President Cites Objections To Required Loyalty Oath

College president Raymond S. Hauptert voiced objections this week to the loyalty oath required of all students participating in the federal student loan program of which Moravian is currently a member.

The loyalty oath and disclaimer provisions of the National Defense Education Act have received emphatic opposition from educators, students and college administrations since the passage of the bill by Congress last year.

Hauptert's objections were that (1.) the oath "represents interference by government in independent higher education." He stated further that this principle was in danger of being violated; (2.) The oath tends to "single out students" and is thus "discriminatory" in its nature; and (3.) The oath fails in its main purpose of identifying communists, because any communist would not hesitate to lie and sign it.

Within the past few weeks, three of the nation's leading schools, Harvard, Yale and Oberlin, have withdrawn from the student loan program as a protest measure against the oath.

Nine others had previously done so, and four had refused to join at the onset of the program last year. From the City College of New York, Ohio State University and the University of Virginia were heard vehement objections against the oath. These schools are tax supported, however, and can take no action.

Hauptert said that no consideration has been given to Moravian's possible withdrawal. "Some of us don't like it, [the loyalty oath] but we don't feel so strongly that we would withdraw," he continued. Withdrawal is a "position that any college can take" and "may help the cause" but Moravian has not "felt strongly enough about it to dramatically take a position."

Moravian, at the present time, has 25 students accepting funds from the federal government under the loan program, Halcyon Sartwell, Chairman of the Committee on Financial Aid, said.

USG Discusses Attitudes Toward Evaluation System

Representatives to United Student Government discussed Tuesday recommendations for establishing a technique for evaluating curriculum content and faculty effectiveness.

As Chairman of the USG committee investigating this problem, Richard Ruth reported that he had consulted college president Raymond S. Hauptert, who stated that the administration would not have direct use for such an evaluation but that if students considered the project worthwhile for their own interests such a program might be undertaken.

USG president Peter Linnekin French recommended that questionnaires be submitted to teachers to determine faculty attitude toward such a program. Ruth will contact Marlyn A. Rader, Dean of Instruction, to see if this can be done.

In other business, USG delegates considered the problem of collection of class dues. It was

Freshman Unit Nearly Ready For Occupancy

By John Schlegel

The new men's dormitories, now in their final stages of completion, will be called the Rau-Hassler Dormitories. The name was decided upon at a recent meeting of the college Board of Trustees.

The name honors two noted figures in the college's history, Dr. Albert G. Rau, first dean of the Moravian College for Men, and Dr. Roy D. Hassler, Dean Emeritus.

Paul E. Cunningham, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, stated this week that freshman male dormitory students will be able to move into the freshman section by Friday, Dec. 11.

On Monday, Dec. 7, the contractors, architects, and officials of the college will conduct an inspection of unit "A" of the buildings and the unit will be turned over to the college, Cunningham stated.

A few days will be needed to install furniture and lamps, and the dormitory will be ready for occupancy by the 11th, he added.

The lounge area will not be completed by this time, he concluded.

Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development, added that unit "B" of the new dormitory, the upper-class section, will be ready for occupancy after Christmas vacation.

Portraits of Rau and Hassler will be hung in the main lounge of the dormitory. The buildings will be dedicated sometime next (Cont. on p. 4, col. 2)

SAC Sponsors Winter Dance Next Weekend

A semi-formal Christmas Dance, sponsored by the Social Activities Committee, will be held Saturday, Dec. 12, from 9 p.m. to midnight, in Johnston Hall.

The motif for the annual affair will be winter scenery. A multi-colored ceiling of white, green, and red streamers, wall murals of winter scenes, and a large Christmas tree in the center of the floor will highlight the decorations.

Music for the occasion will be provided by Matt Gillespie and his orchestra.

The SAC tentatively plans for a photographer to take souvenir pictures of couples.

Smaller Christmas trees will be used to partially surround the bandstand and dance floor area and ash-tray favors will constitute table decorations.

Ramsey To Speak Monday For Seminary Fall Lectures

Dr. R. Paul Ramsey, chairman of the department of religion at Princeton Theological Seminary, will be guest speaker for the annual Theological Seminary autumn lectures program.

The lectures, sponsored by the Faculty-Student Lecture Committee, will be given on Monday, Dec. 7, in the North Campus Chapel.

"The Marriage of Adam and Eve" will be his topic at 10:30 a.m. and the "Religious Aspects of Marxism" will be the topic at 1:30 p.m.

