Statue Dedication To Highlight Comenius Day

Moravian Choir Sings Sunday; Schantz Directs

The 47-voice Moravian College Choir will perform in the Central Moravian Church at 8 p.m. Sunday in conjunction with the two-day program in commemoration of the birth of John Amos Comenius.

Performing with the choir will be an 11-piece guest orchestra.

The program will feature works of the 17th and 18th centuries in addition to a number of contemporary selections. Richard Schantz, assistant professor of music, will direct the program.

Soloists in the concert will be Linda Burnett, Sylvia Perkins and Sally Ann Deysher, sopranos, James Naisby and Robert Rierson, tenors, and Jerome Livengood, bass.

The orchestra is composed of local artists as well as performers from Philadelphia and New York City.

Everyone in the college community is invited to attend the concert.

The feature presentation of the concert will be a cantata for soloists, choir and orchestra. The work performed will be "Today Triumphs the Son of God," by Buxtehude.

Also performed will be "Let Us Now Praise Famous Men," by Ralph Vaughan Williams; "Two Sacred Songs," by Johann Ebeling; "Christe Adoramus Te," by Monteverdi; and "Jesus Is Our Joy, Our Treasure," an anonymous German composition.

Other selections to be sung by the choir are "Oh Praise Ye God," by Tchaikovsky; "Christus Factus Est," by Bruckner; "Submission," by Wolf; and "Let Nothing Ever Grieve Thee," by Brahms.

The orchestra will perform "A Concertino in G," by Pergolesi.

Salvation In Cross, Hallam Preaches

"If you would see Jesus and understand Him, it must be by way of the cross," explained the Rev. Harold Hallam, Pastor of the Chapman Quarries Methodist Church in Bath, at yesterday's convocation in Johnston Hall.

"Christ came to earth for the express purpose of dying," Hallam said. "The supreme characteristic of His life was self-sacrifice." However, "He was not a martyr, but a redeemer — a bridge of forgiveness of sin."

In Christ's own words, Hallam stated, "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Hallam asserted that only through the seeking of God through prayer can man find the "truth" about life.

A skyhook lowers the campus' newest landmark onto its lofty perch. The operation was performed Monday under the watchful supervision of students and faculty who turned out en masse, some with cameras in hand, to witness the spectacle. Dedication of the monument will take place during ceremonies Monday commemorating the 368th anniversary of the birth of John Amos Comenius.

PAC Attends Political Talks; Announces Special Program

Members of the Political Activities Club attended a conference sponsored by the Citizenship Clearing House at the University of Pennsylvania on Friday, March 18.

Speaking on the Democratic and Republican outlooks for 1960 were Richardson Dilworth, mayor of Philadelphia, and Thomas B. Curtis, congressman from Missouri.

Donald Hoch, former mayor of Allentown, and Ted Berger, campaign manager for Congressman Willard S. Curtin, will be the speakers for the PAC-sponsored convocation on April 28, the organization announced Tuesday. The issues of the coming congressional election, in which Hoch and Curtin will be running against each other, will be discussed.

The PAC further announced that Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Allen Drury, author of the best selling novel Advise and Consent, will probably speak on campus next semester.

Kennedy Visit

Senator John F. Kennedy was invited to appear on campus in conjunction with the other five colleges of the Lehigh Valley. The only available date, however, conflicted with final exams and was dropped. Kennedy expressed a desire to come to the Lehigh Valley in the early fall.

A letter was received by the PAC this week from Vice-president Richard Nixon, stating that he would be unable to come to the Moravian campus this spring due to the President's forthcoming trip to Russia.

Jones To Deliver Address At Convocation On Monday

Dedication and unveiling of the statue of John Amos Comenius will highlight ceremonies commemorating the 368th anniversary of the educator's birth. The ceremonies will be held at the college Sunday and Monday, March 27 and 28. Erection of the statue on the lawn in front of Comenius Hall, facing Main Street, was completed Monday.

Triangle Adds Nine Students, Two Teachers

Eleven new members were inducted into the Triangle Honor Society at the group's annual banquet held Tuesday night at Walp's Restaurant, Allentown.

Dr. Otis H. Shao, associate professor of government, and Dr. Richmond E. Myers, professor of geology, were the two faculty members initiated into the organization.

Triangle president Gene Salay cited the faculty members for their service to the school, their "inspiration to students," and their outside activities as he presented them with their pins.

