12 Candidates Announced For Homecoming Queen

Twelve candidates for Homecoming Queen, representing the four classes, were chosen this week during class meetings. In next week's general election, to be held Monday and Tuesday, five finalists will be chosen.

DURING HOMECOMING Weekend, October 27 and 28, the candidate with the highest number of votes will reign with her court, the four runners-up.

The crowning of the queen will take place during halftime of the football game on Saturday, October 28. The female monarch and her court will be presented and will receive a gift from the Social Activities Committee (SAC).

Nominees for the various classes are: seniors, Priscilla Toth, Mary Pfriemer, and Carol Gram; juniors, Genie Billiard, Barbara Johnson, and Jan Stever; sophomores, Sandy Anderko, Patti Long, and Sharon Yaeck; and freshmen, Thyra Morf, Susan Watt, and Gerri Zilko.

THE ANNUAL PARADE, directed by the members of the sophomore class, will represent the dormitories, sororities and fraternities, and other campus organizations.

After co-eds are serenaded by the songs of a pajama-clad, all-male chorus on South Campus, everyone will proceed to the area below the athletic field on North Campus for a pep rally and freshmen bonfire.

If the freshmen defeat the sophomores in a tug-of-war during halftime at Saturday's game, they may doff their dinks, ties, and knee socks.

Postcard Puts Peace Corps Under Protest

The remarks of a United States Peace Corps member about the "squalor and absolute primitive living conditions" in Nigeria, touched off student protests this week.

MISS MARGERY MICKELMORE, a 25 year-old teacher from Foxboro, Massachusetts, penned her remarks on a postcard to a friend in the United States which was intercepted by an unidentified person. It was then reproduced and the copies were distributed among the students at the University of Ibadan, where Miss Mickelmore is in training.

The students at the university, angered by the data, demanded the deportation of all U.S. Peace Corps members in Nigeria.

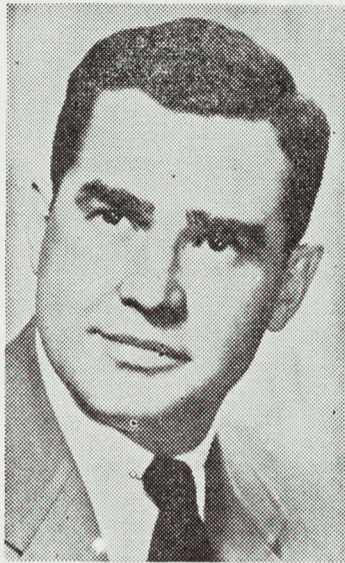

An apology for her remarks was submitted to the University President General, by Miss Mickelmore, together with a statement that she was handing in her resignation as a member of the Peace Corps. The resignation was consequently accepted.

R. SARGENT SHRIVER, Peace Corps Director stated, "such incidents should not interrupt the message or obscure the purpose of the Peace Corps."

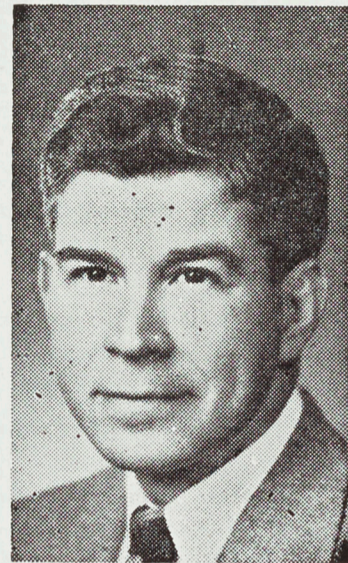

The Peace Corps was established on March 1, 1961, on a temporary basis by an Executive Order of President Kennedy.

Although Miss Mickelmore's action was a seemingly innocent one, it was in complete variance with one of the primary purposes of the Peace Corps—the furthering of the cause of peace with the peoples of other countries through personal relationships and the development of mutual understanding.

PAC To Help Sponsor Debates; Candidates Talk In Bethlehem

Gordon Payrow

Paul Jani

Payrow, Jani Are Featured, P.A.C. To Aid

A "Meet the Candidates" night will be sponsored jointly by the Political Activities Club, (PAC), Bethlehem League of Women Voters and Junior Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, Oct. 24 at 7:45 p.m. in Johnston Hall, Henry Cordray, president of PAC, announced.

