Johnson Looks Forward To Campus Challenges

by Anne Barnes

Richmond E. Johnson, succeeding H. T. D. Gillespie as Dean of Men, assumed his position as of Sept. 1, 1961. In addition he will continue to act in his capacity as chairman of the psychology department.

Johnson hopes to attain much as dean without neglecting his duties as head of the psychology department. In explaining his position he first stated.

"GENERALLY, THE DUTIES and responsibilities of a Dean of Men involve the administration of student personal services. These services are most frequently defined as supervision of men's dormitory, administration of fraternities, representing faculty and staff in student government, and serving in matters of student discipline. This definition affords a valid picture of the structure of the position but does not substitute for its foundation."

Johnson will be faced by many challenges in his new position. His psychological training he believes will be of great value in aiding students with such problems as poor study habits, crystallization of personal goals, mental health attitudes, and personal student-faculty relationships.

HIS CLOSING STATEMENTS of the interview indicate to students Johnson's capability.

"It is noteworthy that of the many types of educational institutions it has been the small, private college which has been most successful in advancing programs which encourage all learning. The possibilities for experimentation in developing a climate for learning are seemingly unlimited."

"This is apparent by the fact that the programs of colleges which have reconstructed and re-examined their educational goals, have realized a uniqueness and

by John Schlegel

"We (the United Student Government) have certain powers which we can exercise and should exercise," stated Ronald dePaolo, president of USG, at a meeting of the governing body early this week.

He added that the students as well as USG should think of new horizons — the challenge of the fall semester, possibly the sixties or even right on through the college's history.

"WE MUST FIND OUT WHAT we are striving for," added dePaolo, "and come up with good ideas for the future."

dePaolo went on to say that the college union is directed along social and cultural lines and it heightens the realization of what government does, and does not compete with government.

Other business included a report on the freshmen orientation program by Peter Gill, head of the Orientation Committee and vice-president of USG, in which he pointed out that more emphasis will be put on freshmen participation in the parade as opposed to the building of a bonfire. Gill added that there would be a bonfire, but the emphasis would not be on size, as in past years.

ROBERT GARCIA, TREASURER of USC, announced that all budgets must be in the business office no later than today so that the Budget Committee may begin to work on them.

In line with the budgets dePaolo added that the $12.50 student activities fee per semester was becoming inadequate and that a possible recommendation might be made to raise the fee to $15.

In additional business, dePaolo announced the members of five committees for the college union. The committees and members are:

RECREATION COMMITTEE: Doug Wilkins, chairman; Ruth K a r o l, Andrea Aufder Heyde, Stanley Gilbert and William Hino.

Fall Rush Rules Announced By Inter-Fraternity Council

Fraternity rushing rules were formulated for the fall semester early this week at a meeting of the Inter-fraternity Council (IFC).

IT WAS DECIDED BY THE COUNCIL THAT THE INVITATION lists for individual rush parties are to be posted no later than 8 a.m. on Oct. 4.

The parties will take place the following week, with Omicron Gamma Omega on Tuesday, Oct. 10, Tau Kappa Epsilon on Wednesday, Oct. 11, and Sigma Phi Omega on Thursday, Oct. 12.

Arthur Chap, president of the IFC, announced that Silent Week will start Friday, Oct. 13 at 12:01 a.m. and will continue through Wednesday, Oct. 18 at 5 p.m. All fraternities will have to have their bids for pledging and a list of names in no later than Monday, Oct. 16 at 8 a.m., Chap stated.

Anyone who receives a bid and who plans to accept it must do so before the end of Silent Week. As soon as Silent Week is over, Chap stated, each fraternity may pick up the returned bids. No returned bids will be turned over to the fraternities until then, he added.

Chap also stated that a $25 fine will be levied on any fraternity that disregards Silent Week. No verbal contact on the part of any fraternity member which in any way may influence the decision of a prospective pledge is allowed.

APO To Aid Community Chest At United Fund "Kick-Off"

Alpha Phi Omega (APO), Moravian service fraternity, will aid the Community Chest of Bethlehem in their "kick-off" program for the United Fund Drive at Liberty High School gymnasium on Monday, October 2, Charles Canning, president of APO announced this week.

