Meteorologist Schedules Campus Visit Next Week

Dr. Alfred K. Blackadar, associate professor of meteorology at Pennsylvania State University, will visit the campus on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 25 and 26, in connection with the Visiting Scientist program in Meteorology.

The visit is being arranged by the American Meteorological Society with the assistance of the National Science Foundation.

Its purpose is to acquaint students with some of the aims and methods of meteorology and with career opportunities in the field.

On Thursday, at 7:30 p.m., Blackadar will address the Rho Alpha Upsilon Science Society. His topic will be "Artificial Earth Satellites and their Meteorological Uses."

Students from other colleges in the area will be invited to attend.

On Friday the guest speaker will lecture in various physics, mathematics and science classes and devote any remaining time to individual and small group discussions.

Blackadar majored in astronomy at Princeton, receiving the AB degree in 1942. He served as Weather Officer with the U. S. Air Force from 1942-1946 making transatlantic flight forecasts for air transport and tactical flight operations during the war.

Between 1944-1946 he was Station Weather Officer and Commander of all weather personnel in Iceland.

After becoming an instructor in meteorology at New York University in 1946, he received the Ph.D. degree from that institution in 1950 and continued as associate professor there until 1956, when he went to his present position.

Blackadar has directed several research projects on atmospheric turbulence, atmospheric energy transformations, atmospheres of the planets, low-level wind structure, and dynamical weather prediction.

He is also the author of more than twenty scientific papers and articles and is editor of "Meteorological Research Reviews" for the American Meteorological Society.

Gifts Totaling $95,000 Received In Fiscal Year

The complete total of gifts for Moravian's past fiscal year totaled $94,630.33.

Gifts given to the college by groups and individuals were announced recently by Robert P. Snyder, Director of Development.

The leading contributor was the Moravian Church. The combined church gifts for this year amounted to $36,142.77.

The alumni fund, expanding its campaign every year, contributed $15,000. The amount is in excess of $4,000 over the previous year. Snyder added that alumni have already contributed $77,000 in the present fiscal year which began July 1, 1959.

Third highest contributions for the 1958-59 fiscal year were received from interested business and industrial concerns. This total was $14,229.09.

The Pennsylvania Foundation of Independent Colleges supplied the next highest contribution. The foundation consists of 43 colleges throughout the state. Moneys are gathered from Pennsylvania industries through a two-week visiting campaign by each of the presidents of the member colleges.

Books, donated by alumni to the college library, are each assigned a monetary value. The total value of the books donated from July 1, 1958 to June 30, 1959, was $2,500. Money contributed for the purchases equaled $182.52.

Dues Referendum Next Week; USG Candidates Are Selected

Eight To Seek Top Positions For 1960-1961

Announcement of candidates for United Student Government (USG) offices for 1960-1961 was made Tuesday at a USG meeting which was held in Comenius Hall at 7 p.m.

Candidates for the office of president are Jack Jacob and James MacDonald.

Joel Leeb, Donald Morrow and James Naisby are running for the office of vice-president.

Thomas Christianson and Robert Fatzinger will oppose each other for office of treasurer.

Ruth Welch was nominated from the floor for the office of secretary. She will be unopposed, since no one else petitioned or was nominated for the office.

All candidates except Miss Welch and Fatzinger, who were nominated from the floor, petitioned for the candidacy.

Primary elections will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 29

I am in favor of adding $1 to the college costs, itemized in the total semester bill, to be used as class dues.

SAC Officials Prepare For 'Village Party'

Officials of the Social Activities Committee (SAC) made no further announcement this week of plans for a "Village Party" scheduled for tomorrow evening.

The dance will be conducted in Johnston Hall from 9 p.m.-midnight.

Co-chairmen of the SAC are Joan Albrecht and Alan Bornstein. Members of the committee planning the affair are Kathy Donchez, Judy Laning and Dee Lichtman, Thomas Christianson, and David Coe.