Interested members of the college administration, faculty, and student body have been invited to attend the lectures as invited guests, along with the Seminary faculty and students and interested area clergymen and laymen.

At the present time Ramsey is the Paine Professor of Religion at Princeton University and has been chairman of his department since 1959.

He was born in Mississippi and received his B.S. degree from Millsaps College in 1935. He was awarded the B.D. and Ph.D. degrees by the Yale University Divinity School in 1940 and 1943.

Before coming to Princeton, as an assistant professor of religious thought, he taught history, social science and philosophy at Millsaps, social philosophy at Yale and Christian ethics at Garrett Theological Seminary of Northwestern University.

The author of Basic Christian Ethics, Ramsey's most recent publication was in the April, 1959 New York University Law Review and an article entitled, "The Legal Imputation of Religion to an Infant in Adoption Proceedings."

The guest speaker is also a member of the General Editorial Committee for the works of Jonathan Edwards, an early American theologian.

During last year he was a senior fellow in the Council of the Humanities at Princeton, which permitted him to devote approximately half of his time to research.

BENIGNAS

Copies of the 1959 Benignas are still available in the Service Room on South Campus.

Hauptert Named To Commission On Institutions

Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert, Moravian College president, was recently elected a member of the Commission on Higher Institutions of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The selection was made at the annual meeting of the group, held in Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 27.

Hauptert was also recently elected vice-president of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, an organization with 65 member institutions.

As a member of the Commission on Higher Institutions, he and the group's 14 other members will have the responsibility of determining the accredited status of all colleges and universities in the Middle Atlantic States.

For these 265 institutions, the Commission is the highest accrediting authority in the nation.

He succeeds Vice Chancellor Emeritus Finla G. Crawford of Syracuse University as a member of the Commission.

Hauptert has served as treasurer and member of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania college group for the past seven years.

He succeeds president Eric A. Walker of Pennsylvania State University to the post. Walker was elected president of the organization.

Faith Has Meaning, Machell Preaches

One must not lose the real meaning of Christmas or of faith through the eye-appealing aspects that catch one's attention. This position was stated by the Rev. Dr. John V. Machell, professor of Sociology, at yesterday's weekly convocation.

Machell stressed the value of "shopping for a faith" but advocated a close scrutiny of each faith, not just an "arm's length examination."

Oath . . .

The front pages of many newspapers around the country have recently been occupied with a discussion of the National Defense Education Act and its accompanying loyalty oath and disclaimer affidavit.

The President of Moravian College, in an interview early this week, enumerated three reasons for objection to the oath. His views seem to represent the main trends of objection as they were registered elsewhere.

He also stated that Moravian has not "felt strongly enough about it to dramatically take a position."

At first glance this seems to be an indecisive statement indicative of an inability on the part of the college to take a stand on this controversial matter.

However, a little thought on the subject will reveal that this is actually quite a wise decision on the part of administration officials.

To begin with, it is interesting to compare the number of participating schools (1,365) with the number that have "hopped on the bandwagon" and denounced the Act and returned funds to the government (16).

It is worthy to note that only with the refusal of Yale and Harvard Universities did the item make front page news, despite the fact that several other institutions had withdrawn earlier or refused participation from the beginning.

We agree with the President's first statement, that this oath and disclaimer provision represent "interference by government in independent higher education."

It can be said that this amendment to the Act is wrong and should be eliminated as soon as possible.

However, in practical application the oath and disclaimer affidavit are useless. It's an old idea, but if a person has a clear patriotic conscience he won't mind signing a statement confirming it, and if he is Communistic in outlook or affiliation he won't hesitate to sign it anyway.

The positive aspects of the Act are too many to be overlooked. At large schools, the students aided with these funds can be supported from other sources and the funds themselves are a mere "drop in the bucket."

Not so at Moravian. Other funds for these individuals would probably not be forthcoming and the funds are of considerably more importance here than at some other places.

While we condemn the implications of the oath and affidavit in theory, the practical, positive aspects of the entire Act far outweigh the negative effect of the amendment on this campus and therefore we should continue support of the realistic and disapproval of the theoretical, which cannot be translated into realistic terms as it now stands.

Sale . . .

Today and tomorrow the college library staff will conduct a book sale for the benefit of Moravian students. Such an event has occurred on other college campuses and it is encouraging that our library is now putting on a similar project.

Its purpose, to allow students to build up their libraries at a nominal cost, is very worthwhile.

