Now What?

These four puzzled individuals seem to have encountered a bit of difficulty on leaving the drive from Comenius Hall. The obstacle was erected clandestinely early this week by the maintenance staff, building and grounds superintendent Paul T. Cunningham said, to prevent students parking their cars in front of the building. The drive had formerly been used for visitor's purposes when Comenius Hall was the administration building. We guess these fellas solved their problem, because the car was gone this morning. Photo by Stoddard

SAC To Hold Christmas Dance; Group Plans 'Moderne' Theme

"A Moderne Christmas" will be the theme of the annual Christmas Dance to be held tomorrow in Johnston Hall from 9 p.m. to midnight.

The center of the dance floor will be dominated by a large fir tree decorated in a modernistic mode. Contemporary Christmas murals will cover the walls, and the ceiling will be decorated with white streamers.

The backdrop for the bandstand will be tall letters in red, proclaiming "NOEL, NOEL."

Semi-formal attire for the evening will consist of suits for the men and cocktail dresses for the women.

Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will again be in charge of a coat check service, to be located at the entrance of dressing rooms to be left of the bandstand.

ACP Awards Paper First Class Rating For Spring Term

The Comenian last week was awarded a First Class honor rating by the Associated Collegiate Press in the sixty-third All-American Newspaper Critical Service conducted by the organization.

The criticism, which covered the Spring, 1960 semester cited The Comenian for excellence in news sources, sports coverage and front page make-up. In addition to this, The Comenian scored very well in most other phases which included coverage in general, content, and physical properties.

Attainment of a First Class rating marked the third straight semester in which The Comenian has earned the honor.

Administration Okays Planned Radio Station

by Dave Howard

Plans for the campus radio station this week received official approval of the college administration, although the administration will not assume the responsibility for the cost of the project. The matter was discussed at a meeting of United Student Government (USG) Tuesday evening.

"Careful planning must take place before the station takes the air to assure its success," USG President James MacDonald stated. The matter has been referred to the executive committee of USG to determine student financing and organization.

In a special report, James Naisby, USG Vice-president and Sophomore Orientation Committee chairman, said that despite certain shortcomings, "I believe there were many freshmen who did get a great deal out of the program."

Among the difficulties encountered, he stated, were scheduling meetings without conflicts and avoiding repetition in the overall program.

He recommended that measures be taken to offset these difficulties in future programs, such as better programming, possibly under administration and faculty sponsorship.

This idea was received coolly by USG representatives, who felt that improvements in the system must arise from and be implemented by student action.

College Choir Performs Sunday In Annual Christmas Vespers

by Judy Bartoe

The annual Moravian College Christmas Vespers, featuring the college choir, under the direction of Richard Schantz, associate professor of music, will be held in Central Moravian Church on Sunday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Featured works will be sung in English, German and Latin and will be highlighted by several soloists.

Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert, president of the college, will preside over the service. Marlyn A. Rader, dean of instruction, will give the opening prayer, and G. Rodney Cook, a sophomore, and Ronald Cavanagh, a seminary student, will read the Christmas scripture.

Kay Bergstresser will sing the traditional Moravian Christmas hymn, "Morning Star" by F. F. Hagen, an 1835 graduate of Moravian College.

Dr. Vernon W. Couillard, dean of the seminary, will close the service with the benediction.

The presentation has been held in the Central Moravian Church for the past four years. Previously the service was held in the South Campus Chapel.

Following the service, campus social sororities Alpha Epsilon Pi and Phi Mu Epsilon will conduct open houses in the sorority rooms.

PAC Announces Plans For Trip To Washington

The Political Activities Club (PAC), in an effort to bring Moravian students "closer to the problems which our nation is facing," is planning a trip to Washington, D.C., to observe the country's government in action. The program was announced earlier this week by Henry Cordray, president of PAC.

Hauptert Named To Commission For 3 Years

College president Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert has been re-elected to a three year term as member of the Commission on Higher Institutions. The action was taken at the annual meeting of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held recently in Atlantic City, N. J.

The Commission is the accrediting authority for 273 institutions located in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Panama and Puerto Rico.

The 15 - member commission provides for re-evaluation of all accredited colleges and universities every ten years. The Commission meets in November and in April and approximately 30 colleges are visited by Evaluating Committees each year.

