

USG Votes, 17-5, To Withdraw From NSA; WRMC To Begin Broadcasting On Wednesday

Station Plans To Air Music, News, Sports

WRMC, Moravian College's newly chartered radio station, will take the air for the first time on Wednesday, March 1 at 4 p.m. The station will be on the air 24 hours a day and will be heard at 640 kc. on the AM dial.

The programming will originate from the studio of WRMC in Comenius Hall only between the hours of 4 p.m. and midnight daily with the exception of Saturday. During the rest of the day the programming will emanate from the facilities of Lehigh University's station, WLRN.

Bernard Staller, station manager of WRMC, stated that the philosophy, or main purpose of the station, will be to provide "music to study by." However, music will not be the only feature to be presented. News commentaries, sports features and various special programs will be heard and will be announced beforehand.

For the present time only dormitory students in Rau Hassler Dormitory on North Campus, and Clewell Hall, Main Hall, South Hall, and West Hall on South Campus will receive the station's presentations.

Staller stated that "expansion in receiving area to all campus buildings and living areas is in the station's developmental plan."

Most of the station's programming will consist of various types of music. Craig Borst, Alan Bornstein, David Coe and Lynn Pierce will alternate during the week on a two and a half hour musical program between 4 and 6:30 p.m. Daily news commentaries will be heard from 6:30 to 6:45 p.m.

"Concert Masterworks" and "Jazz" will be featured between 7 and 11 p.m. daily and a type of "Nightwatch" program will be heard from 11 p.m. to midnight.

Most of the records heard will be supplied from private student collections, Staller said.

Shows such as panel discussions, interviews, debates, organizational programs, student concerts, student dramatic presentations and other similar programs, although conspicuously absent from the schedule, Staller continued, have not been neglected and will appear as "special programs" and will be announced beforehand over the air and will be publicized in The Comenian.

In consideration of sports coverage, Staller stated that WRMC plans for the present to broadcast only nearby away events such as fayettes with Muhlenberg and Lafayette due to the prohibitive ex-

Gordon Declares Archaeology 'Opens New Chapters In Art'

The purpose of archaeology is "not just filling museums, but opening up new chapters in art," Dr. Cyrus Gordon, professor of Middle East Studies at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., told students at yesterday's convocation.

Archaeological investigations "enable us in an objective way to verify historical documents" and give "concrete illustrations that otherwise would be only words on the written page," he explained.

"The big change in archaeological motivation is to get away from the idea of finding treasure and to deal rather with historical problems." Thus there can be a factual base for ancient history rather than reliance on scholarly hypotheses, he said.

The evolution of man's accomplishment can be observed well in excavated mounds in which each succeeding age had built up on their ancestors' dwellings.

However, Gordon added, much can be learned by studying the people of the Middle East as well as ancient artifacts and build-

Albrecht Is Chosen Elections Chairman

Jane Albrecht was chosen chairman of the Elections Committee for next year at a meeting of the committee held Tuesday afternoon in Comenius Hall. Selected to serve as clerk was Judy Studwell.

Miss Albrecht, a junior sociology major, is from Camp Hill, Pa. In addition to her position on the Elections Committee, she has served on the Women's Dormitory Council. She is a member of Alpha Epsilon Pi Sorority, Mu Sigma Epsilon Sociological Society and the Inter-sorority Council.

Miss Studwell, a sophomore English major from Port Chester, N.Y., is a member of the women's field hockey team and the Women's Athletic Association.

ings. The psychology of Middle Easterners is far different from the psychology of Americans. They still regard, as did the ancients, natural occurrences as direct interventions of God instead of interpreting them through physical laws.

Gordon spoke informally with faculty and students in the Rau-Hassler Lounge in the afternoon.

Warfield, 'Singing Ambassador,' To Perform In Recital Here

William Warfield, who has been called "America's singing ambassador to the world," will appear in a recital tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in Johnston Hall. The bass-baritone, noted for his interpretive mastery of music in eight languages, will perform in a program which will include a representative sampling of his varied repertoire.

The first part of the program will feature selections from "Judas Maccabeus," by Handel and "Don Carlo," by Verdi. A hymn by Purcell and motets by Viadana and Grandi, in addition to selections by Schubert and Wolf, will also be included.

Following an intermission, Warfield will sing three songs by Bowles, Swanson and Dougherty and a series of Negro spirituals.

