POLIO INJECTIONS

Salk Polio vaccine injections will be given on campus at a date to be announced, as soon as sufficient vaccine is made available. Human Value Is True Worth, Zeller Explains

"Worth is found in the human potential, not in things. If we could only, as a world, learn this . . ." pleaded Dr. Samuel Zeller, professor of religion, at yesterday's convocation program. The program was held in Johnston Hall at 11:30 a.m.

Dr. Zeller, who holds the Th.D. degree from Philadelphia Divinity School, spoke on the subject, "What are You Worth?" to an assembly of 700 students and teachers.

"A recognition that human values are all-important . . . supercedes all other conditions," Dr. Zeller said. Materialistic values, he claimed, do not tell the true "worth" of a person.

Material Values Not Valid

Such material holdings as a home, automobile, or clothes are not valid measures of a person's worth, Dr. Zeller explained. What is important, he continued, is personality impact; one must "give of himself" to attain this quality.

Dr. Zeller illustrated his point with the exemplary personage of Jesus Christ. With a minimum of material holdings Christ nevertheless had more impact of western civilization and culture than any other individual in history. Others which bear out this thought are Albert Schweitzer, Saint Francis of Assisi, the Four Chaplains, and numerous others.

Real Worth in Giving

"Because only that which we can give away has worth, Dr. Zeller concluded, "real worth is in what we can give to another."

The convocation was the second of the fall series of student convocations. College President Raymond S. Hauptert will speak at next week's program.

Robert Sallash, Barbara Snyder, and L. Dale Stewart.

Ronald Stupak, Dora Thomas, Patricia Thornton, Arlene Tubio, Dolph Ulrich, Thomas Wilson, Colleen Workman, and Howard Yetter.

818 Are Registered For Fall Semester

This semester there are 818 registered students on campus of which 797 are degree candidates and 21 are special students.

Of the 797 full time students 570 are men and 227 are women. The freshman class claims 250 of these. The class of '63 has 168 men and 82 women, of which 100 of these are local residents. Of the 21 part time students there are 10 men and 11 women.

Foundation Gives College Tentative $10,000 Grant

Moravian College has been awarded a tentative $10,000 grant by the Kresge Foundation to be put toward a $70,000 campus reorganization project which will eventually establish permanent administrative and additional academic facilities.

The grant is contingent on the college raising the remaining $60,000 before July 1, 1960.

Mo-Mo Band Success Hinges On Freshmen, Band President Says

"Ninty per cent of the success of the Moravian College Band is up to the freshmen" according to Ralph DeWalt, president of the group. DeWalt made the comment early this week as he announced that the first rehearsal of the group will take place today at 3:30 p.m. in the South Campus gym.

DeWalt further commented, "We need more of a turnout than there has been in the past, as there are not too many band members remaining from last year."

He pointed out that the band not only needs instrument players, but also women students who are interested in being majorettes and twirlers.

Audubon Tour Is Planned For Eleventh Year

The Audubon Screen Tours sponsored by the Moravian College Conservation Association and the National Audubon Society will be presented here for the eleventh consecutive year. Lecturing will be nationally known figures in their fields, who in the past have drawn an average of five hundred persons at each showing. Programs are held in Johnston Hall at 8 p.m.

Season tickets for the lecture series may be obtained from Dr. Albert E. H. Gaumer from the publicity office. Prices of season tickets are: students, one dollar; family (parents and children), six dollars; and adults, three dollars. There are five Audubon Screen Tours scheduled in the series.

The first lecture is scheduled for Saturday, October 10, when Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill, Jr. will show a film entitled "Penguin Summer." The film was made by Dr. Pettingill in the Falkland Islands, off the southern coast of Argentina.

Other programs planned during the year are: "An Ozark Anthology," Saturday, November 14, by Leonard Hall; "Roanoke Northwest," Saturday, February 27, by G. Harrison Orians; "Pastures of the Sea," Saturday, April 2, by Carl W. Buchheister, and "Designs for Survival," Saturday, April 30, by William Anderson.