GORDON PAYROW, Republican, and Paul Jani, Democrat, candidates for the mayor of Bethlehem, will open the program with prepared statements, each ten minutes in length.

The following forty minutes will be devoted to candidates running for City Council. The candidates will answer questions prepared by an organizational committee, headed by Dr. Otis Shao, chairman of the political science department.

Written questions, directed to either the candidates for mayor or to the candidates for City Council, will then be accepted from the audience. Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert, College President, will preside.

"PAC IS HELPING TO SPONSOR this program for several reasons," Cordray explained. "First, we hope to interest our college students in the problems and functions of local government. Second, we would like to encourage the residents of the Bethlehem area to discuss the issues of campaign and to meet the candidates that may serve them after the November election. Third, we hope that this program will stimulate Bethlehem citizens to take a more active interest politically in the communities civic affairs."

Students from Lehigh University will participate in the program by collecting questions from the audience.

Comptroller Leaving College; Assumes Susquehanna Post

"Charles H. Kuhn, comptroller of Moravian College since 1953, will assume the position of chief business officer at Susquehanna University as of January 1, 1961," stated Dr. Raymond S. Hauptert, president of Moravian College.

KUHN SAID THAT HE HAS been very happy here at Moravian but would like to take advantage of this excellent opportunity.

"He has served faithfully and generously in discharging his responsibilities. He has played an important part in the development of the college from the viewpoint of the business office during a period of considerable development and expansion," said Dr. Hauptert. "He leaves with the good will and good wishes of Moravian College," Dr. Hauptert continued.

After serving in the Navy in World War II, Kuhn was graduated in 1949 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics and Business from Moravian College.

BETWEEN THE TIME OF his graduation and his work at Moravian, Kuhn worked in a business capacity for large companies.

Over 600 Attend Annual Family Day

by John Schlegel

The activities of the fifth annual Family Day were not dampened by the usual Moravian bad weather. Many bright spots appeared for all guests and students in the day's program.

AS A HIGHLIGHT OF THE luncheon in Johnston Hall, the Moravian College Choir under the direction of Richard Schantz presented a few selections. Following the luncheon, the ceremony for the unveiling of Archibald Johnston's portrait took place with Johnston's daughter and son, Mrs.

Call To Arms

We are sure everyone is aware of the crisis that exists in the world today. The image which a nuclear holocaust presents is certainly not a pretty one. However, being in this position we must hope and pray for the best.

President Kennedy has made our country's policy regarding foreign aggression very clear. He emphasized that careers would be cut short and that studies would be interrupted. He gave fair notice that draft calls would be doubled and tripled.

We are not objecting to the President's national policy, for this is the only stand the nation can take.

In essence what we disagree with in this "pins and needles situation," is the fact that our draft boards seem to be picking names and units "from a hat," rather than using a more fair and just system.

The draft boards should make their policy clear on who is liable to the draft. There has been much ambiguity on whether college students are available. The Director of Selective Service, Lieut. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey recently stated that very few college students in the upper portions of their classes would be called. If this be the case, why is there a rush of unstamped letters from Washington flooding our nation's colleges?

The question will have to remain unanswered for the present time. However, there should be some outright clarification on this in the near future.

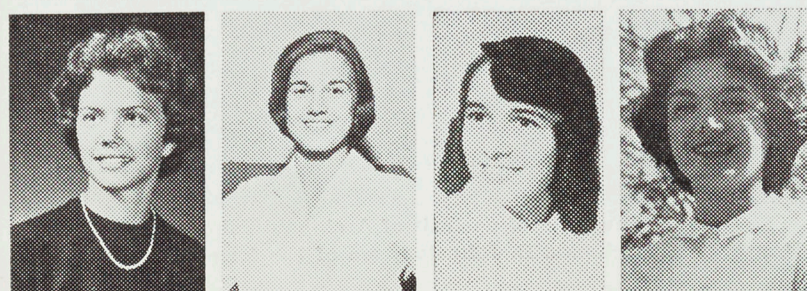

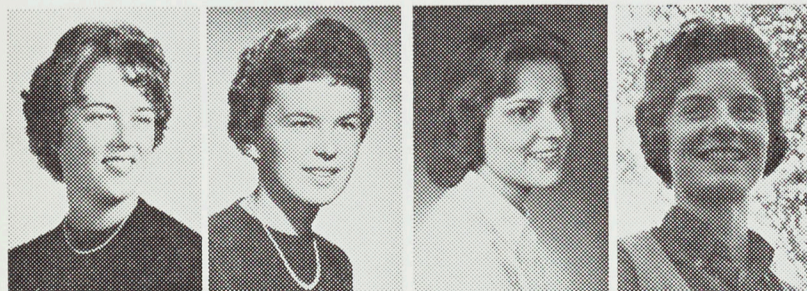

This problem has come into direct focus on the Moravian Campus. One of the college's most able and outstanding leaders has received the "call to arms." This fact in itself is indeed regrettable. Such leaders come to Moravian so irregularly that when one is lost in the prime of service and study it affects the college and its students very deeply.