Music for the dance will be provided by Matt Gillespie's orchestra. According to Miss Albrecht, decorations will "add a Greenwich Village atmosphere" to the function.

Miss Albrecht recommended that wool dresses for women and jackets and ties for men be worn rather than "beatnik" apparel.

Refreshments will be served.

French States Dues Collection Yields 'Capital'

United Student Government (USG) will sponsor a student-wide referendum Monday and Tuesday to determine the future procedure of collection of class dues. The referendum will be conducted in the lobby of Comenius Hall.

Results of the vote will be available on March 8, Peter French, USG president, announced at a meeting of that body Tuesday evening.

In the past, class dues have been collected by individual class treasurers. It has been found that voluntary payment of dues often results in financial distress due to the fact that all members of a class do not contribute.

USG representatives, on the basis of investigation into the matter, recommended recently to incorporate the dues directly into the student's semester bill from the college. The business office has agreed to this recommendation, and will perform the necessary bookkeeping chores, should students approve of the measure.

French has suggested that class dues be used primarily as a source of "working capital" for the use of individual classes. Students will themselves determine whether or not dues will be used to purchase a gift for the college or to finance class projects.

He stated that "the college gift is not the main reason for having class dues" but it might be advisable for classes to be able to depend on a definite revenue to be used for sponsoring any of various functions now, for instance, under the jurisdiction of the Social Activities Committee.

Under the proposed new procedure, class dues would remain at the present rate of $1 per semester.

Stocker Stresses Peace, Fulfillment

"We all want a life that gives us inward peace and a feeling that we are fulfilling God's purpose for us," claimed Rev. Dr. Frederick P. Stocker, Chairman of the Moravian College Board of Trustees, at yesterday's convocation.

Stocker continued, "Life can't reach its peak if it is based upon selfishness or self-centeredness."

He based his message on the scriptural text, "He that findeth his life shall lose it, and he that loses his life for My sake shall find it."

Stocker maintained that life gains meaning through contact with people and books, which "lift us up to higher levels."

And It Won't Be Buried, Either

No, work hasn't begun on the new student union yet, it's just the excavation for the new student union of John Amos Comenius. Workmen earlier this week poured the concrete foundation in the eight-foot chasm and began to prepare the six-foot stone pedestal which will support the fourteen-foot "Heroic size" figure. The project will be completed "in about ten days," reported Paul E. Cunningham, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Dedication ceremonies will take place on Monday, March 28.

Pledge Parties Are Planned By Sororities

Moravian's two social sororities are planning for their spring semester pledge parties, which will be held next week.

Alpha Epsilon Pi Sorority will hold its parties on Tuesday and Thursday Feb. 23 and 25 in the sorority room on South Campus.

Phi Mu Epsilon sorority will hold its parties on Monday and Wednesday Feb. 21 and 24. The first party scheduled by both sororities will be informal while the second will be a formal affair.

It was announced this week that bids will be available in Dean Sartwell's office from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Monday Feb. 29.

Further announcement was made that those persons accepting bids are invited to punch parties at the individual sororities on Monday Feb. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

The silent period will extend from 8 a.m. Friday Feb. 26 until the punch parties on Monday.

Vote 'No!' . . .

The class dues referendum issue will be put before the student body on Monday and Tuesday. At that time it will be decided whether the majority wish to leave the collection procedure the way it is now—or wish to be automatically taxed $1 per semester.

The United Student Government president claims that the approval of the taxation will give the classes "working capital" and that the class members themselves will then be able to decide whether the money is to be used for a class gift or to sponsor class functions.

Approval of the referendum would certainly leave the decision of where the money is to go up to the wishes of the individual classes as the USG president claims. In the past the only effective use that has been made of class dues is to present a class gift. Even if the members of each class should decide upon presenting something to the school, it would not be a "gift" in any sense of the word as it would be paid for by money automatically collected. Thus the whole idea of a gift would be replaced by an arbitrary additional payment to the school.

