MORAVIAN COLLEGE

STUDENT WEEKLY

Volume LXVI

Bethlehem, Pa., Friday, November 22, 1963

Number 9

Students Seeking Aid Should Apply Soon

Moravian students in school who are applying for financial aid for the second semester should apply by Thanksgiving and before Christmas, at the very latest; decisions will then be made as early as possible in January. Those applying for aid for the following fall should complete their applications before May 31; decisions are announced about July 10th, when final grades are received. Financial aid to upperclassmen who were not receiving aid as freshmen normally takes the form of loans and advice regarding jobs, although limited funds exist for superior students who are in serious need. Applications and further information on financial assistance offered here at Moravian may be obtained in Room 7, Comenius Hall.

Other helpful sources of information about scholarships and fellowships that are offered from outside of Moravian are numerous books and pamphlets which may be found in most college and public library reference areas and on the shelves of bookstores such as The Moravian Bookshop. Faculty advisors may also be able to direct an interested student to more information pertaining to financial aid available in the area of the student's major field.

C.U.B. News

The Sociology Department urges all interested students to attend an open lecture to be given between 1:30 and 3 this afternoon in the Browsing library. The guest speaker will be Dr. Robert F. Winch of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

His topic will be on Marriage and the Family and the research that he has done in this field.

Fall Fee Hike Announced

Moravian College will increase its comprehensive student fee by $100 beginning in the fall of next year, Dr. Raymond S. Haupt, college president, announced. The action follows the fall meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The present fee of $1,150 will become $1,250, or $625 a semester.

The increase, amounting to $50 more each semester, is made necessary through rising college costs and services, Dr. Haupt noted.

He added that no change is anticipated at this time in either board or room rates. The present board rate is $500 a year.

Increases of $100 in tuition went into effect in both the 1961-62 and 1962-63 academic years. Last March, however, the college announced a $50 increase, its smallest yearly fee boost in six years, when tuition went from $1,100 to $1,150.

At that time, the board rate—representing student costs for dining privileges on campus—was increased $50 from $450 to $500.

The latest tuition boost will affect all students enrolled for the 1964-65 academic year. Moravian College in 1960-61 instituted its present tuition program known as comprehensive student fees. Under the plan, a single charge is made that encompasses tuition as well as fees for science and language laboratories, practice teaching, student activities, athletics, health programs, orientation and graduation.

Besides the present board rate of $500, or $250 a semester, room charges for men range from $140 to $180 each semester and for women, $165 to $190, depending on the dormitory.

by Frank S. Kovacs, Jr.

This Saturday, November 23, the Moravian Greyhounds close out their 1963 football season against their traditional rivals, the Muhlenberg Mules, at Muhlenberg.

Moravian (2-4) would like nothing better than to avenge last year's 32-8 drubbing at the hands of the Mules (5-3).

Muhlenberg, fresh from last Saturday's 34-18 victory over the Diplomats from Franklin and Marshall, is enjoying its finest season since 1960 when the Mules were 6-3. The Mules have only won 2 games in each of their last 2 seasons and have defeated Moravian both years.

This season Muhlenberg is making its debut in the Middle Atlantic Conference's Southern College Division where they presently occupy second place with a 4-1 record. (Western Maryland is in first.) The Mules previously played in the University Division where they were often hopelessly outclassed.

Muhlenberg has a fine quarterback in the person of Terry Haney, former Allen High School star. Charlie Woginrich, former standout for Al Erdosy's Konkrete Kids of Northampton High School, may also be seen in the Mules starting line-up. This talented Sophomore is one of the Mules leading ground gainers and also participates in basketball and track at Muhlenberg.

Muhlenberg's one big bugaboo is its weakness on pass defense. This weakens any opposing team with a good passing quarterback an opportunity to score.

Moravian has had its share of tough breaks this season but the 'Hounds will surely be up for this one. Mo-Mo has a fine passer in the person of senior quarterback Andy Semmel, of Leighton, total offense leader in the MAC. Tackle

Vince Seaman, a junior from Bethlehem, provides the Greyhounds with field goal and extra points through his uncanny kicking ability. Bill Silcox does a fine job as punter and end Pat Mazza is great on pass reception. Frank Grablachoff is one of the 'Hound's leading ground gainers while Mazza, Bruce Coull, John (Tank) Balliet, and Pete Rush provide Moravian's fine defensive effort. Ed Weinoffer and Doug Wilkins do a superb job at guards. Dick Ritter, a senior, is at fullback, and also takes part in ground gaining for the 'Hounds.

