Czechoslovakian Scholar Honored At Convocation

by Ann Honadle

Leontina Masinova, acclaimed as the leading Comenius interpreter in Czechoslovakia, was awarded an honorary Litt. D. degree by President Hauptert in Awards Convocation, May 11. An informal coffee hour and discussion was held at 3:30 in the Browsing Library.

Other awards were presented to students. The Patricia Erskine Memorial Award was presented to Pamela B. Wagner. This award is given to the junior or senior Blackfriars member who has contributed the most to the organization. Gary Laubach received the Shakespeare Essay Award, given for the best essay on some Shakespearean topic, written by a member of the Junior Class. This prize is taken from the income from the $500 fund established by the late James M. Beck.

Language Awards Presented

The Alpha Epsilon Pi Sorority English Award, given to the freshman woman student with the highest English grade for the year, was presented to Berta Kimmelman. Jean Pearson and Orindo Zanchettin received the Irving S. Amrhein Prizes in Modern Foreign Languages, for German and French and Spanish, respectively. From the income of the fund of $5,000 established by Mr. Amrhein, annual prizes are awarded for distinguished work in one or more of the foreign languages.

Four science awards were presented. Jeffrey A. Richards received the American Chemical Society Award; Lynetta F. Sell, the American Institute of Chemists Medal; Francis J. Zonay, the Atomic Energy Commission Traineeship; and Stewart T. Herman, the National Science Foundation Undergraduate Research Participation Award.

New Music Award

A new award in the music department, the Leon Prokofy Leonovich Memorial Prize, was given to Candy L. Wilchinsky. The Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants Award went to Susan M. Freund and LaMar M. Steigerwalt received the Wall Journal Student Achievement Award.

The Willis N. Baer Award, established by the Epsilon Beta Alpha Society in honor of the late chairman of the Department of Economics and Business Administration, was presented to John D. Wait. Craig VanKowenbergh was presented the Phi Sigma Tau Essay Award. The scholar-athlete award of Omicron Gamma Omega was received by Gary Fox.

'Who's Who' Announced

Also announced were the students named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. They include: Vivienne G. Aldersley, Kathryn F. Broczkowski, Richard R. Chaiet, Judith I. Derk, Joy Ellen Fox, Albert A. Frank, Susan M. Freund, John D. Hedgecock,

Thomas W. Houser, Antoinette P. Ippolito and Jean P. Kelber.

Others were: Beverly A. Klausen, Gary C. Luckenbill, James G. McBride, Robert E. Norland, Linda Lee Pearce, Geoffrey H. Rader, Martha R. Schreiner, Philip W. Sommer, Judith A. Thatcher, Dorothy H. Thomas, Pamela B. Wagner and Jayne E. Wissel.

College, Seminary Announce Speakers For Commencement

Former Governor William W. Scranton and his wife, Mary, will be presented honorary degrees from Moravian College at commencement exercises May 28, the college announced this week. An honorary degree will also be conferred upon Stewart S. Court, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre, Scholar-in-residence at Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, will present the sermon at baccalaureate service at 2 p.m. in the Central Moravian Church.

Dr. Jack R. Ridge, chairman of the physics department, will speak at commencement exercises, at which approximately 250 graduating seniors will receive their degrees. A reception on the portico of the College Union Building will follow the exercises.

Moravian Theological Seminary will have as commencement speaker May 21, the Rev. G. Oliver Maynard, president of the Provincial Elders' Conference of the Eastern West Indies Province of the Moravian Church. A reception in honor of the graduating class will be held on South Campus.

Tina Grigg Crowned 'Miss Moravian' During Annual WAC Spring Festivities

Senior Christina Grigg was crowned "Miss Moravian 1966" at this year's annual WAC Spring Festival. The Sunday afternoon ceremony has been sponsored by the Women's Activities Committee since the merger of the men's and women's colleges in 1954.

The queen and her court for the Spring Festival were elected by the women students as the senior girls who had made the most outstanding contributions to campus life during their four years at Moravian.

Thomas Defends Socialism, Criticizes Popular Definition

by Laura Haley

Norman Thomas, six-times Socialist party candidate for the presidency of the United States, presented a lecture entitled, "Has the welfare state made socialism obsolete?" in Prosser auditorium on May 8. The lecture was jointly sponsored by the Political Activities committee and the Sociology club.

Thomas defined the welfare state as that state which takes an avowed interest in its citizens. The welfare state is not static; it can be added to or subtracted from as the need arises.