For the 265 member colleges, the Commission is the highest accrediting body in the nation. Hauptert was first elected to the Commission a year ago.

BENIGNA PICTURES

Seniors are reminded that today is the last opportunity to have their pictures taken for the 1961 Benigna. Barbara Hooper, yearbook editor, has requested that those who have not made appointments with the photographer may report to the George Washington Room on South Campus before noon today.

Pending an allocation of $250 by United Student Government, PAC will accept 45 student registrations beginning Tuesday, Jan. 10, 1961, at 11:30 a.m. in the lobby of Comenius Hall.

The excursion will take place from Wednesday, Jan. 25, until Friday, Jan. 27. Leaving at 6 p.m. Wednesday by bus, the group will arrive in Washington at 10 p.m.

On Thursday morning, the group will visit the Senate galleries and attend various committee meetings. In the afternoon, representatives of three major political coalitions will address the group.

Representing the liberal wing of Congress will be Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania. The opposite viewpoint will be presented by conservative Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Representing middle-of-the-road policy will be Senator Hugh Scott, also of Pennsylvania.

The role of foreign policy will be presented to the group by Senator William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Harry Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finances Committee, will discuss problems of the budget and related topics. An unannounced speaker from the State Department will also address the group.

On Friday morning, the group will discuss and correlate the activities of the previous day, and following opportunity for sight-seeing in the capital, it will return to Bethlehem in the evening.

Registration will be on a first come, first served basis, Cordray

USG: An Analysis

Concluding with this week's issue, the Comenian has conducted a four-part analysis of the role and scope of the student government on a small college campus with Moravian's campus specifically in mind.

After consideration and evaluation of the study and the problems discussed therein, we feel that we can pinpoint a few of our own student government's weaknesses and recommend a few possible solutions.

It appears that weaknesses in USG lie in representation, organization, cooperation with students and cooperation with the faculty and administration.

These problems, though they may exist individually, knit together to form a single weakness. Likewise, though solutions may exist for each individual problem, all the problems must be solved if USG is to fulfill its potential.

The problems of representation and cooperation with the students go hand in hand. In itself, the representation system of USG is adequate. However, it is rendered ineffective due to the fact that USG members do not fulfill their obligation of truly representing their organization and soliciting opinions. Instead they tend to represent themselves rather than their organizations. To alleviate this problem, USG representatives must strive to meet their primary purpose and obligation.

When considering organizational problems of USG, we must realize that it is not as highly respected as it might be. This probably stems from the fact that it is a loosely knit organization made up of many diversified groups with diversified interests. USG must strengthen and unify itself through an effort of centralization from within. Member organizations must take a more active interest in USG and fringe organizations such as standing student and student-faculty committees must be brought into closer contact with the mother organization. This can be done, in part, through periodical reports from all organizations and committees connected with USG.

We feel that the organization of a standing Student Leadership Committee would be most helpful in locating, influencing and training future leaders of the school. The value and potential of such an organization is almost limitless.

Finally, the problem of faculty and administrative cooperation must be considered. If USG strengthens itself through the active and enthusiastic support and respect of the student body, and by making significant contributions to the campus community through its actions, the faculty and administration as a result will render complete cooperation.

We cannot completely and accurately analyze USG or solve all of its problems in a short time. This is a process that takes much time, effort and cooperation on the part of the entire campus community. USG started on its way when it formulated a functional constitution under which it could efficiently run. It cannot stop here, but must continue in its attempt to reach its potential.

Frosh 'Frankly Shocked'

To the Editor,

I was frankly shocked to read in the December 5th issue that there exist in this college certain individuals who consider the freshman class to be composed of a group of incorrigible criminals.

I would be sincerely interested in finding out what psychological authority gives these inert minds the right to look down on our infamous class of 'frosh.'

True, we are the campus novices but we do hold the distinction of being the ones to whom the name of Moravian has been entrusted.

We are willing to admit that, at this point, we might appear to be immature and perhaps in a state of lethargy and have, on two specific occasions, placed our class reputation on an ominous precipice, but let me assure you, we are not impervious to the ignominy which we have so unwittingly brought upon ourselves.

We have made mistakes, but the road to reform does not always lead through reprisal. The records show that we have the ability to carry the name of Moravian to the top. We need a little help. Don't be inimical but rather give us a hand of friendship and we WILL show you.

