SAC Becomes Part Of CUB In USG Action

Jean Friedman, President of United Student Government (USG), announced that the Social Activities Committee (SAC) will become a member of the College Union this year. Miss Friedman said this decision was made at a USG Executive Committee meeting this summer.

LAST YEAR THE GOVERNING body voted to retain SAC in USG.

President Friedman suggested that the name United Student Government be changed to something more fitting for Moravian College. There was little discussion on this matter so no decision was reached.

In other USG business, President Friedman told the governing body that she had attended the National Student Association's (NSA) conference during the summer. She said the meetings were very beneficial and plans had been formulated for holding a regional NSA conference at Moravian College. Miss Friedman added that USG should plan to study the possibility of organizing some sort of community or college social work during the year. NSA makes an annual award to the college who demonstrates achievement in this area.

GROVE STODDARD AND PETE Gill were nominated for the office of NSA Coordinator. Voting will be held at the next USG meeting.

Harshbarger Speaks Before Worship Series

Moravian inaugurated this semester's All-College Worship series Thursday, Sept. 27, when Dr. Luther H. Harshbarger of Pennsylvania State University spoke to the student body at 1:35 a.m. in Borhek Memorial Chapel on the North Campus.

HIS TOPIC WAS "OF THIS Time, Of This Place."

Dr. Harshbarger is professor of humanities and religious studies at Penn State's College of Liberal Arts and serves as University Chaplain.

He is known for his work abroad among prisoners of war during the 1940's. In 1945 he became director of YMCA Services to Prisoners of War in Germany.

HIS WORK GAINED HIM THE Federal Republic of Germany for meritorious service to German prisoners in Great Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Germany. The award was made in 1953.

Dr. Harshbarger has had articles printed in educational and religious periodicals. He is a co-author of the book, "Exploring Religious Ideas: The Great Western Faiths."

Halloween Is Theme For Homecoming Weekend

by Nancy Olenwine

"Halloween" will be the theme of the Homecoming Week-end which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20.

AL APPLGATE, SOCIAL ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE (SAC) chairman, is in charge of the plans for the parade and dance.

On Friday evening the sophomore class will marshal the parade from North Campus to South Campus.

Floats and house decorations will be judged by the alumni, faculty, and administration on a basis of originality, utilization of theme, and construction materials.

PERMANENT TROPHIES will be awarded to the winners of both categories. Float entries may be placed in Box 184 at the College Union Building mail office. Registration includes the title of the float, the type of construction, and a drawing of the project. A similarity of ideas will result in acceptance of the first idea submitted.

The deadline for entries is 5:00 P.M., Wednesday, October 10. Every organization is encouraged to participate, including fraternities, sororities, and dormitories.

Moravian gridders will meet Lebanon Valley's "Flying Dutchmen" on Saturday afternoon. An alumni coffee hour will be held following the game.

THE FIVE SEMI-FINALISTS for Homecoming Queen will be selected from twelve candidates, representing the four classes.

Planning For USG Revision Is Renewed

by Chuck Canning

Responsibility and student awareness are the aims of the United Student Government Constitution Revisions Committee as defined at a recent planning session, announced Charles Canning, chairman of the committee.

PLANS FOR THE IMMEDIATE future include evaluating and gathering opinions from campus organizations, rewriting the present student body constitution to adapt to the needs of our changing college community, and generally keeping the students informed on the progress and development of the new constitution.

Canning stated, "We must operate at a grass roots level and find a governing philosophy which is acceptable to the entire student body and administration."

"The greatest problem is getting enough students interested. An affirmative vote of two-thirds GUARRERA, ONE OF THE most frequently heard baritones at the Metropolitan Opera, will appear at Johnston Hall on the Moravian campus at 8:30 p.m.

Since winning the 1948 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air Award, Guarrera has gained in popularity, making frequent appearances as guest star in opera companies throughout the United States and in concert, radio and television. He has been seen on "Omnibus" and "Voice of Firestone."

His most recent role was that of Figaro in the "Met's" production of "The Barber of Seville."

Rep. Scranton Visits Here: Candidate Stops In Union

by Fred C. Cartier

Representative William W. Scranton, the Republican candidate for Governor, visited Moravian on Tuesday, September 18, in the dining room of the College Union Building.