The American artist is presently engaged in extensive continental appearances. He has also sung abroad at the behest of the Department of State for the purpose of giving audiences in foreign countries an opportunity to hear representative American music. He toured Europe in 1955 with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy.

In addition, Warfield has made two concert tours around the

Lack Of Representation Cited; Possible Local Congress Hinted

by Dave Howard and John Schlegel

The United Student Government (USG) voted to withdraw its membership from the United States National Student Association (NSA) at a meeting held on South Campus Tuesday evening.

Representative Charles Canning urged the withdrawal action, basing his feeling on the following points: (1) NSA has done nothing for Moravian College or any other small liberal arts college; (2) NSA is too concerned with national and international politics; (3) NSA does not provide the amount of information expected from the amount of dues paid annually; (4) NSA does not truly represent the million-student members it claims in its membership.

Canning offered the two possible solutions of either revising NSA from within or getting out of NSA and forming a student congress composed of colleges and universities in this area.

Lengthy discussion of the validity of these points followed, and the vote on the proposal was taken, with the motion being favored 17 to 5.

Final recommendations of the Grading System Committee were presented by chairman Alan Liipman, urging adoption of a new scale based on a twelve point system. The committee proposed standardization of testing and grading procedures. The report was presented to USG president James MacDonald.

A motion was made and passed for USG to absorb a printing cost of $216 for 900 copies of the new student activities calendar. These calendars will be distributed to students, faculty and administration early in September.

A motion was made to print only enough Student Handbooks for the freshman class and upperclassmen who request copies. This proposal was tabled.

A vote of confidence was given to the Women's Activities Committee to go ahead with preliminary plans for organizing a carnival in conjunction with the Spring Festival. All representatives were asked to return to their organizations and discuss the possibility of setting up booths for the affair. Norma Guritsky, chairman of WAC, added that the profits would be donated to either the college building fund or a charity.

A motion was made to purchase two spotlights for $350 to be used in conjunction with college events. Under the USG Constitution action on this was tabled.

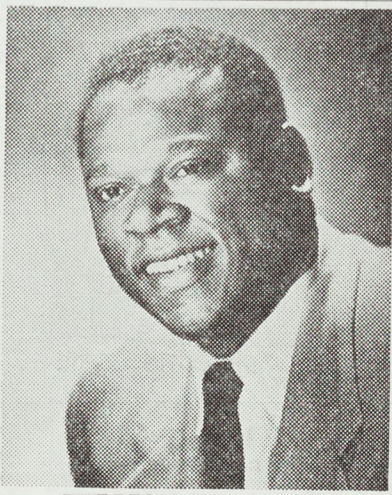

Petitions and nominations from the floor were accepted for USG officers for the coming year. (See another story on this page).

In further business, Mu Sigma Sigma petitioned USG for membership and presented its constitution for consideration.

His domestic appearances include the movie production of "Showboat" and the opera, "Porgy and Bess," in which he was acclaimed in the role of Porgy.

Sad State of Affairs

It's a pretty sad state of affairs when the junior class can't find a single nominee for the office of president of USG. Of the nine students who petitioned for USG offices only four were juniors and three of these are running for the office of treasurer, certainly not an office which requires great leadership ability.

What's the matter with these individuals and other members of this "distinguished" class? Are they afraid to tackle a job with a real challenge and some responsibility?

The class of '62 in the past has been referred to as the "do-nothings," the "losers" and other uncomplimentary names. This is a pretty rash generalization but perhaps one which is not completely unfounded. This class has certainly not set the campus on fire with its overall enthusiasm, usefulness and service. In fact, it is probably as poor a class as has come along in several years. But this is not the main point.

There are certain individuals who are outstanding in their fields and who could greatly benefit their class, their organizations, and their school if they would accept their responsibilities and obligations.

Henry Cordray is one of these individuals. He is probably the most dynamic individual and leader on the campus today. He, almost single-handedly, has pulled PAC from the lowest depths up to one of the most enthusiastic and active organization at Moravian College. Of course, he had able assistants, but PAC's success can be attributed to him.

He refuses to run for president saying that one man alone cannot revitalize USG and that he can be just as helpful to USG as a committee head. This is ridiculous. He has proven himself to be a superior leader, one of the best presidents PAC has ever had. If he can do this for PAC, he can do it for USG to a greater degree.