Condemns Editor's Attitude

To the Editor:

This letter is pertaining to the editorial on the disciplinary committee's actions of this semester. As chairman of the disciplinary committee, I feel it is my duty to take exception with certain points mentioned in last week's editorial.

It isn't only a defense of the committee's action which I wish to make; more important, this is a condemnation of the "holier than thou" attitude of the editor toward this matter.

It is obvious that the editor had no conception of the underlying personal factors in the case involving the freshman. I must also add that this was the first infraction committed by this individual.

Therefore, I find the idea of a blanket punishment for all such cases ridiculous to say the least. A person should not be made the

Did you ever pick up a textbook from some two or three years back and find an absolutely fascinating piece of information that seems very applicable to the present? Now realize this has to be a purely rhetorical question to avoid the all too probable answer of "So who ever picks up a textbook?" because then I would have no transition to the next paragraph and that is bad grammar.

Anyway, the other day in a rather obscure passage in the second chapter of my psychology book (I make it a policy never to read the first several chapters of any book since they are all introductory material. If I did, I would acquire too much background material and the middle of the book would present no challenge), I found the solution to all of my problems of college adjustment.

Though the probability of another human being like me existing is slight, I thought I would pass the information on just in case.

Adjustment according to the psychologists must be measured in terms of the kind of environment, home, college, etc. So if you always seem to be right and the rest of the 799 members of the student body wrong, it is just possible that you are the one that doesn't fit. Now don't jump to any hasty conclusions, but do reflect upon the possibility.

If after due consideration, you realize that this must be the case, don't be too upset. The answer to your problem is a simple one. Just change your environment.

However, the real hurdle here is to find an environment into which you as an individual can really belong. Unfortunately, in most instances as in mine, this is purely a matter of conventional trial and error, and you must wander haplessly through the many phases of our disturbed society to find a set of norms that confirm to your own or for that matter to which you can conform.

I have found one type of personality in the course of my arduous studies, though, for whom the task is greatly simplified. Are you constantly whipping boy to set some type of "example."

In closing, I must commend the work of the committee who smoothed over minor differences to reach an eminently fair verdict in this case as they have in the past. It must also be stated that any decision is not the work of an individual on the committee but rather a democratic decision reached by vote of the entire committee.

Student Interest And Support Will Overcome USG's Problems

This article, which concludes the Comenian's four-part study of student government, has been prepared by the President of Moravian's United Student Government.

by James MacDonald

The infant student government of Moravian College has expanded rapidly in its few short years of existence—perhaps too rapidly for its own welfare.

Our government consists of a comparatively loosely knit group of member organizations. These organizations have little in common, and must perennially place their organizations' welfare first in any voting or discussing situation.

The representatives often only express their own opinions without first gaining a consensus from their membership. This system, if allowed to stand as such, certainly cannot benefit the entire student body.

These faults in our representation are certainly not insurmountable, however. Beginning this year, the United Student Government has prepared a future agenda for the Comenian to publish some time before the next governmental meeting.

Representatives, often becoming acquainted with this agenda, should solicit the opinions of their fellow students on any questions that might possibly arise. Representatives should also be made responsible for reporting any happenings within student government to their respective organizations.

This responsibility should be the concern of the executive committee within each organization. The USG executive committee cannot enforce a ruling on such reports. This type of communication is certainly not impossible for a student body of our size.

Suggestions have already been brought forward to change the type of representation now being used in USG. A move of this sort could seriously impair the strength of many member organizations. Strengthening of communications and cooperation can solidify both the mother organization of the entire student government and protect the member organizations as well.

Adequate and able representation is essential in dealing with the difficult problems that lie ahead for student government at Moravian. The most important of these must stand as the formation of a student union.

Two years ago, after USG had okayed the partial financial support of college-prepared plans for a student union building, a student-faculty committee was set up to look into plans for the organization of such a building.

This year a plan was submitted to the USG president giving the above committee the right to set up a governing system for the student union as a whole. It is at this point that we have reached an impasse.

It is my contention, as it was the past president's, that the student union committee should function as an important branch of the existing student body. USG has given a great deal to the forming of the student union through planning and financing.

It deserves the authority to control this body that will probably be the focal point of all future college life on this campus. It is this right that USG will have to

by George Fiegel

The eight top Grapplers from Moravian College face a tough Albright team tomorrow night on the Albright home mat for the initial match of the year.

