

CEREMONY TO OPEN NEW STUDENT UNION

Building Finished Ahead Of Schedule

Festivity Plans Announced By Sider; 'Stretch Time' Highlights Afternoon

Opening ceremonies for the new Student Union Building will be held tomorrow afternoon during the seventh inning stretch time of the baseball game, Robert "Porky" Sider, director of underdevelopment at Mooravian College, announced early this week.

The Student Union was completed six months prior to its proposed deadline. This was done in order "to keep in line with the other building projects on the campus which have always been completed ahead of schedule," Sider remarked.

"The twelve-story building has not been entirely completed," Sider stated, "however, the first five floors will be adequate until the student body is enlarged."

Sider added that the remainder of the floors will be turned temporarily into hotel rooms. The revenue from this project will be used to pay for the total cost of the building which will run somewhere around $13,000,000.

Sider also stated that four of the five floors will be reserved for the overflow crowd which are present at UUSG meetings. The installation of a public address system will be necessitated by the great student interest in the campus government.

The top two floors of the twelve story structure will be set aside for offices for the campus government leaders. A secretarial staff of twenty strong will handle administrative matters which these leaders face even today.

Although a battle over administration of the Student Union Building has been raging between UUSG president Ogilvie W. Grumpy Jr. and the college administration, The Comedian has been informed by usually accurate sources that a secret organization composed of our nation's ex-defenders led by John Pablum plan

WASHINGTON TRIP IS EXPOSED AS SCANDALOUS, SUBVERSIVE

Grumpy Gains UUSG Post; Wins Election By Landslide

Ogilvie W. Grumpy, Jr., well known wagon wheeler about campus, was installed as Un-United Student Government (UUSG) president at its regular meeting held on Saturday afternoon at the football field.

Grumpy was also installed as secretary and treasurer of UUSG during the meeting. He had refused the post of vice-president because he "didn't want to assume too much responsibility and therefore get behind in his studies." The installation of the new officers marked the end of the general election, conducted in Comeanness Hall last week.

O. W. GRUMPY JR.

The primary election, held two weeks ago, found no students running for the various offices of the UUSG. A final tabulation of the ballots showed that Grumpy had received one write-in vote for each office.

The general election found 101 percent of the student body voting for the three offices, Grumpy receiving all the votes, of course. An investigation followed concerning the fact that more students voted than attend Moravian College.

The investigations committee, appointed by the president of UUSG, found that the Elections Committee, also appointed by the president of UUSG, was stuffing the ballot box. The members of the committee will be brought before the Disciplinary Committee, which is also appointed by the president of UUSG, for disciplinary action.

Since there was no one running for the office of vice-president, a committee appointed by the president will take over the duties of the vice-presidency.

When interviewed as to why he felt he could handle these jobs, Grumpy cheerfully stated, "Even though I am only a freshman, I have been around the institution quite a while, and I feel that I can do just as good a job as anyone else, since the UUSG is a nothing organization anyway." The newly elected president added that he was used to cleaning up messes, and the UUSG was nothing new.

In other business, Grumpy announced that the UUSG meetings would continue to be held on the athletic field since that was the only place in the area to accommodate all students attending.

In reorganizing UUSG, it was found that the best way to represent the student body was to "invite" them all to attend. Starting next week convo tickets will be passed out to insure that all students accept the "invitation."

Appreciative Parent Replies

To the editor:

I am writing to you as a very much relieved parent. The letter which came from Dean Lumpiver concerning drinking was excellent. He suggested that my wife, who was recently elected secretary of the local A.A., and myself sit down and discuss the drinking situation at Mooravian. This we did.

In doing so we found out why our son has been overcut in all his subjects and also why he was flunking all his tests. The answer turned out to be cheap booze.

After much discussion and a very heated argument we finally convinced him to switch to good booze instead of that terrible-watered-down beer that they serve at the Tally-Ha Ha.

It would also suggest that a committee be organized with Charlie Flecker as chairman to investigate and recommend on behalf of Mooravian the better bars and safer places for our sons to relax and find some activities. Since the college refuses to provide activities for its students the least it could do is recommend places for the students to go.

Congratulations Dean Lumpiver for facing this problem so realistically. I am sure our son will be a better boozier from your efforts.