Another one of his arguments, however, namely that USG elections are merely popularity contests and that the best qualified people are often not elected is woefully true. Strong "political" factions push their man through regardless of his capabilities and truly qualified and interested candidates are left by the wayside.

It will be most unfortunate for the good of the school and the future of USG if Henry Cordray is not elected president. With the proper administration and cooperation he could turn USG into an ideal student governing body. Almost anyone can run USG but it takes a dynamic leader to revitalize and strengthen it. We can't be satisfied with the status quo. We must strive to move ahead. And to move ahead, we must have the best man leading.

Therefore, we urge Henry Cordray to run for the office of president and we strongly beseech the student body to vote for the best qualified candidates. "Nice guys" are swell in their place but their place is not necessarily in the offices of USG.

Hauptert Views College Progress Since 1944; Foresees Excellent Opportunities For Future

by Ted Rights

On few other campuses could an undergraduate student come to know the president of his college in the same personal way as many Moravian students have come to know their own college president, Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert. Even most freshmen would have little trouble recognizing his lean figure and resolute stride as he fairly runs to and fro from Comenius Hall to his office in Colonial Hall.

Many of the upperclassmen will regale those who would care to listen with tales concerning Dr. Hauptert's love of physical fitness. Some students expressed concern when the president appeared at Christmas Vespers wearing a topcoat. In order to allay any fears that at 58 years of age he was going soft, he subsequently appeared on several zero-degree days sans topcoat.

One story has it that Mrs. Robert P. Snyder awoke early one morning and rather than turn over and go back to sleep until seven o'clock, she decided to put out the wash. This she did, and while she stood outside in the cool morning air congratulating herself because all ordinary people were still snug in bed, along came Dr. Hauptert past her house, completing his daily two-mile run.

Another story, probably apocryphal, concerns the doctor's almost compulsive determination to acknowledge every piece of mail which comes across his desk. It seems that Time-Life Inc. recently received a letter from the president thanking them for an offer for a subscription to one of their magazines, but "no," he already subscribed.

I have been one of the lucky ones who has come to know Dr. Hauptert even better. Over the past four years, I have time and again talked to him as a representative of student organizations, as a close friend of the family, and as an interested student.

It was then in somewhat the capacity of an old friend that I sat down with Dr. Hauptert several days ago and asked him to analyze the course of his administration, what he felt had been accomplished since he took over the reins of the presidency in 1944, and what he looked forward to as the future course of this college.

Dr. Hauptert first looked at some of his early problems as a college administrator. When he first became president, the student body was severely reduced in size on account of the war. From a pre-war high of 170, enrollment had dropped to the point where only eighteen students and eight full-time faculty remained. The Board of Trustees seriously considered closing down the institution. Dr. Hauptert recalls an airforce officer pounding on the pulpit in chapel and saying—"Make up your minds that you're all going to be in it." Yet within three years the enrollment had jumped to 367, and today, seventeen years later, it stands at approximately 800.

In terms of endowment fund, facilities, and academic program, Moravian was probably one of the poorest colleges in the country in 1944. Moravian endowment has risen from approximately $10.5 million in 1944 to $12.9 million today. Dr. Hauptert further stated that the college has made significant strides in the building of its physical plant and the raising of the quality of the intellectual challenge to the student.

I asked the president for the specific problems in the past which he felt had imposed the greatest burden upon him. He, never a man to admit to the tremendous amount of work he really does, was hard put to name any time during the college's growth which had been really difficult. He did admit that the merger of the colleges in 1953 caused much worry before it took place, but once the merger had begun, he said, the problems were not as great as he had expected.

Looking ahead, Dr. Hauptert predicts tremendous opportunities in the '60's, but when I asked him to be more specific, he could shed little more light on the subject. He simply stated that the intellectual attitude of both students and faculty were changing for the better—the students because of a continued stiffening of admissions policy, the faculty because of both growing awareness of their opportunity and a careful selection of new faculty.

I asked what the goals were for the future. Again he was vague, saying that faculty Christian Fellowship was, at the present moment, drawing up a statement of goals and purposes. Until that is released he's unwilling to make a statement.