The program is under the direction of Mr. Robert P. Daday and Nu Lambda Chapter of APO, National Service Fraternity.

AN EXHIBIT OF VARIOUS displays of the youth group belonging to the United Fund will open at 6:00 P.M. At 7:30—the main program will begin in the gym added Canning.

This program will be the combination of the United Fund youth organizations, several of the communities national societies, and a few vocal groups. Mr.

Robert McGovern, mayor of Fountain Hill, will give the welcoming address and Mr. Patrick Pazzetti, associate chairman of the United Appeal Drive, will present the "kick-off" speech.

ON THE PROGRAM ARE THE Chord Blenders, Jan Sisters, National Sokols, Mexican Azteca Club, Beethoven Maennerchor, and Ukrainian Club.

APO will also aid as ushers in addition to their assistance with the planning and directing of the program.

Self-Support

Moravian's present United Student Government, which we feel is characterized by dynamic and progressive leadership, has suggested that there be an increase in the students activities fee.

This fee, paid by all students, makes possible all campus activities from The Comenian to the German Club.

Approximately one-third of the USG budget will be allocated to the Social Activities Committee and the newly formed Lecture-Program Committee both of which belong to the College Union. The remainder will be divided among the college organizations which are trying to do their utmost to make the Moravian College Student's campus life well-rounded.

What's more many of these campus organizations are in the process of a definite plan of expansion. But will this proposed development that is so integral to the college be stifled because of "lack of funds?" Or will the previously mentioned two committees be handicapped in carrying out their assigned duties because of inadequate financing?

This expansion and formation will place added stress on USG's already limited budget. Consequently this increase in the student fee has been suggested.

We are of the opinion that this fee increase will not be a drastic one. Perhaps it will take the form of only an additional two or three dollars from each student to offset the additional allocations.

If this be the case, then the students of Moravian College should take it upon themselves to see that USG will have the necessary funds to carry out the well-developed and systematic organization of activities that they are capable of handling.

Hillel, Newman?

Moravian College, as a church-related school, "stresses Christian principles and standards of conduct, believing that in them lies the fullest promise of achieving the high goals of liberal education" according to its statement of purpose. However there is nothing in its statement of purpose to even vaguely suggest that Moravian College wishes to foist Protestant Christianity upon its non-Protestant students.

Last week, the attendance of college worship services was made optional and put up to the conscience of the individual student. Thus without in any way impairing the basic purposes of the college, the element of compulsion was removed from those students who cannot reconcile the beliefs of Protestant Christianity to themselves.

Only one major grievance remains against the college's policy towards religious freedom on campus. Both Newman and Hillel clubs remain absent from the roster of college organizations.

Christian Campus Association can obviously not fill the religious needs of all the students. Try as it might to include all Christians, it still remains Protestant in nature and excludes many Catholics. For those of the Jewish faith there is no organization on campus.

The position of the Protestant faith cannot be strengthened by excluding other religious groups from active participation in campus religious organizations. Nor can the purpose of the college be better fulfilled.

We firmly believe that it would be a benefit to both the students and the college as a whole if Newman and Hillel were allowed to form on campus. By providing a means for non-Protestant students to express their religious beliefs, the college would concede only to the principle that religious freedom is an important, basic part of our way of life.

Washington Legislators Find Guidance By Willingly Following Kennedy Star

by Henry Cordray

Henry Cordray, president of the Political Activities Club, has recently completed a position in the office of United States Senator Hugh Scott, (R. Pa.) as a student assistant. His official duties mostly involved him in the field of legislation where he helped create and do research on legislative proposals for the Senator. The following is his commentary on Washington political life as he saw it. Editor

It was fascinating to see a Congress follow willingly, as Stewart Alsop terms, the Kennedy star. The Senate never doubts its wisdom, and the House only on a few occasions strays from its guidance.

THIS STAR CERTAINLY IS A substantial force in front of these strong willed, frequently stubborn legislators. Its composition is the Presidents congressional liaison chief, Larry O'Brien, who proudly claims, this congress has manufactured more legislation than at any other time since the new deal.

