Academic, Activity Prizes Highlight Awards Convo; USG Officers Recognized

The awarding of academic prizes and the formal recognition of USG officers and "Who's Who" nominees marked the final convocation of the academic year held yesterday in Johnston Hall at 11:30 a.m.

The Alpha Epsilon Pi sorority award, which goes to the freshman woman with the highest average in English, was presented to Barbara Snyder, by Joanne Mazur, president of the sorority.

The Pi Delta Epsilon Medal of Merit Award was presented by Mrs. Katherine Phelps, director of publicity, to Virginia A. Dancy and Neil A. Boyer.

Nancy Baker and Griffith Dudding were joint recipients of the Shakespearean Essay Award. The prize was presented by Dean Marlyn Rader.

Mr. Richard Schantz, assistant professor of music, presented the T. Edgar Shields Prize in Music to Gordon Arnold.

The college choir, with Schantz directing, rendered several folk songs by Brahms and "Eloquence" by Haydn. The Rev. Henry Lewis, college chaplain, pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Two Seniors Get Graduate Assistantships

Two Moravian seniors, Marcia H. Morgan and Charles W. Ziegenfus, have received graduate assistantships. Miss Morgan, a biology major, has received a teaching assistantship in biology from the University of Delaware. Ziegenfus, who is majoring in mathematics, is one of 11 to receive an assistantship in mathematics from the University of Kansas.

A resident of Trumbull, Connecticut, Miss Morgan has been active in extra-curricular activities. In her senior year she was appointed to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," was elected to the Triangle Honor Society, and served as co-chairman of the Social Activities Committee. A three-year member of Pi Delta Epsilon, she has been a Comenian reporter for 3 years and was research editor of the Benigna in her sophomore year.

Miss Morgan has served as secretary of the Rau Science Society for the past two years and has sung in the College Choir for three years. She is also a member of Phi Mu Epsilon sorority and is on the Elections Committee. In her junior year she was secretary-treasurer of the Inter-Sorority Council. A Dean's List student, Miss Morgan plans to get her Master's Degree at Delaware.

Ziegenfus, a resident of Oaks, Pennsylvania, also plans to get his Master's Degree. He transferred from the Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia in his junior year and has been a member of the Rau Science Society.

diction and Dr. Daniel Gilbert, chairman of the convocations committee presided.

Student Referendum Decides To Retain Present Union Fee

In a student body referendum held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, it was voted to incorporate Plan 1 for collecting the Student Union fee.

Plan 1, as outlined in last week's Comenian, calls for continuing the present $20 per year matching fee until construction begins on the new union building. When construction is started, the fee will be raised to $30 per year.

236 Vote

The number of students voting for this plan was 236. Plan 2, which would have raised the fee to $25 per year beginning in the fall term, received 48 votes.

Forty-four students submitted "write-in" ballots suggesting plans of their own.

The referendum was conducted by the Student Union Planning Committee under the jurisdiction of United Student Government. Voting took place in the main lobby of Comenius Hall.

Forty-three percent of the student body voted.

Seniors Set Up Art Fund For Student Union

A fund for the purchase of art objects for the new student union has been established by the senior class. The members of the class decided that this would be the traditional "class gift" in a meeting held on Thursday, May 7.

According to Gerald Heintz, president of the senior class, the fund will collect interest until the new student union building is completed. The amount will then be used for the purchase of the art objects.

Heintz also stated that the members of the senior class will designate those members of the faculty and the community whom they wish to select the art objects at the appropriate time.

The motion for the establishment of the fund was made by Alan Bergstein and passed unanimously.

Another Plan Discussed

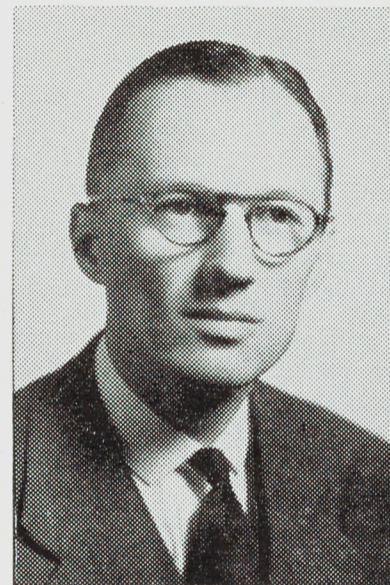

Another plan which was discussed by the seniors called for the erection of signs in areas surrounding the city, directing motorists to the campus. However, subsequent investigation proved that this idea would be too costly as the land on which the advertising was to be erected would have to be rented at a high cost for a long period of years.