The probable starting line-ups for both teams include:

Muhlenberg

ENDS: Binder, Clymer

TACKLES: Schantz, Novak

GUARDS: Rissmiller, Longo

CENTER: Tiorczyn

BACKS: Haney, Woginrich, Toney, Weyrauch

Moravian

ENDS: Mazza, Riccardi

TACKLES: Balliet, Coull

GUARDS: Weinoffer, Wilkins

CENTER: Silcox

BACKS: Semmel, Ritter, Mammano, Grablachoff

International Club Meeting Tonight

This evening the Moravian International Club will meet at the home of Professor "Sam" Zeller. The meeting will be called to order at 7:30 at which time business will be discussed. The business for this week is to include the future activities of the club, namely the sponsorship of folk dancing in the C. U. B. on the sixth of December, an international dinner to be held the eighth of December, and an objective discussion about overseas students' stay in the United States (this discussion will follow a short film to be shown in Prosser Auditorium.)

At the end of the business meeting the folk-singing session will be led by a number of American ballads. Songs of Mexico, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Germany, France, Indonesia, East Africa and other countries will be sung. Phonetically printed "word sheets" will be distributed so that all may join in.

Once again, as always, the International Club invites any interested student (North American or overseas) to come and share in this another "cultural exchange."

An Advisory Capacity

This past week it was made abundantly clear to the editorial staff of the Comenian that there are club advisors who feel it their misrepresented duty to do more than advise.

One member of a club who wishes to remain anonymous pointed out that a very important trip in which Moravian would have been represented in an international gathering was cancelled because the advisor was reportedly "out of touch with the purpose of the meeting," and that he refused to sign a voucher, which would have provided the needed funds for the trip.

In the opinion of the Comenian editorial staff, Moravian cannot afford to be either left out or misrepresented in any field in the community. We, as responsible students, faculty members, and administrators, have the duty to put Moravian's interests in the long term sense first.

Administration Comments

On November 8 two students from Moravian College, Peter Nyamweya and Lloyd Williams, were refused service at a local barber shop.

When approached by the college about this incident, the barber sought legal counsel, as did also the college in behalf of Nyamweya and Williams.

All parties concerned met in conference on Wednesday, November 13. Although complete agreement was not reached on the exact nature of the incident or the precise reasons for the refusal to serve Mr. Nyamweya and Williams, the incident was considered closed when assurances were given that it is not and shall not be the policy of the shop to discriminate on the basis of color, creed, or national origin.

Regrettable as this experience was, particularly for Pete Nyamweya and Lloyd Williams, it resulted in at least two positive gains for the cause of human rights in our community: (1) assurance that a particular shop patronized by students and faculty of the college does not practice discrimination; (2) a clear indication that the college is concerned about the rights of students in the community and is ready to speak out and take action if these rights are threatened.

Electra Well Done

by Reed Treible
Comenian Editor

Jean Giradoux's Electra met a mixed reception last Friday night, when presented by the Blackfriar's Dramatic Society.

Starring Sandra Creitz as Electra, and Steven Levine as Orestes, the play is the story of the sacrifice of Argos by Electra for revenge of her father's death. Clytemnestra, well played by Marie Gerbino, and Aegisthus, well played by Bruce Weaver, were responsible for the death of Agamemnon, the ruler of Argos, so Electra must seek revenge.

A simple set was used, with a very impressionistically red, flaming sky, executed by professor of art Rudi Ackerman.

Electra opens with the Furies (Judi Share, Cynthia Fox, and Pat Erskine) on stage, addressing a stranger concerning his trip to Argos.

The furies taunt the gardener-bridegroom, well played by Larry Wetzel. Here the most symbolic supernatural element sets the mood of the play, and the Furies serve to warn us of impending events when they say, "Electra's mother wears blood."