The situation is even more complicated when it is realized that this leader has previously served his country for two years. The question exists in our minds of the justness and fairness in his being called to serve again, when there are many capable men who are not in college, have few responsibilities, or are unemployed.

The answer arises that the armed forces are seeking experienced men for leadership and training purposes. It seems a little strange that our national defense which has for so long been impregnable suffers from lack of trained and experienced manpower.

It is unfortunate that Moravian College has been hit hard by the Nation's plight. What is equally unfortunate is that many other college students are not aware of their present draft status and consequently approach their studies with a degree of uncertainty.

Our sympathies, good wishes, and luck are extended to the President of the United Student Government. We know he will be as successful in this venture as he has been in his college career. —D.B.H.

College Marriages Successful When Based On Firm Foundation

by Marion Homa

Marriages, as the quotation states, are made in heaven, and, it may be fittingly added, occasionally on the college campus. The fastening of the nuptial knot is undoubtedly a joyous event, but often problematic to the young man and woman who wish to marry while still attending a college.

THERE ARE QUERIES which must be acknowledged by them before entering into matrimony, such as—will one continue his or her studies while the spouse works; where will the couple reside while at school; what if children should come into the picture; and, the unavoidable question of finances.

These questions should be resolved in order to insure, at least, a good foundation for a college marriage. But, there are other matters which have to be taken into consideration.

The man and woman on campus may find that they have had much in common concerning their subjects and social activities, and, therefore, regard one another as being suitable future mates. However, is this academic-social companionship a basis for marriage? It is granted that the couple ought to have similar interests for compatibility, but some emphasis must be placed upon the importance of each seeing the other in an environment other than the campus in order to attain a mature opinion.

THOSE WHO FROWN UPON college marriages contend that the union will inevitably bring about a lowering of grades and a lack of interest toward studies. This is inconceivable because statistics have shown that the grades of married couples attending a college or university are equal to or better than their pre-matrimony class ratings. This is understandable, for two persons who have a mutual admiration and love for one another will strive for betterment in themselves and in each other.

Nonchalance toward academics is almost non-existent, for the responsibilities and obligations which marriage imposes upon the couple result in a maturity greater than that which appeared prior to matrimony. This awareness of responsibility by each partner tends to place a considerable valuation upon an education.

Needless to say, problems and pleasures are what bring persons together, and the joint concern in such experiences will unquestionably strengthen any relationship, be it between two friends or two partners in marriage.

THE TWO STUDENTS INVOLVED should not use marriage as a means of escape from routine dormitory life, nor for the purpose of independence. It is the erroneous belief of some members of college marriages that they are self-sufficient because of wedlock, disregarding that their parents are continuing to pay for their school expenses while they, the students, are married.

A college marriage can succeed—it requires two mature persons to make it successful. Nevertheless, waiting a year or two until graduation to marry, could certainly not damage a sincere friendship, and, because it would eliminate several problems, would be the sound choice.

Fair Fare

by Philip R. Katowitz

Having successfully completed one year at Moravian, and while struggling through the second, and anxiously awaiting the third,

I have been in a position to make a few observations. For the greater part, these observations have been confined to the pleasant little hamlets in the Lehigh Valley.

I have discovered hoagies, inflections in the middle of a sentence, and the Allentown Fair. The first is a gourmet's delight, the second, a philologist's delight, and the last an idiot's delight. Put your little hand in mine, dear, and off to the fair we shall go to observe some culture in the raw.

From a distance, the Allentown Fair looks impressive and gay. Music and laughter seem to fill the air for blocks around the actual fair itself.