Yaeck Addresses Seniors At Baccalaureate Service In Central Church, June 7

The Reverend Milton A. Yaeck, minister of the Emmaus Moravian Church, will deliver the baccalaureate address to 128 senior and 10 secretaries who will be graduated at ceremonies to be held in Johnston Hall Sunday, June 7 at 3 p.m.

He will deliver his address during the baccalaureate service to be held in the Central Moravian Church at 11 a.m. that morning.

The Administration announced early this week that there will not be an outside speaker at the Commencement ceremony.

REV. MILTON YAECK

At the Commencement ceremony, Dean Marlyn A. Rader will present the class of 1959 for graduation and President Raymond S. Haupt will confer the degrees upon the graduates. No honorary degrees will be granted.

Haupt will deliver a brief talk at the ceremony. The Administration has cited several reasons for not engaging an outside speaker for the program.

First, it was felt that it is relatively unfair to present a noted speaker who will be heard by seniors only, rather than the school at large. The administration is of the opinion that an outside speaker should be heard by the entire student body and not a restricted group.

Also, the administration feels that Commencement exercises held in warm weather should not be lengthened beyond the necessary time actually needed to carry out the regular procedure. Therefore, although no portion of the ceremonies will be omitted, an address by an outside speaker will not be included.

The administration also said that it has felt for some time that much would be added to a Commencement if the president of the institution, who has come to know many of the students and their families during the four years, could deliver a few words concerning his personal contact with the class.

Robert P. Snyder, director of development, has stressed that this is to be a "senior-centered Commencement," in that the ceremonies will revolve around

Summer School Director Urges Registration

George Tyler, director of the summer school program, has announced that registration for summer courses is "further along this year than at this time last year." Most courses, however, have not yet been assured.

In order to assure that courses will be offered, students planning to register have been requested to do so at their earliest convenience. In this way, Tyler explained, they will "do a service to themselves, fellow students, and teachers" since plans can thus be made more definite.

Education 321, Methods of Teaching in Secondary Schools, which will supplant Education 404, Principles of Education, will be offered for the first time during the summer. Education 404 will not be offered, as originally listed in the summer sessions catalogue.

Tyler added that "uncertainties" of summer school registration are naturally expected, and that this is characteristic of smaller colleges, which cannot be assured of adequate numbers of students taking courses until the time classes begin. Such problems, however, can be alleviated to a great extent when students file their formal intentions to take courses at an early date.

Seminary Holds Graduation In Old Chapel

The Theological Seminary will conduct its 152nd commencement exercises at 3 p.m. May 31 at the Old Moravian Chapel on Heckewelder Place, South Campus. The Rev. Frederick Wolf, pastor at the Lake Mills Moravian Church, Lake Mills, Wisconsin, will be the speaker.

A morning communion service will be held by the Seminary on the day of commencement, in place of a baccalaureate service. A reception will follow the commencement program.

Rev. Wolf and Rev. Milton A. Yaeck of the Emmaus Moravian Church will receive honorary degrees at the Seminary commencement.

A Break With Tradition . . .

The administration announcement that there will not be an outside speaker at commencement this year is one of some surprise and puzzlement. Of course, the administration cited various reasons for this departure from traditional policy.

In discussing their reasons the spokesmen for the administration constantly reiterated that this is to be a commencement revolving around the graduating class and their families, a "senior centered commencement." It was for this main reason that they decided that it would be most fitting for the president to address the graduating body and that a prominent outside speaker would not be heard since the entire student population could not benefit and that, after all, it would be quite warm, and perhaps better if the ceremony was restricted to the "fundamentals."