The reorganization project includes changing Colonial Hall on North Campus from a dormitory to administration building which would house offices for the president, college and seminary deans, admissions staff, comptroller, and development and alumni staffs.

In this same project, it is planned to provide for classrooms, faculty offices, and expansion of the library in Comenius Hall. Also included in the project is re-establishment of the arts building as a library annex.

Part of this project was completed during the past summer.

Plans to Raise Funds

Richard P. Snyder, director of development, stated this week that the board of trustees is considering a number of tentative methods of raising funds to meet the requirement.

"Attempts will be made," he said, "to raise funds above and beyond the ordinary annual giving during the remainder of the fiscal year." Friends of the college who have contributed to previous capital gift funds will be approached. Also, alumni will be asked to increase their general gifts, he added.

Although no special or separate drive will be conducted among students, faculty, alumni or friends, Snyder stated that "there is no reason to doubt that the meeting fund will be fulfilled."

1959 Yearbook Expected 'Shortly'

Nancy Traubitz, editor of the 1959 BENIGNA, announced this week that the yearbook has been sent to press and is expected to be completed shortly.

The theme of "Progress thru Tradition" has been carried throughout the five sections of the book. These include administrative, mental progress, physical progress and advertising.

This year's book will have a hard leather cover in light grey and dark blue with soft-tone paper. The size of the volume will be 9" x 12", as opposed to the Hope . . .

This week will see the organization of apparently one of the last groups on campus not presently functioning. This is the Moravian College band.

The mere mention of "the band" to most upperclassmen either evokes a sarcastic laugh or a sympathetic smile. During the past several years the band has been more an object of shame and ridicule, than the symbol of school spirit and enthusiasm for which reason it was apparently created. This state is the result of two situations which have been allowed to exist within the band for some time.

In the first place, the conductor of the band, while his professional capabilities cannot be doubted, has been merely too busy to do the job properly. His teaching schedule in the city public schools and his numerous other outside commitments to musical organizations have greatly limited the time he has had to devote to the Moravian College band.

Secondly, partially the blame of the director, but perhaps more the blame of the band members, is the great lack of discipline and organization which has characterized band rehearsals in the past.

As a result of these two situations the band has been forced to curtail its performance schedule in past years and has often made its appearances woefully unprepared.

The first situation, of course, cannot be worked out by the members of the band. However, it is hoped that all concerned with this problem will be able to construct an arrangement which will result in increased benefit to the college and the band.

As to the second situation, this lack of discipline and organization can very readily be remedied by action on the part of the band members and it is hoped they will realize that their public embarrassment will be somewhat eliminated by more diligence and seriousness at rehearsals.

The band this year is depending heavily upon the freshmen class to fill its ranks. These students have as yet had no experience with the band. It is certainly to be hoped that the band can redeem itself from its gloomy past and with this "new blood" achieve a successful year.

The Mail Box

Answers Wanted . . .

Dear Editor;

As students of Moravian College we feel that it is not only our privilege, but our duty to find out why certain conditions are allowed to exist. We would appreciate answers to our questions in the following issue.

Is our bookstore a non-profit making organization? Moravian is proud of being a privately endowed college, but do students have to go into debt to pay book store bills? Also, is it against the manager's policy to disclose prices prior to our purchasing books?

Another problem seems to be the girl's Learneria. Have milk and food prices increased so in the past few months that our portion should be cut? It is our opinion that a college student cannot work to his full capacity on such an unbalanced diet. Doesn't one of our required college courses stress the need for a daily portion of each of the basic seven foods? We are aware that our cook does the best possible with the supplies she is given, but these supplies do not seem to be adequate and edible. For instance, one day last week we had ravioli and red beets; one night we had as vegetables, cauliflower and potatoes which are both starches. It seems as though we don't have enough green vegetables such as a tossed salad, lima or string beans.

