Nixon Wins, 391-233, In Mock Vote

Election Night Party Set To See In New President

The entire student body has been invited to attend an election night party which will be held in Johnston Hall, rooms 9 and 10, announced Henry Cordray, President of the Political Activities Club, the sponsoring organization.

Cordray stated that two television sets will be placed in the room and that election returns will be posted on a large bulletin board.

The party will begin about 9 p.m. and will probably break up around 2 p.m., when, Cordray added facetiously, "Kennedy will probably concede."

Johnston Hall will be the headquarters for the evening for all the campus political standard bearers. The room will be decorated with campaign banners and posters as well as streamers and other ornamentation.

Refreshment, including coffee and sandwiches, will be served throughout the evening.

Freshmen Choose Griffith President Of Class Of '64

A large majority of 179 freshmen chose William Griffith to serve as president of the class of 1964 in an election which was held in Comenius Hall on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Chosen to serve with Griffith were Steven Scully, vice-president; Susan Kovacs, secretary; Andrew Semmel, treasurer; and Ruth Karol, United Student Government representative.

The 179 voters who turned out at the polls represented 72 percent of the freshman class.

Griffith, who is a biology major, is a resident of Bethlehem.

Triangle Plans 4th Family Day Next Weekend

The Triangle Honor Society, in conjunction with the Parents Committee of Moravian College, is sponsoring a Parent's Day again this year on Nov. 12.

In order to give the parents of Moravian College a chance to share a Saturday of college life with their son or daughter, plans for the entire day have been made, beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m. in Johnston Hall.

At registration, guest tickets for the Wagner game will be given to the parents.

At 10:45 a.m. a movie dealing with the history of the Moravian Church and Moravian College will be shown in Johnston Hall rooms 9 and 10, for the parents of the freshmen.

Following the movie, at 11:30, a buffet luncheon in Johnston Hall will be served to all parents who have previously made reservations. The luncheon program will feature a musical presentation by the College Choir.

The game against Wagner at 2 p.m. will highlight the afternoon. If tickets will not have been picked up at registration, they will be available after 1:15 p.m. in Johnston Hall.

After the game open house will be held in all living quarters on both North and South Campus.

Gilbert, Snyder Debate Views On State Of The Economy

Dr. Daniel Gilbert, associate professor of history, and Robert P. Snyder, director of development, met in the final political debate of the election campaign Tuesday, on the Comenius Hall quadrangle.

Quoting extensively from the Federal Reserve Bulletin, Republican Snyder stated that "vital economic issues" should be the concern of the voter, and that "a strong national economy will do everything possible to improve foreign policy."

He reported, with the use of visual aids, that family income in years previous to the incumbent Republican administration rose only four percent, while in the last eight years, it rose 50 percent. During the same Democratic period, he said, the Gross National Product rose in only one year, while during the present administration, it has risen in every year.

Also, he added, the Consumer Price Index increased 48 percent during the previous Democratic administration, while in the present administration, it has risen only 11 percent.

Gilbert, speaking in behalf of the Democratic party, which he called "bold and imaginative," rebutted Snyder's presentation, demanding to know "What kind of prosperity is it when there is nearly six percent unemployment" and "when there are two recessions in eight years?"

"We have been spending too much on consumer goods," he declared. "In the midst of prosperity not enough has been done on education and housing, for instance."

"There are too many weaknesses" in our national defense, and "we have failed in outer space," Gilbert claimed. "This is not a particularly handsome record."

Regarding the Democratic stand on federal aid versus state and municipal finance programs, Gilbert said, "the federal government must take over some of the problems beyond the scope of

He Cops 62.3% Of Total Ballots In Campus Poll

By a vote of 391 to 233, Vice-president Richard Nixon defeated Senator John Kennedy in Wednesday's campus mock election. The Vice-president polled 62.3 percent of the total votes cast, representing a ratio of nearly two to one.

The total number of students voting, 634, represents 76.1 percent of the total college enrollment, and indicates that a minority of 47.7 percent actually chose the next president.

In class-by-class breakdowns, Nixon edged out his opponent by only one vote in the all-important senior class. Most of the seniors will actually be eligible to vote in the national election Nov. 8.

Nixon also defeated Kennedy in every other category polled. In the junior class, the vote was 76-60; in the sophomore class, 123-49; and in the freshman class, 93-47.

