 the building was renovated for occupancy by the Young Ladies' Seminary.

As the building underwent the different historic phases in its growth, that is, from Brethren's House, to occupancy by the sick and wounded of the Revolutionary War to the eventual housing of the Seminary Women, so too, its physical structure changed.

Since successive alterations have distorted the original character and appearance of the building, the exploratory work involves considerable penetration to the physical structure of the landmark.

By next spring, the East End of the Brethren's House should be completely restored. This is only one step toward changing the new back to the old.

Immediately outside of Brethren's House, windows have been installed in a temporary shed to permit public inspection of the work in progress. This, as well as a bulletin board, will keep the public up to date on the current developments within the overall undertaking.

"The physical surgery that is being performed on the Brethren's House is another step in our long range plan for the architectural renewal of Bethlehem's historic buildings," Bolger said.

Tonight's Free Movie

"Tight Little Island"

Tonight's free movie scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Rooms 9 and 10 of Johnston Hall features a plot involving some students' best friend; namely, whiskey.

The setting is a small island off the coast of Scotland upon which rested a calamity far worse than Hitler's bombs: no more whiskey. As if heaven sent, a U.S. bound vessel carrying 50,000 cases of Scotch runs aground off Todday's craggy harbor.

The island's Home Guard captain, (portrayed by Basil Radford) who feels constrained to obey the letter of the law, is the only obstacle standing in the way of the islanders.