Now that South Campus has become equivalent to a girls' school do you think it's fair that girls should not be allowed to wear bermudas? We realize that there

Do you realize it's October already? If you're on the 1959 Benigna staff, you do! For all you who wonder WHAT HAPPENED TO THE YEARBOOK, relax. The book will be on campus as soon as it comes off the presses. Work that had to be done on it here at Mo-Mo was completed in August. Now it's a waiting game. I'm beginning to feel a bit like Barbara Fritchie. "Shoot if you must this old grey head. But spare the yearbook staff, she said."

In the midst of the annual yearbook stress and storm, I would like to salute the staff members who gave a year of their time and energy and creative ability to produce a record of the year's activities.

Rugged Individualist Or Conformist: Who will rule?

By Stephanie I. Rights

The Rugged Individual is dead. Long live the king! Who is the king?—What do you mean "Who is the king?" The Conformist, of course.—Maybe I did not make myself clear. Which one of those men over there is the king?—The one in loden green.—Which one? They are all wearing loden green.—I'm a man of infinite patience, sir. Yet you have almost succeeded in finding the end of infinity. If my answers are not explicit enough, bother someone else with your nonsense.

—Excuse me, sir.—Yes?—Are you the king?—You must be mad. I'd never even consider taking such a ridiculously unstable and unpopular position. Why, it would mean that my split-level house, my new car with the two-foot tail fins, the respect of the members of my bridge club would be put in jeopardy. No, I'm certainly not the king. I'm a sensible businessman. — But that man over there said. . .—I don't care what that man said. He's wrong.

—Are you looking for somebody?—Why yes. The king. You are not the king, are you?—Oh no, I'm a college student. — Will they make you king when you graduate?—I certainly hope they don't try—Why?—I don't want to be king. I'm going to be an engineer.—Do you like engineering?—Not particularly, but I must think of my future.—Your future?—You know what I mean. Security. Once I thought I would like to be a lawyer, but there were too many risks involved in becoming financially successful. Our country needs engineers; so this way I'll be assured of being well paid. You look puzzled.—Do I? Listen, will you excuse me? I've just seen someone I must talk to.—Certainly.

—Excuse me. You don't look as if you belong here.—I don't?—Everyone else is in loden green and you are wearing brown tweed.—I don't happen to like green. Is there anything wrong with that?—Oh no. May I ask what you do for a living?—I'm a free-lance writer.—Isn't that a rather precarious profession?—Precarious in what way?—I shouldn't think it would bring a very steady income.—If that's what you mean, you're absolutely right.—I'm certainly no monetary success.—Then why don't you find a better job, one that would provide real security?—But I have security, at least the kind I want. My work intrigues me, fascinates me, frus-trates me, discourages me, but it presents a continual challenge that keeps alive the spark of life within me. If my only interests in life were a few possessions glued to the ground so that I could not see the sky, I would sink into a stupor that is as good as death. When I was young I searched for a way of life that would stimulate my mind and develop my soul. Now that I have found that way, I am following it the best I can.—You must be a rugged individualist, sir. Yet I thought the rugged individualist was dead.—I am not your "Rugged Individualist." The rugged individualist was a person who, with only one object in mind, success, built a ladder to the top with the bodies of his opposition. If I ever achieve any public success, it will be because I have recognized my abilities and limitations and have tried to live within them. It is far more important to me that I be a success as a human being than a success as a writer.—The Conformist is not king. You are king.—What was that you said?—Nothing.

Marine Corps Officers Team Will Visit Campus Oct. 8

A Marine Corps Officer Selection Team will visit Moravian College on Thursday, Oct. 8 to interview students who are interested in becoming officers in the United States Marine Corps. The announcement was made by Captain A. W. Ruete Jr., Officer Selection Officer.

Primarily, there are two programs: one for freshmen, sophomores and juniors; the other for seniors and recent graduates.

