

No Quorum Stops USG Proceedings

A regularly scheduled meeting of United Student Government (USG) was cancelled Tuesday evening due to the lack of a quorum. Fifteen representatives were present, three short of the necessary number to carry out business.

USG president James MacDonald explained to those present that due to conflicting events that evening, fewer than the usual number of delegates had been expected but that a quorum was indicated due to the previous appointment of alternate delegates by organizations which had to absent themselves.

The vice-president and the treasurer of USG could not be present due to a choir trip to Harrisburg; delegates representing the Political Activities Club and the Veterans' Organization could not be present due to an election night party. The absence of other delegates could not be accounted for, although the fact that it was Election Day and that the election night party had been scheduled were presumed to have been factors.

The major item to have been discussed at the meeting concerned the distribution of questionnaires to students and to student governments of neighboring colleges regarding attitudes toward academic and social honor systems.

Stephanie Rights, chairman of the USG committee on Honor Systems, and her committee have prepared questionnaires to be sent to other colleges in the middle Atlantic states with student enrollments ranging from 500 to 1000.

Possible Shortage Is Seen Of Qualified College Teachers

by Alan Lippman

Contrasting opinions have recently been voiced over the question of an impending shortage of qualified college teachers, within five to ten years.

Dr. Earl J. McGrath, a former United States Commissioner of Education, and now executive officer of the Carnegie Corporation—Financed Institute of Higher Education at Columbia University, has predicted that, if present trends continue, colleges will find it increasingly difficult to compete in the academic field with large universities with their associated undergraduate colleges.

More than 75 percent of leading liberal arts colleges have reported to him that it is already difficult to secure "properly qualified teachers" and nearly 25 percent have admitted having to lower their standards for academic preparation in recent years, due to the difficulty in securing enough teachers.

Anxious students settle down to a few hands of pinochle early Tuesday evening as the first returns of the national election were being broadcast over T.V. in Johnston Hall. As the evening progressed the games were abandoned as the excitement and tension gained momentum.

PAC's Election Night Party Draws Crowd Of Over 600

by Neil Eskolin

A crowd estimated to be in excess of 600 filed in and out of rooms 9 and 10 of Johnston Hall between 8:30 p.m. and 3:30 a.m. Tuesday night as the election results were being broadcast there and free food was made available.

The crowd gathered slowly early in the evening as the first results came in and were broadcast over two television sets which had been set up for the occasion by the Political Activities Club which sponsored the party.

The numbers increased and reached a peak between 10 and 11 p.m. Some of the group gathered closely around the television sets and settled down to a long tense evening as they intently watched and listened as the results came in.

Others, and incidentally a large majority, mingled and socialized commenting on the predicted outcome and enjoyed the refreshments which PAC furnished.

Throughout the evening, nearly 300 bottles of coke, two large cans of pretzels, two large cans of potato chips, 15 jars of assorted pickles, four pounds of mustard, a half gallon of mayonnaise, six dozen donuts, $50 worth of sandwich meat, and 20 large loaves of bread were consumed.

At about 11:30 p.m. when the tide seemed to be turning definitely toward Senator John F. Kennedy, Ron Stupak said "I'm awfully confident that Kennedy will win."

Hank Cordray, still optimistic about Vice-President Nixon's chances stated, "Kennedy has taken the East but the Mid West, West and South will carry it for Nixon."

By 12:30 a.m. the crowd began to diminish noticeably and by 1 a.m. only about 50 people remained. They were rather quiet and received the latest reports quite calmly.

'Ugly Man' Contest Nets $159; Announce Winners Tomorrow

A total of $159.46 in the form of votes for the "Ugliest Man" of the campus was donated to the United Fund as a result of the ugly man contest which was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity last week in Comenius Hall.

An estimated 50 percent of the student body participated in the program through their donations.

The total amount collected averaged out to a donation of 19.5 cents per student. The largest single donation was $5.

Charles Canning, publicity director for APO, stated that the organization felt that it was a very successful and worthwhile campaign.

The only real difficulty, he stated.

Over 500 Reservations Received For Family Day

Over 500 reservations have been received for the fourth annual Family Day which will be held on the campus tomorrow. The event is sponsored by the Triangle Honor Society and the Parents Committee of the college.

According to Robert P. Snyder, director of development, this "should be the largest group of parents and friends to attend the Family Day activities. Barring bad weather, this should be the most successful Family Day yet." At this time last year, only 400 reservations had been received.