Presently, under President Johnson there is an effort to fight poverty. But the inequities can also be evened out by attacking the corruption in such areas as big business. For example, there is a need to correct the managing of public utilities, Thomas asserted.

He then pointed out that the trouble is "we have not caught up with ourselves." Scientists have made fantastic technological advances, but we have not learned to have social institutions comparable to our technical advance. "We must catch up socially or our physical world will turn into a destroying force."

In defining socialism, Thomas criticized the old definition—the public ownership of the means of production and distribution — as being inadequate. Thomas added to the definition "the necessity to plan flexibly and to allow for democratic control, to plan our vast machinery and resources for all and not just for a few." We must go beyond the desire for profit.

"The dominant theory of socialism is Marxism," Mr. Thomas pointed out. He described Marx as being "the author of a most elaborate and beautiful plan of the economy, history and a system of government which would eventually wither away." However, Thomas did add that these plans were perhaps "too idealogical."

We now face, since World War II, a situation in which we do not have the perfect answers, Thomas held. We must consider a human society bigger than our own interests.

Thomas continued by declaring that the "military-national state is the dominant religion over communism or democracy." But nationalism is wholly inadequate for Miss Grigg, a native of Pottstown, Pa., is a Dean's List student, and a member of Triangle Honor Society, Women's Dormitory Council, Women's Recreation Association, and the Social Activities Committee.

Daisy Chain

President of social sorority Alpha Epsilon Phi, she also served as vice-president of Inter-Sorority Council. She has been active in Rau Science Club, the Elections and Commencement Committee of USG, and has been a member of the women's varsity basketball and lacrosse teams.

Freshmen women, holding the traditional daisy chain, formed an aisle for the procession and recession of the queen, her court, and their escorts.

Willa's Week-end

Who do we blame? Let the All College Week-end Committee shoulder all the blame, after all, it was their fault(???) that someone tried to innovate something at Moravian. No, blame the administration, they appear to be responsible and legally liable for all student activities. Blame everyone and anyone, but let's not blame ourselves.

We supported All College Week-end 100 per cent — or did we? The greatest per cent of Moravian was going to the concert instead of other places — or was it? Throngs of students volunteered their services in one capacity or another, — or did we?

Quite evident is the fact that the Rascals didn't perform, but who does one blame for any occurrence of illness, the cause of the cancellation of concert? Another little-known fact is that the alternate date for the concert, the only night that Johnston Hall was available, was not suitable to the Rascals because they had a previous commitment to give a make-up concert for an earlier cancellation for the same reason—illness.

The week-end is past and the general disappointment of not having the concert seems to be accepted, even by those who gave so much so that we could have a real college week-end. However, we do not wish to by-pass the efforts of Willa Howard, Hank Feiger and the All College Week-end Committee. Those on the committee deserve our support and not our criticism. One may think it foolish to thank Willa and her committee for a week-end that did not materialize, but we do thank her. Her efforts in answer to the clamor for an improved Social life are much appreciated.

Letters to the Editor

... Dorm Service Inadequate

Dear Editor:

One of the assumptions of resident students at Moravian College is that their room rental fee includes payment for maid and janitorial services. One of the College's assumptions is that resident students will pay for unreasonable damages to the dormitory, when students are responsible for such damage.

The residents of Second Floor Bernhardt Dormitory have received very little, and sometimes no, janitorial or maid service this semester. Nor have they caused unreasonable damage to the dormitory. Such being the case, would it not be proper for Moravian College to refund to the residents of the Second Floor, Bernhardt Dormitory, some of the monies they paid for a rental fee at the beginning of this semester?

Sincerely,
Craig L. Van Kouwenberg

Note:

An instance which the above mentioned lacks is the week of April 21-28, 1967 when the hallway was not wet-mopped, only some rooms even dust-mopped, the shower and bathroom not thoroughly cleaned, and no single room thoroughly dusted. This is not unusual as an example of our "service."

... Love For Mankind

Students Of Moravian College:

Academic pursuits have too long been considered a measure of character. This may have once been true but in days when masses "attend" college, we have superficial people who lack character. We have come to times when "guts" are the matter, the mind and the heart which contains love for mankind is filled with petty dislike. When "sisters" single out "sisters" for cruel punishment and several persons in a dormitory can blackmail the rest of a hall — something must be wrong.

A basic love for mankind does not permit this type of deviant behavior. Surely a college campus should reflect a concern for fellow-students. If it does not we must then request the students to form their ideals and live by them and ask all those of the administration to help put an end to this unethical behavior.