The first program, known as PLC (Platoon Leaders Class) is summed up briefly by the following features:

- (a) Remain in school with draft deferment.
- (b) No on-campus meetings or drills—just six weeks summer courses at Quantico, Virginia.
- (c) Pay while in summer training — and increased pay later as an officer, by reason of seniority.
- (d) Commissioning on graduation day, followed by three years active duty.

Under the OCC program, for seniors and recent graduates, completion of a ten week Officer Candidate School at Quantico, Virginia, is followed by commissioning as a Second Lieutenant and three years active duty.

In the case of aviators, the active duty obligation is approximately a year and a half longer because of flight training.

Those young men and women who are interested in becoming a part of the Marine Corps are invited to stop by when the Marine Corps Officer Selection Team visits Moravian College.

900 Fulbright Study Grants Are Available

Two months remain to apply for some 900 Fulbright scholarships for study or research in 28 countries, the Institute of International Education (IIE) reminded prospective applicants recently. Applications are being accepted until November 1.

Inter-American Cultural Convention (IACC) awards for study in 17 Latin American countries have the same filing deadline.

Recipients to Receive Funds

Recipients of Fulbright awards for study in Europe, Latin American, and the Asia-Pacific area will receive tuition, maintenance and round-trip travel. IACC scholarships cover transportation, tuition, and partial maintenance costs. IIE administers both of these student programs for the U.S. Department of State.

General eligibility requirements for both categories of awards are: 1) U.S. citizenship at time of application; 2) a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by 1960; 3) knowledge of the language of the host country; and 4) good health. A demonstrated capacity for independent study and a good academic record are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously lived or studied abroad.

Applicants will be required to submit a plan of proposed study that can be carried out profitably with in the year abroad. Success-

New Cheerleaders Plan Four Rallies; First Next Friday

A newly selected squad of six cheerleaders is planning four pep rallies during the fall athletic season, and seven former cheerleaders have been presented with two-year awards, it was announced this week.

Six cheerleaders were chosen for the Moravian Varsity Cheerleading squad on Thursday, September 24. The new members are Janet Heller, Mary Joan Cali, Mary Hepler, Jan Stever, Maureen Cavanagh, and Joe Burns.

Janet Heller, who resides in Coplay, is a member of the junior class. Her cheerleading experience includes three years as a cheerleader in high school and one year at Muhlenberg College.

A sophomore, Mary Hepler was also chosen. She resides in Philadelphia.

Joe Burns, the only boy in the group, is also a sophomore. He is from Butler, Pennsylvania.

A second semester freshman from West Bangor, Mary Joan Cali cheered in high school for three years.

Two other freshmen were chosen, Maureen Cavanagh, from Staten Island, N. Y., and Jan Stever, of Bethlehem. This will be the first year of cheering for both.

First Rally Next Friday

Four pep rallies are scheduled within the next three months. The first will take place in Johnston Hall next Friday, October 9. The first home football game will be against Juniata next Saturday.

The second rally will be held on Homecoming Weekend, October 30, for the Albright game; the third on November 20 for the Muhlenberg game, and the last on December 6. The last will be for the game with Upsala, Moravian's first home basketball game.

Awards Presented

Seven former cheerleaders were recently presented with two-year awards. Receiving blazers were Mary Lou Clewell, Dick Ruth, and Peter French, seniors; Judy Laning and Joel Leeb, juniors; and Pat Diener and Carol Landrock, graduates of 1959.

GRE Exams To Be Given Four Times

The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools and by an increasing number of donors of graduate fellowships, will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times in the coming year, Educational Testing Service (ETS) has announced.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Saturday, November 21. In 1960, the dates are January 16, April 23, and July 9. ETS advises each applicant to inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which dates. Applicants for graduate school fellowships are often asked to take the designated examinations in the fall administration.