The old pro, Speaker Sam Rayburn is another factor in their composition, and the quiet behind the scenes operation of Majority leader Mike Mansfield is still a third.

One day in late July I heard Margaret Chase Smith from Maine, after a personal defeat on the Senate floor, call him the "Pied Piper of Montana."

THE KENNEDY TECHNIQUE however stretches far beyond these few key men. I recall a Republican Congressman, whose name I won't mention, explain how during the Eisenhower years he had been to the White House twice. During the first five months of the Kennedy administration, he had journeyed up Pennsylvania Ave. no fewer than six times.

Members of Congress don't forget these impressive visits, and even the old pros like Symington and Fullbright still cherish an invitation to the White House.

I even heard it reported that when Barry Goldwater was issued his first invite he took a camera, that he must have sneaked past the Secret Service, and whenever a conservative Senator wandered close to the President he snapped a picture.

It was plain to see that every member of congress must have been given a number, and when the cyclical rotation stopped at his number he was called back for another coffee hour with the President. This was organization at its fullest.

IN AUGUST I HAD THE OP-portunity to be with the President for over an hour. During the course of our conversation he explained that the most difficult problem he had to overcome was the development of a "Presidential Halo." "Too many Congressman on the hill were still finding it difficult to realize that I was no longer Jack Kennedy, Senator from Mass." "They still thought they could call me on the phone whenever a problem developed, and I had to be there waiting to serve them." I thought to myself that afternoon that his Presidential Halo had developed with a polished lustre that would be difficult to tarnish.

Perhaps one of the most significant reasons for the success of our new President on capital hill, has been the failure of the loyal opposition. Many Republican Senators and their staffs complain about the lack of leadership by Everett Dirksen, or on the House side, the fall of Charlie Hallack. The statement "Jack Kennedy's got Ev Dirksen wooed, tattooed, and subdued," could frequently be heard in Republican circles.

John F. Kennedy has had difficulty on the hill with the school bill and other programs, but largely Lyndon Johnson is right when he says this has been the most cooperative Congress I've seen in all my years in politics.

YOU COULD SENSE CON-gress realized more realistically than ever, the challenge America is facing, and they're determined not to accept the blame for failures resulting from lack of support for the President's program. They are being pressured by the most effective measures used in recent history. A call from the President or his brother is a determining factor to consider before casting that vote. Finally many Democrats want this session of the New Frontier to be as successful as possible since in the coming elections many will be running for reelection.

These reasons are among many for the success of that Kennedy star.

IVORY TOWER

Communist Perversion

by Jean Friedman

It was mentioned in last week's article on President Hupert's trip through Czechoslovakia that he visited a Comenius museum at Brandynad Orbits. I understand that there are several Comenius museums throughout Czechoslovakia which are state-supported.

Comenius is recognized as a "national hero." The question that comes to my mind is, why is Comenius piety and intensive nationalism supported by a government that does not recognize God and is a perverter of nationalism.

Resolving the paradox is quite simple. The Communists are using Comenius to further their own interests. Their subtle subversion is defined in a deletion method. The whole is not fully expounded, only what can be interpreted as within communist ideology is accepted as fact.

The plea for World Peace is the case in point. Certainly Comenius longed "for the union of all humankind, for the remoulding of the world" as do the Communists and as does every thinking person. The fact of Comenius' union as a union of selfless love, free of domination is blatantly disregarded in the Soviet interpretation of world peace as world domination.

The Communists laud Comenius' Czech-Latin dictionary

because it equates the language of the peasant with the language of the intelligensia. In effect it promotes classlessness.

In the essay, "The Calling of the Oppressed Poor into Heaven," Comenius lashes out at the rich for allowing the horrors of serfdom to exist. But Comenius' drive for the truth forced him to present the other side of the picture in which he listed the grievances of the wealthy. The Communists are quick to point out that "every one knows" truth is on the side of the peasants.