On the other hand, if the class members should decide to sponsor functions, the money would be lost. There is no great amount of inter-class rivalry or particular class spirit and there is no need for any.

It is extremely foolish for any class to sponsor a function. The junior class dance in the fall flopped and the recent sophomore "Bauertanzi" met a similar fate. The letter from the sophomore class president, appearing on this page, squarely recognizes the problem.

It appears that class dues are to remain at Moravian at least for the time being. That being the case, the present system is the best and we advocate a "no" vote on the referendum issue. The class members will still have the choice, whether to give a true gift to the school with the funds they can collect—which seems to be the only worthwhile use for the money—or sponsor an affair which will be unsuccessful.

Keep these points in mind as you vote!

Curriculum . . .

For the past four issues The Comenian has been carrying a series of feature articles dealing with the "shortcomings of the liberal arts college today and some of the recommendations for improving its effectiveness."

An attempt has been made to study this problem as it exists in general and to some degree at all American liberal arts colleges. The concluding article concerns itself with some of the plans being made here at our own college.

Now that the series has been completed, some questions naturally arise: "What are the results?" "What, if anything, has been learned?"

The first answer which clearly presents itself is that the problems of lack of time and the high demand for specialization are definite threats to the liberal college ideal. We find educators are aware of these problems and are putting a more intense effort into developing a curriculum which will combine the "views of man" afforded by all fields of study.

As another part of our answer we have learned that these problems are very definitely being felt at Moravian and that the Curriculum Committee and the Committee on Academic Planning are aware of them and moving to meet them.

In this respect new techniques and new methods are being studied and will be applied as they become feasible.

Perhaps the most significant result of the entire series is the discovery that the problem of curriculum change and modernization is one which is far from hopeless. The present study indicates the awareness of educators in acknowledging the true value of an effective curriculum.

Ultimatum . . .

To the class of 1962:

This is to notify the members of the sophomore class that there will be no more class meetings or class sponsored functions for the remainder of the spring semester of 1960.

This decision has been arrived upon after observing the apparent apathy of the individuals concerned with their class activities.

If any sophomores still retain enough interest in their class to help organize any class function, would they please see me.

Future Of Liberal Education Is Studied; Faculty Determines Curriculum Here

This is the concluding article of a series dealing with problems of improving the curriculum of the small liberal arts college so as to fulfill the institution's objectives of "sound liberal education."

by Alan J. Lippman

Contrary to the situation at many American colleges and universities, it is the faculty which ultimately determines curriculum policies at Moravian, stated Dean of Instruction Marlyn A. Rader recently.

Because of this, it is the faculty which is responsible for determining the direction which liberal education at this college will take.

To this end, the Committee on Academic Planning has been established to function in cooperation with the Curriculum Committee in dealing with improvements in present curriculum structure.

The work of the curriculum committees is subject to two conditions, Rader has said. First, any recommendations made must be financially feasible, that is, within the realm of financial possibility. Second, curriculum must be geared toward realization of actual college goals, as put forth in the catalogue of general information published by the college.

Rader has stated that there are no immediate or long-range changes in the mode of liberal education at Moravian planned at the present time, although the Committee on Academic Planning has been considering a number of recommendations for making curriculum content more effective.

A possible adaptation would be the modification of formal course structure so as to place more responsibility on the student to do independent work. This could be accomplished, suggested Dr. Lloyd Burkhart, professor of English, by having teachers meet fewer times in formal classes, and emphasizing individual conferences and research. A lowering of credit-hour requirements, a procedure followed in some colleges, would not be necessary.

Nevertheless, difficulties attending this suggestion prevent adaptation of this plan at Moravian in the immediate future. The character of the student body and attitude of the faculty must be appropriately shaped before such a program can be deemed advisable.

Rader has noted that the offering of major studies in psychology and philosophy would tend to strengthen the overall curriculum offering.