Last year Moravian overcame an early scoring deficit and romped to a 22-10 victory. After the first three matches the Lions held a 10-3 lead but folded in the next five.

Indoor Scene

Rocco Zulli—Basketball

The center of this week's indoor scene is Rocco Zulli, a 22-year old senior from Bethlehem.

Rocco is 6' 4" and weighs 200 lbs. He is a senior and jumps center for the Hounds. Zulli attended Liberty High School and while there he won a letter in basketball.

Before coming to Moravian, Zulli attended the Pharmacy School at Temple University for a year and won a letter in basketball.

Zulli won a letter in basketball here at Moravian last year after a year's layoff due to a broken leg and ineligibility.

Zulli who is a business administration major and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity has this to say of this year's team, "I think we are heavily underrated and the way things are shaping up, we should have a good season."

The probable starting line-up for the night goes as follows: Jerry Symons at the 123-lb. weight, Bill Rinker in the 130-lb. class, Gene Medei at 137 pounds, and Roger Grubbs at 147.

Dan Turner will probably hold the 157-lb. spot with Dick Bedics, Dick Schaeffer, and Dave Linaberry in the 167, 177, and heavy-weight spots respectively.

Cagemen Face Rangers, Fords In Coming Tilts

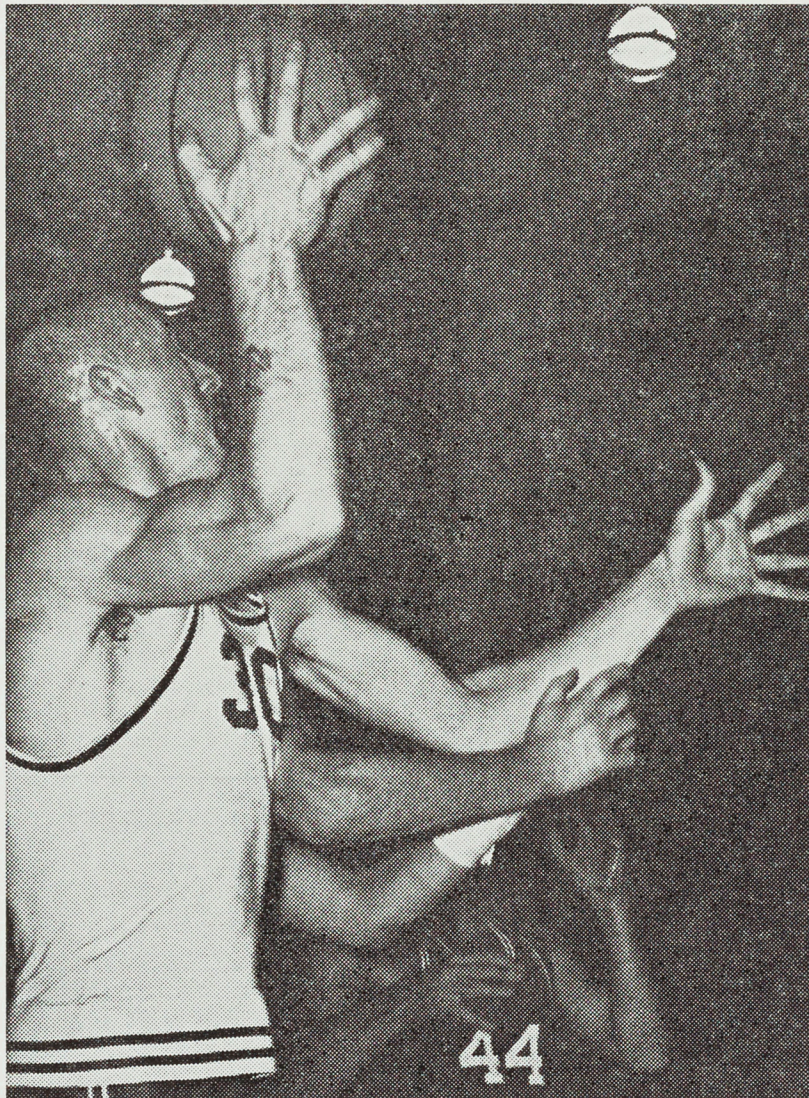

Drew University and Haverford College are the next two opponents that the Moravian College basketball team will face. The Hoopsters will travel to face the Drew Rangers on Monday.