Theoretically speaking the Communists bulwark is the peasant class and in order to perpetuate it they must promote passivity; hence they cite "On Human Perfection." The peasants are urged to fulfill the will of God, as John Amos did, by bearing with all adversity. The medieval class concept is unearthed after hundreds of years.

Even as a man of God, is not safe from Russia's manipulations. Shocking is the word for the attempt on the part of the Communists to present Comenius as a man not whole-heartedly dedicated to God. He is pictured as a Man of Sorrows, because at a period of civil strife "he doubted the authenticity of the church and the omniscience of God." At no succeeding chapter in the life of Comenius is it told how he regained his faith in God and in the Moravian Church.

As for Czech Nationalism, there is no such thing. The Czechoslovakian government is a Russian puppet government. Czech nationalism can therefore be described as a transcending nationalism — transcending to Russia. Czech nationalism is a pawn for Russian propaganda. Czechoslovakia does and thinks what Russia wants it to think.

The cruelty of communist propaganda is fathomless. Comenius is a tragic figure in the big lie.

Baker To Speak On Hemingway Tonight At L.U.

A lecture on "Hemingway's Symbolic Method" will be delivered by Dr. Carlos Baker, tonight in the Lehigh University Center's Osbourne Room.

BAKER IS A NOTED AUTHOR-ity on Ernest Hemingway and Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature at Princeton. He is one of the country's outstanding authorities in the fields of English and American Literature.

Baker has published many articles and reviews in such outstanding publications as The Nation, The New Republic, The Saturday Review, and The New York Times Book Review.

His review of Hemingway's last published work, "The Old Man and the Sea," was called by critics "probably the best book review of the year."

DR. BAKER WON RECOGNITION for his full-length study of Hemingway, entitled, "Hemingway, The Writer as Artist."

Hounds Edged Out By Post Unit, 21-19

Coach Rocco Calvo took his eager gridmen to Brookville, Long Island, last Saturday to battle the Pioneers of C. W. Post College, a branch of Long Island University. That evening he led the same group back into the bus for the long drive home. It was a drive during which everyone kept asking themselves, "What happened?" This was a good question.

THAT AFTERNOON, IN NEAR ninety degree heat, the Hounds completely dominated the game statistically from start to finish, yet managed to lose it. The battered Pioneers walked off the field with a 21-19 victory.

Post gained first blood in the first quarter. After the Pioneers had recovered a fumble on the Moravian 35, Brian Smith took a handoff and churned 33 yards through the middle of the line to score. Marco Benedetto added the extra point.

Moravian wasted little time in striking back. After the kickoff, Russ DeVore spotted Jim Kelyman in the clear and hit him with a 58 yard heave. Kelyman almost shook loose, but he was nailed on the Pioneer 12. Three plays later, Kelyman took a pitchout from DeVore on the option play and scampered 13 yards to score. Dick Andrews tied the score with a perfect placement.

AFTER THE ENSUING KICK off, just at the beginning of the second quarter, Dick Bedics intercepted one of Vin Salamone's aeriels and bulled it back to the Post 21 yard line. Three plays and two penalties later, the Hounds were faced with a fourth and seven situation from the 18. Once again, DeVore had the answer. He rolled out to the right, and when the Post defense committed itself, Russ hit Jim Frank in the end zone. Andrews' placement hit the crossbar.

Gridders Look For First Win Against Wilkes

After a heartbreaking loss to C. W. Post last weekend, the Moravian gridders will attempt to hit the victory road Saturday when they meet the Wilkes College Colonels at Wilkes-Barre.

THE MORAVIAN ELEVEN currently has a four game winning streak against Wilkes. Last season the 'Hounds defeated the Colonels 14-2, this being their only win on their eight game slate.

This will be the initial contest for Wilkes, boasting a nucleus of eighteen lettermen, in addition to three promising freshman. The Wilkes coaching staff has made numerous shifts in the lineup to improve on the Colonel's two and seven record of last year. Calvo stated that Wilkes should have a strong defensive team with stand-outs James Brunza at one of the tackle spots and Tom Krisulevicz at fullback.

In the backfield it will be Russ DeVore or Bob Mushrush at quarterback, Jim Kelyman and Jim Frank at halfback and Dick Ritter at fullback.