Students inducted into the honor society included Charles Bartolet, Cynthia Geiman, William Keller, Judy Laning, James MacDonald, Rita Roseman, David Schattschneider, Jerry Witbro, and Sandra Yaeck.

Jerry Witbro offered the invocation at the beginning of the ham and turkey banquet.

Dr. Thomas E. Jones, administrative consultant to the Association of American Colleges, will deliver the principal address at a special Comenius Day convocation in Johnston Hall at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Dean of Instruction Marlyn A. Rader announced Tuesday that regularly scheduled fifth and sixth period classes on that day have been cancelled and students will be required to attend the Johnston Hall program. The special convocation will replace that scheduled for Thursday May 12.

Jones, president of Earlham College from 1946 until 1958, will speak on "The Challenge of Heritage." The convocation service will also include greetings from the Czechoslovakian ambassador, Dr. Miloslav Ruzek, and formal presentation of the statue to the college by Dr. Jaroslav Prochazka, rector of Charles University, Prague, and Rev. Radim Kalfus, head of the Moravian Church in Czechoslovakia.

Following the program, there will be a full academic procession (Cont. on p. 4, col. 4)

Boston Opera's 'Voyage To The Moon' Is Rescheduled For Presentation Tonight

The presentation of the Boston Opera Company's production of Jacques Offenbach's comic operetta, "Voyage to the Moon," originally scheduled for tomorrow night in Johnston Hall, has been rescheduled for tonight at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Kathryn Lane Phelps Director of Publicity, announced this week that the date for the presentation was changed at the request of the Boston Opera Company, which was unable to fulfill its commitment for Saturday night.

The theme of the operetta is based on a novel written by Jules Verne in the mid-1800's.

The company of fifty, including orchestra, chorus and ballet, is directed by Sarah Caldwell, chairman of the Department of Opera and Music Theater at Boston University. She is also the conductor for the operetta, as well as the originator of this production idea for the Boston Opera Company.

Norman Kelley, who is heard in the role of the scientist, Dr. Blastoff, studied at the New England Conservatory of Music, the Leland Powers School of the Theatre and the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y.

He has sung with the Philadelphia La Scala Opera, and the New York City Opera and toured Europe in Menotti's "The Consul."

In the romantic lead of Caprice will be heard Charles K. L. Davis, who was winner of the 1958 Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air.

Mac Morgan, who sings the role of King V'lan IV, is a star of the New York City Opera, the NBC Opera, the Concert-Opera Group (Cont. on p. 4, col. 1)

'Free' Weekend . . .

Moravian students will have a unique opportunity this weekend. There will be free programs each night of the weekend. In view of their varied content, every student should find at least one affair to his liking.

There will be tonight's Community Concert program, tomorrow's free movie and Sunday night's choir concert. To round out the weekend there will be the many events scheduled for Comenius Day, including the Monday reading of papers on various scholarly topics and the academic convocation.

Certainly there will be enough activity to keep everyone happy, if students will wake up and realize what is happening in the campus world.

'Comenian' Right! . . .

Until this issue it has not been the policy of The Comenian to answer letters from the readers in the same issue in which the letters appeared. However, in this issue, for the first time this year, a letter writer has questioned the veracity of statements made in last week's issue and we feel obligated to set the record straight now.

The letter writer claims that we said "that fraternities at Moravian would not be permitted to hold off-campus social functions on the weekend of the senior farewell." This writer further gives the two statements which he claims the Dean of Men actually did make. "We could not hold any social event off-campus that involved the staying overnight of a Moravian student because of lack of chaperoned control." and "he (The Dean of Men) would be glad to sit down with us to work out a suitable and acceptable program."

We call our critic's attention to the news story of last week which stated, "Permission will not be given to the three campus social fraternities to hold off-campus weekend functions during Senior Farewell weekend this spring." We call his attention to "off-campus weekend functions," which means over-night weekend functions, away from the campus, as obviously opposed to mere "off campus social functions on the weekend."

The news story also quoted from the letter released by the Dean to the fraternity presidents, "I welcome the opportunity to speak to you concerning a program that will be acceptable."

The Mailbox

'Comenian' Wrong? . . .

To the editor:

After speaking to Dean H. Gillespie, and upon consulting our advisor, Dr. R. Myers, and our alumni president, Mr. S. Bower, my executive committee has advised me to write the following letter.