In the Seminary the vote was 8-3. Among the faculty Nixon soundly came out on top by nearly a two to one margin, 19-10.

The vote was 12-5 in favor of the Nixon-Lodge ticket among the unidentified ballots.

The poll was conducted Wednesday in the lobby of Comenius Hall, with members of the Political Activities Club in charge.

God Must Be First, Says Dr. Eastwood At Thursday Convo

"The nation is not God. As long as we act as if it were, however, there will be little chance for peace and abundant life on earth," stated the Rev. Dr. Walter Eastwood, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Allentown, at yesterday's convocation in Johnston Hall.

Eastwood claimed that the present time is one of political atheism when people are putting the nation before God.

"We believe in a good many gods," he said. "We accept one divine creator but we spread our loyalty."

Kennedy Scores Nixon's 'Restrictive' Policy

Senator John F. Kennedy, speaking in a major Lehigh Valley address last Friday morning in Johnston Hall, directed a blistering attack on Republican policy, saying that "Republicans have not set our goals high enough," and that "this is a great country, but it must be greater."

In his 15-minute campaign talk, Kennedy attempted to demonstrate that "the Republican candidate proposes to continue his party's restrictive policies."

He said, "I propose policies which will put our people, our resources, and our whole economy to work, to build the kind of America we want to live in and raise our families in."

Kennedy claimed that his opponent "is downgrading America and "is selling America short."

"If we are well off, as we are,

The Best Man

A great deal of political interest has been stimulated on campus in the past several weeks. As November 8 draws nearer, political comment and controversy reaches new heights. This is understandable when we realize that the future of our country rests in the hands of the American voter. Which way will he vote?

Is everything that is being said about Nixon's experience true? Would he do a creditable job if he were elected? Or does the country need the "dynamic leadership" which Kennedy proposes? It is difficult to decide with all the supposedly true facts floating around concerning both parties and candidates.

It would seem that a analysis of the past administration would give a fair indication of what to expect from the Republican candidate if he were elected.

Some of the policies and programs which the Republicans have advocated, initiated and carried out include:

The establishment of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, bringing human problems to highest government councils.

The sponsorship of the first Civil Rights Act in 82 years and 1960 amendments to extend and protect voting rights.

Extension of Social Security to 12 million additional persons, with increased benefits for all.

The spurring of construction of 501, 800 school classrooms, almost twice the number built from 1933-1952.

This administration has seen a rise in the U.S. standard of living to the highest ever; more Americans are working, earning more, buying more, owning more and saving more than ever before.

It has seen an increase in the average family income of over one-quarter and average weekly earnings of factory workers of one-third. It has seen the rise in cost of living held to 10 percent compared with 50 percent under Truman.

It has seen the development of the most powerful nuclear striking force in the world, the production of a missile arsenal of more than 20 operational types, with more powerful ones on the way, and the development of an overall U.S. defense power to a peace-time high.

Another very important consideration is that there has been peace during the present administration. Granted there is a tense world situation, but we are not at war.

Nixon has pledged himself to follow many of the policies which the present administration formed. However, he is not complacent, but rather he plans, if elected, to use this firm foundation as just that, a foundation upon which he can build.

On the other hand, Kennedy has built most of his campaign around the idea that nothing that the Republicans have done in the past seven and a half years has been right. And further, he is promising everything to everyone—something which just can't be effected.

Nixon has had the experience on both the legislative and administrative levels. He has traveled widely, he has taken over for the president when the president was incapacitated and also not to be forgotten is the fact that he has probably the most qualified running mate that any candidate could hope to have—something of which Kennedy cannot boast.

Further still, Nixon has the full endorsement of President Eisenhower. This is not simply the routine thing to do either. Some presidents have given only halfhearted support to their party's choice. But Ike has stated, "There is no man in the history of America who has had such careful preparation as has Vice President Nixon for carrying out the duties of the Presidency."

We have to agree.

Nixon Upholds Mock Election

To the students of Moravian College,

I welcome this opportunity to send greetings to you as you hold your mock election. As long as young Americans maintain such an interest we can be sure that our country will continue to have the good government which only a free people can provide. No one has a greater stake in the future of our nation than you do, and for this reason I urge you to have these major issues in mind as you make your decision in this mock election:

"Which of the candidates, on the basis of their experience and the principles for which they stand, do you believe can best provide the kind of leadership that will keep for America without surrender, and will extend freedom throughout the world?"