This affair deserves the support of all students since this is probably a chance to get good bargains now and benefit greatly in the long run.

Coffee Klatsch

by Nancy Traubitz

There is nothing, absolutely nothing, more confusing than trying to collect all the newly pinned, engaged, or married couples after a holiday or a big weekend. I seem to have a faculty for missing a couple every time. Oh well, at least we'll have a go at it.

Congratulations and best wishes to Bruce Furchner and his new bride. Congratulations to Joe Stefanavage on his engagement. In the less drastic category, congratulations to Brian Kent and Ted Wilde as two more fraternity pins leave the campi. Best wishes to Connie Platt. Her pin comes from St. Bonaventure. Double congratulations and best wishes to our on-campus couples Cynthia Geiman and Bob Gohdes and Sandy English and Rod Evanson.

This news is dated, but I can't resist the impulse to tip the hat to the Blackfrairs. Medea was certainly a landmark on the way toward more professional and intensely dramatic productions.

Campus notes: Gossip is sparse these days. We all settle down to those pre-holiday term papers and a sort of dazed hush settles over everything. A number of people have asked me to inquire about a certain Pi Mu member who showed up in Washington, N. J. late one night wearing red flannel pajamas. Any ideas?

Finally solved the rats and mice problem on south campus. Betsy Blum, flutist for Blackfrairs, has agreed to lead all our little rodent friends into Monocacy creek, Pied Piper of Hamlin style.

Here's a brain twister for you who have no papers due 'til after the holidays. Punctuate the following sentence correctly — John where Jim had had had had had had had had had had had had the teacher's approval.

And so the holiday season is with us again, complete with candles and stars and empty bank accounts. We can always type someone's term paper or get a job washing coffee cups in the Emsee or then again, I've heard some people are planning to celebrate a "pure" Christmas this year. Who needs Christmas gifts anyway?

Loyalty Oath Is Attacked On Grounds Of Futility

by Stephanie Rights

Last year, the federal government instituted a loan program in order to encourage college students in the fields of art, sciences, and teaching.

However, this program, part of the National Defense Education Act, requires that any student wishing to borrow funds must first sign a loyalty oath stating that he "does not believe in, and is not a member of and does not support any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States Government by force or violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods."

It is this oath that kept Bryn Mawr, Haverford, Princeton, and Swarthmore from joining the program at its inception, and it is this oath that has caused the withdrawal of twelve other schools—Amherst, Antioch, Bennington, Goucher, Grinnell, Reed, Sarah Lawrence, St. John's (Maryland), Wilmington, and during the last few weeks, Yale, Harvard, and Oberlin.

Several more schools like the University of Virginia and Ohio State University would also like to withdraw but cannot because they are supported by taxes.

On what grounds do these schools object so violently to the loyalty oath provision? Harvard's President Nathan M. Pusey perhaps summed up the feelings of all the rest when he called it "misguided, discriminatory, superfluous, ineffective, futile." (Time, Nov. 30, 1959.)

If the purpose of the oath is to keep government funds from falling into Communist hands, it obviously would fail. What Communist would hesitate to sign such an oath? Meanwhile, it remains offensive to those students wishing to borrow money by putting in question their loyalty to their country.

Last summer, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts made an attempt to have the objectionable loyalty clause repealed. His bill, however, was defeated by seven votes. So the clause remained.

And so schools like Harvard that originally accepted federal funds in hopes that repeal of the oath would soon be forthcoming have now lodged the strongest of protests. They have withdrawn completely and have returned government monies.

It is possible that the rejection of the Student Loan Program by such prestige-carrying schools as Harvard, Yale and Princeton will force Congress to nullify the loyalty oath.

What if it doesn't? What will be the results? Harvard, Yale, and Oberlin alone have turned back over $400,000 dollars to the government, $400,000 that could be utilized by needy students in the years to come.

Of course the money could be reapportioned to any of the other 1,365 schools in the program, schools that have not objected to the oath or schools that feel the benefits of the program outweigh the detriments.

Still the schools which feel that the principle behind the issue is strong enough to warrant their withdrawal from the program will suffer and the students attending those schools will also suffer.

APO Stands For Service; Performs Helpful Duties

by Myron Meilicke

Alpha Phi Omega has received final approval from the college administration and a meeting is to be called in the immediate future to discuss potentialities of such an organization at Moravian.