The Fords of Haverford journey to Bethlehem to face the Hounds in Johnston Hall on Wednesday.

Last year the Greyhounds beat the Rangers 101 to 49 in a runaway contest. Against the Fords the cagers came out on top 79 to 66.

Hound cagers to see much action in the two games are Hal Rice, Jim Gano, Rocco Zulli, Leo Stinner, Dick Kosman and Len Zavacky.

Freshmen who made an impressive start against the Fetzer team may see some action too. They are Ron Demko, Ray Pfeiffer, and Denny Robison.

Courtmen Win Opening Game; Trounce Swarthmore 72-55

The Greyhounds opened their 1960-61 basketball season in fine style last Friday evening as they trounced Swarthmore, 72-55.

The game started slowly as both teams made bad passes and missed several field goal attempts.

Moravian's Rocco Zulli finally broke the ice as he tossed up the first field goal of the game after 5 minutes and 40 seconds of the first half.

Hal Rice led the Greyhound scorers with 15 points. Two other Greyhound players also hit double figures.

"Butch" Kosman, from Fountain Hill's State Championship team of a few years ago, swished the nets for 13 points while senior Leo Stinner cashed in 11 points.

Swarthmore's Larry Christianson played a fine game for the losers and tossed in 13 points. He scored on 5 field goals and 3 of 9 attempts from the foul line.

The Hounds were led by the sharp-shooting of Hal Rice from behind the foul circle during the first half.

Kosman's performance dominated the second half as he accounted for 11 of his 13 points during that time.

The fine rebounding of Rocco Zulli, Leo Stinner, and Hal Rice helped Moravian to maintain a good lead throughout the game. These three players hauled in 29 rebounds together.

The Greyhounds converted on about 40% of their field goal attempts. Their foul shooting was a bit better as they scored on 65% of their charity tosses.

The Moravian Jayvees lost the preliminary game to a team from Newton, N. J. by the score of 67-57.

Sports Unillustrated

by Tom & Jay

Congratulations to the basketballers on winning their opening game of the season. There appeared to be a bad case of opening game jitters on the parts of both teams. After the halftime intermission the Hounds seemed to shake the nerves and operated more like a ball club.

It took almost six minutes before anyone managed to score a field goal. The fans were getting excited as the seconds ticked away and you could feel the excitement mount and then break when the first field goal was finally scored.

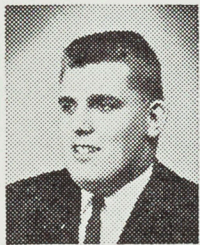

It took Butch Kosman even longer to hit a field goal and this worried the fans a bit. According to our information, Kosman was suffering from a severe cold when he took to the court last Friday night. In the second half Butch seemed to drop the cold and dropped in five goals from the field to look more like the Kosman of last year.

The Grapplers open their season tomorrow night when they travel to Reading to meet the Lions of Albright. It looks like a great season in the making for coach Paul Kuklantz's squad. With a bevy of returning lettermen and a good group of newcomers, Kuklantz will have more talent to pick from than ever before in his three years as wrestling coach here at Moravian.

The greatest sporting event in the athletic history of Moravian College is beginning to take shape. We can't say what it is right now, but ask Hank Cordray why he is buying all those shovels and buckets.

Cordray is very happy these days since his hometown Philadelphia Eagles wrapped up the championship of the Eastern division of the National Football League.

Kosman's 35 Paces Squad In Second Win

by Jay Scholl

The Greyhounds did it again! Led by Dick Kosman, the Hound cagers defeated Muhlenberg on Wednesday, 73-61 for the second year. This was only the fourth victory for the Hounds in the 39 game series.

Kosman bagged 35 points and shot at a 51 per cent clip from the floor. The Greyhounds, as a team, made 45 per cent of their shots. Other Hounds in double figures were Hal Rice, with 11, and Jim Gano with 10.

High for the Mules was George Gilfillan with 15 points. He was followed by Ron Hoffman, with 12 points.

Moravian dominated the action throughout the game. The Mules never led and were able to tie only at 2-2, and early in the second half at 34-34.

Leo Stinner scored six out of the first seven Hound tallies. His total scoring for the night was nine points.