"Cheers"

Mooravian Students Retard Government Operation During Riotous Excursion

by Walter Wetshell

Now it can be told! It can be suppressed no longer by the free beer parties for the Comedian staff down at the old College Stew, thrown by the Political Activities Club, or by the free fortune cookies from Doctor Schmoo's wife, or by the bribes of Comrade Henry Corduroy. The Comedian staff (now that is it leaving) realizes its responsibility to the student body—The Washington Trip must be exposed!

It was a base, subversive, and highly unintellectual trip. In fact, one of the Senators we met from Pennsylvania was reportedly overheard saying, "Biggest bunch of idiots I ever met! I don't believe they're college students." However, being as drunk as we were it is doubtful whether anyone could hear anybody saying anything.

Well, now down to the incidentals. We stayed at a hotel called "The Rescue Mission." The rooms were quite spacious, but some of the students resented being strapped in their beds for fear that they could not defend themselves against the roaches and bed bugs.

Yet, when you're sleeping 45 to one room, you don't want too much moving around.

Our first stop in the morning was at "Benny's Biggest Beer In Washington Bar" where we all drank breakfast. Many of us never knew that an egg could taste so good in a liquid form.

Next, we went to a dingy cellar in the YRCA (Young Russians Communist Association) and met with Comrade Andre Krushnovich. He was introduced as the youth leader of the "Washington D.C. Free Soil For Soviets Movement." (This was arranged for us by Comrade Corduroy the leader of the Moravian Cell.)

Forcefully, this hospitable, loyal communist leader, who referred to us as, "Capitalistic, Mealy-Mouthed Mooravian Monsters," expressed an earnest desire that we donate $100 of the USG allocation for the trip to a worthy cause called, "The Movement to Undermine College Student Governments In the United States By Dirty, Sneaky, Subversive Underhanded, Communist Tactics."

We, under the influence of Vodka, gypsy violins, exquisite Russian caviar, and free tickets to "My Fair Stalin," which is in its fortieth year on Broadwitch in Moscow, were pressured into giving our consent to this donation. As we left we could hear Andre calling us in sweet, melodious tones, "Turncoats!"

We figured that Andre and Corduroy were in some kind of a fraternity because we overheard Andre say something about "Rap-A-Yank-A-Day" to Hank.

Our next excursion was to the Capitol and Senate buildings where we ran up and down halls, slid down bannisters, sang dirty songs, broke windows, disrupted a session of Congress, wrecked a Senator's office, ruined the Senate Subway, investigated Congressman Walter as being Un-Mooravian, and just generally had a fine time until some spoil-sports complained and had us escorted out by the FBI.

(You all would have been proud the way Dr. Kanheady bit J. Edgar Hooper in the leg). Seems, they hate to see college students having a ball in the hall. (How about that—"Ball in the hall!").

Rather than go into anymore of the gross realities we would like to discuss three of the remaining high-lights of the trip.

First was a seminar held with one of the greatest minds in America — Senator Harry Tird, chairman of the Senate Financial Committee. The discussion went something like this:

Student: What will solve the gold outflow from the USA?

Mr. Tird: When we have no more to ship out!

Student: What is your present budget for Indian affairs?

Mr. Tird: Young Man, I never had an affair with an Indian.

Like, I mean, this Tird really had a keen mind.

WRMC Revises Schedule; New 'Treats' Are Featured

WRMC, Mooravian College's student-run radio station has released its schedule for the spring months.

Station manager Kelchua Safarnak announced an expanded coverage of events pertaining to school functions.

On the agenda is the upcoming inaugurations of the new Dean of Instruction, College President, and UUSG officers. The parade, inauguration ceremony, and inaugural ball, will be carried by the station.

Safarnak also announced the addition of some new weekday programs.

An hour of sound from some of the world's finest motion pictures of the early twenties will be aired. In addition two hours of African Tribal music for are scheduled for the hours from 7-9 p.m.

Tentative programming calls for the broadcast of the baseball games of North Dakota State Teacher's College.

When asked to comment on the stations new format, Safarnak said, "We of WRMC feel we have arranged the very best in listening pleasure for the students."

He added, "The African Tribal Music program will be an advantage over the current 'Music To Study By' program, and I know Mooravian sport fans are indeed looking forward to hearing the baseball games of one of the finest colleges in the West."