Several opinions have been expressed on the value of incorporating an "inter-departmental major" into the curriculum. Although only minor alterations in the present arrangement would be needed to provide a "literature" or "humanities" major, for instance, the value of such a program at this college is questioned. An informal joint program of seminars or discussions has been recommended instead.

Appraising the adequacy of present curriculum offerings at Moravian, Rader has said, "We realize we need to strengthen certain areas, and are thus making

by Neil Eskolin

I hate winter! What a miserable time of the year. You jump out of a nice warm bed at about six bells and — Pow—a blast of icy wind, from the window you left open the night before, hits you smack in the puss. What a way to start the day. Oh well, if you want to look at the bright side of things, there are only about 760 hours 'til spring arrives. Get out the old tennis racket! (NOTE: This is not meant to be a slam at the tennis team.)

Earlier in the week it appeared as though Moravian College were preparing for the warm months by building a swimming pool. But, it turned out to be a false alarm. They were merely digging a hole for the foundation for the statue of John "Famous Amos" Comenius.

Many students and faculty members gathered around the abyss and commented on the mammoth undertaking. One student, under the impression that it was going to be a pool, exclaimed, "It isn't Olympic size, but it'll do." Another scholar thought they were going to bury old Amos, but his mind was set at ease when he was enlightened as to the real purpose of the hole. Still another student swore that he saw Dr. Myers crawling around at the bottom of the hole looking for fossils but no positive affirmation could be made about this.

Dr. Gaumer hopefully speculated that the new biology labs might be built in the excavation while Charles S. Kuhn was overheard saying, "Well, if they strike oil, we can lower the tuition." It was further reported that Mr. Tyler, walking while thoroughly engrossed in a brand new book by Plato, failed to notice the cavernous aperture, fell to the bottom and has not been heard from since.

On a more serious note, two faces have been missing around the campi this past week. Mrs. Solt and Lear have both been ill. We all hope to see them both back soon.

See ya around the statue.

Szell 'Enraptures' Concert Audience

by Bernard Staller

The Cleveland Orchestra, conducted by George Szell, performed works by Wagner, Mozart, and Tchaikovski before an enraptured, capacity audience in Johnston Hall last Saturday evening.

Wagner's Prelude to "Lohengrin" opened in a mood of tranquil anticipation, slowly building into a magnificent crescendo until the celestial voice of the brass revealed, as Wagner himself said, "an angel host bearing in its midst the sacred Grail . . . shaking the soul with emotion."

Mozart's Symphony in E flat major was the first of his "great last three" symphonies. Although less programmatic than the Wagner, the symphony allowed the imagination some freedom.

Tchaikovski's Fifth Symphony in E minor is the second of his "fate" symphonies. Szell was more spirited in his reading of this work than he was during the rest of the program.

The first movement introduces the persistently recurring motto, a trudging march, slow, but determined to reach a pre-established destination. The second movement, Andante cantabile, slow and flowing, is a love song of delicious melancholy.

Without ever knocking, the inevitable fate theme barges in, shattering the reverie. However, after a brief storm, the romantic mood quietly returns to end the movement.

The Valse, too, is interrupted

Hounds Face Wilkes In Test Of Unbeatens

By George Fiegel

The grapplers of Moravian College face the wrestlers of Wilkes College tomorrow afternoon on an away mat. The Hounds go into the meet supporting a 16-1 two-year record, having lost only to Wilkes. This year they have a streak of eight straight wins.

The Wilkes team has a 4-0-1 record this year, having tied Hofstra, 16-16. Teams they have beaten include Lebanon Valley, Ithaca, Stroudsburg, and Lycoming.

Nine Undefeated Men

Three men remain undefeated for Wilkes while six men are undefeated for Moravian.

Marvin Antinnes, Brooke Yeager, and Richard Stauffer are the unbeaten wrestlers for Wilkes while Bill Rinker (8-0), Gene Medei (7-0-1), Dan Turner (5-0), Dick Bedics (7-0-1), Dick Schaeffer (4-0), and Steve Edraney (3-0) are the Moravian stars.