Hauptert did foresee two areas in which the college would go forward: First, the international interests of the college will grow. Second, the college will have a growing interest in the education-

Bittersweet

by Ronald J. Stupak

Gee, there are so many incidents about which I could write this week that I have become confused. For example, the poor response the hard working Social Activities Committee received from the "above-it-all" students who refused to come to the "Mardi Gras" Ball, or about the villains who ruined the TKE's "Yogi Bear," or about the poor cooperation given by certain quarters to the students who worked so hard in getting together the donkey basketball game for the building fund, or about the lack of a proper procedure in calling off classes during exceptionally bad snow storms; or about the parking problem that exists around the campus. But, No! Students will just say that I'm an "angry old man" who gets his "kicks" by harassing every poor soul who happens to make a campus blunder. Therefore, I shall rise above this accusation and devote this entire article to an examination of ten steps on how you, too, can become a successful convocation speaker at Moravian College.

First, have a message — any kind of a message just so it can serve as an outlet by which you can be quoted in The Comenian.

Second, speak without the microphone and make a series of violent movements. This will allow the "loafers" in the back of the audience to make wagers that you'll lose your voice. And the gestures will confuse the people who are trying to find a meaning in your message, especially when you totter over the end of the platform.

Third, mention sex, for this will stimulate the attention of the "animals" who will either drool or exhibit a silly grin on their faces.

Fourth, tell a funny story. Why, with any luck you may even wake up the tired, aging, and "forty-hour-work-a-week," veterans.

Fifth, mention religion. This will excite the appetite of the stray professor who has staggered in from the elements and also the pseudo- intellectuals may become interested enough to try to start thinking.

Sixth, swear! The audience will become quiet, plus you'll become a big hit with the college "tough guys."

Seventh, call yourself a sinner. This will take a burden off everyone's back and make you gloriously one of the group.

Eighth, make a wisecrack about the college cafeteria. This is usually a sore spot on any campus; thus you will become the "Simon Bolivar" of the dorm students.

Ninth, don't charge any money for your appearance. This makes it a safe bet that you'll be invited back year after year after year.

And finally, end your speech about ten minutes earlier than the time allotted. This will enable the students to wake each other up, so no one will be late for his next class.

P.S. If you have time, go to the local pub and down a few with the campus "Hearty-Fellows" for this will be the apex of the whole speech. Why, you may even be mistaken for a normal human being.

Vets Outscore Politicians 14-4 In Donkey Tilt

by Tom Fromhartz

"Break out the liniment, mother, the donkeys are here." That was the cry heard last Tuesday night in Johnston Hall as the Vets defeated the Political Activities Club 14-4 in the first donkey basketball game played at Moravian.

The Vets jumped off to a 14-0 lead which they held until late in the final period when Henry "Loser" Cordray scored two quick baskets to account for all the PAC scoring.

The Vets had a powerful starting lineup which featured aggressive Ron "Two Dab" Stupak, Ivan "The Terrible" Vadelund, Dan "The Sheik" Pavuk and Bob "Daddy" Muth.

The PAC-Faculty combo featured Don "Bugs" Morrow, Ed "Dead-eye" Schultz and faculty members Jack "Flash" Ridge and Charlie "Money-bags" Kuhn.

Playing ten-minute quarters the Vets far outclassed the PAC squad as Muth celebrated the birth of a daughter by leading the Vets to victory.

Cordray led the politicians in defeat (he voted for Nixon too) and was aided in his cause by Terry Jones, Frank Jones, Wasil Yurchak and Tom Fromhartz.

John Woltzen, Mike Elias and Gerhard Zeller, all members of the faculty, tried to pull out the upset win for the politicians.

Wilkes Romps, Hands Hounds Initial Setback

by Bob Sallash

The Wilkes Colonels once again proved to be too formidable a foe for the Moravian forces as they extended their mat supremacy over the Hounds by a 21-11 score.

Bill Rinker wrestled one of the finest matches of his career and foiled the efforts of Wilkes' Brooke Yeager, to post a 7-5 win in their 123 lb. bout.

Gene Medei, wrestling at 130 lb., met Dick Stauffer who owns the only dual meet victories over Rinker. The first period ended without either man scoring.

Stauffer selected the top position at the start of the second period and held Medei in check with a beautiful exhibition of leg wrestling.

Medei countered Stauffer's attempt in the final period as he rode his opponent for three minutes. The bout ended in a 0-0 draw.

Roger Grubbs wrestled Wilkes' senior Mike Armstrong at 137 lb. Grubbs built up an early lead but lost it as Armstrong gained a 6-6 draw on time advantage.