MR. SCRANTON WAS IN THE BETHLEHEM AREA meeting people in the center of town. Because of the tight schedule that he had to follow, the candidate could only spend twenty minutes on the campus. In that short time Mr. Scranton was introduced to many of the students in the main lounge. After exchanging greetings in the snack bar he moved to the dining room and had coffee with the faculty.

Of the things that he said, the most interesting were his reactions and thoughts on the debate that he held the night before with Mr. Richardson Dilworth. He said it was hard to judge the winner of a television debate, he didn't think he had lost any votes, and with a little luck he might have won a few from Mr. Dilworth.

Mr. Scranton has spent many years in government service. He was elected to the 87th Congress in November, 1960. He also served as special assistant to Secretary of State Christian Herter at conferences in Latin America, NATO, and the United Nations. Before his government service, Mr. Scranton served as officer and director of several business and industrial firms. On election to congress he resigned all these positions to avoid a conflict of interest.

MR. SCRANTON IS A LEADER in the world-famous effort of Scranton City and Lackawanna County to develop industry and to fight unemployment.

Placement Meeting Held Last Tuesday For Senior Class

by Woody Grossman

A Moravian College Placement Orientation meeting for all members of the senior class was held in Johnston Hall on September 25, 1962. Mr. Gillespie, Director of Placement, outlined the aims of his office and instructed the students as to the procedure to be followed in its use.

THE PLACEMENT OFFICE is not set up to secure positions, but to provide students with information concerning employing organizations and to prepare them for interviews. With this help, the selection of careers can be made in an objective atmosphere with complete understanding of all the facts.

"It is important to note," said Gillespie, "that the placement office is not here to assist only seniors." Even though the bulletin board in Johnston Hall is used to communicate with the student body, everyone should become familiar with the literature available in the office.

Rooney Visit

State Sen. Fred B. Rooney of Bethlehem will review Democratic campaign plans on the local, county and state levels at a conference Oct. 4 in Prosser Auditorium.

Fred C. Cartier, vice president of the Political Activities Club, said Sen. Rooney has expressed an interest in meeting with students and airing political issues.

Pep Rally

There will be a Pep Rally and Twisting Rally, tonight at 8:00 p.m. in Johnston Hall.

The football team will be introduced and a twist contest will be held.

SUPPORT YOUR TEAM!

Better or Best?

We wish to express a hearty greetings to those students of Moravian College who are reading this publication for the first time. A "Welcome Back" is also in order to the upperclass students who have been faithful readers of the Comenian.

Another academic year has arrived bringing with it a rush of studies and activities. In the previous years we have urged students to do their utmost to make Moravian the fine institution it has the "potential" to become. This word potential, which often takes on the aspects of latent power, is used not to convey the impression that Moravian College falls short of the mark. On the contrary, our college is one of the better small schools in the East, but we do have the power and material to become one of the BEST.

An example of this potential can be found in our United Student Government. At a recent meeting, everyone seemed to be holding back. There was so little discussion that one began to wonder if USG was really a democratic body. Even if this was the first meeting of the year, many issues were brought forth which should have called for at least a minimum of comment and question. Do the members of our college governing body care about USG or its proposals and rulings? Perhaps the failure lies with the present USG administration? Of course it is always very easy to blame those in charge. Could it not be that the members of the governing body are themselves at fault?

Here we have potential, but we certainly are not using it.

From this potential that exists at Moravian it is but a short step to the action we are capable of taking.

The United Student Government has been cited as an example. There are also other areas where we have "untapped resources." There is no time like the beginning of the year to begin in earnest to make Moravian the BEST.

USG Newstand National Student Association

by Pete Gill

"What's new in student government this year?" I've heard this question several times this year and usually reply, "Well, for one thing, we're back in NSA." This answer is usually met with a blank look and a very casual "Oh really?" At this point the conversation begins to drift to other interests.

I'm not suggesting that NSA is the best conversational material for a morning coffee klatch, but it is an organization that deserves some attention from the Moravian student body. Admittedly, there wasn't dancing in the streets last spring when Moravian rejoined the NSA fold, but does anybody realize what benefits we can derive from our membership?