In the last issue of the Comenian, the editorial and a feature stated that fraternities at Moravian would not be permitted to hold off-campus social functions on the weekend of the senior farewell, I might add, an event which has taken place for Omicron Gamma Omega for the last 40 years.

This was not what was issued by Dean Gillespie. What he did say was:

1. we could not hold any social event off-campus that involved the staying overnight of a Moravian student—because of lack of chaperoned "control."
2. he would be happy to sit down with us to work out a suitable and acceptable program.

He also remarked that "off campus dinner dances are in order at this time"—our main concern of interest.

Although we feel that the Dean could have issued his letter at an earlier date so that plans which have already been formulated need not have been so drastically shattered—in some instances—and although he could have consulted the I-F council before issuing his proclamation, we recognize his authority to do and not to do so respectively. When we get right down to it, the IFC is an organization in name only—with no real power,—what good would contacting it have accomplished? Granted, the IFC has come a long way, and does serve a purpose, but they could in no way have altered nor influenced the Dean's decision.

In addition to what I have said, I would further like to add, everybody: calm down, it's still on, see you all at it.

Yours Sincerely,
Gene C. Salay
President, Omicron
Gamma Omega

Comenius Fought For Improved Education; His Innovations Have Been Called Radical

by Regina Lawrence

John Amos Comenius, who is to be honored here at Moravian next week, is to most of us not more than a name in a history book. Yet it was this great educator who laid down the precepts for our modern educational system. We take our present system so much for granted that we easily forget men like Comenius, who with their initiative and insight, fought for improved methods of education.

Comenius's life was one interspersed with tragedy and failure. In 1604, when he was twelve, his entire family was wiped out by an epidemic. He studied for the ministry at Heidelberg University and was ordained as a minister in the Unity of Brethren Congregation (Moravian).

Eventually he became the headmaster of the Fulneck School in Moravia. Books and manuscripts written at this time were considered too revolutionary in nature and were burned by Spanish mercenaries in the public square.

By 1628, severe and brutal persecution forced Comenius and his Brethren followers from their native land, Bohemia. After migrating to Poland, Comenius became the co-rector of a gymnasium, where he produced his most famous work on education, The Great Didactic.

Invited by the English Parliament to work on an educational project, he proceeded to England, only to be thwarted in his efforts by the Civil War.

However, in both Sweden and Hungary, he finally managed to put into effect much-needed educational reforms.

In his later years he retired to Holland where he continued his literary work. During his lifetime he published ninety works and many others were lost or left incomplete. Near the time of his death he said of his lifetime, "My whole life was merely the visit of a guest; I had no fatherland." He died in Amsterdam on November 4, 1670 at the age of 78.

To Comenius, honored with the title of "father of modern educational theory and practice," goes credit interpreting and enlarging everyday experiences by the use of their own terms. He thus tried to make a science of education by approaching it in the same method as that employed by the physical sciences. (Cont. on p. 4, col. 3)

Dean's Action Condoned . . .

To the editor:

After speaking with Dean Gillespie and many people concerned with plans for the weekend of the Senior Farewell, I find no reason for alarm over the decision restricting overnight parties. The Sigma Phi Omega fraternity feels that this decision was made in the best interest of all those concerned. We, as a body, will strive to show the administration, through our actions, that we have the maturity to impose self-restrictions so that this privilege may be resumed. I do not believe that the dean in any way intended this restriction to harm the fraternities nor did he design this to be the first stepping stone in a series of further restrictions. But if this be so, Sigma Phi Omega will be the first to demand its moral rights as a social organization.

At this time, tentative plans have been accepted by the dean concerning an alternate program. I have just one word of advice for the student body—Don't panic.

Respectfully submitted,
Joseph Powlette
President,
Sigma Phi Omega

Confidence Questioned . . .

To the editor:

It is with great regret that one must achieve the status of a senior, only to find out that those who are supposedly guiding us do not have enough confidence in their own ability as counselors to grant the students a privilege which they certainly have not abused in the past. Certainly, we cannot pinpoint any one person and say that he has made a wrong decision. I am sure that the Dean of Men would not make a rash decision, but rather contemplate very deeply before making such a serious decision. To the best of my knowledge, he discussed the matter at great length with all his colleagues, who were involved in any way, concerning his negative decision on the matter of an overnight Spring Weekend for the students of Moravian College. In my estimation the only mistake he made was the delay in his decision.