At 147 lb. Moravian's Dick Bedics worked hard to build up an early lead on take downs and reverses.

However, his determined opponent Harry Vogt took advantage of a break mid-way through the second period and slipped a chauncery and body press on his tired adversary in 5:26.

Dan Turner faced a classy opponent in Wilkes' Martin Strayer at 157 lb. Turner held a 4-3 advantage.

Grapplers Visit Lebanon Valley To Conclude Season's Matches

by Bob Fatzinger

Coach Paul Kuklantz and his Moravian College grapplers face the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley tomorrow night, making the final dual meet for the Hounds in the 1960-61 season.

The Hounds will be lead by Bill Rinker, Gene Medei, and Dick Schaeffer, who all sport distinguished undefeated records for the current season.

Another Hound expected to do well is Dan Turner who has regained his old form after an upset loss at the hands of Bob Martin of Muhlenberg.

Jack Gavin, a freshman, is another grappler who has improved since the beginning of the season.

One week ago the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley tied a weak Juniata squad, 14-14.

Last year the Hound's won easily over the Dutchmen by a 24-8 margin.

Rinker, Medei and Turner registered falls in that match while Bedics and Schaeffer scored decisions.

HANDBALL

All students interested in an Intramural Handball Tournament have been requested to register in Mr. Calvo's office before March 6. There will be singles and doubles played.

OGO's Take I-M Bowling Loop Title; Lead In Basketball

The final week of intra-mural bowling has closed with the OGO 1 team holding top spot. In contests during the final week OGO 1 took four points from TKE 4. Ken Sepe led the OGO's with a 621 series. Barry Waldron was high for TKE with 485.

The SPO 5 team took three points from OGO 2. Don Morrow led the SPO team with a 505, while Grove Stoddard was high for OGO with a 509 series.

TKE 3 managed to take four points from the Vets 8 team. Phil Warnke led the TKE's with a 513 and Ivan Vadelund led the Vets with a 473.

The SPO 6 team also took four points in their match. They played the Vets 7. Gordon Erlocher led the Vets with a 483 and Bob Rothrock was high for SPO with a 508 series.

In the Grey League intra-mural basketball tournament, the Frosh beat the Day Students 51-36.

In a contest with the Bandits, the Frosh lost 34-29. High for the Bandits was Barry Shollenberger with 16. Frank Grablach-off led the Frosh with 11.

The Barons beat the Aces 62-31. High scorer for the Barons was Neil Foley with 23, while George Fiegel was high for the Aces with 13.

In the Blue League the OGO 1 team beat Pi Mu 43-15.

Moravian Hosts MAC's, 17 Schools To Participate

by Bob Sallash

The annual Middle Atlantic Conference wrestling championships will be held at Moravian for the first time next weekend, on Friday, March 3, and Saturday, March 4.

The official weighing-in for the various weight classes will begin at noon on Friday, March 3.

Hoopsters Face PMC, Upsala To End Season

by Garry Straughn

The Moravian basketball team finishes the season next Wednesday in Johnston Hall when it plays host to the Cadets of Pennsylvania Military College.

Tomorrow night in the final road trip of the 1960-61 schedule the team travels to do battle with the Vikings of Upsala.

Upsala which has a 2-5 record in Middle Atlantic Conference play, has posted a poor 4-15 record so far this season.

Upsala's attack is centered around three returning lettermen. Bob Brandes, who stands 6-5 and is averaging 25 rebounds per game, along with Bob Prussack and Ron Jackowitz lead the Upsala squad.

The Cadets of P.M.C. have eight returning lettermen.

Gary Piff, former Bethlehem High star, will lead the Cadets.

Along with Piff the Cadets have last year's leading rebounder in 6-4 Bob Adelman, Tom Driscoll, a top defensive star, and Vince Gorman who was second last year in both scoring and rebounding.

Last year the Cadets came back strong in the second half to overcome a 40-34 margin to top the Hounds 79-70.

Moravian will again be without the services of ace playmaker Jim Gano who will be out for the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

Following this the seeding committee will prepare and plan the matches for the opening round which are to begin at 2 p.m. of the same afternoon.

Quarter-finals are to be held on Friday evening. The semi-final round and the first consolation round will begin at 1 p.m.

The final round and bouts for third and fourth place will be held on Saturday evening, starting at 7 p.m.