Any group which is united without purpose (not just written purpose) should not exist. A group which exists merely for superficial ephemeral "kicks" should be put on probation until such time that they either refrain from malicious behavior or decide to die quietly.

The guilty stand accused and there are none innocent who know and permit this to continue. We ask your support.

Sincerely,
Rosemary Skripek

... Reply To Focus

To the Editor of the Comenian:

In response to the Focus article printed in the April 28, 1967 Comenian, I find it surprising that people who are in graduate school working toward a Ph.D. degree have forgotten that most of their professors at Moravian College had also obtained the same degree.

I have seen what treatment an undergraduate receives at a large university (over 10,000 students). I personally would not have my

The Library's Role In Education

by Henry L. Williams

ED. NOTE: Henry L. Williams, librarian of the college joined the Moravian College faculty in 1955. He was appointed to his present position in 1958.

Williams attended the University of Mexico, and received his B.A. from Moravian College and B.D. from Moravian Theological Seminary. He received his M.L.S. degree from Rutgers University.

The author of numerous articles including "The Development of the Moravian Hymnal," Williams has served as pastor of the Fifth Moravian Church of Philadelphia, Pa. and presently serves as associate director of development at Moravian.

H. L. Williams

Comment or criticism on his article is encouraged.

In a few weeks the scattered bits and pieces of the library will be gathered into the new building and a new era will begin, not only for the library but for the whole academic community of Moravian College.

Campus planners tell us that the library should be in the very center of campus life, but few are able to build a new library as centrally located as this one where everything on North Campus is within two or three minutes walk of it.

Leaders of higher education tell us that the library should be the heart of the college. Whether this turns out to be true or not depends on all of us — students, faculty, and library staff. But I think it has a very good chance of being true for we have all been looking forward to and working toward the opportunity which the new library offers us.

A basic function of a library is to gather and store recorded information that it might not be lost, but this is a primitive function which a warehouse could fulfill. A library today needs to be far more than a warehouse and ours is designed to bring books and people together in surroundings conducive to study and thought. With good lighting, air-conditioning, and comfortable seating (for a third of the student body at any one time) this goal is in sight.

Currently the book collection of the library numbers about 90,000 volumes and meets minimum standards for a college our size. (About half the colleges in the country do not meet this standard.) During the years we have been waiting for the new building, the development of the collection has been pushed ahead and we have the base on which to build library excellence in the future. This is true for the periodical collection too where a monumental job of assembling back files of critical periodicals has gone on. This too is a good collection on which to build the future.

These basics of the college library will be supplemented in the future with technical advances which at present are in the experimental stages and have not gotten down to smaller libraries yet. Microfilm has, however, and coin operated xerox machines will be among new facilities offered.

In a college library it is the job of the faculty to keep the collection up to date with the curriculum. It is the job of the library staff to organize the material and help students and faculty to make use of it. It is the job of students to make use of it. Some people have asked "now that we have the new library how are we going to get students to use it?" For better or worse I'm not giving that much thought. I think the question will really be "are we ready for average library use to double, come September?"

The COMENIAN wishes to extend its best wishes to the members of the graduating class of 1967.

children attend such a school. Yes, research is important, but not to the expense of the education of the undergraduate student as is the case in many large universities. At most of these universities the undergraduates are taught by graduate students who simply do not have the time to devote to teaching, because of their own studies, to present an adequate picture.

If students would read the recently published literature, they would also find that the faculty of Moravian College are engaged in research. One faculty member has had at least three publications in the past two years. This record could match that of most professors at a "large institution of learning."

I feel that I am not alone in my views. Large universities have seen that Moravian College is a source of well trained students. If they did not, many of us would not be presently attending graduate school. The fact that we have passed our first year as Ph.D. candidates that the hard work expected of us in graduate school can be accomplished through our background training at Moravian College.

As undergraduates I would advise considering the following points:

1. Moravian College offers as good an education as any university, if you want it.

2. To see a professor in a large university you sometimes need an appointment for at least one week in advance.

3. Be thankful that you have faculty members who already have their Masters Degree or their Ph.D. Degree and are not busy graduate students who spend mere time flaunting their authority than teaching important information.

4. Stop looking for greener grass . . . it's as green at Moravian as everywhere else. My wife (Mary Haas Schmoyer) has said many times, "I wish back to Moravian College."

Sincerely,
Ronald W. Schmoyer '65

Fulbright Grants Available For Postgraduate Study

The Institute of International Education (IIE) announces that its competition for 1968-69 United States Government graduate grants for academic study or research abroad, and for professional training in the creative and performing arts, opened officially on May 1.