Agatha, played by Sandra Stanley, and the President, played by Jack Bucher appeared next on stage, when they made a not too subtle comment on contemporary Greek women, "Keep quiet Agatha." Here the President philosophizes about the impending marriage of the gardener and Electra, a move designed to render Electra impotent. A very skillful step by her mother to insure Electra's coming to political power would have been ensured by her marriage to a political impotent, and a man far from the gods.

Weaver's performance was very good, and led this writer to think that his lines were not only the most thoroughly learned, but the most penetrating of the production.

Electra's lines were perhaps equally symbolic in their meaning, but Sandra failed very often to project. In some instances this muted quality was effective. In others it hurt the overall emotional picture.

Here there is an interesting dichotomy present. The people in authority in Argos are powerless concerning their political situation, much the same as were the characters in positions of responsibility in Jean Racine's Phaedra. Here the beggar, played by Jon Senn, has very meaningful lines, whose meaning very often would have led those hapless leaders to their positions of real power. This is an ironic comment by modern stage on the old traditional theme of classical Greek power.

Orestes appears in the latter part of the first act, at first acting as Electra's new husband, so as to fool Clytemnestra. He is later discovered, and the conflict structure regarding the steps that may be taken to remove this legitimate heir to the throne builds suspense.

The furies enter again shortly after Orestes is discovered, and portend the end of the city at the hand of Electra.

One very important question raised in the work was whether or not Clytemnestra wanted Electra out of the way. This shows up later, after the beggar points out that the conflict between Clytemnestra and Electra regarding the mother's reported dropping of infant Orestes may lead to his return to grasp the throne.

The entrance of the enemies of the state portend the fulfillment of the curse by Electra earlier, "Let a dead man have life," as well as her coming to power in the family structure, and the coming to the throne of Orestes. Here the underlying political turmoil of a nation at war serves to strengthen the fiber of the play.

In the end of act two, as "Morning becomes Electra," the family conflict is ended with the fall of

Letter to the Editor

As one person who decided to remain awake and listen to the convocation speaker of last week, Dean McCormick of Nativity Church, I discovered that I can't possibly have any feelings toward my brother man. This came about in certain comments that in essence meant: In order to be good, love your brother, and care to do something for someone aside from oneself, one must be a Christian.

I might point out that I realize that Moravian College is a "church school," but I also realize that students are accepted from all faiths and, once accepted, should have a little more respect toward their feelings.

The speaker in question jokingly stated that "someone had guts enough to invite me to return." Maybe this should have been amended to read "more guts than brains."

Another point: there is a rule that requires men students to wear ties and jackets to Sunday lunch. I know this is a Christian tradition, but we non-Christians take advantage of a Sunday morning to sleep. Lunch at this time is our breakfast. We supposedly should wake up, get dressed up, eat, return, change, and go about our business. Who ever heard of getting dressed up for breakfast, I certainly wouldn't ask everybody to dress for a Friday evening meal because it is our tradition to do so.

In truth, we are a minority, but in this country minorities are supposed to be respected. Some say this is Christian "tolerance." "Tolerance" is a disgusting term. You tolerate house flies, not the people who gave the "One-God" concept to the world. Ask yourself, "Who was there first?"

Cary Schildkraut

Argos in payment for the murder of Agamemnon.

The play was well cast with the exception of a guard whose lines were very serious, but whose manner of speech hardly conveyed excitement. The result was unfortunately funny.

An error in direction here made the lines all the more funny, for if this fill in guard would have been on stage only a few seconds to say his lines, rather than stand near the door and pretend to view the outside military conflict, his funny, but not intentionally funny, lines would have been minimized in their effect on the audience.

All in all, considering there was four weeks' preparation with the difficult work, the play was well done.

Convo Review

As the speaker for convocation on Thursday, November 14, Moravian was privileged to have the Very Reverend John N. McCormick, Dean of the Cathedral Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem.

Reverend McCormick's topic was the question "Is the Church Relevant to Life in the Sixties?" Critics of the church often accuse it of being too conservative and having no contrast with the people.

The Church shows its innate conservatism in its refusal to change its doctrines. The secular world, on the other hand, changes at a break-neck speed. Because people are in both the church and the world, they are caught up in as conflict between constraint on one hand, and change on the other.

To a degree, Reverend McCormick says, such conflict is necessary. Truth is a combination of the two sides. The church needs both points of view to prevent it from going to extreme in either direction.