Seventeen colleges and universities in the Middle Atlantic Conference will be represented in the tournament. The list is headed by Wilkes College which has won the title for the last three years.

Other teams which are considered to be a threat to Wilkes' domination of the championship include Bucknell, West Chester, Lycoming, Hofstra and Moravian.

Several defending champions are expected to return this year in an attempt to collect another title for themselves.

This list includes Wilkes' Dick Stauffer (130 lb.) and Marv Antinnes (177 lb.) plus Moravian's own Dick Schaeffer (167 lbs.).

Cagers Whip Royals 87-72; Bow To Lions

by George Fiegel

The Moravian College cagers upset the Scranton Royals last Thursday night 86-72 on the opposer's court. Len Zavacky served as the spark of the team by scoring 25 points.

There were three other Hounds to reach double figures to give the team all-around support. Leo Stinner, Rocco Zulli, and Dick Kosman scored 10, 17, and 19 points respectively.

The Hounds built up an impressive 50-36 lead at the end of the first half and were able to use most of their reserves for a better part of the second half.

This win provided a change from the short lived slump suffered by the home cagers and put their record at 10-6 for the season.

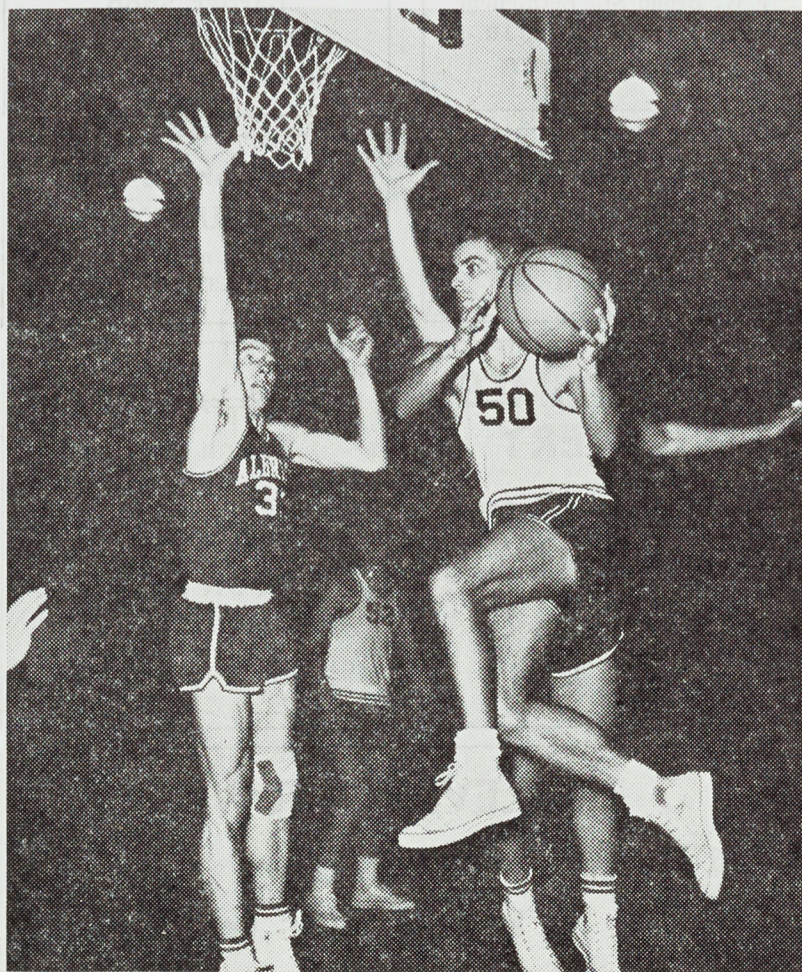

In the preliminary game the Royal Frosh beat the Hound Jayvees by the score of 91-88.

Albright College increased their first place lead in the Middle Atlantic Conference by downing the Hounds of Moravian by a score of 81-48 on the home court last Monday night.

Moravian's ace Dick "Butch" Kosman was able to score 13 points and was the only Hound Cager in the double figures. The Albright team had four men in double figures led by Tom Pearsall who had 26.

The Lions of Albright outscored and outrebounded the Hounds tremendously.

Albright remained in first position in the League with a 12-1 record.