IIE conducts competitions for U.S. Government scholarships provided by the Fulbright-Hays Act as part of the educational and cultural exchange program of the U.S. Department of State. Under this program, more than 850 American graduate students will have an opportunity to study in any one of 54 countries. The purpose of the awards is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the U.S. and other countries through the exchange of persons, knowledge and skills.

Requirements Noted

Candidates who wish to apply for an award must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant and, in most cases, be proficient in the language of the host country. Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan and personal qualifications. Preference is given to candidates who have not had prior opportunity for extended study or residence abroad and who are under the age of 35.

Creative and performing artists will not be required to have a bachelor's degree but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience. Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the Master of Social Work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. at the time of application.

Two types of grants will be available through IIE under the Fulbright-Hays Act: U.S. Government Full Grants, and U.S. Government Travel Grants.

A full award will provide a grantee with tuition, maintenance for one academic year in one country, round-trip transportation, health and accident insurance and an incidental allowance.

Travel Grants Available

A limited number of travel grants is available to supplement maintenance and tuition scholarships granted to American students by universities, private donors and foreign governments.

Application forms and information for students currently enrolled in Moravian College may be obtained from the campus Fulbright adviser, Dr. James J. Heller, Dean of the College. The deadline for filing applications through the Fulbright Adviser on this campus is October 15.

Dr. R. Fred West, visiting professor for curriculum development, spoke at the ceremonies.

Mrs. Raymond S. Hauptert, wife of the college president, and residence directors Miss Marie Brendel, Mrs. Nan DeWitt, and Mrs. Sylvia Soullis poured at the Blossom Tea which followed the program.

14 Students Petition For Honors Study

Fourteen Moravian juniors have applied for admission to the Committee on Honors to participate in the Honors Program next year. These students when accepted will conduct an intensive program of independent study under the guidance of a faculty director.

Students who have applied, their advisors, and the tentative titles of their research papers are:

Cynthia Chankalian, David Rabaut, advisor—"The Extent of Class Conflict in the Ancient World."

David Freeze, Dr. Herman Collier, advisor—"An Infrared Study of the Enol Content of 2-Cyanocycloalkanes."

Karen Harris, Dr. Lloyd Burkhart, advisor—"Morality in Eighteenth Century Prose."

Carol Henn, Timothy Mead, advisor—"NATO Policies of the Johnson Administration: Collapse of the Executive-Legislative Decision-Making Process."

Stewart Herman, Dr. Stuart Kulp, advisor—"Hydrolysis of Highly Hindered Cyclopentanoneimines."

John Housman, Dr. Morris Bader, advisor—"Kinetics of Decomposition of Ca Oxalate in a KBr Matrix at High Temperatures."

Patricia McAndrew, Dr. J. Richard Jones, advisor—"The Influence of Nationalism on the Arts in Nineteenth Century Denmark."

Susan Pellen, Dr. Robert Burcaw, advisor—"The Image of Modern Man As Projected in Themes of Contemporary Drama."

Ginger Rooks, Dr. Anthony LoGiudice, advisor—"Crime and Recidivism."

Patricia Schoeller, Marilyn Samii, advisor—"Guidance in the Elementary School; Guiding Culturally Deprived Children."

Robert Semper, Dr. Joseph Powlette, advisor—"The Second Order Doppler Shift in the Mössbauer Effect."

Eric Shimer, Dr. Daniel Gilbert, advisor—"The China Policy of the United States, 1941-1945."

Thomas Tanzosh, Mr. Bergstresser, advisor—"Population Study of Drosophila Melanogaster."

Francis Zonay, Dr. Stuart Kulp, advisor—"The Synthesis, Characterization and Reactivity of 5-Aroyl 2, 2-Disubstituted Cyclopentanones."

Moravian College Personality in:

FOCUS

by Stephanie Matusz

FOCUS Photographer — Greg Fota

Uninhibited Senior, Carol Brescher, will be leaving Moravian in sixteen days. A history major, from Cranford, New Jersey, Carol will begin studying for her masters degree in library science at Rutgers University in the fall. She has definite thoughts about the past four years spent at Moravian.

"College has given me a perspective on life; I hope it gives me direction. It's not supposed to answer all your questions. The important thing is that it makes you aware of where to find the answers.

"The academic side of Moravian has been more than sufficient. My field is history. My teachers stimulate your thinking, make you question, and force you to make value judgements. They respect you as a student and you respect them.