The crowd was treated to fancy shooting by Rice and Gano, but the Hounds only managed to achieve a two point half-time lead, 36-34.

At the start of the second half, it looked as if the Mules might pull away. The score was tied at 36 all, but Gano sank a foul shot and Kosman put in two quick jumpers. This was the last time the Muhlenberg team got close.

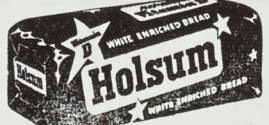

From this point on, the Moravian Cagers pulled steadily away. They led 57-48 at the 30 minute mark and were well on their way for their second straight victory.

At one point during the last 10 minutes of the contest, Kosman polled nine straight points to put the lead at 66-56.

One of the contributing factors for the winning cause was the outstanding rebounding of Moravian's three "big" men, Rocco Zulli, Len Zavacky and Stinner.

The Political Activities Club requested an allocation of $250 to partially defray expenses for a proposed trip to Washington, D.C. Under the USG Constitution, action on this was tabled until the next meeting. (See story on page one).

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, was voted membership in the governmental body.

MacDonald reported that Ogo, the college mascot, will be placed temporarily in a kennel, since Dr. J. Richard Jones, professor of history, who has been caring for the dog, will be unable to do so in the future.

In other business, a motion to grant the Rau Science Society an additional $15 for a science award was defeated on the grounds that such an award would tend to duplicate administrative awards now granted in biology and chemistry and that such action might set a precedent which it would be impractical for USG to follow.

A committee to make recommendations to the faculty regarding grading procedures has been organized by Alan Lippman. The committee, which will meet shortly, is composed of Linda Burnett, Carla Dinstel, Thomas Christianson and Robert Sallash.

protect in the very near future through intensely careful preparation.

While speaking of the future and in closing, may I include my personal plea for the possibility of the formation of an academic honor system at Moravian. The idea of an honor system, as such, smacks of misplaced idealism to many persons. But nevertheless, the practicality of an honor system has been proven time and time again in major colleges and universities across the country.

USG, through one of its hardest working committees, has spent countless hours in sifting and evaluating the pros and cons of such a system. Much more time will be expended toward formulating a strong system of this type. We hope, in student government, that the student body will carefully consider the time spent on this system, as well as its other points, in giving an unbiased verdict in this case.

The above problems could very well strangle a struggling student government. Only continued interest and support by the student body will enable USG to gain new strength during such a time of stress.

Teacher Examination Set For February

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 160 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, Feb. 11, 1961.

A Bulletin of Information (in which an application is inserted) describing registration procedures may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N.J.

Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the ETS office through Jan. 13, 1961.

said. No preference will be given to any member of the student body, including the members of PAC. A fee of $5 will be collected at that time.

At a USG meeting held Tuesday evening, PAC requested a sum of $250 to partially cover expenses. The remainder of the required funds will be derived from a $100 grant by PAC and from the student registration fee which will total $225.

Anticipated expenses will include $245 for rental of the bus, $315 for hotel reservations and incidental expenses. Participants will be required to pay for their own meals.

USG will act on the requested allocation at its next meeting.

Traveling with the group will be faculty members Dr. Otis H. Shao, advisor to PAC, Dr. Mary C. Kennedy and Dr. Daniel Gilbert, all of the departments of history and political science.

ANNOUNCING AIR FORCE OFFICER TRAINING SCHOOL FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

Three-month course leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant. If you are graduating this June, you may be eligible for admission to the new Air Force Officer Training School. Successful completion of the three-month course wins you a commission, and a head-start on a bright, rewarding future in the Aerospace Age. The School is open to men and women college graduates with certain technological and administrative skills. If you are selected for the School, you will receive Staff Sergeant pay while a trainee. Graduated officers may later apply for advanced training and graduate study at government expense. Male officers may also apply for flight training as pilots or navigators. For the career-minded young officer, the Air Force way of life can be stimulating, exciting and full of meaning. He will be serving himself, his family and his nation. This is the Aerospace Age. It is a time when a career in Air Force blue has so much to offer the young man or woman who qualifies. The Air Force is seeking only a select group of college graduates for admission into Officer Training School. However, we'd be happy to send detailed information to any senior who is interested. Just write: Officer Training School Information, Dept. SC012, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C. There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team. U.S. Air Force