Proceeding down the midway one spies the numerous food concessions which, in compliance with Pennsylvania health laws, are kept

THE 1961 HOMECOMING QUEEN CANDIDATES — Moravian College students will vote for the Queen and her court on Monday and Tuesday in the lobby of Comenius Hall. Voters will select five of the 12 shown. Top to bottom, left row, Thyra Morf, Susan Watt, and Gerri Zilko, freshmen; second row, Sandy Anderko, Patti Long, and Sharon Yaeck, sophomores; third row, Genie Billiard, Barbara Johnson, and Janice Stevers, juniors; and fourth row, Carol Gram, Mary Pfriemer, and Priscilla Toth, seniors.

"immaculately clean." The proprietors of these concessions have spent all year thumbing through old German cookbooks trying to find out how to say "hot dog" in the dialect of the "old country." Once they have found the desired word, they employ it, along with other aspects of the wonderful old "Penn Dutch" culture, in swindling money from their customers.

The game concessions are yet another delight to behold. Of course, only people with a working knowledge of mathematics can engage in that wonderful little diversion known as Bingo. It gladdens me to see expectant mothers sitting there trying to win a layette while they listen for the numbers.

"Now ladees an' gen'men, this little girl I have standing here besides me does the Banana Dance. Ya see folks, she has three banana peels—one here, one here, an' one down here. Heh, heh, heh. Only one dollar admission to see the best undressed little gal in all the world. Bring the ladies, they'll love it."

Sure, bring the ladies, bring your mother, bring your expectant wife, bring little Johnny and get him broken in early, and bring little Susie to see how dignified a female can be. After all, it's only a dollar apiece. Is this culture in the raw?

But now the final touch comes. What would the fair be without that foamy brew that's perfect for the family? Come dear, hold my hand a little tighter and we'll walk through the beer garden together and see how grown men conduct themselves.

See all the men and how nicely they are dressed? They all have ties on — they must be college graduates. See that very small, unimportant looking man in the corner? Look, he has combed his hair down on his forehead and he has placed a pocket comb under his nose so it looks as if he has a moustache. Look, he's raising his right hand and shouting! And look at all the people imitating him! Since he is a college graduate he must have read a history book and found out about the man who he is imitating. The little man in the corner must be very learned since he does an imitation of so famous a character with such accuracy. See, honey, I told you that the Fair is more than just a lot of worthless junk.

Recently, I was thumbing through a travel folder. Thought you might be interested to know that the Lehigh Valley is "... a section (Cont. on p. 4, col. 1)

Hill and Dalers Drop 3rd To P.M.C. Harriers, 23-32

by Don Eichenhoffer

Before a rain-drenched, shivering Parents' Day audience, Moravian's Hill and Dalers absorbed their third straight defeat at the hands of the Cadets of P.M.C. P.M.C. took first, second, fourth, seventh, and ninth places to total their 23 points to Moravian's 32. Despite temperatures which were very favorable for respiration, the Greyhounds could not seem to place their men in strategic positions in the top ten.

IN THE ANTICLIMAX FOLLOWING the race, coaches and trainers were involved in a verbal controversy concerning P.M.C.'s disqualification because of elbowing during the race. P.M.C. retaliated by claiming that insufficient directions were given to the P.M.C. harriers by Moravian officials concerning the location of the finish line.

The top runner for Moravian was George Fiegel, who took third place honors with a fast four mile time of 23:32. Other runners placing in the top ten for Moravian were: Byron Borst placing fifth—24:17, Dave Wilson sixth—24:26, Bob Houser running eighth in 24:40, and Terry Harlacher tenth in 25:28.

MC Runners Challenge Two Tough Squads

by George Fiegel

While having a slow start this year the cross-country squad of Moravian College will try to recover with meets against Coach Art Winter's Lafayette team and Coach Roy Phillips' Franklin and Marshall team this coming week.

THE HARRIERS ARE SLATED to run against the Leopard cross-country squad tomorrow in Easton, Pa. Although the Lafayette team has lost all eight lettermen through graduation, a junior trio, Manny Geiger, Leo Burnsteel, and Hynt Dumont, will be the team's big spark.

On the following Wednesday the runners from F & M will come to Moravian College to run the four mile course. The Diplomats beat Moravian last year by taking the top three positions in the race.

Two of the men in these positions have since graduated and the top listing now has co-captain Keven O'Conner and Tim Wagner.

AS TO THE RECORDS THIS year, Lafayette has beaten Haverford, a team which Moravian also has run. F & M has beaten Dickinson and Washington & Lee in a triangular meet.