"Which of the candidates can best insure continuation of the prosperity we have enjoyed under the present administration when more Americans are at work earning more, spending more, saving more, investing more and building more than ever before in our history?

"Which of the candidates places primary reliance not upon an increasingly powerful central government but upon the initiative and capabilities of the people for progress in America?"

I hope that you will give the most thoughtful consideration to these issues and that you will decide to cast your mock-election ballot for the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

With best wishes,

Richard Nixon

With the Lincoln - Douglas debates raging on television and Pitt and Lenin fighting it out in the League of Nations, it seems appropriate to write about a more subdued, less exploited subject - like the weather. Yet these days even the weather seems to cause partisanship. The Tories want a gray sky with pink clouds, and the Whigs want it pink with blue clouds in honor of National Nursery Month.

So to prevent a controversy on whether to have weather, the space will be devoted to topics of interest to the W D Y D I B O A W E G T - T M ' s (What do you do in Bethlehem on a weekend except go to the movies?)

It has been suggested that one take up the art of judo and circulate around town Saturday night, breaking stray pieces of lumber with one's hand. This, however, is rather hard on the organization man housing developments. Also it can be rather deflating to one's ego, if one breaks one's hand instead of the board.

So the ultimate solution seems to be in banding together the malcontents so they may be malcontented together. One should not drink alone and one should not suffer alone. It takes all the fun out of it, suffering that is. With a few frustrated artists, a few frustrated poets, a few frustrated musicians, and with the untalented who are just plain frustrated, a society for the release of frustrations could be formed.

On a dull Saturday night, a campus guitarist could be implored (kidnaped if necessary) to entertain the society; the suppressed campus poet could read his own poetry about the purple skies, pink trees, and the tranquility of world chaos; the shower singer could blow soap bubbles in monotone; the midnight artist could exhibit his painting—a black canvas with a white stripe down the middle, even though it more closely resembles a skunk; and the represser academician could throw off his repressions in the verve of heated conversation.

NSA Needs Student Support For Effectiveness Of Action

This is the second in a series of articles appearing periodically and dealing with the operations of the United States National Student Association. The following discussion is concerned with the intended scope of the organization.

by Alan Lippman

The United States National Student Association has recently come under attack by some of its member organizations who claim that it does not adequately represent its members and that its scope of operation is perhaps too broad to be of relevance to the average American student, which the organization purports to represent.

Regarding the matter of representation, two charges have been leveled. The first is that the national staff has too much influence in and control over policy formation. Related to this is the second criticism, that members are not well enough informed to make intelligent judgments regarding resolutions brought up at the body's legislative organ, the National Student Congress.

Due to the fact that NSA is a confederation of diverse student interests, it is naturally impossible for its decisions to reflect the opinions of a unanimity, although in the past its decisions have represented the majority of its members.

The criticism, however, is that the minority view has not always been adequately represented in controversial issues, to the supposed detriment of the organization's unity.

The answer to this problem lies with the matter of the organization's scope. It is granted that NSA's broad, comprehensive, and seemingly overwhelming jurisdiction is in large measure worthwhile and essential if the very purpose of the organization is to be carried out.

Foreign student programs, stands on national and international student affairs, and views on basic civil rights and liberties serve not only a worthwhile purpose, but represent the raison d'etre of the organization.

Its members, paradoxically, are not fully aware of the extent of these programs. However, they must be if the purpose and existence of the organization is not to be put in jeopardy.

The purpose of Project Awareness, established by delegates to the Congress this summer, is to create increased awareness of national and international issues on the part of college students. This project would tend, to a degree, to bring the student into closer contact with NSA.

Referring to this project, Timothy Jenkins, NSA National Affairs Vice-president, has written, "Students are to intensely review the meaning of being students, hopefully to resolve what obligations their student governments have, as well as undertake a program of action in a field of its choice."

The questions remain: Are such projects within the proper scope of NSA? Can NSA effectively cope with the matters brought up by such projects? Should NSA continue to attempt to formulate stands on national and interna-

Eisenhower Stresses Importance Of Votes To Influence Election

President Dwight D. Eisenhower has called for "the greatest turnout in our history at the polls" in the coming Presidential elections, as a vivid demonstration that "ours is really a government by the people."