After meeting with the NSA Regional Vice-Chairman last February, I became interested in NSA and the many services it has to offer. NSA to many students is strictly an organization designed to promote better student government. This is true, but the organization works effectively in other areas. Would you like to travel, work or study in Europe next summer? Could your club use films to operate more efficiently? Maybe a speaker would help boost interest in your organization? How about a good job in some other part of the country next summer? Wouldn't a student discount service with local merchants save you money?

If your answer to any of the above questions is yes, NSA can be of service to you as an individual. Since Moravian is a NSA member, these services are ours. All we have to do is ask. Keep in touch with NSA through your USG representatives. Let them know that you want to know more about NSA.

Cub Corner

by Elizabeth Holm

The College Union Building (CUB) is the center of extra-curricular activities at Moravian. During October many programs have been planned for the enjoyment and enrichment of the student body.

The Founder's Day Art Exhibit beginning on September 30 will be the first program. This contest is open to all amateur and professional artists. Subjects should be drawn from campus scenes.

Senator Fred Rooney of Northampton County will speak at the Political Activities Club (PAC) meeting which will be held in the Bethlehem-Salem Room on Oct. 3.

On Monday, October 8th an Alumni Roundtable will be held. Each month the Alumni Association holds a dinner at the college. Following the dinner they will hear a speaker.

The motion picture "Camille," starring Greta Garbo and Lionel Barrymore, will be shown in Prosser Auditorium Friday, Oct. 12. Two shows will be given: 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The annual Homecoming Weekend will be held on October 19 and 20. College Union Activities for this weekend will be announced later.

The Lehigh Valley Art Alliance Exhibition will be held in the CUB beginning October 27.

Search Uncovers Facts About Moravian College Of Long Ago

by Grove Stoddard

Tuition, Thirty-six dollars a semester; it hardly seems possible. Yet in 1864 that was the price a student paid to attend Moravian College. I should have gone to Moravian then, you say. Don't be too quick to wish you were there. There was no Comenius Hall, no College Union Building, no Harvey Library, and no Borhek Chapel. Even when Comenius Hall was built, the gym was in the basement.

Moravian College and Theological Seminary has indeed radically changed since the days from 1807 to 1858 when the Seminary was housed in a farmhouse-like building called the Whitefield House in Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

Tracing the history of Moravian College in Bethlehem reveals the diligence of the professors and students who struggled to teach and learn in the conditions under which the early college labored.

In a General Synod in 1858 it was decided that the Whitefield House in Nazareth had seen better days and that the college and seminary had to be relocated in Bethlehem. On August 30, 1858, the first classes were held in a building on Church St., purchased from a Mr. B. Van Kirk. Ten students were present. The school year was divided into three terms separated by two week vacations at Christmas, Easter, and a six or seven week vacation during the summer.

On April 3, 1863, the Governor of Pennsylvania, A. G. Curtin, signed a bill making Moravian College and Theological Seminary a legal corporation. For those who are anniversary conscious, this coming April will be the Centennial of the incorporating of Moravian College.

In 1864 General Synod agreed to allow admissions to all qualified students. Prior to this year, only sons of Moravians could attend the college. At this time, however almost all the students were preparing for the ministry.

It is interesting to note the contrast in the courses taken by the students at this time and the courses taken now. Below is a schedule of the first two years.

Freshman Class

Latin—Nepos, Sallust, Cicero's Orations, Latin Composition.

Greek—Herodotus, Xenophon's Memorabilia, Greek Composition.

Mathematics—Loomis' Algebra and Geometry.

History

Rhetoric

Sophomore Class

Latin — Virgil, Livy, Horace (Odes), Latin composition.

Greek — New Testament, Isocrates, Homer (Iliad), Greek composition.

Mathematics—Plain and Spherical Trigonometry.

History

Rhetoric

Bearing in mind that most of the students were preparing for the ministry, notice the mathematics that they had to take. In the Junior year Analytical Geometry and Integral Calculus were offered to their inquiring minds.