Registration for visitors and faculty members will be held in the lobby of Johnston Hall beginning at 9:30 a.m. Identification tags will be issued to all guests, as well as tickets for the afternoon football game.

All college buildings will be open to visitors during the day.

A movie, "Half a Thousand Years," depicting the history of the Moravian Church and the college, will be presented for all freshmen families in Johnston Hall at 10:45 a.m. A buffet luncheon will follow at 11:30 a.m. during which the Moravian College Choir will give a brief performance.

The Moravian-Wagner College football game will follow at 2 p.m. Guests unable to attend the luncheon may secure football tickets at the registration desk in Johnston Hall after 1:15 p.m.

Following the game, a "meet the faculty" coffee hour will take place in rooms 9 and 10 of Johnston Hall.

Special open houses are planned by various campus groups. Women's dormitories will be open from 1-5 p.m. Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, located at 1237 Monocacy Street, will hold an open house, as will Sigma Phi Omega fraternity, 1204 Main Street, and Omicron Gamma Omega, 1305-07 Main Street, from 4-6 p.m.

Mass Image 'Derogatory,' Speaker Says

Speaking on the influences of foreign students in American colleges, Dr. William H. Gray, director of the foreign student office at Pennsylvania State University, yesterday urged Americans to try to change the sometimes derogatory opinion that foreigners have of America.

Gray's speech was part of the convocation program which was under the sponsorship of the Moravian International Club.

Gray analyzed several nations from the "stereotyped" eye of other countries. He said that we get mass images of foreigners. "The images which we have, sometimes accurate, sometimes inaccurate, frequently are derogatory," stated Gray.

He listed several causes for the sometimes unfavorable opinion which foreign students have of Americans. Among them were the fact that there is "no family life in America." Another reason, Gray felt, is that the "art of conversation is lost," and finally he blamed the air of superiority which Americans tend to have as another contributing factor.

HONOR SYSTEM QUESTIONNAIRE

United Student Government Honor System Committee chairman Stephanie Rights has announced that students who did not fill out a questionnaire regarding attitudes toward honor systems at convocation yesterday may secure one at the Comenian office, South Hall.

U.S.G. Troubles

The lack of a quorum last Tuesday necessitated the cancellation of a regularly scheduled USG meeting. Due to the facts that it was election day and the college choir had a singing engagement in Harrisburg, it was realized that several representatives would not be present. To compensate for this, the USG president contacted several doubtful organizations who in turn promised to have a representative at the meeting.

As it turned out, however, only fifteen members arrived for the meeting. This was three short of the necessary number for a quorum. This shows a definite weakness in USG and a lack of responsibility on the part of the individual representatives.

USG is the voice of the students in many phases of college life and is an organization which if run properly can effectively serve both the school and the student body.

However, this can't be accomplished unless meetings are held and meetings can't be held unless representatives attend them.

The case in point is this week's situation. USG has been working on several worthwhile projects but the progress of these projects is being retarded because this week's meeting couldn't be held. Two weeks of valuable time is being wasted because a few representatives couldn't take an hour out of their schedules to attend the meeting.

In connection with this situation and other problems facing USG, The Comenian this week is beginning a series of features on the organization function, scope, responsibility, and operation of the student government on a small college campus with Moravian's USG predominantly in mind. It is felt that this educational endeavor will help alleviate many of the problems which USG is facing.

However, the main opportunity for improvement of the organization lies within its own bounds. Only with the proper cooperation can USG function efficiently and fulfill its purpose and obligation.

The Mailbox

An Election Post-mortem

To the Editor:

As you read this letter the campaign will have closed and the people will have made their decision. The misquotations, quotes out of context, the allegations, the twisted meanings, the mudslinging, and the half-truths will have ceased to be points of frustration for both parties.

Roget's Thesaurus will have been returned to the library shelf by the politically-minded, where it will be only used by college students who find themselves involved in the tedious process of writing term papers.

The campaign we have witnessed has seen a few new things. This President will be the first President to have campaigned in all 50 states. It will have marked the second time in our history that the Amish voted in a Presidential election; the first time was 1928.

Television was used to bring the candidates closer to the electorate in an attempt to clarify the issues—on this point the debates failed miserably. It marked the third time President Hoover said goodbye and the millionth time President Truman told someone to go to Hell.

At the risk of being called a "flag-waver," an "idealistic dreamer," and various other names which are not printable, I feel that there are still a few points which must be reiterated.