As a service fraternity, APO has a program of activities in which members direct their energies for the benefit of the student body and faculty, youth and community, and members of the fraternity.

Being a service fraternity, APO crosses all lines of honorary, social and professional fraternities, and members of other campus organizations may also be active in this group. Through cooperation with other organizations, the program of APO may be made most effective.

The presidents, the deans and the faculty members of various colleges and universities recognize APO as a service unit by assigning it major projects to perform in the interest of their schools. The front officials of local councils where chapters are functioning recognize APO as an organized force for leadership in community and scouting projects.

What APO can do is exemplified by the Lehigh University chapter. It has set up a blood bank for the use of the student body, faculty, and employees. It has conducted scout swim meets, performed ushering services, and has operated a used book store. The Gettysburg College chapter recently awarded President Eisenhower an honorary silver plaque.

There is no reason why a chapter of APO cannot be formed at Moravian and perform such deeds. The administration has given its final approval, and the reality of this project lies now with student determination.

Wilde Speaks Of Germany At Meeting

Ted Wilde, senior political science major, led a discussion at a meeting of the International Relations Club recently.

Wilde, who attended the University of Munich last year, explained the education system in Germany.

He also described the functions of the World University Service, an organization which is designed to perform many services on university campuses.

Audience Is Criticized . . .

To the Editor:

It is common knowledge that the attention span of the average elementary school child is very short. Theoretically, as the child grows older, his attention span lengthens so that he is capable of concentrating on one thing for moderate periods of time without becoming unduly restless and bored. How applicable this theory is to the members of our student body, I am not sure. The behavior of the students attending the Schiller convocation two weeks ago indicate that it is not applicable at all.

Approximately fifteen to twenty minutes after Dr. Sundermeyer had begun to speak, an undertone of talking began and rose steadily throughout the rest of the speech. Near the end, many people had given up all pretense of whispering and were talking out loud. Dr. Sundermeyer obviously had failed to hold his audience. Why?

The conditions under which Dr. Sundermeyer gave his talk on Schiller were certainly not ideal. The bleachers on which half the

Cagers Face Swarthmore In Season's Second Game

Moravian College's basketball team travels to Swarthmore, Pa., to play Swarthmore College tomorrow night.

The Greyhounds have some fine back court men returning but their tallest backboard men are not too experienced.

Tallest men on the squad are Rocco Zulli and Bernie Medeai at 6 feet 4. Both men are being counted on to help control the boards.

Up front, returning lettermen Ducky Potter and Hal Rice will be a great help to the team. Potter scored 422 points in 20 games last year.

Also, he led the team in assists. Rice scored 221 points in 20 games and had the highest foul shooting percentage.

Returning are Dick Chergy, center, who averaged 8.8 points a game last year and Leo Stinner, guard, who was fourth in rebounding.

They will see considerable action in the Swarthmore clash.

Salay's 589 Top Score In I-F Bowling

Last week's Inter - fraternity bowling action saw Gene Salay's 589 series, with back to back 223's, lead all I-F bowlers. Salay also helped the Omicron Gamma Omega Black team in their 2½-1½ victory over Tau Kappa Epsilon's Red team. Ed Berger's 500 series was high for the losing Redmen.

In the OGO Red - Sigma Phi Omega White duel, Steve Kalamar led his OGO team to a 4-0 win with a 541 series. Don Morrow's 448 was high for the losers.

The TKE Grey club and the SPO Green team bowled in a contest which ended in a 2-2 tie.

Tom Martin of the Grey team was high man with 579, while high men for the opposing Green team were by Jim Harkel and Ned Wagner. Both men scored 499's.

Cagers Lose Initial Meeting; PMC Romps In Second Half

The Moravian College Cagers played their first game of the basketball season to a 79-70 loss to the Cadets of Pennsylvania Military College last Wednesday night at Chester, Pa.

In the first half the Hounds moved quickly but could not extend any kind of lead until the closing minutes. The second half's movements were not as quick and a loss followed.

The two teams were tied with only a few minutes left in the half. Ducky Potter then hit for seven straight points to put Moravian out front 40-34 at the half.

The Hounds in this half used the fast break often and made it work.

At the start of the third quarter Moravian had a hard time keeping the ball. They didn't score at all in the first few minutes while their opponents closed the gap to 40-39.

The score reached 47-46 in favor of the Cadets with approximately 13 minutes to go. The Hounds couldn't make a point against the Cadets for three minutes while P.M.C. romped on for 10 points to make the score 57-46.