Sideline Slants

by Jay and Ted

Moravian's gridders looked especially good in defeat last Saturday at C. W. Post. The feeling here is that they will bounce back to win their share of ball games this year.

A sleeper in the Blue and Grey backfield could be Jim Groff, a speed merchant from Penridge. The young halfback started the season at Citadel, but changed to Moravian before the start of classes. With only five days of practice under his belt, he played an important role in the Hound line-up.

J. Scholl

We are also glad to see Russ DeVore clicking again at quarterback after a year's leave of absence. Saturday he hit on 9 of 15 passes for 155 yards, and ran for 45 more. The quarterback situation looks good for the Hounds. DeVore replaced first string quarterback Andy Semmel, who came up on the injured list.

Players and observers alike have been overheard praising Coach Rocco Calvo for a very good job of handling his players at Post. Due to the 90 degree heat, he had his hands full trying to keep his men as fresh as possible. Throughout the game he made tactical substitutions, made even more complicated by the number of injuries.

Looking ahead, we feel that the Hounds should work the bugs out this week. Barring any excessive injuries, they should be ready for Wilkes. We look for them to take the Colonels by a strong 14 points. Let's say 27-13.

In other grid contests, we stick our necks out with these prognostications. Harvard over Lehigh 21-6. The Ivy Leaguers are just too much for the local Engineers. The toughie of the week is the Muhlenberg-Albright game. The Mules looked good against Lafayette, but Albright is always a strong small college team. We say Albright over the Mules by 7.

The Greyhound Harriers, in our opinion, should come out on the winning side of the ledger. With several returning lettermen headed by last years top runner Tom Grammas, and backed by George Fiegel, the Hill and Dalers should take at least six of their ten meets.

Calvo Enters Seventh Year As Moravian, Becahi Mentor

by Bob Sallash

Paul Calvo recently began his seventh season as assistant football coach for the Moravian College gridders. He is the brother of head football and basketball coach Rocco Calvo.

PAUL BEGAN HIS ATHLETIC CAREER WHILE ATTENDING Liberty High School of Bethlehem during the years 1940-41-42. During these years Paul stared in basketball and football for the Hurricane.

Several years after graduating from Liberty High School Paul decided to further his education by attending Moravian College. During his four years at Moravian, Calvo again became interested in sports. This time he was a member of the varsity basketball and football teams for the Greyhounds. Paul stared at the end position for the Moravian gridders for two seasons (1950-51) until an injury sidelined him. In 1952 Paul received his B.A. degree from Moravian.

Calvo's versatility in the field of sports is best illustrated by the fact that he not only holds the assistant football coaching job at Moravian but he also is the head basketball coach at Bethlehem

Catholic High School. These dual coaching positions have been Calvo's responsibility for the past seven years. Paul has helped build many strong basketball teams at Bethlehem Catholic including a state championship team a few years ago.

WHEN ASKED WHAT SINGLE ingredient would help Moravian football teams achieve better records in the future Calvo replied, "We would win more games if we had a little better luck with the ball bouncing in our favor more times that it has in the past." Calvo then added that "desire and hard work" are also important factors in building a winning team.

Besides his two coaching jobs Paul also teaches in the Bethlehem School District and resides in Bethlehem with his wife and family.

individuality which cannot be duplicated. Prof. Jacon of the University of Penna. states, "Similar as the patterns of student values appear on a mass view, the intellectual, cultural, and "moral" climate of some institutions stands out from the crowd. The response of students to education within the atmosphere of these institutions is strikingly different from the national pattern."

"IT IS THIS CLIMATE, WHICH defines the inter-relationship among all those factors that affect learning, which must be identified and constantly examined by all student-directed committees, Counseling, Orientation, Convocation, Admissions, etc., before purposive action is taken to fulfill present aims and future goals of the institution."

"A climate of learning is more than a mere phrase: the climate is the synthesis of conditions in an academic situation which intensify the desire of a student to involve himself as a whole person in a rich intellectual experience. The climate is the atmosphere for learning. Its quality and its force are expressed through the attitudes of the faculty, administration, and student body.