General student opinion would probably concur with these reasons. Moravian has a capable president and he will deliver an excellent address. Since many students have gone home for vacation by commencement time, it is granted that they would not be able to benefit from an address by a nationally known figure. And also, it is usually quite hot come June, especially in Johnston Hall.

However, the question arises, if this is truly to be a "senior centered commencement" is it safe to assume that this type of program is truly what the seniors desire? No attempt can ever be made to truly satisfy all the wishes of the seniors, but it is interesting to note that there are numerous persons speaking out among seniors, and underclassmen too, who evidently do not favor such a program.

The president of the senior class, when being informed of these plans, stated that no senior class officer had been consulted as to their views on this change in the commencement program tradition. He was of the opinion that having an outside speaker "admirably added" to the commencement ceremony and that it was the custom at most colleges and universities.

Several other seniors, when questioned on this point, seemed to feel that it would be an excellent idea to allow the seniors to pick one member of the faculty or administration to deliver the address. They felt that it would be nice to hear a professor or administrator at least once outside of the classroom or office.

And still others felt that if there were going to be no specific speaker, then the awarding of the various prizes and honors should be done in a better manner. Rather than merely having the list of the recipients read off, as has been done in past years, they felt that those receiving the awards should come to the platform and be publicly recognized for their achievements.

But of course, probably the majority of the seniors, like most underclassmen, don't really care much about the content of the commencement program. All they want is to get that degree and get out!

All of this seems to point to one thing. The administration is to be commended for its effort in attempting to make the commencement program a more enjoyable and more meaningful one to all concerned, but it appears it has not gone far enough.

If it wished to have a "senior centered commencement" perhaps it should have consulted the seniors, or at least their class officers. Let it be hoped that this idea of a somewhat unconventional but enjoyable commencement can be pursued in the future. And let us also hope that the administration will make it a truly "senior centered commencement" by allowing the graduates to take an active role in the planning of the program.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS!!

I'm sure almost none of you dear (?) readers realize the value of this little column. As issue after issue of the Comenian comes out, you are probably just content to sit in the Emcee, the Femcee, the lawn, the library, psychology class or any other place you desire and read these little bits of nothing. But do you realize what a great help this 2" x 14 3/4" column can be to you? I'm sure there are few of you who do.

Do you realize that 2 x 14 3/4 is just the ideal size for a book mark for Rand McNally's new king size world atlas? Or do you realize that you could fold this column into a smaller size which would more than likely cover up that hole in the sole of your shoe, and thereby save you a sizeable shoe repair bill?

How about those difficult times when you're trying to catch a little shut eye in class, and the inconsiderate professor keeps blaring away at the top of his lungs. Simply cut this column into two equal parts, fold them into small wads, use them as ear plugs and get some precious Z's.

Now suppose you're out of wax paper at home and you have some cookies or candy to wrap for your lunch. Tell mom to use this column . . . and while you're eating the cookies or candy, you'll have something to read also. On second thought though, you better not eat and read at the same time; I've heard this column also induces indigestion.

If you're in class, and trying to get Suzie's attention, but she's four rows away, this handy dandy column can also be used to make up a week's supply of spitballs (depending, of course, on the size of the spitballs.) With the coming of Memorial Day and Independence Day, parades will be in order, and what is more appropriate at a parade than confetti?—Need I say more?

If after you've completed reading these gems of wisdom (and congratulations if you have the fortitude to do this without getting any violent physical or psychological reactions) and you are still completely disgusted and can think of no other use for it, cut out the accompanying photograph, discard the rest of the column and proceed to mount said accompanying photograph and use it as a target for your dart board—Ouch!

It seems as though the modern language club is sponsoring a picnic and on the main bulletin board can be found a delightful little advertisement in the form of a notice. However, on the top of this notice is a caricature of a girl chasing a butterfly and a boy chasing the girl and dog standing by just watching. The caption reads, "Fun for all!" What does this mean? I certainly think some sort of investigation is in order.

Variety Show Discussed

To the Editor,

Just a few remarks concerning your "unbiased" (what else, right Dave?) editorial of last week, concerning the "ill-fated variety show."