The Hounds never closed the gap again.

Ducky Potter led the Moravian scoring with 22 points consisting of nine goals and four foul shots. Hal Rice was one of two to make 10 points, the other was Dick Kosman.

Hounds Lose 'Berg Trophy In 20-8 Rout

Muhlenberg College's football team gained revenge on the Moravian College Greyhounds as they gained a 20-8 victory over the Hounds on Nov. 23.

The Mules gained revenge for their 30-20 defeat in last year's trophy game.

Herb Owens and Ed Yost were the spear-heads of the Muhlenberg attack. Owens, speedy senior half-back, gained 113 yards in 14 carries.

Yost, a line-crashing fullback, ground out 114 yards, and 17 carries for the Mules. Yost and Owens each scored one touchdown.

The Greyhounds scored their only touchdown of the game on an 83 yard march.

During the drive John Williams hit senior halfback Bill Hershey with four passes for 67 yards.

Hershey made two brilliant catches, one on the 39 and one on the 17 with five Muhlenberg defenders surrounding him.

Williams then ran three option plays to put the ball on the 'Berg one. Dave Coe bucked across the last yard marker.

The Hounds switched to a single wing offense and scored two points on the conversion as Jeff Gannon passed to Coe.

Harriers Run At St. Joe's; Take 4th, 14th

Moravian College traveled to Cobbs Creek Golf Course in Philadelphia on Friday, November 20 to compete in the cross country Middle Atlantic Conference Championships.

The course for the freshmen was 2.5 miles long consisting of two identical loops on the golf course. The varsity race covered 5.0 miles over the same two loops the freshmen used with an extra 2.5 miles around another part of the golf course.

St. Joseph's College was host to the 19 freshmen and 20 varsity teams who entered the meet.

Moravian entered both a Freshmen and a Varsity team. There were five runners on each team.

The Freshmen placed fourth out of a field of 19 teams. St. Joseph's finished first, West Chester second, and La Salle third.

The unofficial results for the Moravian runners were: 21st—Byron Borst; 22nd — Don Wetmore; 33rd—Tom Grammes; 34th —Terry Horlocker; and 56th—Vince Dela Monica.

The Varsity team finished fourteenth out of a field of 20 teams. St. Joseph's again placed first.

The unofficial results for the Varsity team are: Jim Worman, George Fiegel, Bill Rinker, Lou Brown, and Dave Koch in that order.

Grapplers Face Albright; Open 1959-60 Season

Tomorrow night at 8 p.m. the Moravian Grapplers will host Albright College to open their 1959-60 wrestling season.

Last year's team compiled an 8-1 record and will be seeking its second win in two years over Albright. Last year the Hounds won, 27-5.

At 123 lb., Richard Gross, a senior from Bethlehem, and Jim Salada, a sophomore out of Minersville High School are the contenders.

In the 130 lb. class are Bill Rinker, a sophomore and former Liberty High grappler, and Dave Cornelius, a sophomore from Mespeth High School on Long Island. Rinker won eight of nine matches last year.

The 137 lb. class also has two contenders, Gene Medeai and Jack Jacob, juniors from Bethlehem.

Gridders End '59 Campaign; Calvo's First Losing Season

The Moravian Gridders ended their 1959 campaign with a 3-5 season, recording their first losing season under Coach Rocco Calvo.

The offensive leaders for this season were John Williams, Dave Coe, John "Bucky" Yelovich, and Jim Frank.

The gridgers were outrushed by 404 yards but outpassed their opponents by 110 yards making a total offense loss of 294 yards.

Checking the separate men in their respective classes it is found that the Hounds have a prospectively good team for the '60 season.

Williams, a freshman, led the team in three individual activities: passing, total offense, and punting.

Coe, a sophomore, was the rushing and scoring leader while Yelovich had the kick runbacks honor.

Seniors Bill Hershey and Paul Noonan each caught 12 passes to tie in the passes received department.

Although Yelovich took first in only one division he gained a second in three more showing well-rounded ball playing.

Williams also showed his playing abilities with honors in all the divisions except pass receiving.

Financial Statement Lists Endowments, $1,731,414

$184,896 in the form of gifts was received by Moravian College during the past fiscal year (July 1, 1958 - June 30, 1959) according to the annual gifts report release of Nov. 30, 1959. This amount includes $94,630 contributed to the college through the Annual Giving Program.