"Hamster Haven" Flick To Be Shown Tomorrow

Dr. Orville P. Greebus, Professor of Anthrology at Muddy Swamp College, Backwash, Georgia, will present a film entitled "Hamster Haven," in Archibald Hall at 8 P.M. tomorrow.

The program is sponsored by the Mooravian Do-Nothing-Association (DNA), in an effort to increase student apathy.

Greebus made the film on one of his safaries to the lower regions of the Backwash Creek. It depicts the trials and tribulations of a pair of hamsters and their 92 children. The hamsters' travels and struggle for survival play a key part in the epic film.

"Hamster Haven" has been selected to be shown to our armed forces overseas, in an effort to increase the morale of our soldiers.

Tickets for Friday nights showing can be obtained from any member of DNA. The price will be $5 with the proceeds going towards a new meeting area for DNA.

Trip Exposed . . .

Then we stopped at the Republican National Headquarters which has been moved into its new $8,000,000,000 a year office. We learned three very important facts:

1. Thurmond Horton, chairman of the committee, dresses very nice.
2. They still like Ike.
3. They have a dirty Men's Room.

Of course, the highlight of our meeting was a movie entitled, "How a Republican Can Take Graft Legally!"

And finally, the good Doctor Schmoo took us to a Chinese Restaurant where we ate fortune cookies, drank spiked tea, smoked opium, cussed Nationalist China, made a donation to the Chinese Communist-Korean War Memorial, signed pledges advocating recognition of Red China in the UN, and swore that the USA was an aggressor in Cuba.

As we staggered out, our host, "Wun-Hung-Hi," gave each of us an autographed picture of Harry Dexter Smite and Ma Sea Ding.

In conclusion, as a correspondent for The Comedian I would like to recommend that a committee be set up under the auspices of UUSG to investigate the possibilities of having this Washington D.C. trip set up as a weekly excursion.

This program, the first of a series of four, is replacing the Audubon Screen Tours, which was termed by the college administration as a "complete failure."

Sidewinder Awarded Citation For Service To The College

Special recognition and a large gold plaque for meritorious service was presented this week to Lear W. Sidewinder, Food Service mangler, book store concessioner, Emcee extortioner, and local numbers taker. Sidewinder was cited for his outstanding organization work and leadership ability in directing the Lear-a-teria, the bookstore, Emcee, and numbers racket.

AILING STUDENT

Visiting nurse, Gladys Globule, feeds ailing college student who is suffering from food poisoning. An amazing phenomenon took place when the student suddenly aged 80 years. Doctors have attributed it to his diet.

Basil Grump, president of the "Large Gold Plaques for Meritorious Service Co." (not to be mistaken for our own Ogilvie W. Grumpy Jr.) appeared on campus this week to present the award.

Listed among Sidewinder's humanitarian deeds were the fact that he provided clean trays for "His Boys" for 9 consecutive days—(eight of those coming during Easter vacation), and the fact that he reduced the price of books so that he now only gets 42% profit on each one sold.

No one could figure out how The Large Gold Plaques for Meritorious Service Co. found out about Sidewinder's distinguished service but they said they received an anonymous letter with green pea stains on the envelope. The mystery has not been solved.

Mr. Grump said, however, that this was unimportant. "The important thing is that Sidewinder is recognized for what he is doing to-er-I mean for Mooravian College.

Sidewinder was available for comment, in fact, he arranged the press conference with members of the Comedian staff (in fact, come to think of it, he announced the whole thing).

In a pre-prepared statement for The Comedian, Sidewinder said "It was nothin. I did it all for my boys. I really think my boys are great boys, and anything I can do for my boys, I'll gladly do for them (my boys that is)."

As a side light and certainly not to reflect unfavorably upon Sidewinder—a case of food poisoning was announced by Dr. Frederick P. Quack, school physician early this week. Dr. Quack stated that the patient was a Dormitory

Turtles Take Over Dorm As Students Flee In Terror

Mooravian College men's dormitory students, upon their return from the Easter Vacation, were shocked to find the Raw-Hassel Dormitory over-run by giant turtles.

The turtles who have been kept as pets in the dormitory were supposedly left by their owners to forage for themselves over the holiday. Apparently the turtles were exposed to some unknown quantity and grew to an enormous size.