Someone once said, "These are times that try men's souls," and I am not so sure that this may not be truly said of every new era into which we enter. Since we have a new President we must consider the 1960's as a new era for the United States and our people. Therefore, then, what must be the course the ship of state should sail?

Clearly, the course must be one that leads to peace, progress, and prosperity for all. But, there must be a steady hand at the helm that will give us strength and dynamic leadership. For there must be dynamism in our search for peace, dynamism in our efforts for progress, and dynamism in our quest for prosperity not only for ourselves, but for the world.

It is not enough to say that the United States and its way of life are the greatest accomplishments man has achieved in his political life. The vast battle has only begun.

We must convince the world that our way of life is many more times advantageous to the free growth of the individual than any other system heretofore known. This can only be accomplished in dynamic leadership and action.

If we fail in this battle, we will have lost the war. For it is my firm belief that the destiny of our people in our time, and for all times to come, can only be greatness, or else defeat.

Jan Masaryk fought for Czechoslovak freedom from the Communists. His battle ended on the flagstone courtyard beneath his window. We may never know whether his death was an accident, or suicide, or murder — just as we will never know what has become of our freedom once we have lost it.

Student Government's Role Has Potentiality Of Being Expanded Beyond Present Scope

This is the first of a four-part study of the role and scope of student government on the small college campus. The material included in this article has in part been derived from a pamphlet, "Responsibility in Student Government," published by the United States National Student Association.

by Stephanie Rights

The role of student government on the average college campus is often no more than that of a coordinator of campus groups and activities. Its purpose as a body remains vague and undefined and its scope of action remains limited to the administrative and organizational problems of its member units.

The role of the student government, however, has the potentiality of being expanded far beyond this, for ideally the student government's main concern should be in developing the educational facilities of the college so that every student has the maximum opportunity for intellectual growth.

With this purpose in mind, the student government becomes a body interested not only in extra-curricular affairs but in the curricular program as well, for both are integral to a real education.

Two vast areas are open to which the role of student government can be expanded. The first is that of college policy determination.

Though policy-making is most often considered to be the function of administration and faculty, the student can contribute much, especially in the area of education.

Through established student government committees, the student may take part in course evaluation, curriculum planning and many other similar programs working in conjunction with faculty and administrative members.

A constant effort of student committee members would be made to obtain both the suggestions and opinions of the general student body. In order to insure the successful execution of such a plan, students would be trained by student government as to the work that had been accomplished and to the existing problems that require solutions.

Thus, vacancies left by graduating students would be filled by adequately prepared and intelligent people.

The second area into which student government can move is that of helping develop the extra-curricular educational force.

To accomplish this goal, several means are possible. The first, and perhaps the most expeditious would be to strengthen individual campus organizations already in existence and enlarge their scope to include a greater number of students.

The cultural and educational needs of the student would be evaluated; by a committee existent groups would be examined as to their activities and interests served; revisions of group programming would be revised to meet the student needs, in the various areas of interest. Programs would be calendared under student government supervision to prevent conflicts and also publicized and promoted.

Another method for developing the extracurricular program is available to student government. Under a specially designed committee, an educational program of lectures, seminars, workshops and forums could be organized. The extent and range of this program would vary according to student needs and interests.

The task of trying to increase the educational role of student governments is a large one and one which must be tackled in a slow step-by-step process.

All the plans for doing so mentioned above are, to some extent, in effect on many college and university campuses, and the role of student government must be recognized as one that is becoming larger, more important, and more comprehensive of every phase of college life.

Bittersweet

by Ronald Stupak

With the numerous amounts of tests, planning, and screening that now goes on by parents before they send "sonny" or "sis-sy" off to college, it comes as a shock to me that I have survived to the ripe bloom of a college senior.

I came to Moravian College for three main reasons; first, it was inexpensive, second, it was a small college near by home, and third, (and most important) it was the only college that would accept me. Now I realize all these conditions have changed. First, this school is becoming so expensive that soon a student will need references from two banks before he is considered eligible to take a personal interview.

Second, it seems that with the great battery of tests that are now given to determine "IQ's" of incoming Freshmen, it will become impossible for misfits, like myself, to slip by the IBM machines. Long live personality, IQ, and background tests—down with attitude, desire, and need.

However, since we are in college I would like to delve into a specific aspect of campus life. Below is a classification of personalities that I have met on campuses in movies, books, other colleges and especially at Moravian.

First is Freddie Frat. He is the fellow that joins "the" social fraternity the first chance he gets. Then he settles for the limited numbers of friends or acquaintances within his closed group and ignores the rest of the unworthies around the campus — a real social snob!