Expected starters for the Moravian team for both meets will be Byron Borst, Tom Grammes, Bob Houser, Dave Wilson, Don Eichenhofer, Terry Horlacher, Bill Miller, and Billy Rinker.

Girls' Hockey Team Bows To M-berg, 5-1, Beats Marywood, 7-0

The undefeated Muhlenberg's Hockey team played their usual quality game to defeat Moravian girls' team 5-1 on South Campus. Andy Aufder Heyde scored the Moravian first goal of the season, making the defeat not as discouraging as the previous 6-0 loss.

Marywood College felt the drive of the improved Moravian team on October 16. On South Campus field, the girls team rolled to a 7-0 victory over Marywood. Both offense and defense proved formidable with Andy Aufder Heyde scoring four goals, Captain Bette Ann Dickman scoring two, and center forward Sue Watt scoring one.

Hounds Hand Cadets First Reversal, 14-6

Moravian's Jim Groff takes off on a scamper around left end during the Hound's 14-6 victory over PMC last Saturday in the mud.

Good things are happening one right after another for Coach Rocco Calvo's Moravian football team.

Jim Kelyman scored two first-half touchdowns last Saturday as the Hounds knocked PMC from the ranks of the unbeaten, 14-6, in a muddy Family Day contest on Moravian Field.

It was Moravian's third straight Middle Atlantic Conference win, enabling the Hounds to remain on the heels of Susquehanna (4-0) for the Northern College Division lead. It also avenged a 20-12 setback at the hands of the Cadets last year and toppled PMC from the top in the Southern College Division.

THE CADETS DIDN'T GO down without a fight, however, as they staged a second-half comeback and almost managed to pull the game out of the bag. Some fine defensive work by the Greyhounds deep in their own territory squelched a last minute touchdown attempt.

With Moravian in front 14-6, with less than four minutes to play, PMC put on an attack which carried it to the Hounds' four-yard line. A fumble recovered by Ed Weinhofer made it look like Moravian had the contest wrapped up, but on the first play from scrimmage Dick Ritter fumbled and PMC recovered on the seven. The Hounds' defense dug in, and after three plays PMC had the ball on the 10. A desperation pass attempt was intercepted by Kelyman at the goal line, with the junior halfback bringing it out to the six to end the game.

Kelyman, the Hounds' top scorer, got touchdowns four and five of the season in Saturday's game. He plunged over from the one-yard line in the first period and scored the second touchdown in the second quarter, going in from the six.

MORAVIAN GRABBED AN 8-0 lead in the opening minutes of the game. After taking the opening kickoff and driving to the Cadets' 23, a fumble turned the ball over to PMC. However, the Cadets

Gridders Face L. V. Eleven; Seek 4th Win

by Bob Sallash

The gridders of Moravian College will travel to Annville to take on the undefeated Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley. The Dutchmen own victories over Drexel and Muhlenberg.

LEBANON VALLEY, ALONG with Moravian, has a problem concerning lack of depth and manpower. However, every player on the Flying Dutchmen's first unit is a letterman.

Lebanon Valley is headed by a new coach this year. William D. McHenry, assistant coach at Williams for the past three seasons, has taken over in the number one coaching position this year due to the retirement of last year's coach, Ellis McCracken. McHenry now has the tough assignment of repeating last year's fine 7 and 2 record.

THE MAIN OFFENSE USED by the Dutchmen will be a wing T with a balanced line. Sophomore quarterback MacMillan will lead the Lebanon Valley offense with his alert signal calling and fine passing game.

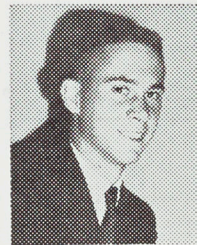

MacMillan will be flanked by Fred Porrino, 187 lb. junior at fullback, Roger Ward, 165 lb. senior, and Gerald Bowman, 150 lb. junior at the halfback slot. This hard running quartet ground out 204 yards against Muhlenberg in Lebanon Valley's upset victory by a 15-6 score last week.

The Dutchmen line is bolstered by Co-captain Robert Stull, 170 lb. senior at center, John Yajko and Jay Kreider at the guard positions. Junior tackles Vance Stouffer, 205 lbs., and Ellis McCracken, 210 lbs., will add strength to the Valley line.