First of all, the variety show plans were being formulated in late February with the leaders of different campus organizations being contacted. The purpose of this was so that these leaders could discuss with their respective groups the plans of the show so as to see the response of the group.

The response was favorable, to some extent. It seems like Phi Mu Epsilon sorority was definitely for a show of this type as was Sigma Phi Omega fraternity, the Veteran's organizations, Seminary, and Pi Mu fraternity.

All of these organizations thought that a show of this type would be good, and they did know how the proceeds were to be divided.

As time went by, it was stated that Seminary and Pi Mu could not enter because of retreats which were scheduled, but yet, it was still noticed by many that there were still two social organizations which were not in favor because of "that annoying quarter per cent which would enrich the coffers of the group."

It seems that one of these two social groups had many of its members who were in favor of this show but because of the immature character of its leader, the organization, as a whole, did not enter but many of its girls did enter and for using their own minds I thank them sincerely.

Of course, the reason for the other social organization not agreeing to enter is obvious. For years competition has continually stopped this group from working with others to promote good relations between groups.

An excuse which was used by this group was that the date of the show conflicted with its formal initiation. I would venture to say that no matter what date the show was set for, that this group would not participate because of "that annoying quarter per cent which would enrich the coffers of their rival group."

I think that the sooner the students involved realize the importance of group co-operation at Moravian, the better things will be and that because one organization has the intelligence to sponsor a money-making project, some won't participate because of their jealousy to see a competitor do something beneficial to themselves.

In closing, I would like to thank those who gave their time to the show and would also like to mention that if a project as this would in the future be tried again by any other campus organization, that the brothers of Omicron Gamma Omega will give their all in helping the organization which endeavors to sponsor such a project.

Respectfully submitted,

Students View 'J. B.' Drama In New York

"J. B.", Archibald MacLeish's drama, was viewed by a group of seminary and college students on this past Wednesday afternoon.

The play, which relates the Biblical account of Job in a modern setting, is currently starring Christopher Plummer as Nickles, Raymond Massey as Mr. Zuss, and James Daly as J. B. The play is currently being performed at the Anta Theatre, 52nd Street, west of Broadway.

The group of about 65 members left North Campus by bus and private car at 10 a.m. Following lunch in New York the group attended the matinee.

The evening program included the viewing of the foreign film, "He Who Must Die."

The bus was scheduled to leave New York for the return trip to Bethlehem at 9 p.m.

Musical Talent Program Set For Next Week By Beaupre

"A pre-exam blast of Moravian College Talent featuring swing and jazz instrumentalists from the ranks of alumni, faculty, and student body," according to Walter J. Beaupre, assistant professor of speech and drama, will be held in Johnston Hall rooms 9-10 on Friday, May 22, at 8:00 p.m.

Beaupre, recognizing the need for a showcase for the dozens of excellent musicians on campus is promoting "Jazz at Moravian." As he sees it, "It is inconceivable that fine artists such as Russ Causley and Ronnie Ravell should graduate from Moravian without being heard and applauded.

He feels that there are many talented performers at Moravian and that "these bright youngsters should be heard." Beaupre has urged all who would like to participate to contact him and let him know what instrument they play and what type of group they would like to work with.

Commenting on Moravian's musicians, Beaupre said, "I have been a fan of Ronnie's for years; she has a smooth pro-style that needs the freedom of an unobtrusive rhythm background. Perhaps only Sinatra has a slight edge over Russ Causley. Russ is a natural singer that comes along once in a blue moon."

Beaupre also said, "Jim Harkel does strange and wonderful things on a trumpet that make other musicians quit and listen. Dave Bittner and Bob Orbin are recognized professionals in the Lehigh Valley Area. Bob Sotille's alto sax interpretation of Blue Moon is a favorite tape in my collection. The fans tell me there are many others."

The program, as Beaupre pointed out, will not be limited strictly to jazz, but is proposed to generally bring out some hidden talent. There will be no charge for admission.