As the years went by, the little college began to expand slowly. For instance in 1868 the first college catalog, consisting of 16 pages, was published and the college seal was designed. For those who wonder, the "Via Lucis" above the bust of Comenius can be translated "The Way of Light." On July 19, 1870, the first public Commencement was held. There were four orations, all by students; one was in German. In October, 1891, the first issue of the "Comenian" was published. At first it was an eight page monthly issue. But within the next few years it became a twelve page monthly issue and is now a four to six page weekly paper. On March 28, 1892, the first annual John Beck oratorical contest was held. This contest is still held at Moravian, although it probably receives less mention than in the past, due in part to the fact that, sadly enough, emphasis is not as great upon good speech and oration as in the past. Even the debating society, formed in 1858, is a defunct group.

On April 3, 1889, an important step was taken in the history of Moravian College. It had been decided that the building on Church Street was inadequate, and on this date the land on which Comenius Hall stands was purchased. In April, 1891, work on the refectory was started. This is the three story brick opposite the library annex. It served Moravian as refectory until spring, 1962, when the College Union building began to serve meals. Sentimentalists may be interested in the fact that the last meal served in the refectory was ravioli and peas.

The cornerstone of Comenius Hall was laid in August 2, 1891. It is constructed of Potsdam sandstone with ornamented parts of Wyoming bluestone and Indiana limestone. It must have looked quite adequate to the students of that day, although it is becoming small for the number of students currently at Moravian.

Other buildings rose in quick succession. The Borhek Chapel's cornerstone was laid in 1892 and the Harvey Library's in 1907. The Chapel is one of the finest buildings on the campus. It can be admired for the sturdiness which few modern buildings possess. The windows have a shape and beauty which are of more lasting elegance than plush lounges and thick rugs. The pipe organ installed in 1896 will outlive the fine looking stereos common today.

Moravian's history is rich in struggle and perseverance. It is hard to list the people that have partaken in this struggle to make Moravian College a unique institution. Slowly but surely each generation makes improvements and one fact that gives heart to those participating is that we aren't finished.

Club Car

by Fred C. Cartier

In the two years that I have attended Moravian I have become aware of several situations that I think show a very poor picture of the students. This is in the support of the campus clubs. When I went around the campus last year asking students why they hadn't joined, most of them gave me the excuse that they knew nothing about the clubs, where they met or who was in them.

Through this column I hope to do much to remedy this situation. I have asked the organizations to send to me any information on their groups. It is the desire of this reporter that through this column you will become more conscious of the campus activities around. I would appreciate any remarks, good or bad, concerning this article.

On campus we have fraternities, social and honorary, and two sororities which are social. The social fraternities are alphabetically, Omicron Gamma Omega, Sigma Phi Omega and Tau Kappa Epsilon, and the sororities are Alpha Epsilon Pi and Phi Mu Epsilon. These fraternities and sororities are an important part of extra-curricular activities on campus with many of their members playing major roles on the college teams, inter-mural sports program, campus social functions and community welfare projects.

The other type of fraternities are the pre-professional. Their programs are based on giving their members extra knowledge of the field of work that they will enter after college. On their schedules throughout the year are field trips, speakers and special projects. These groups meet regularly and are always looking for new members. They are Rho Alpha Upsilon (science), Epsilon Beta Alpha (business), Kappa Delta Epsilon (education), Kappa Phi Kappa Fraternity (education), Phi Sigma Tau (philosophy), Pi Delta Epsilon (journalism) and Pi Mu (pre-theological). There are two organizations which I feel deserve a little extra attention. They are Tau Sigma Lambda Sorority and Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity. These clubs are service organizations whose aim is to serve the college and the community.

Also on campus we have clubs that are very active. In the field publications, Moravian offers the Comenian, Benigna and Manuscript. These are always in need of students who would like to do some extra writing. The Choir, Campus Christian Association, Political Activities Club, Modern Language Club, Women's Athletic Association, Varsity M Club, Veterans Association, WRMC-Campus radio station and Women's Recreational Association are all very active clubs.

It was hoped that I could give the week's schedules of these organizations; but because of lack of information and space I will

COMENIAN SPORTS

Hounds Will Open With Wilkes Calvo To Use Two Platoons

Like Army, like Navy, in fact just like all the big schools in the country, Moravian has graduated to the two platoon system. Coach Rocco Calvo is expected to add this new wrinkle to the Greyhound grid machine in the opener against Wilkes on Saturday afternoon.

THE TWO SQUADS CALLED the Blue and the White, will play both offense and defense. This should all add up to a Moravian squad which should at all times be in top operating form.