The GRE tests offered in these nationwide programs include a test of general scholastic ability and advance level tests of achievement in sixteen different subject

French Tells Of Conference Experiences

by Peter L. French

As Moravian College's representative to the 12th National Student Association conference, I had this summer one of the most moving experiences possible for a student leader, the opportunity to meet and discuss, listen and learn with 1200 of my contemporaries from all over the country representing over a million students.

The first four days of the conference were devoted exclusively to student body presidents and consisted of workshops and speeches by eminent men in the educational field. The most moving and stimulating address was made by Dr. Dana Farnsworth of the Harvard University Medical Department. In the workshops, the topic of discussion was what is the role of student government. Three days and discussion produced this conclusion:

It is the role of student government to:

- 1. Actively promote the goals of the college.
- 2. Provide for the welfare of the student academically, spiritually, socially and culturally.
- 3. Act as a liaison between students, administration and faculty.

This I take to be our aim during the coming year.

The last ten days were devoted to the student congress itself. The first three days were for workshops in various areas. I attended one on student government structure and another on student executive, with the most valuable conclusion drawn from these that we should not change our present structure but seek to work more efficiently within it.

Three days were then devoted to legislative subcommittees and the final four days to the passing of basic policy of the association. Here it was a privilege and an education to hear students discuss issues of such pressing national and international importance on such a mature level.

It brought to me a realization of the questions and concerns which should be on the minds of all of us as members of the student community and citizens in society. I only hope that I will be able to instill some of the spirit of this conference into the policies and procedures of student government during the coming year.

ful candidates are required to be affiliated with approved institutions of higher learning abroad.

Enrolled students at Moravian should consult with Marlyn A. Rader Dean of Instruction for information and applications. Others may write to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, (Cont. on p. 5, col. 3)

Dean To Inform Seniors On Placement Procedures

Dean of Men Harvey T. D. Gillespie will meet with the Senior Class on Thursday, October 6 at 11:30 a.m. in Johnston Hall, rooms 9 & 10. The purpose of the meeting will be to familiarize members of the class with the procedures of the Placement Office.

As was stated in a letter to all seniors, the Placement Office is not set up to secure positions for students, but to provide them with information concerning employing organizations and to prepare students for interviews so that the selection of careers can be made in an objective atmosphere with complete understanding of all of the facts.

Literature Prepared

Literature has been prepared for those who attend the meeting and the entire placement program will be outlined. Opportunities are available for students who plan to do graduate work as well as those who wish to enter various fields of employment. It is not unusual for a company to hire an exceptional student and allow him to continue his education, many times at the company's expense, Gillespie stated recently.

There will be no other orientation meeting for this program.

Whether or not students will seek employment immediately after graduation, Gillespie stated that it would be well for seniors to attend this meeting so as to become familiar with the facilities of the department.

Film About Greece Is Recommended

"An excellent film concerning the character of Greece" will be presented Thursday, Oct. 8, at Lehigh University, according to George Tyler, professor of classics.

The film, entitled "The Ancient World: Greece," will be presented under the auspices of Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classics fraternity.

Admission will be 25c. The program will be presented in the Osbourne Room, 308 Unit Center, at 8 p.m. that evening.

The Sports Story

by George Fiegel

Before I plunge into this week's "Sports Stories," introductions are in order. I am George Fiegel, a member of the sophomore class, and newly appointed sports editor. Russ Simonetta's "The Inside Scoop" of last year has vanished from the scene upon his transfer to West Point. This year, I hope to give, to the best of my abilities, accurate comments and predictions concerning major and minor sports.

Last year the various teams at Moravian pulled through with astonishing success and most of them obtained winning seasons. Let's do it again, boys.

One of the above winning teams was the cross country team. The Harriers led by their star runner, Wendell Terry, trampled their last four opponents to finish with a fine season. This year, the big question is whether the hill and dalers can run as well with the first two men gone. The toughest part of the season is the first half, when they will be running against teams like Juniata and Lafayette.