When either conservatism or worldliness dominates the other, danger develops. At the present time worldliness has outdistanced constraint.

The Christian parish no longer plays as important a role in urban areas as it had played in the agrarian areas where it originated. All too often the parish is judged by the standards of the business world. A parish may be considered successful if it has balanced its budget. Frequently, what happens in the parish on Sunday bears no relation to what happens during the week. A real Christian parish, Dean McCormick asserts, is one where Sunday's sermon is acted upon on weekdays.

The real danger, then, comes to the church from within. It loses the vision of its real purpose and becomes involved in its own perpetuation. The Christian Church must not become so involved in the world that it is in no condition to criticize.

What is necessary for the church to become relevant to modern life in the adaption of an attitude of "holy worldliness." The church must be fully involved in the world, and by fully concerned with it.

Music Class Attends Seminary Vesper Service

On Sunday, November 17, the Music History and Literature Class attended the service of Vespers at the Mary Immaculate Seminary (order of Vincentian Fathers) near Northampton, Pennsylvania. Accompanied by Mrs. Schantz and Mrs. Waltz of the Music department, the class was greeted by senior seminary students and introduced to The Rev. James J. Megiven, professor of Sacred Scriptures and Biblical Languages and Father Nugent, the rector of the seminary.

The visit was arranged in order that the class might observe one of the canonical hours sung in Gregorian chant from the Liber Usualis, a compilation of a discussion of the singing of the Roman Catholic liturgies. After service, senior seminarians conducted a tour of the chapel and vestry.

The entire student body of 65 seminarians participates in the singing of the services. Because of the antiphonal arrangement of the choir, the architecture permits only two pews for the congregation.

The class was appreciative of the gracious reception and felt the visit rewarding.

Field Trip Announced

Three field trips are scheduled for Moravian College meteorology, geography and mineralogy students under supervision of Dr. Richmond Myers, chairman of the Earth Science Department.

An all-day trip for research in the Pocono area was scheduled for Nov. 21 for geology students. On Dec. 6, meteorology and geography students will be taken on a field trip to Safe Harbor. A Dec. 10 program has been lined up for mineralogy students. They will spend the day at the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia and at Foote Mineral Co. Laboratory, Exton, Pa.

Dean of Cathedral Church Speaks in Convocation

The need of the Christian Church to direct its spiritual emphasis to the world around it was stressed last Thursday by the Very Rev. John N. McCormick, dean of the Cathedral Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem, speaking at a Moravian College convocation.

In remarking on the "continuing changes and great upheaval in the world today," Rev. McCormick said he feels too much of the Christian Church program is trivial.

"I'm convinced that people want the Bread of Life. And what do we give them? Bake sales and the like. Christ came to save the world, not the Church. The Church is God's instrument to proclaim the Word."

Rev. McCormick spoke of the Ecumenical Council and other movements throughout Christianity whereby "the sleeping giant (The Christian Church) is awakening" to its worldwide obligations. He briefly reviewed the history of Christianity and how both Catholic and Protestant faiths have common bonds.

Prof. John Machell, Chairman of the Sociology Department, introduced the speaker.

Wrestling Schedule Changes

Harvey T. D. Gillespie, Moravian College athletic director, has announced a change in the Greyhound wrestling schedule for 1963-64.

The Jan. 4 wrestling match with Albright College has been changed to Feb. 26.

The match was originally scheduled to precede the Moravian-

Franklin & Marshall basketball game in Johnston Hall Jan. 4. Instead a Jayvee basketball game will be played preceding the varsity game in place of the wrestling match Jan. 4.

With the Albright wrestling contest moved back to Feb. 26, its starting time has also been changed from 6:30 to 8 p.m. It will be held in Johnston Hall.

End Season . . .

I'd like to wish the best of luck to the coaches and team on this traditional rivalry and I hope they emerge victorious. Let's end this season on a winning note. I'd like to urge fans of Moravian to go to Muhlenberg and cheer our team to victory. Let's prove school spirit isn't entirely dead and buried.

As a postscript I would like to congratulate the Upsala Vikings on their 24-8 upset of the Wagner Seahawks last Saturday. This puts the Vikes and Hawks in a tie for the lead in the MAC Northern College Division, both with 4-1 marks.