In the 123-lb. class Dick Gross faces Yeager of Wilkes.

Bill Rinker faces his last year's opponent, Stauffer, at 130-lb. Stauffer won last year to give Rinker his only defeat in two years of dual-meet competition. Both boys are sophomores and both are undefeated. Stauffer is a Middle Atlantic Conference champion.

Wilkes' Captain

Wilkes' captain Joseph Morgan meets undefeated Medei at the 137-lb. class.

There is a toss-up between two Wilkes' wrestlers as to who will meet Turner. This choice is between Gerald Senick and Mike Armstrong.

MAC champion Ted Toluba will face Bedics. Surprisingly, Toluba has a record of 3-2 in the 157-lb. class this year.

In the 167-lb. class Glen Ritzenhouse will probably face Dave Bryant (7-1).

Undefeated Antinnes, who has four pins and one decision and was last year's MAC champion, will oppose Schaeffer at 177.

At heavyweight, Robert Sislian (3-2) will meet either Dave Linaberry (2-4) or Edraney.

Last year's score was 30-4 and critics have picked Wilkes to be the probable winner of this meet.

Girls Triumph As Judy Clay Nears Record

Judy Clay scored 34 points to help Moravian College's girls' basketball team score a 70 to 65 triumph over Muhlenberg. The game was played last week on the losers' court.

The scoring record of 38 is held by Vicki Kokolus, a '59 graduate.

Muhlenberg jumped to a 13 to 5 lead after five minutes, and led through-out the entire game until late in the fourth quarter.

The Houndettes then staged a brilliant comeback to overpower their hosts, and move to an astonishing victory.

Clay was ably assisted by Betty Ann Deckman who contributed 15 markers.

OGO Blacks Retain Lead In I-F League

The White squad of Sigma Phi Omega, led by Don Morrow (517), overpowered OGO Red team 2½-½. Jeff Gannon and Mike Lansenderfer shared scoring honors for the losers with 444 each.

Gene Salay's 467 enabled the Black team of Omicron Gamma Omega take a 4-0 win over Tau Kappa Epsilon's Red club. High for TKE was Lou Halley with 400.

SPO's Green and TKE's Grey teams fought to a 2-2 deadlock. Tom Martin was high for TKE with 503; Ron Fradeneck's 468 took high honors for SPO.

Moravian Gains Two Wins; Beats Dutchmen, Diplomats

The Greyhound hoopsters added two wins to their record as they dumped Lebanon Valley 70-55 and Franklin and Marshall 78-73. The cagers' record stood at 12 wins and seven losses before Tuesday night's game with Hofstra.

Moravian had too many horses for Lebanon Valley. The Hounds pulled ahead in the closing minutes of the first half, outscoring Lebanon Valley 20-6, and breaking the game wide open.

This surge featured five baskets by Captain Ducky Potter, two by Hal Rice and one each by Jim Gano, Len Zavacky and Rocco Zulli.

The Dutchmen, with a sloppy attack, couldn't find the mark in the second half and never threatened the Hounds.

Potter scored 26 points to lead the scoring. Ducky also rebounded well and held Lebanon Valley's scoring ace, Hank Van Derwater, to 11 points.

However, it was Dick Chergey who took over the limelight against Franklin and Marshall. Chergey controlled the offensive and defensive backboards, and led the scorers with 25 points.

Potter had 15 points, while Hal Rice and Leo Stinner each cashed in with 14.

The game was close and the absence of injured Butch Kosman was obviously felt in Moravian's slowed-up fast break.

However, it was Chergey who pulled the Hounds ahead 72-71 on a field goal with three minutes to go. The Hounds extended their margin to five points by the close of the game.

Hofstra Romps Over Cagers In 2nd Half Runaway, 85-63

Lebanon Valley cager outstretches Len Zavacky on a Moravian rebound in last Thursday's game in Johnston Hall. Mo-Mo won 70-55.