Second is the Independent Ike. He's usually the veteran who comes to class — and only to class. He thinks all college students are young fools, that all conversations at the coffee shop are childish, and of course, he never gives any of his "precious time" to school functions. He is a taker, but never a giver. He should've taken correspondence courses!

Third, is Harry High School. He's the type that was the big athlete in high school, and for four years of college he never lets you forget that he scored the winning touchdown against Yoo-Hoo Prep, etc.—He's a real bore!

Fourth, is Billy Better - Than-Thou. He comes to college to find friends compatible with his social class. He checks each person he meets more thoroughly than an IBM machine. Of course, after four years of school, he can't understand why no one likes him.

Fifth, is Harry - Holier-Than-Thou. This model is so pure that he puts Ivory Soap to shame. He is usually the lily that forgets that the world is made up of all different types of personalities. Forgiveness and understanding are words found only in the dictionary and Bible by this fellow.

And then there is the legendary campus figure, Joe Know-It-All, and this type is the biggest bore of all because he usually is the loudest talker, but the least informed. If you want to know any more about this particularly wicked character please contact the writer of this "loud" article.

Grapplers Open Practice; Returners To Lead Squad

"We will be stronger than last year. We will have more balance and better depth," said Paul Kuklantz, head wrestling coach, this week. Kuklantz added that Wilkes, in addition to Lafayette, Dickinson, and Muhlenberg should be the toughest matches of the year.

The 123 lb. class has been taken over by freshman Jerry Simons. Simons is a former Bethlehem High wrestler.

Bill Rinker, third place winner in his class at the M.A.C. Championships, seems to have the 130 lb. class wrapped up.

At 137 lbs. Gene Medei is being challenged by freshman Roger Grubbs. Medei compiled a 9-0-1 record last year and placed third in the M.A.C. Championships in his weight division. Grubbs is another Bethlehem High graduate.

Dan Turner has his hands full at the 147 mark. Turner, from Vestal, N.Y., will fight it out with transfer Chuck Canning and Grubbs. Turner turned in a 6-0-1 record last year and won second place in his class at the M.A.C. Championships.

The 157 lb. class has Dick Bedics, 8-0-1 last year, and Chuck Canning in the running.

Dick Schaffer, who won first place in the 167 lb. class M.A.C. Championships, should start at 167 for the Hounds.

The 177 lb. class and the unlimited class will be shared by Steve Edraney and Dave Linaberry. Edraney finished with a 4-0-1 record, while Linaberry compiled a 2-4 record.

The Hounds' first match of the season will be against Albright College on Dec. 10. The meet will be held on the Lions' home mats.

ICE HOCKEY

A request for permission to organize an Ice Hockey Club has been submitted to the administration. All students and faculty who are interested in participating in and/or promoting this club are invited to attend a discussion on this topic today at 4 p.m. in room 4 in Comenius Hall.

Hounds Break Losing Streak With 14-14 Tie

by Warren Brill

The Moravian football team broke its four game losing streak last Saturday, Oct. 24, with a 14-14 tie against Upsala College at the Vikings' stadium.

The Greyhounds' tallies came in the second and third quarters while the Vikings scored in the third and fourth.

After intercepting a pass, Jim Kelyman raced 44 yards for the Hounds' first entry in the scoring column. Andy Semmel completed a pass to Art Chap for two points and the Hounds were out in front by a score of 8-0.

In the third quarter the final Moravian touchdown was scored after a 68 yard march downfield. The point producing play was a 14 yard pass from Semmel to Bucky Yelovich. The kick for the extra point failed.

Upsala's tallies came when John Ditrani raced 46 yards for a touchdown in the third period, and when Ditrani caught a 24 yard pass in the end zone from Charley Cocuzza. Both times the try for an extra point failed.

Final two points of the game came when Tony Gawronski, Moravian Guard, downed a Moravian fumble in the Upsala end zone. This gave the Vikings a two point safety and a tie.

Upsala outgained the Hounds on the ground, 201-106 yards, but the Moravian Gridders outgained Upsala in the air 123-98 yards.

By tying the game, Moravian College gets to keep the traditional Blue Grey Trophy awarded to the victorious team. Last year the Hounds beat the Vikings, and won the trophy for the first time.

Gridmen Clash With Wagner; Seahawks Look For 12th Win

And they're off! Byron Borst (r.) of Moravian leads the pack at the start of last week's triangular cross country meet with Haverford and Temple. The Hounds picked up two wins in defeating the Red Devils and the Owls.