Moravian's Soccer team finished its first intercollegiate season last Saturday by soundly beating a strong Lycoming squad, 8-3. This was the first season for five Moravian Seniors, Bob Fox, Jim McMonagle, Geof Schwarz, Roger Erb, Bill Gilbert and their last in intercollegiate contests. Bob Fox, Mo-Mo's leading scorer, had six goals to his credit Saturday, bringing his season total to 18.

Moravian's other two goals were scored by Tom Kelly and Joe Martino.

Moravian took charge of the game early in the first period and remained in command throughout the game despite Lycoming's three goals. Lycoming's first goal came early in the first period, and they did not control the ball until late in the third period when they scored two quick goals, one a penalty kick.

Moravian's record of four wins, five losses, one tie earned the team a fifth place spot in the final standings. This was a jump of five positions since Moravian was tenth in the standings before Saturday's match.

The team was jubilant after Saturday's game, and they had a right to be so. Their maiden season of 4-5-1 is quite a show of talent and desire for a first-year team. Losing only five men from the squad, next year's team should better this record having had a year of experience.

Soccer Team Faces Lycoming Tomorrow

Moravian College brings down the curtain on its first year of inter-collegiate soccer competition Saturday when it plays host to Lycoming College at 2 p.m. on the former Steel Field at Center St. and Elizabeth Ave.

NATIONAL SPORTS SCENE

by Chuck Berger

As far as NFL members are concerned, the "big game" is now history. Referring to last Sunday's struggle between the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, it would seem that only a major upset of the Bears would allow the Packers a chance of retaining the Western crown. The "Midway Monsters" from Chi completely ruined Green Bay's hopes, at least for the present, by their convincing 26-7 victory. With the town-folk completely frenzied last week, and Coach George Hallas initiating a psychological warfare on his Bears, the strong defense was the major factor in Chicago's important victory carrying the players and followers into a championship frame of mind.

Coach Hallas conceded the Packers as pre-game favorites on the strength of their four victories out of the last five meetings with the Bears. Chicago also defeated Green Bay 10-3 earlier in Milwaukee and the added incentive for revenge was there. But the strongest defense in the business (89 pts. for the opposition in 10 games) was too great for the Vince Lombardi led Packers to overcome. Chicago's questionable offense clicked at the right moment while the savage defensive line continually harassed the Green Bay backfield. The addition of ineligible Paul Hornung to the Packer offense would have meant very little. Only a real surprise loss for the Monsters will block their title changes at least temporarily. Yours truly picked Green Bay-New York as the opponents in the finale, but a reconsideration is feasible now.

On the collegiate football scene: The Northeastern Huskies football team accepted the bid to compete in the second annual Eastern Bowl Game December 14 in Allentown. While compiling an 8-0 record, the Huskies scored 237 pts. to the opposition's 42. A grinding ground game is Northwestern's trademark especially with 215 lb. fullback Bob Cappadora (a 5.1 yard ave. per carry) leading the way. The Huskies likely opponent will be West Chester, a 36-7 victory over Slippery Rock for the State Teachers title.

FORGOTTEN MAN

A forgotten man on the sports scene is Floyd Patterson, but the former heavyweight boxing champ is on a comeback trail in Europe. He'll meet Sante Amorti January 6 in Stockholm in his first bout since the Sonny Liston disasters. Patterson will probably meet British Champion Henry Cooper on his European tour before considering any return match in this country.

The Allentown Jets pro basketball team cut former Moravian star Dick Kosman in favor of their experienced stars and promising "big name" rookies. The Jets will be out to defend their 3 year championship laurels when they open the season this November 23 at Rockne Hall.

The Greyhounds have no chance to make their initial soccer season a winning one, but a win against Lycoming would give them a 4-5-1 record. The last MAC Northern Division soccer ratings had Lycoming fifth and Moravian 10th.

Moravian's leading scorer, Bob Fox, who has been hampered with an injured ankle, will be counted on heavily in the final encounter. Fox leads the 'Hounds in scoring with 12 goals, 5 of them coming in Moravian's 7-3 drubbing of Pennsylvania Military College Oct. 18.