Potter Hits 22; Leads Scorers In Losing Fight

By Tom Fromhartz

The Moravian College basketball team lost to nationally ranked Hofstra College last Tuesday night, 85-63. The Hounds' record as of Tuesday stood at 12 wins and eight losses.

Ducky Potter led all scorers with 22 points, but this was not enough as Hofstra's Brant Alyea and Stanley Einbender controlled both backboards during the entire game.

The first half score of 41-31 in favor of Hofstra was no indication of how closely the contest was played. The Hounds were within four points most of the half and it was not until the last two or three minutes that the Hounds fell behind.

The second half play was dominated by Hofstra as Alyea and Einbender again controlled the boards. Bill Schwarz, who led Hofstra with 21 points, scored the majority of them in the second half.

During a five minute period in the second half, Potter sat on the bench, the result of four fouls. Butch Kosman, who returned to (Cont. on p. 4, col. 5)

The Sports Story

by George Fiegel

The Moravian College Grapplers face a tough opponent in the form of the Wilkes wrestling squad. Wilkes, being the only team to beat Moravian in two years, will prove to be a great challenge to the Hounds. The Hounds go into the match with six undefeated wrestlers this year. Bill Rinker, Gene Medei, and Dan Turner, are among the six along with Dick Bedics, Dick Schaeffer, and Steve Edraney.

The team, in my estimation, has a better chance this year with many of the wrestlers gaining some much-needed experience. The team is clicking with the steady wrestling of Bill Rinker, the sureness of Gene Medei, the speed of Dan Turner, the lasting energy of Dick Bedics, the rough and tumble style of Dick Schaeffer, and the all-around abilities of the rest of the team.

For those sports fans interested in basketball there is a new book on the market named COLLEGIATE BASKETBALL: FACTS AND FIGURES ON THE CAGE SPORT. The author, Edwin C. Caudle, a native of Winston-Salem, N. C., is a six-foot-four basketball player himself. In the book he covers collegiate basketball from its beginning to the present time in a statistical form.

Ducky Potter now joins the Moravian Greats by scoring 1000 points as a Moravian Cager. Potter, making it all the more spectacular, did it in three years (not playing in his freshman year). The only other Moravian College players to reach the 1000 point mark were Bobby Jones, Bill Werpchowski, Russ Fegley, and Fritz Toner.

That's the sports story for this week.

Runners Enter Two Meets; Fail To Place

Terry Horlocker, Tom Grammes, George Fiegel, and Bryon Borst ran in the one mile relay of the Inquirer Track Meet on Friday Feb. 12. The team failed to place.

Fiegel, Bob Kern, Borst, and Grammes traveled to Madison Square Garden on Saturday night to run in the New York Athletic Club Games. The trackmen entered the one mile relay, but again failed to place.

I-M Basketball Sees 2 Games; OGO, TKE Win

Last Tuesday in the Intra-Mural Basketball League the OGO's defeated the International's 64 to 48. In the scheduled first game, the TKE's won by forfeit over Sigma Phi.

John Olson of the OGO's was top scorer in the game with 12 points. The Internationals were paced by Tom Fromhartz with 10 points.

Faculty Offices Nearly Ready For Occupancy

The painting and redecorating of the new offices on the fourth floor of Comenius Hall are nearly completed, announced Paul E. Cunningham, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, this week.

This area, which was formerly used as dormitory space, is now being transformed into offices and a lounge for the faculty.

The workmen have completed refinishing the floors and are now in the process of painting the remaining unfinished offices.

studies" of the present curriculum to determine possible improvements.

Burkhart, a member of both the Committee on Academic Planning and the Curriculum Committee, has stated that "We must do a better job for better students." He feels that with increasing quality of college students, Moravian must continue to improve the quality of its curriculum, so as to maintain a "challenge for the 'better' students."