The football team also came out on top last season. A perfect topping to that cake was the upset over Muhlenberg which will be remembered for many a year to come. The top 29 will be anticipating a good season this year with many exciting games to look forward to. Their 4-4 record in 1958 should be equaled this year if not bettered.

It looks like Chicago has a slight advantage physically in this year's World Series. The week's rest they had for pitchers and the whole team will most likely make them a good sparkling team. The Dodgers, though a little pooped from this week's action, will probably have a better offensive club and in my opinion will take the series. The first of the series' games will go to the American League team, but in the long run the National League will win out.

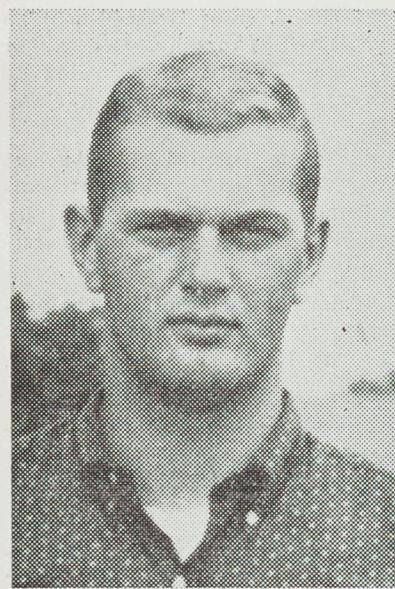

Well, football fans, tomorrow is the big day. Our Greyhounds open against Wilkes. Judging from the teams, Wilkes has had in the past, Mo-Mo should mow them down with ease. Their impressive 30-8 victory opened last year's season. Without too much hesitation, I think I could say that Moravian should turn up with a shut-out game.

That's the sports story for this week.

FALL FOCUS

Dave Coe, sophomore fullback on the Greyhound's football team, is the man in the sports focus this week.

He is six feet, three inches tall and weighs two-hundred and fifteen pounds. His home town is Ocean City, New Jersey.

Dave Coe—Fullback

During his high school days, Dave won two letters in football, two in baseball, and one in basketball.

Dave says his greatest thrill in sports was being on the basketball team his senior year in high school. That year the team was undefeated, racking up twenty-one victories.

At Moravian, he was vice-president of the freshman class and is now on the Social Activities Committee.

Dave's favorite pastime is hunting.

He is a psychology major and would like to earn a doctorate in psychology after graduation.

When asked what he thought of this year's football squad, he replied, "I think we have a lot of potential, but the final outcome depends upon the players' ability to bring it out."

is a time and a place, but since society has put its stamp of approval on wearing them almost anywhere do you think that we should be completely restricted? Why, for a simple coffee break, must we waste our time changing our attire? We know that our parents would not object to our wearing bermuda shorts. We feel that we can act as ladies in bermudas as well as in a skirt.

Greyhound Gridders Looking For 7th Straight Over Wilkes

Looking for their seventh straight win over the Wilkes Colonels, the Moravian Greyhound gridders open their 1959 season tomorrow at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Moravian College Harriers are pictured getting in shape for the tough season ahead, initiated by today's practice meet with Lehigh.

The Hounds, with a small squad of only 29, including 11 returning lettermen, will be facing a Wilkes team of the same size. The Colonels with 12 lettermen are rated by Moravian Coach Rocco Calvo as strong on defense, but weak offensively. The Wilkes eleven were blanked by Lebanon Valley last weekend 13-0.

Not since 1951 has a Greyhound football team been downed by Wilkes. During this period the Hounds have outscored the Colonels more than three to one with 188 points against 62. Last year the Moravian gridders opened at home with a 30-8 trouncing over Wilkes.

Calvo will probably be starting two 6'1" lettermen at end, junior John Olson and senior Paul Noonan. In 1958 Olson was second in scoring for the Hounds with 36 points on five touchdowns and three pass conversions. He ran 197 yards with eight receptions. Noonan caught five passes for 66 yards last season.