"It's in the out-of-class situations that I find disillusionment. The Deans of Women and Men become Deans of Girls and Boys.

You are not permitted to question or judge, but forced to follow decisions that have been made for you. They pretend they come from the students, but the final decisions rest at Colonial. You must obey rules made for the 'welfare of the majority,' but the majority is almost always wrong, the minority right.

"The administration acts in locus parentis. The college community becomes your new 'home' and you have new 'parents.' But, these parents refuse to give you the courtesy your own parents do—to be heard and to voice your opinions. At home, decisions, which you are expected to comply with, are explained to you. But here, there are no explanations.

"I'm not asking that the students become totally self-governing; they need guidance. But guidance is not best pursued by hand-slapping, but by gentle leading." Carol, as Focus editor for the past year, can see where this lack of communication between administration and students is not just a figment of her imagination.

"In my last Focus, I interviewed graduate students by mail. I wanted to see what Moravian had done for them. I received only three answers to a great many letters. Only three cared enough to answer. These three are working for their Ph.D.'s—they are the ones who, hopefully, are proud of Moravian and who Moravian should be proud of.

"But their answers were not praising Moravian. They harbored bitterness against the institution which the administration could not seem to accept. And yet, if a Woodrow Wilson scholar can see the need for improvement, how can the college close their eyes to it?

"I can't profess to have all the answers. The men who answered my letters know more than I do. But if they feel this detrimental atmosphere exists, and yet feel frustrated because nothing is being done to change it, the college is at fault. The administration is taking on a 'god-like essence' which doesn't belong on a college campus.

"Criticism should be encouraged. It doesn't have to be destructive. There are a lot of people who have gone through four years at Moravian and have been unhappy, for reasons which are not their fault. I'm one of them.

"When I came to Moravian I was a good Catholic. I was told that no one would try to convert me and no one did. As far as I'm concerned, there is no religion here at all.

"Christianity appears to mean hypocrisy. You go to church on Sunday, to be forgiven for what you did Saturday night, but you go out and repeat the same thing Sunday afternoon. Here, 'love thy neighbor' means 'smile at him then turn around and stab him in the back.'

"The religious values and principles that had been established in me for eighteen years declined steadily year by year. As far as this campus is concerned, it appears to me that God is dead.

"Dormitory life is disappointing. It's anti-academic. It's impossible to study when a roommate complains that she can't sleep with your light on and when a television is constantly in tune in the study room. The two-by-four cubicles are not especially conducive to creative imagination. Every room is just like every other one and there's little space for any individuality.

"And you can't put twenty girls on one floor and expect everything to go smoothly. It's like putting forty cats in a little box and expecting nothing to happen. Everyone is forced to give up something."

"Everybody is afraid of not being liked. It doesn't phase me.

I have a few close friends and that's enough. Maybe that's why people think I'm malicious, dangerous, and interesting, but I do what's right for me. I think that's the most anyone can do.

"What Moravian needs is a change. Our campus community should be rapidly changing. Since the merger of the men's and women's campuses about ten years ago, changes have occurred—a new gym, a new College Union, a new library, and plans for a new science building and new dormitories. There is also a planned change for curriculum. Everything appears to be pointing toward a Utopia for future M.C. students.

"But these outer changes can't be felt inside and it's frustrating. A change in atmosphere is what Moravian needs—a change to an atmosphere geared to academics and true education.

"Change is a psychological, not merely a physical, phenomenon. We live in a world where change has become the norm, not the anomaly. But, somehow, Moravian has lost it's way in the hurrying world."

OGO-A Wins I-M Softball Championship

Intramural softball action ended this week with OGO-A retaining their undisputed championship. By winning the I-M title, Omicron Gamma Omega also retired the intrafraternity trophy.

Last Monday, SPO-A defeated SPO-B with an 11-0 shutout while the Rhubarb Patch forfeited to the Alkies. Tuesday's action saw OGO-A down OGO-B 11-3 with John Miller hitting a home run for the team. OGO-C beat SPO-B by a score of 11-4.

The SOB's defeated the Animals and SPO-A squeezed by Beta-B 9-8. SPO-B downed OGO-B 8-7.

Championship Wins

In the championship games, OGO-A defeated both SPO-A and Beta-A to win the title. In the game with SPO-A OGO gained seven runs in the third inning with Wayne Dovan starting the action with a triple. SPO-A managed two runs and the game ended 7-2.

Rod Apple pitched a no hitter against Beta-A clinching their win in the softball league.