The Wilkes Colonels, who posted a 1-6 record last year, will have to put up a hard scrap if they expect to beat the Hounds. With a little luck, the Greyhounds may be the best team in the conference.

The Hounds have 19 returning lettermen, and have been picked as one of this year's powerhouses in the M.A.C. College division. The backfield is experience and has Russ DeVore, a good passer, as its signal caller. The line is also back almost in tact.

WILKES HAS A NEW HEAD coach in the person of Roland Schmidt. With a team which has a good number of returning lettermen, but as evidenced by the record, did not play top flight football last year, this looks like a year in which the Colonels will be building for the future.

This is the opening game of the season for both squads, and as the experts see it, the Hounds are favored. In preseason contests, Moravian battered Ursinus, while Wilkes has not looked too impressive.

All in all, if over confidence doesn't enter the Hound camp this looks like win number one for the Blue and Grey.

Footballers Top Ursinus Team In Scrimmage

MORAVIAN COLLEGE GRID-ders saw their first action in a scrimmage with Ursinus College. Coach Calvo has been working the squad in 3 units, blue, white and red. The blue and white units proved to be too much for Ursinus both on offense and defense. Moravian scored five touchdowns and a sixth one which was called back because of a penalty. Ursinus was held scoreless. As a matter of fact, they hardly moved the ball.

The red unit, composed mostly of freshmen, saw a lot of action in order to give Ursinus a contest. This red unit moved the ball well on offense, however, failing to score. Defense proved weak for the red as Ursinus scored three times.

Moravian started their scoring on defense when senior halfback Jim Kelyman intercepted a pass going 50 yards for a touchdown. Senior fullback Bill Hino then scored on an off-tackle plunge after a Moravian offensive drive. Sophomore halfback Jim Groff scored twice on end runs of substantial yardage. Groff also scored the touchdown which was called back. Junior Andy Semmel scored the fifth touchdown on a plunge after another offensive drive.

MORAVIAN HAS A TOUGH schedule this year facing powers such as Lebanon Valley, Albright, Juniata, Muhlenberg, Upsala, P.M.C., Wilkes and C. W. Post. That's right. That's the whole schedule. So, fans, don't miss a game.

Women Sports Start Schedule Next Week

Women's recreational activities this fall will have a new focal point, intramural sport competition.

TOURNAMENTS IN FIELD hockey, archery and tennis will be scheduled every Thursday at 4:00 p.m., on South Campus. Each class shall compete in a game against each of the other three classes. A point system shall be the basis for the awarding of a trophy to the most successful class in the spring of 1963.

The first tournament will be held on Thursday, October 4. More detailed plans are being developed by a planning board of the Women's Recreation Association.

Physical Education classes shall include archery, tennis and field hockey. Swimming classes may be scheduled at the YMCA for a two hour period.

MISS WYTOCK OF THE WOM-en's Physical Education Department hopes to bring a variety into the class program and also gain participation of more women students in at least one special sport.

Golf Team Third Hutchinson Named To All East Team

Moravian's team of Sandy Hutchinson, Jim Repasch, Fred Laist, and Bob Pasfer surprised the entire field as it surpassed such schools as Temple, Lehigh, Gettysburg, St. Joseph's, and the University of Delaware. Fred Laist and Sandy Hutchinson finished in the top ten.

Laist finished with a 36 hole total of 158. Hutchinson took away the individual laurels as he won the individual championship with a 36 hole total of 150. This made him a surprise winner and Moravian College's first champion.

At the National Collegiate Golf Championship at Duke University, Hutchinson was nominated to be a member of the All East Team and represented Moravian College in the All East-All West match.

The Moravian College golf squad made its best showing of the year in the Middle Atlantic Golf Championship at Scranton University where it finished third among 22 schools. Finishing only four shots behind Rutgers, the league champion, and only one shot behind Bucknell, the runner up.

From these girls the queen will be chosen who will reign at the dance on Saturday evening.

"The Witching Hour" will feature Matt Gillespie and his orchestra from 9 until midnight. Dress will be suits for the men and cocktail dresses for the women. Refreshments will be served.

Tentative plans for a bonfire and pep rally are under discussion.