"We must continue to plan for the intellectual growth of the college," Burkhart has said. The foremost question facing the college today is "Can the college continue to attract good students?"

With a responsible faculty realistically determining curriculum in light of college needs, goals and purposes, such a problem should not be a serious hurdle. The need has been voiced for continued effective leadership and interpretation by faculty and administration both.

The future of liberal education at Moravian is far from bleak.

Fraternalities Initiate Pledges

Tau Kappa Epsilon Admits Thirteen

Thirteen pledges were initiated into Tau Kappa Epsilon, international social fraternity, Saturday Feb. 13 at 6 p.m. The ceremony, held at the fraternity house, was presided over by Epsilon Gamma chapter president Robert F. Volko, with the assistance of other chapter officers.

Those initiated were Stephen Edraney, Thomas Foley, David Coe, John Bregman, Alan Finnegan, Thomas Fromhartz, Lewis Halley, David Larish, James Malloy, Glen Marsteller, Ralph Mittle, Glenn Morris, and Joseph Neiberger.

The "outstanding pledge" award was presented to Coe for his performance during the pledging period. Coe's name was inscribed on a plaque which hangs in the fraternity house.

Last semester a special initiation was held at which four initiates were admitted to the fraternity. They were Ralph Atkinson, Richard Casey, Harold Fehnel, and Dave Kline.

Sigma Phi Omega Initiates Six

Six pledges were initiated on Tuesday, Feb. 16 at 11:30 a.m. in the fraternity house. The new initiates are Ronald Fradeneck, Robert Garcia, David Hattenbrun, Peter Santa Maria, Henry Sunyak, and Merr Trumbore.

A free membership in the Sigma Phi Omega social fraternity will be presented to one of its pledges each year, on the basis of need, scholarship and personality. Joseph Powlette, president of the fraternity, announced this week.

Powlette stated that the scholarship would be awarded to a pledge chosen by vote of the fraternity and will be based on the pledge's financial status. The membership will extend throughout the four years at Moravian College.

A plaque was presented to the fraternity by the pledge class, engraved with the names and date of the initiation.

and March 1. The general election will take place one week later, on Monday and Tuesday, March 7 and 8.

Jack Jacobs announced that Northampton County voting machines' would be secured for both primary and general elections. He said that the office of the county commissioner will deliver and set up the machines. Jacob will make all necessary arrangements.

USG representatives voted to accept a motion by Joel Leeb that any member of the Veteran's Association in good standing be eligible to represent the group at USG meetings.

This motion was made because work commitments of the members of the Veterans' group interfere with their attendance at the meetings.

French announced that nominations for freshmen counselors for next year must be submitted to him or placed in Box 22 by the end of next week.

Fifty dollars was allocated to the Social Activities Committee (SAC) upon a motion made by Leeb, to meet necessary expenses.

It was reported that SAC presently has a balance of $3,000, an insufficient amount to cover expenses for tomorrow's dance, a jazz concert scheduled for next month and Senior Farewell. The organization's budget had been cut $800 from last year's allocation, French said.

Incorrect Numbers Are Used At Convo

"For the first two convocations of the spring semester at least twelve cases were discovered in which two students used the same number. This means that at least twelve students have not been credited with an attendance for which they should be credited," Marlyn A. Rader, dean of instruction, announced this week.

The dean's office has no way of ascertaining the names of students who are using a convocation number other than the one assigned. "It is highly important, therefore, that each student inform himself of his assigned number and be sure to write that number on his tickets, the dean stated.

If a student is in doubt as to his number, he is requested to write his name, in addition to the number, on his convocation ticket.

Our impression of the Finale is one of weary soldiers returning from battle, fatigued but exultingly triumphant. The recapitulation of the initial theme emerges bold and complete in the major mode. Tympani, brass, double basses and violins, build into a dramatic grand pause.

The three-second silence is most dramatically effective before the Coda. The Coda raced through the principal themes once more and left us as thoroughly exhausted as Szell seemed to be.