Jackson Named To Relieve Calvo As Basketball Coach

Terry Jackson has been named head basketball coach replacing Rocco Calvo who will concentrate on football and take over as director of intramural sports. The announcement was made by Harvey Gillespie, athletic director.

Jackson is at present coaching the Greyhounds' soccer and golf teams. He will step down as golf coach at the end of the present season.

Calvo will remain as Moravian's head gridiron coach and will assume the position of director of intramural sports currently held by Jackson. A new golf coach will be named at a later date.

A Capable Coach

Jackson has proven himself a capable coach since coming to Moravian in 1963 when he introduced soccer to Mo Mo as an intercollegiate sport. He has had three consecutive winning seasons and finished second in the MAC race in 1965.

A former standout in Baltimore County, Md., Jackson will take over for Calvo who has been the basketball coach for the past ten years.

We all join in wishing the best of luck to Mr. Jackson in his new position as head basketball coach at Moravian College.

Mo Mo Netwomen Top Muletis, 3-2; Post 6-1 Record

The 'Houndettes defeated a tough Muhlenberg Tennis team last week, 3-2. The match rested on the winner of the first doubles which the girls from Mo Mo pulled out of the bag.

All season long the women's tennis team has been doing a magnificent job in upholding the honor of Moravian on the courts. The team boasts a 6-1 seasonal record losing their only match to Ursinus.

Included in their six victories are four shutouts which is an excellent record for any athletic team. The girls have worked hard and deserve the honors which they have won this season.

Moravian Nine Posts 5-4 Triumph Over Visiting Upsala In MAC Contest

by Patricia Zwald

Moravian built an early 5-1 lead and then hung on to post a 5-4 victory over visiting Upsala in a Middle Atlantic Conference contest. This game marked the end of the Greyhounds' home schedule.

Upsala, holding a 9-2 record, started the scoring when Benny Catazarro doubled and Wally Czarnota, who had reached base on a fielder's choice, came home to score.

ior at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, and so what I have to say is from the level of an undergraduate student.

I did not want to leave Moravian and did so only in pursuit of romance (I got married). I did not realize how much I liked Moravian until I had spent several weeks studying here at Reserve.

It is difficult to realize how much Moravian has to offer while you are a student there. I have found that Moravian offers many more educational advantages along the lines of close student-professor relationships, individual work, and advanced studies.

Those professors which I have encountered here at Reserve are aloof, haughty, and unwilling to give help to individual students. Most of them are thoroughly encompassed in research projects and articles for publication. They are pressured to publish and have little time for preparing lectures and exams.

One of my professors always sends her secretary to give her exams, and the secretary obviously can't answer any questions concerning the exam. Some of my professors have missed class more than they have been present. They are periodically attending conferences and holding interviews for research projects. I have tried six times to make an appointment with a professor to discuss a paper and have been refused six times because he was too busy.

These examples indicate what little concern professors have for their students. I have learned very little new information since I have come here. I can name one sociology course at Moravian in which I learned more than I have learned in three sociology courses here at Reserve. I know so much more than other students at my level in sociology that I can hardly believe how little they know.

Most of my courses are general review of what I've learned at Moravian. I don't consider every professor at Moravian an excellent one, but the worst there are about as good as the best here at Reserve.

I have been given the opportunity to take graduate courses next fall while still an undergraduate student, and I feel that I am as well prepared to take them as the students here at Western Reserve University. Moravian has apparently given me the background that I need.

Everyone entering graduate school is confronted with a new experience in learning and everyone must adjust together. This is a difficult task, but it does not necessarily mean that they have not had a good educational background in undergraduate school. I feel that it is more concerned with the ability to adjust to new situations, and this is primarily an individual achievement.

My husband, who is a Ph.D. candidate at Western Reserve, has said it takes more guts and individual initiative to succeed in graduate school than anything else, and I truly believe this.

My advice to all of you students is to realize the advantages that you have and to make the best use of the opportunities that are offered to you at Moravian. I wish with all my heart that I was back at Moravian.

Sincerely,

Mary Haas Schmoyer

. . . Proud of Moravian

Dear Editor:

I am replying in answer to your questions concerning my views about my undergraduate education at Moravian. At the time I received your letter I was occupied with exams and unable to reply. As a matter of fact, I felt that one more opinion one way or the other would not make a great deal of difference. I have since read the many negative attitudes

The Greyhounds knotted the score in the bottom of the first. Kent Swartley walked to first and took second on a sacrifice. Hank Nehilla doubled and Swartley scored.