Stickmen Off To Early Start Coach Views Rough Schedule

On Monday, September 24, twenty inspired baseball players reported to Steel Field for fall baseball practice.

Coach Gillespie and assistant coach Garscar will lead the future baseball players in one week of practice, which will mainly consist of informal scrimmages.

The Blue and Gray baseball team, which compelled a won lost record of 12 wins, no losses and two ties, one by Wagner and the other by the always strong baseball school from Philadelphia, Temple. The final reward for compiling this outstanding record was being crowned Northern Division Champions, of the powerful Middle Atlantic Conference.

The Hounds lost six lettermen by graduation from this powerhouse; but on the brighter side they will have 12 returning lettermen which will give them a real chance to successfully defend their crown.

not include any information. I hope that I have given the idea that there are many clubs on campus. If through this column you will join, the article has served its purpose. In the coming weeks I will write on all activities that the clubs send me and on a club that I feel has done an excellent job during the past week.

Coach Gillespie would not make any "early predictions" but he did say, "It would be hard for any freshman to make this team, but that there are some positions on the roster which are open." He also stated that this year's schedule would be as rough as last year's since they play almost the same teams. Mr. Gillespie also implied that it would be hard to match last year's record.

It might seem odd to be starting to practice baseball in September. But a defending champion must start early . . . and the diamond hounds are a defending champion.

He is a director of the Associate Consultants for Education Abroad, a Post-Doctoral Fellow of the National Council of Religion in Higher Education and a member of the executive committee of the Commission in Higher Education of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

BESIDES HOLDING SEVERAL Church of the Brethren pastorates, he formerly served as director of the Amity Settlement House in New Haven, Conn., and, more recently was executive secretary of the Penn State Christian Association.

He is a graduate of Millersville State Teachers College, the Bethany Biblical Seminary School of Music and McPherson College.

Nineteen Lettermen Spark Moravian Football Team

With 19 returning lettermen, coach Rocco Calvo's Greyhounds must be considered a contender for the Middle Atlantic Conference, Northern Division championship.

BASICALLY AN AVERAGE SIZE TEAM WITH A LOT of desire, the team could better last year's record of 4-3-1. Their conference record was 4-1-1.

Calvo, who is beginning his eighth season as coach, said that 45 players reported for practice and that about 40 would dress for the opener on Saturday.

Calvo and his two assistants, Paul Calvo and Charlie Peters, hope to use two units that will alternate both on defense and offense.

THE TEAM WILL BASICALLY be a running team using variations of the T with slot and wing formations.

Jim Kelyman, a senior weighing 180 pounds, led the 1961 Greyhounds in rushing with 203 yards, scoring with a total of 40 points, pass receiving with 333 yards, and picked up 116 yards on three pass interceptions. Other returning lettermen include Bill Hino, Dick Ritter and Russ DeVore. Also Juniors Frank Grablachoff, Andy Semmel and Bob Mushrush will give the team added strength. Mushrush led the team in pass interceptions with five.

Main quarterbacks will be DeVore, Semmel and Mushrush.

CALVO SAID THAT HE HAD some trouble at the end spots and tackle, but that progress is being made.

At the end positions Steve Check, Paul Riccardi, Pat Mazza, Vince Seaman along with freshmen Ed Huff and Jack Babinchak show promise.

Tackle spot will see Jim Mazza, Bob Dietrich and Ron Gori all seniors and juniors Bruce Coull and John Balliet.

THE GREYHOUNDS FORWARD wall will include Dietrich and Jim Mazza at tackles; Ed Weinholfer, Doug Wilkens, and John Landis guards, with Dick Bedics backed up by Jim Long and Bill Silcox at center.

Calvo said that punting will be done by Silcox and Babinchak but this is still being worked on.

Other lettermen who will not be much help at least until later are Tony Gawronski, who broke a leg last year, and Bill Griffith, who received a knee injury in practice last week.

THE GREYHOUNDS OPEN with Wilkes at home on September 29 who they defeated 14-7 last year.

Calvo said Wilkes has 15 lettermen and are always a strong defensive team.

Local Government Discussed By Convo Speaker Hissom

by Woody Grossman

"Local government is frequently characterized by mediocrity, intolerance and corruption," Thomas Hissom, business administrator of the city of Bethlehem, told students and faculty attending the September 20, 1962 convocation in Johnston Hall.