Many of the students who returned in the afternoon entered their rooms only to find these giant turtles either asleep on the beds or busy drawing up some sort of battle plan at the desk. This was, according to reports, a common occurrence and apparently the turtles had multiplied.

The turtles did not receive the interruption kindly and the residents were chased from the dormitory.

Temporary living quarters were set up in Archibald Hall rooms 9 and 10, with guards being posted to warn late arrivals of the peril.

As of this report, there are plans being made for a counter-attack. Students from each floor are being trained in the art of guerilla warfare and are being supplied with Turtle guns in preparation for the battle.

Many rumors are flying that the turtles have captured a few stragglers during the afternoon. One of the students captured is thought to be the owner of a large breed of turtles, and he was reportedly last seen enclosed in a mammoth turtle bowl.

Dean of Men, Harvey Lump-liver stated, "These captured students are going to have to be classed as expendable, as we can spare no men in trying to rescue them."

Dean of Instruction, Sonar A. Radar, added, "These missing students will of course be given no excused absences from classes."

The Raw-Hassel Special Warfare Corp., is planning to launch the big attack tomorrow. The cooperation of the National Guard was offered; however it was turned down.

The spirit of the Corp in very high, as shown by the rugged training the troops are putting themselves through. The whole situation was aptly summed up by one irate student who said, "We want our rooms back!"

LEAR W. SIDEWINDER

student who had been eating exclusively in the Lear-a-teria this semester.

Soon after this announcement Ogilvie W. Grumpy Jr., UUSG president, sensing the gravity of the situation appointed a committee to investigate the situation.

Chairman of the committee will be Grendle Schwartz.

Irving Pindlebottom will serve as Vice-Chairman. Griselda Swashly was named secretary and Basil Schultz will act as treasurer.

Grumpy announced that the positions of filing secretary, assistant treasurer and historian will be filled later in the week.

Calvert Resigns Position; Takes New Midwest Job

Head football coach Rocco J. Calvert resigned from his position earlier this week to take over the coaching duties at Mt. Idy prep, a football power in the Middle West.

Calvert made the move after many weeks of serious thought. "Why not?" said the glib grid mentor. "The managers are making out better than I am what with black market tee-shirts and all that kind of stuff."

Aside from the obvious financial reasons Calvert believes he has shown everyone his coaching abilities in the past two seasons and should take this opportunity to better himself.

"Oh my gosh!" said athletic director H. T. D. Lumpliver when informed of Calvert's decision. It looks as if I'll have to resign as Dean of Men and take over the coaching jobs myself just like in the good old days.

"They didn't call me dean of Lehigh Valley coaches for nothing. Heck, no, I used to pay off the sports editors, five bucks everytime they called me that."

Until a decision has been made, Walt Khrushev, popular manager of the Mooravian athletic department will drill the grid squad in its spring practice sessions.

When told the news, Khrushev was overcome and could only say "Wanna buy a box of socks?"

Anita Flatsfuller, member of Brownie Troop #113 congratulates MoMo netman after eeking out a shut-out win in straight sets.

Tennis Squad Opens Season By Close Loss To Brownies

The Moravian College tennis team is expecting a good season this year, even though they opened the season with a heart-breaking nip and tuck, battle-em-down-to-the-wire 9-0 loss to the Bethlehem Brownie troop #113.

Coach Sammy "Pancho" Killpatrick has an entire new team on the courts this year, deciding that the team from last year was "just ridiculous."

Last year's record of 0-13 broke a winning streak of one carried over from the last win of the year before (or was it the year before that) when the squad took on all comers and sported a neat 1-14 slate.

Killpatrick announced that many good looking men have come out for the team this year from all classes. The only trouble is, Killpatrick said, "these handsome boys simply cannot play tennis."

In the opener this week all Mooravian entries were white-washed in straight sets. Killpatrick, not wanting to discourage his charges, tried to fire up his squad by assuring them that a stitch in time, saves nine."

A Comedian reporter asked Killpatrick the significance of this unusual "pep talk." He answered by saying, "They're so stupid, they don't know the difference anyway." (A truly inspirational coach!)

Rhinoceros Wicketball Game To Be Initiated At Mooravian

A gala new sports event will be initiated at Mooravian this year. The name of this sport, which originated in Ft. Lauderdale for lack of unlighted beaches, is called Rhinoceros Wicketball.