The major factors, which we encounter in trying to formulate a protest, seem to lie in the laxity of our own student organizations. For instance, one might ask what has become of our so-called Interfraternity Council? What has happened to the president of the IFC? Shouldn't fraternities appoint a new representative when the old one graduates? The first of these questions has to be answered before anything can be accomplished, since only the president has the power to call a meeting.

Although we cannot place all of the blame on any one student organization such as the IFC, we must realize that a decentralization of a group of this type does not allow for any strength to be shown by the student body at all. Perhaps if the three fraternities on campus could come to a decision without having one or two back out, we the students of Moravian College could enjoy many more privileges which we will not presently or in the future enjoy.

Sincerely yours,
Robert F. Volk

Honor System . . .

To the editor:

"Our present day concept of honor is geared to a justification of the ends and not the means used to secure those ends." This quote, taken from an article dealing with the honor system (Comenian, Feb. 26) seems to pinpoint the problem which now exists at Moravian.

In a discussion with some fellows in the dormitory last Wednesday evening, the question of an honor system at Moravian was brought up. This stemmed from a discussion on the matter with Dr. Maitland earlier in the evening. The statement was made by one of the persons opposing the honor system, that the end justifies the means. He admitted that he had cheated in some school work that same day; but since it was of benefit to him not only in raising his mark, but in learning the correct answer, he felt it was justified.

To top this off, there were three persons in the dorm on Thursday afternoon telling each other how they had taken answers from other papers in an exam that day. They obviously did not care if anyone overheard them since the conversation took place in the hallway.

To cite a personal experience with cheating on tests, I have only to think back to my mineralogy course of last semester. Some girls went so far as to place their huge handbags on the table in front of them so they could write more freely.

Another offshoot of this type of dishonor, is the petty thievery in the North Campus dining room. It has even advanced to the point where anyone being caught stealing extra food is hailed the victor by the group. The one who manages to catch the person is condemned by jeers and insults. Three Hound Grapplers Take Part In AAU Meets Moravian wrestlers, Bill Rinker, Charles Canning, and Dick Schaeffer are traveling to the Germantown YMCA Building, Philadelphia, to participate in the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) meets.

The meets, sponsored by the Middle Atlantic Association, will be held on April 2, from 1 until after 8 p.m. Individual match finals will start at 8 p.m.

Rinker, a sophomore from Bethlehem who posted a 9-1 individual match season record, will probably enter the 137 lb. class.

Schaeffer, Moravian's first MAC Champion, will be in the 157 lb. class. Schaeffer, a sophomore from Easton posted a 6-0 record.

Canning, a freshman from Allentown, will wrestle in the 167 lb. class.

Individual winners of each final match will receive the AAU Championship Gold Metal. Runners-up receive Silver Medals.

Globetrotters Win As Lemon Displays Basketball Skill

The amazing Harlem Globetrotters put on a marvelous display of basketball handling as they beat the Baltimore Rockets in a game played in Bethlehem High School's Memorial Gym last Monday night.

"Showboat" Lemon of the Trotters stole the show by running circles around his opponent, a 6' 10" center, and by his comical antics on the whole.

In a preliminary game Althea Gibson matched tennis rackets with Karol Fageros. Gibson, known as the "World's Tennis Champion" defeated Fageros ("Golden Goddess of Tennis") by the score of 6-4.

The evening began with a basketball game between the Clay Clippers and the Hawk A.C. The Hawks won this one.

Initial Date For Softball League Set For April 4

Coach Rocco Calvo has picked April 4 as a tentative date for the opening of the Intra-Mural Softball League. Due to the late start this season there may be two games scheduled on various evenings after daylight saving time begins.

Last year the OGO team went undefeated during the regular campaign with five wins and no defeats. The Vets came in second with 4 wins and two defeats.

These two teams clashed in a best two out of three series for the championship with the OGO's winning.

The OGO's will attempt to repeat last year's performance once again this year.

The eight teams entered in the league this year are: Rau Frosh, Seminary, Harriers, Sigma Phi Omega, OGO Bandits, Vets, and TKE.