Hounds Seeking First Win Since Opening Game

A powerful undefeated Wagner College football squad will meet head-on with the Greyhounds tomorrow afternoon 2:00 p.m. on Moravian Field.

Coached by Mickey Sullivan, Wagner boasts some of the finer small college players. Quarterback Don Cavelli is among the passing and rushing leaders of the MAC. End Al Ferrie leads the league in pass receiving.

Frank Mellos, halfback, and George Kling, another end, are standouts for the Seahawks this year.

Wagner is carrying an 11 game winning streak into tomorrow's contest, including three from last year. Pennsylvania Military College, Hamilton, Ursinus, Haverford, and Trenton State were victims of the Wagner Seahawks.

Coach Rocco Calvo expects to be at full strength by gametime. The probable starting lineup will include Jim Kritis, and John Olson, ends; Sam Maczko and Jim Kenny, tackles; Tony Gawronski and Ed Weinholfer, guards; and Dick Bedics, center.

The backfield will include Andy Semmel at quarterback and Jim Insignia and Bucky Yelovich at the halfback slots with Jabby Williams at fullback.

Last week against Upsala four of the Moravian gridmen suffered injuries. Jeff Gannon received a sprained wrist. Jim Kelyman injured an ankle, and Jim Insignia sustained an injury to his leg.

Sophomore halfback Larry Lewis sustained a separated shoulder and will be out for the remainder of the season.

Coach Calvo will have to wait and see how these injuries heal before he can be sure of his starting lineup.

Last year, Wagner soundly trounced the Hounds, 42-8, on Staten Island. Cavelli and Mellos led the bombardment as the Seahawks completely overwhelmed a fighting Moravian eleven.

Runners Top Temple, Haverford; Grammes, Borst Lead Dual Win

by George Fiegel

The Moravian College Harriers broke loose and seized two victories in a triangular meet against Temple and Haverford at home last Saturday afternoon. The Hounds score was 37, Haverford took a second with 39 and Temple was last with 44.

Temple's star sophomore, Ron Rensch, captured first place, squeezing by the old course mark set by Dick Haines of Lafayette in 1958 by a half a second. Rensch's time was clocked at 25 minutes 48.5 seconds for 4.5 miles.

The first Hound runner to cross the line was Tom Grammes with Byron Borst not far behind. These two men took third and sixth positions with the times of 27:10 and 28:01 respectively.

One reason for the Moravian victory is credited to the grouping of the contestants. By staying up in the first eleven positions the Hounds jointly split the Temple and Haverford defenses to gain the double victory.

An interesting point which occurred was the placing of the first five scoring positions of each team. Out of the first 15 positions there were five Moravian, five Haverford, and five Temple runners which exemplifies the tightness which took place in the scoring.

When asked to comment on the results of this meet, Coach Paul Kuklantz said, "The boys put forth their top effort to take this one and they've rounded into the best shape I've seen them this season."

"This is shown by the great improvement of Byron Borst and Jim Wyrzten along with the rest of the team."

OGO Top Team In I-M Bowling Loop, Stoddard High Man

This week saw few surprises on the alleys as the strong OGO teams continued to dominate the action.

The OGO No. 1 team dropped one point to the Vets No. 8 team, but still mustered the remaining 3 points.

The Sigma Phi squad forced the TKE 3 team into a dead lock at 2 up.

The two shut outs this week were earned by the Sigma Phi No. 5 squad and the OGO No. 2 team. The losses were handed to the Vets No. 7 squad and the TKE No. 4 rollers respectively.

Grove Stoddard managed a 535 series which was high for this week's action. Ken Sepe and Don Morrow, still lay claim to the highest game rolled at 224. Morrow, also, has the highest series to date with an impressive 550.

Rau Frosh Capture I-M Soccer League; TKE Cops I-F Title

As the soccer season is coming to a rapid close four games were played last week.

Rau Frosh, an outstanding unscored upon team, defeated a strong TKE team thus capturing without doubt the Intra - Mural Championship.

The TKE team took second place in intramural league, and a guaranteed first place in the intrafraternity standings by beating Sigma Phi's team 3-2. The two other games played were won by forfeit. Day Students over Vets, and Rau Frosh over Day Students.

Head track coach Paul Kuklantz announced earlier this week that there will be a meeting for all persons interested in indoor track on Nov. 14 at 3:00 p.m. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Sports Unillustrated

by Tom & Jay

Last weekend the Hounds ended their losing streak. They did it with a tie, but they did it. Tomorrow they face the Seahawks of Wagner. The Seahawks are carrying an 11 game win streak into the fracas.