Beaupre further said, "We cannot guarantee at this time which of the famous alumni will be able to sit in on. Jazz at Moravian. We do promise a couple hours of spontaneous sounds. That's the best we can offer just before exams. Chairs and a reasonably clean floor will be provided for all. Bring your own pillows if you want to listen loose."

Nancy Gingher Is Crowned At Women's Spring Festival

Nancy Gingher was crowned Miss Moravian at the annual Spring Festival held last Sunday on the South Campus lawn at 3 p.m. Miss Gingher was selected by a vote of the women students early last week.

Colonial, TKE, Sigma Phi To Keep Same Quarters

The top floor of Colonial Hall, the Sigma Phi Omega fraternity house, and the Tau Kappa Epsilon house, will serve as men's dormitory units in the fall in addition to the men's dormitory now being constructed to house 128. Announcement of these plans was made this week by Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development.

Terms of a federal loan for the new dormitory call for the discontinuance as dormitories of Clewell Hall on South Campus and South Hall and the top floor of Comenius Hall on North Campus. It is contemplated that in order to provide more North Campus classrooms, the offices now on the first floor of Comenius Hall will be moved to the lower floor of Colonial Hall.

Use of Colonial Hall space for offices would permit at least partial use of the Tau Kappa Epsilon house as a dormitory for a second year. It was originally expected that no one would live in the building in 1959-60.

Regulations of the government loan also call for one hundred percent occupancy of the new dormitory. Freshmen will be requested to live in the building and will occupy the western wing, which also contains the proctor's apartment.

The arrangements for 1959-60 would not alter the occupation of Schwarze House by Sigma Phi Omega fraternity.

Members of her court also selected in the election included, seniors, Patricia Deiner, Jean Hudak, Mary Lesin, and Kathy Werst and senior secretaries Jean Koch and Carol Landrock.

Miss Gingher was crowned by Mrs. Daneen Jones Esposito, last year's queen.

Escorts

Miss Gingher was escorted by Robert Fish and the escorts of the other women included Peter French, James MacDonald, Theodore Neidengard, Joseph Prorok, Edward Ressler, and Gene Salay.

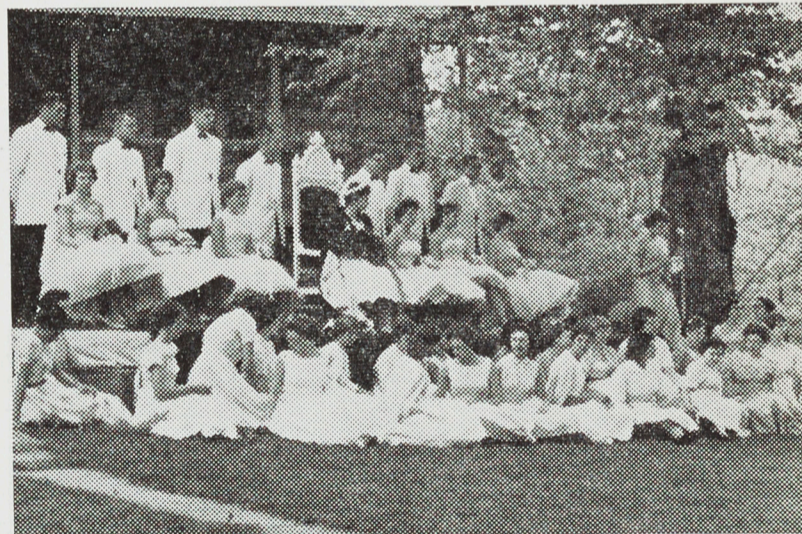

At the conclusion of the program Miss Gingher and her court formed a reception line on the lawn of Wolle Hall, where the traditional Blossom Tea was served.

Sociology Major

Miss Gingher is a Bethlehem sociology major and is a member of Triangle Society, Pi Delta Epsilon national honorary journalism fraternity, and has been active in the Women's Council and the Inter-sorority Council. She is also a member of Blackfriars, Phi Mu Epsilon, and has served as a member of The Comenian staff. She was a feature columnist this past year.

The plans for the Spring Festival were under the direction of the Women's Activities Committee.