Sideline Slants

by Jay and Ted

There is a sign in the Moravian football team's locker room which is beginning to take on some meaning. The sign reads as follows: "Prove that we are not a one game flash. It is nice to be on top, let's stay there." After dropping their opening game by two points to C. W. Post, the Greyhounds have won three games and are now sitting with the leaders at the top of the Northern Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference.

J. Scholl

T. Meixell

Moravian's grid forces came out of Saturday's fracas with PMC in relatively good shape injury-wise. They should be much stronger this week against Lebanon Valley, since many of those players who had to sit out last week's game with injuries will once again be available for duty.

Incidentally, much credit should be given to the boys who played a whale of a game against the Cadets despite the wholesale injuries to key players. Some of the more outstanding of these were: All East halfback Jim Kelyman, who scored two touchdowns and played a great defensive game; fullback Dick Ritter, the leading ground gainer for the 'Hounds; and guard Ed Weinhofer, who played a bruising defensive game. Last week, Kelyman was chosen to the All East small college eleven. Ritter and junior guard Jim Mazza received honorable mention.

In our tenure of years here at Moravian, the Hound Harrier squad has never fielded an exceptional team. In fact they have never fielded an above average team. We wonder why?

This year's cross-country team looks sad, the Hill and Dalers are now 0-4 and things look dark.

George Fiegel, who has supplied most of this year's power, won't be around much longer, and without Fiegel, what then?

No other runner is running with anything approaching top flight consistency. We are afraid that this year's Harriers squad will be the patsies of any team who races them.

'61 Yearbook Nearly Ready Editor States

The Benigna, Moravian College yearbook, will be distributed in the near future, Barbara Hooper, editor of the Benigna, announced early this week.

The place of distribution has been set for the mail room in the basement of Comenius Hall. The yearbook will be given to all full-time college students at Moravian last year, and names will be taken. Freshmen will not receive this year's Benigna.

Paul Riccardi for the extra point. An eight-play, 53-yard drive in the second period led to the second touchdown. A pass from DeVore to Dick Andrews, and runs by fullback Ritter, Bob Havlisek and Kelyman moved the ball to the six where Kelyman got the call and scored for a 14-0 lead at the half.

Ritter, a sophomore and freshman Havlisek played a big role in the Hounds' offense. Ritter rattled off some timely gains and Havlisek played well on offense and defense. In the third period, Havlisek caught a DeVore aerial and moved deep into Cadet territory, but the Hounds' drive was stopped short of a TD.

A 74-YARD GALLOP BY PMC quarterback Al Filoreto in the third period led to the Cadets' only score. Kelyman brought down Filoreto from behind on the Hounds' eight, and Walt Crate scored two plays later.

Tonight's Free Movie

"The Last Hurrah," a 1958 production starring Spencer Tracy, will be presented at 7 p.m. in rooms 9 and 10 of Johnston Hall today.

The black and white film is based on the novel of the same name by Edwin O'Connor, and won high praise from the film critics as being "poignant, touching, and a sentimental document of the American political scene."

The story is of Frank Skeffington, political boss and humanitarian, and the twilight of his career. Humor and pathos are mixed equally as the chronicle of Skeffington's last political venture moves to a "sensitive and well-handled climax."

had a one-man conference about your future lately?

You: Why the gold bars?
Future You: You're needed . . . just as your father and grandfather were. It's an obligation that a lot of qualified college men have to meet. If we don't . . .

You: All right. But what can I do for the Air Force?
Future You: The Air Force needs college trained men and women as officers. This is caused by the rapidly advancing technology that goes with hypersonic air and space flight. Your four years of college have equipped you to handle complex jobs.

You: Say I was interested . . . how can I get to be an officer?
Future You: You know about Air Force ROTC and the Air Force Academy. Then there's the navigator training program. You've probably heard about Officer Training School . . . where the Air Force takes certain college graduates, both men and women, and commissions them after three months of training.

You: Starting salary is important. What about that?
Future You: Add it up. Base pay, tax-free allowances, free medical and dental care, retirement provision, perhaps flight pay. You don't have to be an eco major to see it adds up to an attractive package.

You: I've been thinking about getting my Master's.
Future You: As an officer you can apply for the Air Force Institute of Technology. At no cost, and while on active duty some officers may even win their Ph.D. degrees.

You: Tell me more.
That's the job of your local Air Force Recruiter. Or write to Officer Career Information, Dept. SC110, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C., if you want further information about the navigator training or Officer Training School programs.