OTHER TEAMS

Other teams that fell to the Greyhounds were Muhlenberg and Upsala, the latter win coming for the 'Hounds after two overtimes. Moravian suffered defeats at the hands of Lafayette, Wilkes, Wagner, Drew and Elizabethtown. The Greyhounds played to a scoreless tie with Stevens Oct. 30.

Coach Terry Jackson has nothing but praise for his squad, who he feels faced obstacles that opponents, with years of experience, did not have to face. "It's quite evident that as the season progressed we stopped making many of the mistakes that had plagued us earlier in the season. Films of the matches bears this out. Our line has improved tremendously and I know we'll be back next year with men who now have more experience and more ability," he said.

Mosely Launches Lecture Series On Soviet Union's Problems

Philip E. Mosely, one of the nation's leading authorities on the Soviet Union and American foreign policy, launched a new program of lectures and discussions Thursday which brought many of Columbia University's outstanding faculty members to the Lehigh Valley.

Dr. Mosely, associate dean of Columbia's School of International Affairs and director of its European Institute, discussed "New Currents in Soviet Foreign Policy" at a meeting in the Union Building.

The discussion series, entitled "Columbia in Lehigh Valley," was open to all Columbia alumni, their families and their guests. It was presented by the Columbia University Alumni of the Lehigh Valley, and the program chairmen were William V. P. Sitterly, 10 Langhorne Avenue, Bethlehem, and Thomas B. Whitley, 1557 Longfellow Place, Bethlehem.

The discussion meetings were presented on a regular schedule each year in cooperation with the National Alumni Program of Columbia University. The series was designed to provide alumni of Columbia and Barnard College, the University's undergraduate college for women, with a continuation of the intellectual stimulation they received during their college years.

The initial co-sponsoring organization was the Foreign Policy Association of the Lehigh Valley.

Dr. Mosely recently returned to Columbia after serving as director of studies at the Council on Foreign Relations from 1955 to 1963. At the Council, he was in charge of a comprehensive program of research on the major issues in U.S. foreign policy. Prior to his work at the Council, Dr. Mosely was the director of the Russian Institute and professor of International Relations at Columbia.

He served as an adviser to Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, at the Moscow Conference in 1943 and to Secretary of State James Brynes at the Potsdam Conference in 1945. Throughout World War II he took an active part in the negotiations with Great Britain, the Soviet Union and France on a variety of problems, particularly on the future of Germany and Austria and the preparation of the peace treaties in 1945 and 1946. He was also the U.S. representative on the Commission for the Investigation of the Yugoslav-Italian Boundary in 1946.

Dr. Mosely first visited the Soviet Union in order to engage in historical research in Moscow during the years 1930-32, and engaged in social and political research in the Balkans during 1935-36 and again in 1938. He has visited the Soviet Union most recently in 1956, 1959, 1961 and 1962. His most recent book is The Kremlin and World Politics (Vintage Books, 1960), a collection of twenty-five studies he has made on the internal and foreign policies of the Soviet Union and on U.S. foreign policy.

Orchestra to Open Concert Year

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra with William Steinberg conducting will perform in Bethlehem Saturday, in the opening 1963-64 series of the Bethlehem Community Concert Association-Moravian College Concert Committee.

The concert will be presented at 8:30 p.m. in Johnston Hall on the Moravian College campus.

The concert is one of four programs scheduled for the association membership this year. Bethlehem membership also entitles attendance at the Easton concert series.

In an innovation this year, the Bethlehem Community Concert Association has arranged with the Pittsburgh Symphony to present a youth concert at 2 p.m. Nov. 23 in Johnston Hall. Tickets have been made available at both public and parochial schools in Bethlehem and surrounding areas.

Other concerts on the schedule include Violinist Nathan Milstein on Dec. 14; Soprano Regine Crespin, Feb. 14, and the Donald Shirley Trio on March 7. All concerts will be presented at 8:30 p.m. in Johnston Hall. The remaining programs are scheduled for Saturday nights with the exception of the Regine Crespin performance, which will be given on a Friday night.

The selections to be played are: Weber's Overture to the "Eury-anthe" opera; Paul Creston's "Walt Whitman Tone Poem in Four Parts"; Strauss' "Dance of the Seven Veils" from Salome; and Schubert's "Symphony No. 9 in 'C' Major."