Second Inning Boom

A big second inning proved to be the clincher for Mo Mo, when four runs crossed the plate.

Jeff Miller singled and Brian Parry walked sending Miller to second. Winning pitcher, Ralph Eltringham doubled sending both Miller and Parry home to score.

Kent Swartley hit a single and with men on both first and third, co-captain George Pitsilos hit a sacrifice fly to score Eltringham. Nehilla, singled to bring Swartley home for the final Greyhound run of the game.

Matla Blanks Vikings

The Vikings from Upsala managed to score one run in the top of the third. Two more runs came their way in the sixth.

Relief pitcher Frank Matla entered the game in the top of the seventh to blank the visitors the rest of the way.

toward the college in the Focus article.

I personally do not agree with many of the statements of some of our alumni. While I do not disagree with their right to express their feelings, I feel obliged to express my own views on the matter.

There is no question in my mind that the preparation which I received at Moravian has proved to be considerably more than adequate. I think the test of the adequacy of preparation is actually the ability to compete and maintain oneself in a graduate curriculum.

Our class is composed of students from both large universities and small colleges. I firmly believe that the performance of those of us from smaller colleges compares quite favorably with that of our colleagues. The position of my educational background which I have brought to medical school is obviously that which I received at Moravian. In my opinion, my training at Moravian has unquestionably proved to be a firm foundation upon which I am building a medical career.

I must agree with Mr. Ward's statement that "you get as much out of college as you're willing to put into it." No educational institution can guarantee success in graduate school, or even an easy transition into the graduate curriculum. The final responsibility rests with the student. Moravian offers its members the atmosphere and the facilities for learning. If these are used conscientiously by the student, there need be no

Netmen Lose To Dickinson And Lafayette

The Greyhound netters dropped a match to Dickinson, 6-3. Mo Mo had only two wins in singles and one doubles victory.

Moravian, now 8-4, received singles wins from Art Smith in three sets when he defeated Jack Abelin; 9-7, 2-6, 6-3, and Stan Chickey who also defeated his opponent in three sets, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

George Kelhart dropped his match in straight sets 6-1, 6-4. Nick Hill lost to Bob Zutzler 6-3, 6-2. Jim Kaplan downed Bill Risley 6-1, 6-2, while Bill Ryan dropped his match to Kevin McClintock 6-0, 6-1.

Smith and Kelhart combined to secure the 'Hounds only victory in doubles action by defeating Abelin and Kaplan 6-3, 11-9.

Chickey and Hill dropped their doubles to Kent Hollingshead and Tom Cupp in two sets 6-2, 6-2. Zutzler and McClintock defeated Risley and Ryan 6-0, 6-3.

Lose to Leopards

Mo Mo's netmen fell before host Lafayette 7-2 in action in Easton last week.

The only two 'Hounds to come back victorious in singles were Art Smith and George Kelhart.

All other singles and doubles matches were lost to the Leopards.

fear concerning the quality of education derived from Moravian.

My statements are, of course, quite subjective, reflecting only my opinions concerning the quality of education at Moravian. I can be more objective, I think, by indicating that our class consists of 137 individuals selected from over 2,000 applications. Two of the members of this class are Moravian graduates. This, I think, indicates that the administrators of our school have a certain confidence in the student graduating with a Moravian education.

There is, of course, no doubt that there is always "room for improvement." Realizing that "the grass is always greener on the other side," I still feel it is very unfortunate that students are so quick to condemn the institution that has provided them the opportunity to pursue advanced education. I have personally found that Moravian is a respected institution, and I am not at all reluctant to admit that I am proud to be a Moravian graduate.

Yours truly,
Parry Miller, '66

. . . Intern Evaluates

To the Editor:

I feel that my four years at Moravian College adequately prepared me for what was to come in Medical School. By this I don't mean that courses in Medical School were duplicates of what I had studied at Moravian. But I do mean that at Moravian I learned how to study and learned of the patience and long hours which must be spent in adequately preparing for different courses. This was probably the most important lesson which I learned while at Moravian.

Most of the courses which I had studied at Moravian were well taught and challenging especially in the fields of language, history, mathematics, physics and chemistry. The biology courses offered at Moravian were the closest in similarity to Medical School courses. At the time I took these particular courses at Moravian they did serve to further stimulate my interest in the field of medicine. Such courses as Comparative Anatomy, Mammalian Anatomy and Genetics all served as good preparatory courses for my more advanced studies in medicine.