Managers, Headed By DeMuccio, Helpful In Sports Organization

Couch, Meixell Harberg Among 'Silent Heroes'

by Gene Salay

When we, as spectators, watch a sports event, our attention is focused on the players, the actual participants. On the gridiron, on the basketball court, or on the baseball diamond, we are witnesses to the glamorous aspect of the competitive action.

"What can Haney and Kritis do to stop Longenecker of Lebanon Valley?"—"Will Ducky score his usual 30 points?"—"Wonder if 'Hersh' is in good form today?" These are perhaps some of the things that enter our thoughts as we witness the play-by-play.

Behind the scenes, however, is another side of the sports story, a side with which perhaps not all of us are familiar.

On the sidelines, and in the locker room, another team of men as much a part of the game as the players themselves, are on hand every day, at every practice, and at all of the games. The coaches as well as the players are indebted to this silent crew, the managers, and a sports organization is helpless without them.

Serving as head-manager for the Blue and Grey is Carmine DeMuccio. Moe, as he is better known, is a 24-year-old veteran of the armed forces and is a senior history major from Netcong, New Jersey.

He is a sports enthusiast, but a bad knee prevented his active participation on the Moravian teams. When he graduates in June, Moe will be an assistant football coach to Gus Rampone, a former great at Moravian, at his old Alma Mater, Netcong High. Moe's other activities include membership in Omicron Gamma Omega social fraternity and Kappa Phi Kappa, education fraternity.

Assisting DeMuccio, behind the scenes, is Lynn Couch and Ted Meixell.

Lynn, a 21-year old junior economics and business major, hails from Belle Meade, New Jersey. Also a member of OGO, he feels that the experience gained from his duties as manager are invaluable.

Ted Meixell, 18, is an OGO pledge. A freshman Bethlehemite and mathematics major, he is new on the managerial staff. A former American Legion player, whose hopes of making the baseball team were shattered when he injured his leg, Ted is "doing the next best thing."

Dr. Thomas Lukaszczk, the team physician, has as his assistant Walter Kruszewski. A native of Reading, majoring in business administration, Walt is a 25 year

Gillespie Names "M" Awards; 24 Men Receive Recognition

Director of Athletics, H. T. D. Gillespie, announced last week that 24 men have qualified for Varsity "M" Awards. The awards are for participation in the three winter sports, Basketball, Wrestling, and Indoor Track.

Old Man Weather Delays Net Squad; Tryouts Next Week

Samuel Kilpatrick, tennis coach, has announced that practice for the team will probably begin during the week of March 28. The late start is due to the fact that the gym is unavailable at the present time because of the necessity of indoor baseball practice.

Warmer Weather

When the baseball team can move outdoors in the warmer weather the tennis team will set up their courts in Johnston Hall.

Kilpatrick invited all interested students to participate in an elimination tournament that will begin at that time. He urges all participants to begin getting into shape if they have not done so already.

Returning lettermen for tennis are Bob Lipkin, George Fiegel, and Dick Spaugh.

Wrestling

Winning awards in wrestling were: Dick Gross, Bill Rinker, Gene Medei, Dan Turner, Dick Bedics, Dave Bryant, Dick Schaeffer, Steve Edraney and Dave Linaberry.

Indoor Track

Indoor Track awards were won by: George Fiegel, Jim Worman, Byron Borst, Bob Kern, Tom Grammes and Terry Horlacker.

Gillespie also announced the following awards may be picked up at the Athletic Office: Pins—Edraney, Turner, Gano and Rice. Dogs are available for Kern, Medei and Stinner.

The following men were requested to stop at the Athletic Office regarding sweaters: Kosman, Linaberry, McCrudden, Schaeffer, Zavacky and Zulli.

Schaeffer Is Going To NCAA Tourney As An Independent

The Greyhound Grapplers are being represented among the best in the country this weekend. Dick Schaeffer, Moravian's MAC champ at 167 pounds is competing in the NCAA Wrestling Championships at the University of Maryland. The tournament began yesterday, March 24, and will continue until tomorrow.

Traveling Alone

Schaeffer is traveling alone and is paying his own expenses. The school has no policy or budget to cover this type of trip.

At the Nationals, Schaeffer will be meeting the best in the country, including Thad Turner of Lehigh, who won the Easterns at Princeton last weekend.

Schaeffer had an undefeated season, and was not scored on in the MAC Tournament.

Because their position in the Moravian sports world is not recognized as "important" to the ordinary spectator, who hurries home after a game, and because they, too, should be included when our teams are being applauded, our hats are off to the managers.