The object of the game is to place an aqua ping pong ball in a dixie cup which is placed 11' 2 1/2" off the floor while riding a white rhinoceros.

The game originally used elephants as the means of conveyance but proved prohibitive because too many timeouts were required for the shovel men to clear the court of unwanted debris.

Another drawback of the elephant for use in this sport is that they don't have the fierce competitive spirit that is required to please the fierce competitive spirit of the American College student. In twenty-five games not one single case of bloodletting had occurred.

The only stipulations regarding the sport are that the rhinoceros' tusks must be sharpened and that participants are not allowed to wear protective equipment of any sort and must release the Mooravian Athletic Department from responsibility of any sort.

Prospective players should contact H. T. D. Lumpliver.

Sour-Slurp

by I. M. Great

In the past weeks, constrained by a deep sense of humility, I have confined my comments strictly to what's wrong with Mooravian College Campus, people and the world.

However, after due consideration, I have come to the conclusion that to limit myself so is both unfair to me and my readers, (especially those who pour over my columns daily for gems of wit and wisdom, and they constitute 100 percent of the student body).

Two topics loom large on which I feel compelled to voice my views. The first is the universe and the second is myself. Because space is limited, it is of course necessary to treat on the most important things first. Therefore at this time, I must dismiss the universe as relevant only to its center, me.

Of all my virtues, I suppose the most outstanding is humility. And I may say as an added side-light, that it is humility which has been the secret to my success as a columnist.

Because I am humble, my readers know that my criticisms of them are sincere, objective, and right and they can, without doubts or fears, set about to improve themselves by the methods which I so helpfully outline.

I must digress here for a moment from the only subject of interest to remark on a subject which deeply troubles me. My fellow columnists have used their columns as a vehicle for mere controversy for the sake of controversy. How low can human beings sink.

All over Mooravian campus are people who need help, who are seeking the truth which only I can give them. And what are their helpless, little minds filled with? Nothing but petty trivialities which induce an amused chuckle or short-lived argument.

There is enough in this college that is inane without adding to it. Readers, support your leader and your prophet. Demand that I be given all that wasted newspaper space.

The effort I have expended in considering all my assets, dear underlings, has exhausted me and I cannot go on.

But remember that though you are inferior and destined to remain so, do not be discouraged. Were perfection such as mine possessed by many, there would be no goals left to strive for.

SPRING SPRANG

Gabriel Heaterpeeper—
Gladiator

The spotlight of this week's Spring Sprang falls on Gabriel Heaterpeeper, Mooravian's number one man on the Gladiator squad. Heaterpeeper a gladiator before he came to Mooravian lettered in the sport for four years in prep school.

Heaterpeeper has many interests which fill his idle hours. He collects matchbook strikers, antique igloos, and model T radiator caps. He also has an insatiable appetite for dehydrated cumquats.

Among a long list of dislikes, Heaterpeeper has: studies, people and the world in general.

Standing 4 ft. 3 in. and weighing 214 lbs., this sophomore shows great maneuverability on the field in his size 16 sneakers.

Heaterpeeper is optimistic about the season. Modestly he stated, "With me on the team they can't lose. The referee is my uncle."

Sakasmakas Will Back Sider For City Council

Robert "Porky" Sider, director of underdevelopment at Mooravian College, has been endorsed by Anthony J. Sakasmakas as his choice for city councilman at a political rally at the Grover Cleveland Girl's Club.

Sider was "caught with his pants down" when informed of Sakasmakas' endorsement. Sider made the following statement for the press, "I stand on my record, for twelve years I have done my job as director of underdevelopment to the best of my ability, and all can see Mooravian is one of the most underdeveloped colleges on the East Coast."

He has not as yet kicked off his campaign formally, but according to all indications it will begin tomorrow night by a three hour parade down dirty main street featuring the city street cleaners and all the street cleaning equipment.

"This parade," Sider stated, "will accomplish two purposes. It will get the streets clean perhaps and will also give the local cops a great chance to ticket cars that will be parking illegally."

Sider, being well informed nationally, has also stated that he will employ personal diplomacy. If elected he will plan trips to Paris, Rome, London and the Riviera to examine their governmental policies. Naturally these trips will be paid by city allocations.

In light of these tremendous ideals forwarded by Sider we of the Comedian staff do hereby and wholeheartedly endorse J. Fred Muggs as his worthless opponent.