From tackle to tackle the Hounds will average about 205 pounds, two pounds lighter than the Colonels. Starting at tackle will be three-time letterwinner Bob Haney, 230 lbs. and Jim Kritis, a 200 lb. junior who is starting for the third straight year.

Calvo Plans Positions

At guard Calvo has senior letterman Sal De Luca, 178 lbs., and 215 lb. sophomore Lew Rozelle. Handling the center chores will be 200 lb. senior letterman Fred Lipari. In addition Calvo has a good second string line, which he plans to substitute as a unit.

At fullback for the Hounds will be sophomore Dave Coe, who rushed 97 yards in 30 carries in 1958 as under study for the Hounds most valuable player George Hollendersky.

In the halfback slots are sophomore Ron Myers, who gained 218 yards in 52 times last season and senior Bill Hershey who moved the ball with a 4.6 average in 1958 on 117 yards on 25 carries. Leading the Hound offense at quarterback will be 6', 185 lb. sophomore Russ DeVore.

Greyhounds Initiate Cross-Country Season At E-town

Coach Paul Kuklantz's Greyhound Harriers will initiate the 1959 cross country season Wednesday, October 7, at Elizabethtown College. The squad has been practicing since the resumption of school and is rounding into shape. Coach Kuklantz has not as yet announced his starters.

Last year Elizabethtown took a slim 27-28 victory. As in golf, the low score wins. Last year's race was run in a driving rain which made the footing a little slippery at times.

Wendell Terry took 1st place on the 4½ mile course in 26:11, three seconds ahead of E' town's ace, Glen Bruckhart. Bernard E. Thome finished third, Jim Worman and Ray Herman tied for fourth place with a time of 27:58. Bruckhart has since graduated but the speedy Thome will provide more than enough competition for the Hounds.

Terry's performance stands as the record for a Moravian runner. However, Dick Haines of Lafayette holds the course record.

ton stated on Wednesday that the band's first appearance will be at the first home football game. Huston also said that the band will play at all home and away football games.

No plans have yet been formulated for the basketball season according to Huston.

In discussing the delay of organizing the band, Huston said that the group had been promised the South Campus gym as a rehearsal room. However the gym had not been made usable until this Wednesday.

tures (thank goodness) and Gene is still with us. The book should be here by the end of October. It will include all of last years activities and we hope it will be lasting momento of a great year.

Last week I was "given with the advice" to the Frosh. This week I've got a few simple suggestions for student teachers.

1. Look on your job with pride. Remember! today's delinquents will be tomorrow's gangsters!
2. Don't push the panic button. If you get lost looking for your class room, inquire from a second grader. (Don't ever ask a high school student. They know they're smarter than we are so why should we prove it?)
3. If you have fifty-three first graders pulling at you and tugging at your dress, don't worry. You won't come apart and if you're lucky you can out-last them.
4. For you who don't have time to eat lunch, look at it this way. Now you can lose all that weight you gained over the summer.
5. Finally, if you're a Soc. major assigned to teach fifteen hours of English or an English major with three classes in American history—perhaps you'd better try to impress them as the strong silent type.

Wesleyan Requires Students To Pass Oral English Exam

(I.P.)—All freshmen and members of future classes at Wesleyan University will be required to pass an Oral English exam before they graduate, according to an announcement by Professor Richard L. Greene, chairman of the English department.

The recommendation, approved by the Education Policy Committee, states that each student must present a five minute speech to a panel of three faculty judges and receive a passing grade before May of his sophomore year. Students with physical speech defects will be exempted. "In case of their failure," the recommendation continues, "they shall be required to pass a semester-course in Oral English, for two hours of academic credit, in a subsequent semester."

Other exemptions will be granted to men who voluntarily enroll in Oral English classes, or men who have shown proficiency in radio, debate, or drama activities as based on the advice of the faculty advisor to the activity.