Prizes Given At Saturday's Costume Ball

First prize of $5 was awarded to "African cannibals" Linda McHenry and Dale Berger at the first costume "Mardi Gras" ball held in Johnston Hall last Saturday evening, and sponsored by the Social Activities Committee.

Stephanie Rights and Alan Lippman, dressed as Claudia and Pontius Pilate, were awarded the second prize of $3, and "babies" Marta Roberts and Charles Merkel won third prize of $2.

The faculty award was presented to Mephistophiles and the Witch, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Zeller, who were presented with a clear glass pitcher. Honorable mentions for the faculty went to Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Zeller and Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith.

All students and faculty who attended the ball wore costumes.

Music was provided by the costumed orchestra of Matt Gillespie, and refreshments were served.

USG Election . . .

Bruce Robertson, chairman of the Elections Committee, announced that a voting machine has been secured for both the primary and general elections. The machine, to be acquired through the chief clerk of Northampton County, will be set up in the lobby of Comenius Hall.

A sample board will be placed outside the booth to familiarize all students with voting procedures before entering to vote.

The voting booth will be equipped to take care of write-in votes for the primary election, Robertson added. The primary election is run for the purpose of reducing the number of candidates for each office to two and also to account for any write-in ballots, Robertson concluded.

He also announced tentative plans for coverage of the Middle Atlantic Conference Wrestling Tournament to be held on Moravian's campus on March 3 and 4. When sports events and special programs are planned they will often replace regularly scheduled programs, Staller added.

He also said that the station plans to cover exclusively the Lehigh Valley Intramural Basketball Tournament which will be held in Johnston Hall next month.

The station received funds for its organization and operation in the form of a $310 allocation from USG at its meeting on Feb. 7

Tonight's Free Movie

"Seven Brides For Seven Brothers," a movie filmed in 1954 and starring Jane Powell and Howard Keel, will be shown in rooms 9 and 10 of Johnston Hall today at 7:30 p.m.

According to the July 12, 1954 issue of Time magazine, "It is the liltiest bit of tunesome lolly-gagging to hit the screen in quite a while."

The light-hearted musical version of the "Rape of the Sabine Women" is based on a short story by Stephen Vincent Benet.

With the oldest brother married, the other six feel they should "take a wife" also.

In the dead of night, the brothers kidnap six girls from a nearby town and carry them away into the mountains of Oregon for a winterlong courtship. The movie deals with the antics of the seven couples.

al heritage of the Moravians. The president views last year's dedication of the Comenius statue as a significant first step towards the tapping of previously unused historical and educational resources which give this college distinction.

I questioned how this college had truly been able to move forward or how it intended to make more progress when its purposes and goals were still so nebulous. The doctor admitted that little of the college's purpose had been put into words, but rigorously denied that the college consequently lacked purpose. Said Dr. Hauptert, "I think it can be shown statistically that in the last 20 years the institution has made the kind of progress which cannot easily be called the result of drifting."

Moravian's Dick Schaeffer picked up points on a take-down and escape as he held a 3-2 advantage in the final period of his match.

However, his opponent, former MAC champion Ted Toluba, picked up the tying point during the last two minutes of their bout as Schaeffer was penalized for stalling.

Three time MAC champion Marv Antinnes clinched the Wilkes' victory as he pinned Moravian's Doug Wilkins with a half nelson and crotch in 5:21.

Bob Herman ended the match with a convincing 6-1 win over Moravian's Steve Edraney.

RAU Science Film Series Begins Today

"A Thread of Life," a film dealing with the perplexities of genetics and human life, will be presented by the Rho Alpha Upsilon science society today at 4 p.m. in the Science Building on North Campus.

This is the first in a series of films to continue through May 12 and will be open to the entire student body, Jacob Elliott, President of the organization, announced this week.

These films have been selected by students in the arts and humanities as well as the sciences, to afford a wide range of subject matter.

Moravian Hosts MAC's . . .

According to Moravian coach Paul Kuklantz, who is running the meet for the Middle Atlantic Conference, three mats will be used at once on the floor of Johnston Hall.

Student activity cards cannot be used for admittance to any of the four sessions. Admission for the preliminary and quarterfinal bouts to be held on Friday will be 65 cents.

On Saturday the prices increase to $1 for the semi-finals in the afternoon and $1.25 for the finals that evening. Admission to all four sessions is $3.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Johnston Hall box office, or may be secured at the door.