"The climate for learning is not a static, directionless state of affairs, rather it is a goal-seeking process dynamically maintained by the total participation of all persons in the structure of the institution."

Harriers Face E-town Team In Initial Tilt

by Jack James

Coach Paul Kuklentz dispatches his cross-country unit to Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania on October 3 for the opening match of the season.

IN THE PAST, ELIZABETHTOWN'S Bluejays greeted the Harriers with discomfort. Last year's opener saw E-town gain a 20-38 victory and two years ago the Bluejays launched a 21-34 victory at the Hounds expense.

Last season's race found Tom Grammes, top Moravian pacer, finishing second followed by George Fiegel in the sixth spot, Ray Herman eighth, and Jim Worman rounded out the top ten finishers. Elizabethtown captured first, third, fourth, fifth, seventh, and ninth positions to run up their decisive win.

Six returning letter winners from last year's squad, plus an abundance of new faces add to the Hill and Dalers' chances of improving last season's 3-5 record.

Campus eyes can greet the new Moravian Harriers at the first home meet against Juniata, October 7. Any Saturday contest will commence at 2 p.m. and other days at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Coaches Look At Prospects For Baseball

Although the start of the 1962 baseball season is a long way off, coaches Harvey Gillespie and Gus Garscar are hard at work this week looking over the new prospects. They are conducting five days of practice, consisting entirely of inter-squad scrimmage games. The idea here is that the boys should still be in relatively good condition from summer ball.

Candidates who impress will be invited back in the spring, when workouts will begin in earnest.

The two veteran mentors will be primarily concerned with filling the gaps created by the graduation of Charlie Gilbert, Gene Jani, and Mike Lansenderfer. Also, letterman catcher Tom Ulrich has taken his talents to West Chester and Barry Shollenberger and Sim Blahut signed pro contracts.

Men is guided, governed, and illuminated by a question which I constantly reflect upon: How can I, guided by personal and institutional philosophy and concern, assist the Moravian student in creating for himself a level of aspiration and a standard of performance which insures the qualities of excellence, integrity, and honesty?"

"It seems to me that if the consequence of the total liberal experience as defined by College philosophy is to have a good effect it appears that all learning, social, personal, academic, must be encouraged and advanced continuously in desirable ways. It means that the Dean of Men should not be concerned only with those aspects of campus life which are non-academic in nature."

IF And IS Organizations Pick Officers

The Inter-sorority Council (ISC) and the Inter-fraternity Council (IFC) elected officers recently to govern the organizations for the coming school year.

JANE ALBRECHT WAS named president of the ISC, while Faith Mong will serve with her as vice-president and United Student Government (USG) representative. Joan Knepper will serve as secretary-treasurer for the group.

Other members of the council are Wilma Bennewis, Winifred Hearn and Joan Raidline.

Arthur Chap was elected president of the IFC for the coming year. Elected to serve with him are John Viglione, secretary; Ken Walsh, treasurer; and Roy Frack, USG representative.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE council are Ronald dePaolo and Ned Wagner.

Miss Albrecht is a senior sociology major from Camp Hill, Pa. She is president of Alpha Epsilon Pi sorority and secretary-treasurer of the Triangle Honor Society.

Chap is a senior political science major from Clifton, N. J. He is a member of the football squad and Sigma Phi Omega fraternity.

Hounds Edged . . .

Just when it appeared that the Hounds were about to take charge for good, disaster struck. After Moravian had marched all the way to the Post 8 yard line, Brian Smith pilfered a DeVore flat pass and scampered 94 yards to a score. Benedetto converted again.

After the intermission, the Hounds continued to dominate play. DeVore capped a sustained drive by twisting his way 15 yards into the end zone. His attempted pass to Frank Grablachoff for a two point conversion was broken up. This proved to be the ballgame.

LATE IN THE THIRD QUARTER, after a Post drive was stymied, Frank Suechitano dropped back to punt. He faked the punt and raced 36 yards down the sideline to pay dirt. Once again, Benedetto kicked the extra point.