According to Professor Greene, the purpose of the program will be to make sure that students are adequately prepared to present their thoughts orally after graduation. He also hopes that this program will follow in the steps of the composition test given to sophomores. The number of students having to take this test and the number failing it have steadily decreased while the number volunteering for the composition course has increased.

Another recommendation approved here by recent faculty action requires mid-semester grades for first-semester freshmen only, in the future. Previously, all freshmen and sophomores received mid-semester grades. Mid-semester grades will be still required for all students on probation or warning and for those whose work is deemed unsatisfactory by members of the faculty. The administration gave the following four reasons for the faculty's action: 1) to cut down bookkeeping for the faculty and dean's office; 2) to place more responsibility on the student; 3) to deemphasize the present emphasis on grades, and 4) to reduce the congestion of hour tests.

Plans Formed For New Year At I S Meeting

The first Inter-sorority council meeting was opened by Joanne Mazur on Friday, September 25. Discussion was on the main events the sororities would have during the school year. Fall pledging of upperclassmen will begin October 19. A list of pledges will be posted on North and South Campus. I. S. will sponsor an informal party on November 23 for the freshman girls. The party, which will have entertainment and refreshments, will be held in the girls' gym. Sandra Yaeck and Barbara Roberts are chairmen. The formal I. S. dance is April 23, 1960.

three men were members of the language department and were the only ones not regularly associated with Moravian College.

Tyler stated that included in the curriculum were five language courses. These were first and second year French, first and second year Spanish and elementary German. Last year only two language courses were offered.

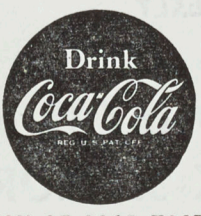

Others on the faculty were Dr. Lloyd L. Burkhart, professor of English; Michael Elias, instructor in Spanish; Dr. Daniel R. Gilbert, associate professor of history; Dr. Joseph L. Hackenberg, professor of education; Dr. John V. Machell professor of sociology; William B. Miller assistant professor of chemistry; and Stuart E. Rauch Jr., associate professor of chemistry.

Tyler further stated that of the one hundred eleven students, twenty-six were from other schools. He also felt that publicity in the local papers during the spring helped boost the enrollment. He said finally that in future years he expects the number to increase.

Editor Comments On SEAC: 'Interesting' But 'Impractical'

"The discussion stayed pretty much up in the air, and was somewhat impractical, but still very interesting and enlightening," commented David Schattschneider, Comenian editor, in discussing the Student Editorial Affairs Conference which he attended during the summer.

The third annual SEAC meeting was held from Thursday, August 20 to Monday, August 24, at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. Editors of 70 college and university newspapers were present.

According to Schattschneider, the greatest amount of time was spent in discussion groups. "The earlier parts of the conference were spent with the group as a whole discussing general ideas concerning the responsibility of the student press and its role in campus life."

He stated that the discussion groups were formed according to the frequency of publication. "This resulted in four separate groups. There were those for daily papers, for weeklies publishing in metropolitan areas, for weeklies in non-metropolitan areas and a group of those representing papers publishing less than one a week."

Schattschneider said that these smaller groups were occupied mostly with a discussion of the more practical problems confronting college newspapers. Five case studies were prepared to be used as a guide in discussion.

"These studies," Schattschneider said, "were based on cases that had actually occurred in the past. They concerned instances where the paper was censored or suppressed by the college, and described the reactions of the staff to these measures. Several questions attached to each case study aided somewhat."

"The final sessions were devoted to a discussion and voting upon resolutions which had been worked up by members of the conference and which were presented to the National Student Congress," Schattschneider reported.

Geology Prof Participates In Conference

The prediction of a severe earthquake near Yellowstone which actually occurred three weeks later was one of the highlights of The National Science Foundation Conference of Geology Teachers attended by Dr. Richmond E. Myers, professor of geology.

The conference attended by geology teachers from nearly every state was held at Oregon State University during the last week of June and the first week of July.

The first week was spent attending refresher courses and conferences on the newest technique in teaching geology.