SPEAKING ON "GOVERNMENT and Democracy at the Grass Roots Level," Hissom said, "Pennsylvania is no exception to the rule."

Of the 5,000 fragmentary, political subdivisions which exist in Pennsylvania very few are prepared to perform the duties and services required of them. However, as Hissom noted, officials of the local government are under the watchful eye of citizens and are quickly reminded of their failings.

The accomplishments of the Republican party in fulfilling their platform were explained by using the greater efficiency of Bethlehem's operation after the cut of sixty people from the administration force as an example. Those attending the convocation received copies of Bethlehem's Charter which included a diagram of the new city structure.

HISSOM REFERRED BRIEFLY to the segregation actions in Albany, Ga., during which his assistant, Darold Hemphill, was arrested.

"It is debatable whether or not my assistant should have participated in the anti-segregation move," Hissom said, "but he was acting from personal conviction that democracy must operate fully on a local as well as national level."

In conclusion, Hissom mentioned the many occupations available in government careers and urged the students to consider this field.

of the student body is necessary to ratify a new constitution, and it is very hard to get such a number to even vote."

"ANOTHER PROBLEM IS representation. Many variables must be considered to have a truly representative government. What is true representation? What is the best representative system for Moravian? How many should represent our student body?"

"Of course the truest representative system would be one based on living groups, since one can belong to only one dormitory, fraternity or home quarters at one time."

"We must also consider this is an organization oriented school, and we can not ignore the interest groups.

"HOWEVER, TO HAVE ALL the organizations and living groups represented would be inconsistent and would retain the awkwardness of our present system."

"The committee," Canning added, "will work with the campus organizations in an effort to get similar groups to join together voluntarily for better government representation."

Canning concluded, "The new constitution will hold purpose and responsibility for the student body. Until we govern more than money we are not a United Student Government."

The USG Revisions Committee discusses proposed changes in student government.

Big-Little Sister Tea Held On South Campus Last Sunday

by Georgia Dreyer

The annual Big-Little Sister Tea was held in the President's Reception Room, Main Hall, South Campus, on Sunday 16. This tea brings together the sophomore big-sisters and their freshman little-sisters. The arrangements were made by senior Joan Scott who is this year's chairman of the Women's Activities Committee.

THIS AN OLD TRADITION AT Moravian is a carry over from the women's college before the two colleges were incorporated in 1952. The college has since made it an important part of the freshman orientation program.

During the summer as each freshman woman registers at Moravian, she is given the name of her big sister with whom she corresponds. Through these letters that the big and little sisters exchange, the incoming freshman acquires a better idea of what campus life will be like in the coming year.

Each girl met her sister before the tea and entered the reception in her company. There they were introduced to Dean Sartwell, Dean of Women; Mrs. Ronald Sherry, Assistant Director of Admissions; and Mrs. John DeWitt, the new Director of Women's Residence.

THE AFTERNOON WAS spent in being introduced to other women while enjoying coffee and cookies that were served by the regular members of WAC.

Bethany Prexy Finds College Choice Crisis

by Linda Moggio

Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany College, Bethany, West Virginia, has suggested that something is wrong with the method people use to select colleges.

His belief is based on the fact that a large number of students clamor for transfer at the end of the freshman year, if not at the conclusion of the first semester.

HIGH SCHOOL RANK AND test scores, in addition to descriptive statements tell practically nothing about a student's adjustment. Even though educators do not want to admit it, emotional and social factors have more to do with the reasons for poor performance, withdrawal, and transfers than academic factors. Young people feel that indications of personal achievement, well-being, and a feeling of acceptance are extremely important.

The American college must assume some of the responsibility for its inability to interpret itself to society. One reason for this failure of interpretation, states Gresham, is that by using a salesmanship approach the college officers are trying to create a special kind of public acceptance without clearly understanding the function and goals of the college themselves.

The self-appointed specialists in the field of college evaluation tend to complicate the problem by means of their widely circulated lists of so-called superior colleges.

AS GRESHAM PUTS IT, "THE real problem appears to lie in the fact that . . . college officers cannot explain a college to high school counsellors if they do not find it possible to explain the college to themselves."