Around the Valley

Muhlenberg College in Allentown will present an organ recital by Dr. Heinrich Fleischer of the University of Minnesota on Sunday, November 24 at 8:00 P.M. in Egner Memorial Chapel. Dr. Fleischer, who is nationally known for his interpretation of the organ music of J. S. Bach, will begin the 1963-64 College Concert Series at the school.

The Mask and Dagger Society of Muhlenberg is presenting "Arms and the Man" by George B. Shaw, which is scheduled for tonight and tomorrow evening in the Science Auditorium. The play will begin at 8:30 P.M.

"Carousel," the technicolor movie starring Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones, will be presented tonight in Prosser Auditorium at 6:30 and 9:00 P.M. The story involves a carnival barker and the cottonmill girl he marries which culminates in a tragic end. An economics short will be shown prior to the film.

The annual Inter-Fraternity Dance will be held from 10:00 P.M. to 1:00 A.M. tomorrow night in the College Union Building. There will be a buffet supper served and music for dancing will be provided by the "Exciting Invictas." Intermission will feature a Hootenanny with student and faculty participation.

KDE Hosts Convention

The Northeast Regional Convention of Kappa Delta Epsilon convened in the Bethlehem-Salem Room Saturday, Nov. 16, at 1:00. Previously, the visiting delegates had registered at the George Washington Room on South Campus and had been given a guided tour of the Ann Kempler museum by the Historical Bethlehem Society. Approximately 50 girls attended from Pa., N.Y., Vermont, and Wash. D.C.

The opening statements, outlining the purpose of the convention, were given by Mrs. Valerie Levitan, the Northeast director. Roll was then called and each chapter presented its college catalogue and scrapbook and explained the significance of the souvenir presented to each girl. The souvenir presented by the Moravian chapter on behalf of the college was the Christmas issue of Dennis the Menice carton book.

Judith Bartoe, president of the Alpha Theta chapter at Moravian and chairman of the convention then explained the schedule of events for the weekend and the significance of the material in the registration packet (which included a copy of the latest Comenian.)

Fourteen pledges were then initiated before all of the delegates into Alpha Theta by Judith Bartoe, president; Kathy Leison, vice-president; Ginny Hassler, secretary; Eileen Yuhasz, treasurer, and Joann Trotsky, initiation chairman.

KDS Continuity and KDE Recruitment were the workshops held during the afternoon. The delegates discussed individual chapter problems and outlined steps for action.

Dr. Hauptert, Mrs. Hauptert, and Dean Sartwell were guests at the banquet that followed. Part of the choir sang under the direction of Mr. Schantz, and Dr. Hauptert spoke on the importance of communications and understanding between educators.

Sunday afternoon the convention met again to give workshop reports and make recommendations to the national convention. Miss Mazententa, first national vice-president attended the closing session to accept the recommendations.

Singing of the KDE song ended the convention.

The Rau Science club met on November 12 at 6:15 P.M. in Prosser Auditorium. Warren Brill, president, extended a welcome to all new members. Dr. Herman E. Collier, advisor and chemistry instructor, presented a talk on the purpose of the club—to interpret the sciences and math and to promote interest in many areas of science. Certificates of membership were presented to all new members. Full membership requires 12 credit hours of science or math. Freshmen may become associate members until the science requirement is met. Future plans include a trip to the Bethlehem Steel Research Center and a trip to New York to visit either the World's Fair or the Museum of Natural History.

The International Club met at 7 p.m. at Prosser Auditorium. Sam Zeller's home will be the site of the next meeting, a "sing along" program, on November 22. The club was organized for all international students and all interested native students to promote mutual appreciation and understanding. Plans for a Christmas dinner are being considered. Officers thus far are Rejinee Ber-river, president, and Allen Zellif, secretary. Professor Malinowski is the faculty advisor.

Officers of Phi Alpha Theta, the History club, are Janice Whitfield, president; Marjie Wallace, vice-president; Marjie Bricker, secretary. The club met on November 19 to tour the Annie S. Kemmerer Museum. The club's activities are planned to make the student body aware of history, especially as it concerns Moravian. Future trips may include a visit to Gettysburg, correlated with a speaker on the Civil War and the Battle of Gettysburg. Also, in March the group plans a trip to Delaware.