James Billings, who is opera coach at Boston University and is in charge of music at Plymouth Academy, will be heard in the role of Cosmos, King of the Moon. He is known for his capers in "buffoon" roles.

The feminine roles of Queen Popette and Princess Fantasia, daughter of the King and Queen of the Moon, will be sung by Ellen Faull and Jacquelynn Moody.

Miss Faull made her professional debut with the New York City Opera in "Don Giovanni," while Miss Moody debuted with the Colorado Central City Opera. "Voyage to the Moon" is the first operetta that has ever toured under the auspices of the Community Concert Association.

The choreographer for the production is Robert Joffrey whose ballet troupe has appeared in this area in a previous season. He is also known for his work for the New York City Opera Company and NBC's opera telecasts.

Tonight's presentation will be the fourth and concluding concert in the 1959-60 Moravian College Student Concert Series.

Honor System . . .

OGO fraternity member seemed almost insulted one evening when his pledge brother was caught stealing extra milk for him.

Articles, too, have been taken, off and on, in the new dormitory. It seems to be that one can no longer trust his neighbor. These people must think an awful lot of themselves to break such a trust.

Another serious misuse of trust is the "padding" of payroll sheets. During the two years which I worked for the school in the kitchen on South Campus, this continually happened and probably still does.

Two years ago the possibility of an honor system at Moravian was brought to a vote before the student body and defeated. I myself voted against it because I thought it would not have a chance of working anyhow. But after experiencing two years of wholesale cheating and petty thievery on this campus, I can't see how I ever voted against it. In bringing in some type of honor system, Moravian would have everything to gain, and definitely nothing to lose—not speaking for everyone of course.

In closing, I desperately urge that the USG, and all interested students, begin action on the adoption of an honor system at Moravian College.

Sincerely,

Richard Ehrenberg

Comenius observed in the typical schools of his day that the educational system failed to stimulate its students through the inability of the teachers to present lessons properly.

He directed his new method of teaching mainly at the younger child with schoolbooks written in simple language and supplemented by pictures to increase understanding. Science and nature study, he said, should be taught through experiments and field trips. The usually dull classrooms should be covered with pictures, pertaining to subjects being studied by the children.

His innovations in the teaching of languages were especially radical. He wanted to see the emphasis placed on conversation rather than grammar so that the learning process would be less of a chore and a good deal more meaningful.

All of Comenius' plans and ideas contributed to his primary purpose of making schools instruments of sound, wholesome, and happy growth. His effects on today's education throughout the world cannot be minimized.

Modern teaching methods, scholarship aid, school organization—all these can be attributed to Comenius.

Other events scheduled in conjunction with the dedication of the statue include the presentation of four academic papers, the annual Comenius Day alumni award dinner and a concert in Central Moravian Church.

The Commemorative Concert, featuring the college choir, will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. A guest orchestra will perform with the choir.

Henry C. Weinlick, Executive Secretary of the Wisconsin Education Association and recently named recipient of the annual Comenius Day Alumni Award, will be the principal speaker at the alumni dinner, to be held at the Hotel Bethlehem.

The academic papers will be presented by guest dignitaries during the course of the day. A schedule appears on this page.

Jones was graduated from Earlham College with the A.B. degree. He received the degree of bachelor of divinity from Hartford Theological Seminary and earned the master's and doctor's degrees at Columbia University.

He is a former president of Fisk University, Nashville Tennessee, and his study and work overseas have taken him to England, Vladivostok, Siberia and Tokyo, where he was professor of economics at Keio University. He has been at his present position since 1958.

Tomorrow's Free Movie

"Born Yesterday," a movie filmed in 1950 and starring Judy Holiday, Broderick Crawford and William Holden, will be shown in rooms 9 and 10 Johnston Hall tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Based on a play by Carson Kanin, the comedy concerns a scrap-iron tycoon who comes to Washington to try to buy Congressional support for his nefarious schemes.

Miss Holiday won an academy award for her performance as a "dumb girl friend."

The film was directed by George Cukor and produced by S. Sylvan Simon. The screenplay was written by Albert Mannheimer.

Presentation of the film, originally scheduled for this evening, was shifted to tomorrow so as not to conflict with the Boston Opera Company's production of "Voyage To The Moon."

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt...and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards...as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission...and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.