Seventh Straight Victory Insures MAC Tie

Decisions Over Cadets, Seahawks Boost Greyhounds' Record To Impressive 11-2

by Neil Eskolin

The Moravian Greyhound diamondmen assured themselves of at least a tie for first place honors in the Northern Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) this week as they trounced Pennsylvania Military College on Saturday, 11-4, and squeezed out a 3-2 win over Wagner on Monday. The two victories ran their conference record up to a highly respectable 9-2 and upped their over-all mark to 11 wins against just two setbacks. The victory on Monday was the Hounds seventh straight.

JEFF GANNON races to first base as PMC first sacker awaits throw from shortstop. Gannon was retired but Hounds kept on rolling and coasted to comfortable 11-4 win.

Dick "Pops" Chergey, George Hollendersky and Charlie Gilbert took care of the biggest part of the Hound offense on Saturday as they shared six hits between them and accounted for seven RBI's. Chergey led in both departments with three of each to continue his fine stick record so far this season.

Briar Hill started for the Hounds but ran into trouble in the fourth as he loaded the sacks with just one out. Freshman Lou Klucharich then made the trip from the bull pen to the mound to put out the fire as he forced the first man to face him to smash into a double play thus ending the inning.

Klucharich in winning, picked up his third decision of the season against one loss. Bob Head went the route for the visiting Cadets and absorbed his second loss of the season to go with his and the team's lone victory. He gave up 11 runs and 13 hits in his eight inning stint.

The Hounds on Monday had to struggle throughout the whole game in order to come out on top against a much improved Wagner nine. Moravian, who walked off with completely lopsided decisions against the Seahawks in recent years, had no field day. Tight pitching limited both squads to but eight hits and two earned runs each.

The Hawks jumped into the lead in the third frame on an in-field hit, a passed ball, a fielder's

The Inside Scoop

by Russ Simonetta

Is Moravian going to complete in post season playoffs? As of today, all intercollegiate competition is completed for considering the teams who will represent the Northern and Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) in a game to determine the MAC champion. How does Moravian stand as far as being eligible for these playoffs? Moravian is a member of the Northern Division of the MAC which also consists of Albright, Bucknell, Elizabethtown, Gettysburg, Hofstra, Juniata, Lafayette, Lebanon Valley, Lehigh, Lycoming, Muhlenberg, Rutgers, Scranton, Stevens, Susquehanna, Wagner, and Wilkes.

Which team will represent the Northern Division of the MAC is entirely up to the Middle Atlantic Committee. Although Moravian has the best record

(9-2 in league competition, they can be overlooked and a team with a poorer record chosen. If the Middle Atlantic Committee thinks a playoff is necessary to pick the champion of the Northern Division, they may select two or three teams to battle for the league title.

Moravian's chief league competition seems to be Lafayette and Albright. The winner of the Northern Division of the MAC will play the winner of the Southern Division of the MAC for the championship. The Southern Division is also governed by the Middle Atlantic Committee and has 16 teams including Delaware, Dickinson, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, Haverford, John Hopkins, LaSalle, Pennsylvania Military College, St. Joseph's, Swarthmore, Ursinus, Washington College, West Chester, and Western Maryland.

However, if Moravian would win the MAC title, they would be ineligible to compete in the NCAA college world series since NCAA championship competition is limited to teams not playing freshmen or seniors with four years of varsity competition. This rule would completely ruin Moravian's ball club. Nevertheless, Moravian can be selected by the Middle Atlantic Committee to represent the MAC in the Small College Eastern Regional Championships. The representation is solely up to the committee and Moravian could be chosen whether or not they were picked to play for the MAC championship.

If Moravian won the MAC tournament, in all probability, they would be invited to play in the Small College Eastern Regional Championships and the MAC would select a team of the remaining eligible 31 teams of the two divisions to represent them in the NCAA tournament. The Small College Eastern Regional Championships is open to all colleges or universities invited to attend no matter how large or small an enrollment the school has.

I can't see how the Middle Atlantic Committee could possibly overlook Moravian and not give up a chance to show what we are worth in crucial ball games. Competition would be keen, the teams would be definitely up for every ball game and losing one game would probably mean elimination from further playoffs. So, keeping this in mind and assuming we are going to be in the playoffs, let's not forget the athletic honors our baseball squad is contributing to our school and support them one hundred percent.