Clayton W. Bernhart, treasurer, announced that additions brought the endowment fund to $1,731,414. It was also announced that the market value as of July, 1959 was $2,784,798 and that the average rate of return was 6.07 percent.

These figures were compared with the endowment fund directly after World War II which amounted to approximately $500,000.

Annual giving under the leadership of Edward Waldron III, Mrs. Marie Gosztonyi Piff, and Dr. Frank E. Schramm showed an increase in a number of categories.

Included were gifts from parents, church, alumni, business and industry and the Pennsylvania Foundation for independent colleges.

The operating statement of Moravian College Comptroller Charles H. Kuhn showed a balanced budget with $17,774 excess of income over expenditures of $1,065,722.

(Cont. from p. 2, col. 3) audience was compelled to sit were not only uncomfortable, but created a "pep-rally" kind of atmosphere, to which those both on and off the bleachers managed to respond admirably. Because of Dr. Sundermeyer's accent and extremely low voice, the listener had to put forth a degree of effort to follow the train of thought. This, too, was a detriment. But perhaps the real fault lay in the fact that the speaker had geared himself to speak to an intelligent, interested college audience. Had he known that his listeners were "drafted" to come and almost completely uninterested in learning anything outside required course material, he might have prepared himself differently.

Somehow it seems a great shame that so few benefited from Dr. Sundermeyer's talk and so many responded to him with adolescent behavior and total lack of rudimentary good manners. Sincerely, Stephanie Rights

Harvey Library Plans A Sale Of Used Books

The Harvey Memorial Library will conduct a used book sale today and tomorrow, Mrs. Anna Hunt, circulation librarian, announced early this week.

Mrs. Hunt stated that the books for sale will include both fictional and nonfictional material, and are those which the library is planning to discard. For the most part, they are duplicates, obsolete, or frayed editions.

Moderate Prices

Books will be displayed on tables and students may browse through them, the librarian added. Prices will be moderate.

She said that the sale will "give the students a chance to build up their own private libraries."

Mrs. Hunt added that the library has recently inaugurated a paper bound book honor exchange system.

Students may borrow or exchange these books without going through the normal circulation procedures. The library staff feels that this program will encourage informal reading.

Pep Rally

A pep rally which will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in Johnston Hall will precede a dance to be sponsored by the junior class.

The pep rally is designed to introduce the basketball and wrestling teams to the student body and to initiate winter sports spirit on the part of the students.

The dance which will be held from 8:30-11 p.m. will feature the musical group, the Epics. Admission to the dance will be 50¢. Dress will be informal.

Miss Hepler Is Crowned Queen Of Fraternity Ball

Over 300 people attended the Inter-fraternity dance in Johnston Hall on Saturday, Nov. 19. Miss Mary Hepler, a sophomore, was crowned Queen of the Inter-fraternity dance.

Miss Hepler was escorted by David Hattenbrun and was crowned by Fred Lipari, president of the I-F Council.

Members of the Queen's Court were Julia Ruprecht, escorted by Fred Donatelli, and Marcia Phillips, escorted by Hank Sunyak.

The crowning took place during the intermission. Before introducing the Queen and her court, Lipari announced the winners of three trophies presented annually by the I-F council.

Omicron Gamma Omega won the annual award for the best record in intra-mural sports. Tau Kappa Epsilon took the I-F weekend house decorations prize, and Sigma Phi Omega won the award for the highest scholastic average.

Language Club Plans Annual Christmas Fete

The Spanish, French, and German sections of the Modern Language Club are holding a combined Christmas program meeting on Tuesday Dec. 8, in the George Washington Room.

Students interested in attending the program have been requested to bring a 25¢ gift.

Placement News

Wed., Dec. 9—Scheduled interview with Aetna Casualty Insurance Co.

Thurs., Dec. 10—Scheduled interview with Raub Supply Company has been postponed. Students who have scheduled will be contacted and the date will be posted.

Personal Data sheets are being examined by interviewers who will visit the campus as well as others interested in employing seniors upon graduation. A number of seniors have neglected to provide pictures. Personal Data sheets which do not have pictures are incomplete and cannot be referred to employers. It is of great importance to bring all pictures to the Placement Office at once.

The publication, "Career for The College Man," an annual guide to business opportunities, has been received by the Placement Office. Seniors may secure a copy of this book from the Placement Office.

The Placement office has been contacted by Mr. George W. Erwin a representative of the Office of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Social Security Administration. Seniors interested in this field are requested to contact Dean Gillespie.