The Seahawks have shown a lot of power this year. In addition to this they haven't lost a member of the squad which trounced the Hounds last year by a 42-8 score. We think the Seahawks will be too much for the Hounds, way too much. We pick the Hawks by three touchdowns.

Muhlenberg picked up its second straight win last weekend overwhelming Scranton. This week the Mules meet the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall. The diplomats have a 2-4 record so far this year. A win for the Mules would give them their first winning season since 1956.

The Mules have been improving steadily over the last few games and are beginning to look like a real good squad. We think the Mules will pick up their fifth win and their winning season by two touchdowns.

Lehigh lost its fourth straight game last week when it dropped an 18-14 decision to V.M.I.

This week the Engineers meet Davidson at Taylor Stadium. We think the Engineers will end their losing streak with a one touchdown victory over Davidson.

We watched the basketball squad in a scrimmage earlier this week. They still looked a little rough around the edges. There is a lack of height on the squad, but if they get their running game together, they should have a good season.

Students Vote In Two Campus Polls

This year's contest was the first to be conducted by APO. The group announced that it plans to run a similar contest every year.

Canning stated that the winner of the contest will be announced during halftime of tomorrow's football game with Wagner.

He said further that a trophy will be given to the sponsoring organization of the winner, and the "Ugliest Man" will receive a cash prize of $5. All prizes are being furnished by APO.

Canning also announced that because of the exceptionally large number of tickets that has been requested for the Muhlenberg game next week, there will probably have to be an adjustment in the number of seats to be awarded to the winners.

ted, is that there have not been as many available teaching candidates in the natural science field as there have been in other fields.

Regarding the quality of instruction here, Haupt indicated that considerable progress has been made in recent years and that the quality of teachers "has not decreased."

Despite this encouragement, Haupt admitted that more must be done to meet the increased needs of the small liberal arts college. "We ought to be more aggressive in the direction of preparing students for college teaching," he noted.

The best training for college teaching, Haupt said, is "good liberal arts study, followed by graduate programs." He discounted any advantage in instituting a "college teaching curriculum" to produce additional teachers, but suggested that increased salaries and other incentives would encourage more students in this direction.

It was a big day for democracy, as students polled their votes last Wednesday for president in the mock election and for "ugly man" in the campus drive for the United Fund.

The questionnaires will be mailed as soon as they have been mimeographed.

Students here, meanwhile, had the opportunity yesterday at convocation to fill out questionnaires indicating their attitudes toward the establishment of an honor system on this campus.

The results gleaned from these surveys will be used to discover attitudes of students toward such a program, and, according to Miss Rights, "will greatly aid and expedite our work, and help us towards objective and practical conclusions."

The next USG meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 22.

Pi Mu Retreats; New Members Are Inducted

Pi Mu pre-theological fraternity held its annual fall retreat last weekend at Camp Minsi in the Poconos. The Rev. Paul S. Couch, pastor of the Calvary Moravian Church, Allentown, spoke and led discussion on the topic, "The Image of the Pre-Theological Student."

In a discussion led by Rev. Couch on Friday, the group began an evaluation of the pre-theological student based on a poll taken at Moravian College.

Pi Mu inducted fourteen new men into its membership this semester. Formal induction services were held at the retreat. The men are Peter Anderson, Kenneth Briggs, Rod Cook, Dean Davis, John Dech, William Gilbert, Terry Jarvis, Robert Moyer, Stephen Nicolas, Byron Waterman, John Watters, Larry Wetzell, David Wickman, and James Wyrzten.

Dean's Office Plans Program For Placement

Moravian college's placement program under the direction of the office of Harvey T. D. Gillespie, dean of men, will go into full swing after the Thanksgiving vacation, Gillespie announced earlier this week.

The dean stated that he has held a meeting with all interested students and has given them the literature and material needed to fill out the placement files.

"Additional companies will be added to the program as we go along," Gillespie added, "and we expect the whole program to pick up during the second semester."

Gillespie further stated that the students would probably have to go through a "pre-screening interview" before they meet with the representatives of various companies.

Gosh frosh!

how'd you catch on so quick? Catch on to the fact that Coca-Cola is the hep drink on campus, I mean. Always drink it, you say? Well—how about dropping over to the dorm and downing a sparkling Coke or two with the boys. The man who's for Coke is the man for us.