Let's support our athletes!

Volko Leading Linksmen As Season Nears Finish

With 3 matches left to play this season, Tom Volko, Moravian's gift to the golf game, is leading the 'Hounds linksmen with 18 points. Tom, who is probably the finest golf player to ever attend Moravian College, won 7 and lost 2 matches thus far.

Duffers Take Second Win Against 'Berg; Record, 6-3

The Greyhound golfers defeated Muhlenberg last Thursday 11 1/2 to 6 1/2 at the Lehigh Country Club. This was the second setback for the Mules at the hands of Moravian this season. Ducky Potter's 78 captured medalist honors for Moravian, while Ron Choquette's 76 was low for Muhlenberg.

Spring Spotlight

Charlie Gilbert—Baseball

This week's spotlight falls upon Charlie Gilbert, who hails from Allentown. Charlie, a sophomore, is 19 years old, six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is starting second baseman on this year's Hound baseball team.

He started his baseball career at Allentown Central Catholic High School where he played three years of varsity baseball, and also played two years of basketball.

Charlie received his biggest thrill while playing for Lentz

Post of Allentown. Playing second base for them during the 1956 summer, he helped beat Leesport for the Pennsylvania State Legion championship.

Charlie has been starting second baseman since coming to Moravian. His left-handed batting style and smoothness on the field have gone a long way in making a better balanced baseball squad. He has been a member of the Varsity "M" club for the last two years. His hobbies and interests pertain to dancing and enjoying a grand meal now and then.

Charlie thinks the team is starting to click as a whole. He feels the team has come around and will play better and steadier in the future.

Immediately following the baseball game, a picnic was held by both groups. Nancy Wooton and Frank Duckworth were in charge of refreshments.

Consider Yourself Lucky To Graduate In America

This June, as your parents applaud their favorite graduate, a proud Bantu tribesman in Africa will be painting his!

He will smear the happy lad's face with certain designs that signify the family to which he belongs; a few more dabs will portray the animal held sacred by the boy's clan; and, if the lad has learned his work well, additional blobs of home-made paint will announce his chosen profession — warrior, hunter, craftsman, priest.

A young researcher at Underwood Corporation, who uncovered these oddities in preparation for the company's new advertising program, found graduations around the world fascinating. For example, on the other side of the world, equally far from books and classrooms—but not examinations—the eyes of a few chosen Melanesian boys will sparkle as bones are inserted through their noses — symbols of their having reached the estate of manhood, with its privileges and responsibilities.

Some young men on nearby islands must endure much more. They must pass one of the most rigorous tests ever devised for a student.

Each youth is escorted into the wilderness or to some mountain top far from his village. All he has are the clothes on his back and a knife—no food or tools. His kinsmen search him for contraband, then leave him without a word.

His mission: survive for one week and find his way back home.

Sometimes, the boy doesn't make it. But when a successful candidate stumbles into the village, dirty, exhausted and shivering — what a celebration! The clan throws the biggest party of its existence.

If you think that's tough, consider the boys who aspire to native priesthood. In order to qualify as a shaman (medicine man), they undergo the same test as their less ambitious brother, but are forbidden to eat. For a solid week, all they may have is water.

Sometimes during these seven foodless days, the young man must have a "vision." He must be visited by a god who tells him he is shaman material. When he returns to the village, he relates his "vision" to the shamans, who decide whether he is truly among the chosen.

Certain Eskimos follow a somewhat similar pattern. The Concerning the awarding of honorary degrees, Snyder added that there has been "no set pattern" in the past governing the granting of such degrees at Commencement exercises. He noted that honorary degrees had been awarded at the Johnston Hall dedication ceremonies in the fall.

Concert Series To Feature Cleveland Orchestra, Opera

At a meeting of the Bethlehem Community Concert Committee held at the Hotel Bethlehem, announcement was made that the top attraction of the 1959-60 season would be the Cleveland Orchestra.