In a brief article written for the November Reader's Digest, the President noted that just one vote per precinct in one or more critical states actually decided Presidential elections in 1884, 1916 and 1948.

"If you do not vote," he said, "you increase the value of the vote of anyone who doesn't believe in the things you believe in."

In a reference to captive nations, Eisenhower wrote: "Today there are thousands of people ready, actually, to die for the priceless privilege of voting. What we do with our votes will probably inevitably affect the stature and the status of democracy in other lands."

Congratulations are in order for Tony Gawronski who was named to the Eastern College Athletic Conference weekly eleven. Tony was cited for his outstanding play in Moravian's 21-14 loss to undefeated Albright last week. Earlier this year Sam Maczko, another Hound lineman, was named to the same team. Nice going!

T. Fromhart

Football was dealt a tragic blow last week when a plane crash took the lives of 16 football players from California Polytechnic College. But this is a risk a college must take when football becomes a big business. When a school travels all the way across the country to play football there must be something wrong.

J. Scholl

The emphasis which should be placed on athletics in college has been a subject of discussion for many a year.

It is generally agreed that when taken with a grain of salt, athletics can be an integral part of college life. However, when it comes to flying all over the country, that is a horse of a different color. The professionals fly because with them football is a big business.

Let's leave the flying and the business to the pros. If college football cannot succeed on a sectional basis, then it is becoming too big for its britches and some changes are in order.

Now down to a little local business. Last week and the week before the Hounds showed a great deal of improvement. Their fumbling complex seems to have disappeared and it appears as if they are settling down as a fairly well coordinated unit. Pass defense still leaves a bit to be desired and with Wagner, a passing team, coming up, that will require a little work.

Let's concern ourselves with tomorrow's game. The Hounds are facing the Vikings of Upsala College at East Orange. So far this year the Vikings have an identical record to that of the Hounds, in conference play. We think that with the Hounds showing as much improvement as they have, this game will be win number two. This won't be easy by any means and one or two touchdowns should tell the story.

We missed on Lehigh again last week. Bucknell had just a little too much for the Engineers. This week the Brown and White travel and meet V.M.I. The Virginia Cadets will be a little too much for Lehigh and should hand the Engineers their fourth straight loss.

This week the Mules of Muhlenberg will seek their second in a row, having defeated Lycoming last weekend. The Mules opponent this week will be Scranton. This should be another win for the Mules, we say by two touchdowns.

Basketball workouts are being held in Johnston Hall under the direction of Paul Marcincin, assistant basketball coach. Marcincin will direct the team until the end of football season when Rocco Calvo will head the squad. Seven lettermen are working out including Butch Kosman and Rocco Zulli. Along with the seven lettermen there are five freshmen who show some promise. The basketball season opens on Dec. 2.

Tomorrow the football team is playing away, but if you have nothing to do, the cross country team is at home. The match starts around 2 p.m. and the runners would like nothing better than to hear some cheering when they cross that finish line.

Lions Hand Hounds 4th Loss; Extend Victory Streak To 10

The Albright Lions extended their present winning streak the hard way as they edged past a toughened Moravian College team by a 21-14 score on the winners' field last Saturday.

This victory boosted the Albright streak to 10 in a row while Moravian's seasonal record now stands at 1 win and 4 defeats.

The Moravian line played a fine game as they held Albright ball carriers to only short yardage on many occasions. End Art Chap and tackle Tony Gawronski played exceptionally well as they time and time again stopped Lion runners.

However, the Greyhound defense could not stop the fine passing of Albright quarterback Gary Chapman. Chapman completed 8 of 15 passes for a total of 86 yards. He also threw two touchdown passes, bringing his seasonal total in that department up to 12.

Albright scored first after 8:50 of play as Al Pitts scored from the one yard line. Shortly afterward, Chapman pitched his first touchdown pass to Tom Olivo for the second Albright touchdown.

Moravian brought the half-time score up to 14-6 when quarterback Dick Ritter hit Jim Kelyman in the end zone on a pass play.

The Lions scored their final touchdown after 4:55 of the third period had elapsed. Gary Chapman tossed a pass from the Moravian 24 yard line to Claude Lynch who then ran into the end zone.

Moravian scored their final TD in the fourth period. Greyhound quarterback Andy Semmel connected with halfback Jeff Gannon in the endzone on a pass play.

The Albright team had one touchdown nullified due to a holding penalty, and the game ended with Albright having possession of the ball on Moravian's 5 yard line.

Moravian fullback Dave Coe suffered a sprained right hand during the contest. He was treated at St. Luke's Hospital.

Runners Split; Beat Albright For First Win

Speedy Tom Grammes led the Moravian College cross-country team to their first win of the season by taking a first against Albright last Saturday. The score was 20-36 in favor of the Hounds.

With a time of 24:05.1, five minutes and four seconds per mile of the 4.2 mile course, Grammes provided the team with its initial first place of the season.

George Fiegel, Jim Worman, Byron Borst, and Jim Wyrzten finished third, fourth, fifth and seventh to clinch the meet.

Terry Harlacher and Jack Jacobs also placed in the top ten for the Moravian squad.

On Wednesday, Oct. 19 the Hounds lost their fifth straight meet. Franklin and Marshall edged out a 29-30 win on the Diplomats course.

Franklin and Marshall placed the first three men while the next eight men to finish were Hound runners. Grammes, Fiegel, and Worman led the Hounds against the Diplomats.

Harriers Meet Devils In Only Home Feature

The Moravian College cross-country team entertains the Haverford College squad tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m.

The Red Devils are led by Matt Strickler and Ed Hartman. Strickler, a junior, took first place against the Hounds in last years meet.

In recent meets, Haverford has tied Pennsylvania Military College and lost to Lafayette and Lehigh by scores of 17-39 and 18-42 respectively.

George Fiegel, Tom Grammes, Jim Worman, Byron Borst, and Jim Wyrzten will lead the Hounds in an attempt to pin down victory number two.

Coach Paul Kuklentz announced that the Muhlenberg meet originally scheduled for Nov. 12 has been rescheduled for Thursday Nov. 10 at 4 p.m. on the Moravian course.

Gridsters Meet Upsala Looking For Second Win

Seeking to better a four lost and one win record the Hounds of Moravian College travel tomorrow to Upsala College at East Orange, N. J.

Up for grabs will be the Blue and Gray trophy which the Hounds won last year by virtue of a 2-0 win. The trophy was placed in competition two years ago and Upsala has won it once as have the Hounds.

The trophy is symbolic of the good sports relations between the two schools and the similarity in the school colors.

The Hounds will be looking for their second win of the season before they return home for the last two games of the campaign.

They will probably start with John Olson and Jim Kritis at ends. Coach Rocco Calvo announced Jim Kenny and Sam Maczko at the tackle positions.

At the guard slots will be Ed Weinhoffer and Tony Gawronski, who has been switched from tackle to fill in the gap left by Jim Mazza who is out with a fractured ankle.

Dick Bedics will be the center for the Hounds.

In the backfield Calvo will go with Jeff Gannon, and Jim Kelyman, or John Yelovich to fill the halfback slots.

Andy Semmel will probably start at quarterback with Jabby Williams rounding out the backfield at fullback.

Upsala will use two good passing quarterbacks in John De Trani and Charles Cocuzza. Their favorite target will be Anthony Carrino, who ranks third in pass receiving in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Gerry Gundry and Jim Apple will do a lot of receiving for the Blue and Gray of Upsala. The Vikings run from a lonesome end offense.

The Hounds will miss the services of Dave Coe, junior fullback who sustained a wrist injury in the game with Albright last week.

NSA Needs Support . . .

tional issues which by their nature are subject to many interpretations?

The answer has been an unqualified yes. For this is the concern of NSA, and this is why the organization was established in the first place.

The difficulties which the organization is now experiencing can be attributed to interpretation of this code by the members. Continued criticism of NSA is needed, to improve its present organization and to expand its facilities so that individual members do not feel so far removed from its workings. The process of criticism is invaluable in this context.

Several colleges have chosen to disaffiliate themselves with NSA, the most recent being the University of Colorado, on the grounds that they were not being represented effectively on the national level.

To such action, Jenkins has said, "If [the organization] fails to accommodate student needs, it lies with the students themselves to remold that structure rather than fulminate against it nihilistically."

It would seem that NSA's potential in a changing America, with greater student participation in national and international affairs, is too valuable for the organization to be destroyed by students who find it easier to secede from it rather than to constructively attempt to improve the organization from within.

FALL FOCUS

Byron Borst—Cross Country

"Even though we got off to a slow start, I think that we'll have a strong finish." Those are the words of Byron Borst, one of the leading runners on the Moravian cross-country team.

Borst, a sophomore business major, hails from Oakdale, L. I. The sleek, 6' 1", 150 lb. trackman played two varsity sports, track and cross-country, at Sayville High School. At Moravian, he has won letters in both indoor track and cross-country and is a member of the Varsity "M" Club.

The man in focus this week does not only enjoy running; he lists hunting and sailing as favorite pastimes. One of his greatest thrills was running in Madison Square Garden during the New York Athletic Club and Knights of Columbus meets last year.

Speaking again about cross country, Borst pointed out that since there is no football game tomorrow, everyone has an opportunity to come to the meet and cheer the team on.

The Massachusetts senator continued, "It is true that many a bright child born in the Soviet Union has a better chance for a college education than many a bright child born in the United States."

He pointed out that a Republican administration has opposed nearly every effort of a Democratic Congress to provide assistance to public schools and colleges, claiming that a Democratic administration would provide sorely needed financial aid.

Speaking before an overflow crowd of nearly 9,000, Kennedy went on to point out Democratic proposals for federal programs for medical care for the aged, for slum clearance, for a higher minimum wage, and for a higher rate of economic growth.

The senator was introduced by Pennsylvania state senator Fred Rooney. Present on the platform were Pennsylvania's Governor David L. Lawrence, and candidates for local public offices.

Following the footsteps of Ponce de Leon and Captain Kidd, Hall found a bounty of wildlife in the coral reefs where he photographed barracuda and sea urchins; and along the shore where he discovered giant iguana lizards and enormous hermit crabs.

The work of Hall not only pays tribute to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico but provides Americans the opportunity of learning more about this part of the U.S.A.

The United States National Student Association has recently endorsed action taken by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Conference, held last month in Atlanta, Ga., which voted to rally student action in the North and South on Election Day.

USNSA Endorses Election Day Rally

This action will call attention to the denial of voting rights in the South, and to the need for meaningful civil rights action.

The project will serve notice to both the victorious presidential candidate and the new Congress that effective civil rights action must be first on their agendas.

The two themes to be emphasized in the demonstrations are that civil rights should be extended to all Americans, and that all people who can vote should do so to help win these same rights for the millions of disfranchised citizens of the South.

The demonstrations will occur throughout the nation on the afternoon of Election Day.

Queen Pictures For I-F Dance Due By Nov. 11

The deadline for the pictures for the queen candidates for the Inter-Fraternity dance is Friday, Nov. 11 at 5 p.m. All pictures must be given to one of the members of the I-F Council at this time.

The IFC will narrow the number of the candidates to four. Saturday night at a dinner before the dance the finalists will meet with Eddie Holmes, band leader of the Preludes, who will choose the queen.

"Han Wachipi" is the title of the dance scheduled for Saturday,

Seminary Lecture Program To Feature Latourette Today

Two lectures on the general subject of "The Christian World Mission Today" will be given today in the North Campus Chapel by Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, church historian and authority on promotion of Christianity in foreign fields.

The title of the first lecture to be given at 10:30 a.m. is "Historical Background." In the second lecture at 1:30 p.m., Latourette will consider "The Current Situation." This lecture program is an annual event which is planned by the seminary lecture committee.

Latourette is sterling professor of missions and Oriental history emeritus, Yale University. His career began as traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement for Missions immediately after his completion of studies in 1909.

During the last 50 years he has been lecturer and assistant professor at Reed and Dixon College and James professor of missions and chaplain at Yale.

He has earned the B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. and has also received honorary degrees of D.D., Litt. D., L.H.D. and C.I.D. from universities in Great Britain and the United States.

Weathervane . . .

Such a gathering needs only a pot of bad coffee, a minimum of inspiration and aspiration, a desire to throw off the bonds of bad movies, and a domicile in which to house itself. Only the last requires some effort.

One more word. If the ideas presented here seem to be bodily lifted from the coffee houses and poet's galleries of booming metropoli, they have been. But then even a small town plagiarist has to eat.

Nov. 19, from 9 to 12 p.m. in Johnston Hall, which will follow an Indian theme.