The opportunity to do research on an individual basis with good professional supervision was certainly present at Moravian with the Independent Study and Honors Program. The Independent Study Program allowed me the opportunity to learn first-hand the many problems faced in research as well as the chance to study a particular aspect of Chemistry in which I was interested. Adequate lab facilities, chemical materials and personal contact with an excellent instructor were available.

The final test of how successful our training at Moravian has been probably is best measured by our later success in graduate schools. Of the five Moravian graduates who went on to Medical School from my graduating class four have since completed four years of Medical School and graduated while the fifth member will graduate June, 1967.

Sincerely,
Robert J. Sallash, Jr., M.D.

Campus Capers

by Ann Honadle

Women students on Moravian's South Campus found their cafeteria transformed into an island paradise on Friday evening, May 5, when they enjoyed a Hawaiian Luau complete with palm trees, grass skirted waitresses, and Polynesian melodies.

Tony Facciponti's menu included: broiled spare ribs Teriyaki, broiled lobster tail with lemon butter, steamed clams with cocktail sauce, outrigger rice, glazed sweet potatoes with toasted coconut, and Makai salad.

Pineapples, bananas, apples, grapes were also served along with watermelon filled with fresh fruit salad and Hawaiian punch.

The newly elected officers of the Moravian College Choir are: Susan Brobston, president; Michael Dowd, vice president; Susan Elly, secretary; Andrea Rockwell, treasurer; and Carol Gress and Candy Wilchinsky, librarians.

Upcoming engagements of the choir include the State convention of the Eastern Star in Northampton at 8:00 p.m., on May 20, and Baccalaureate Services on May 28 at 2:00 p.m.

Mrs. Monica Schantz, assistant professor of music, will present a piano concert in conjunction with the annual Bach Choir festival May 13 and May 20 at 10:30 a.m. in Asa Packer Chapel, on the Lehigh University Campus.

She will appear with George Manos of Washington, D.C. in performing "Bach Piano Concerto in C Major (B.W.V. 1061)."

Music director and conductor for the program is Dr. Ifor Jones, part-time associate on the college music faculty.

Officers for '66-'67 were elected at the last Blackfriars meeting of the year. They are: Daniel Balf, president; Carol Henn, vice president; John Haklik, treasurer; and Ann Honadle, secretary.

The Ugly Man Contest, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, was won by the Beta Lambda Chi candidate, Barry Scheinberg, with $94 worth of votes. The proceeds from the contest will go to the College Library Fund.

The WAC Carnival, originally scheduled for last Saturday, will be held tomorrow in the Johnston Hall parking lot.

Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity, elected as its officers for next year Arthur Miller, President; Kathy Davco, Secretary, and Steve Hauptert, Treasurer.

Mike Reber and Judy Thatcher will be presented at commencement with the fraternity's journalism award, given annually to the staff member of the student newspaper or yearbook who has contributed most to the organization.

Inter-Sorority Council officers for next year are: Miranda Battager, president; Patricia Hoagland, vice-president; Patricia Zwald, treasurer, and Ann Baker, secretary.

The Amrhein Loan Fund will close for the semester on Friday, May 12. No payments will be received or loans issued after that date until September.

Faculty Gives Study Results In Open Forum

by Laura Haley

"Open Forum," sponsored by the Students for Responsible Citizenship on May 2 in Prosser Auditorium, featured addresses by Dean James J. Heller, Dr. R. Frederick West, and Dr. Anthony LoGiudice.

Dean Heller reported on the Middle Atlantic States evaluation of Moravian College. The evaluation praised Moravian's ten-year budgetary planning and its curriculum study. But the report also advised that Moravian should adopt a more aggressive policy toward admissions.

Questionnaire Discussed

Dr. West expressed his surprise at the number of students, 324, who responded to last spring's questionnaire. Many of the student's suggestions were discussed in the study groups. Their suggestions generally fell into the following categories: less stringent course requirements, smaller classes to facilitate discussion, and new emphasis placed on variety of courses.

In a conclusive summary, Dr. West stated that the questionnaire reflected the high degree of education of the students "in that their statements showed they could think, evaluate, and did not rely heavily on clichés to express themselves."

Expanding Grading Basis

Dr. LoGiudice presented some new ideas for the grading system. An evaluation of a student's performance can take on the form of oral exams, programmed instruction and self-evaluation. In closing, Dr. LoGiudice observed that "the grading and evaluation process ought to include a wide variety of activities — more than merely hourlies and exams for an evaluation of a student's knowledge."

A general discussion period followed.

THOMAS . . .

the achieving of world peace, or even disarmament or a decrease in the high level of poverty.

However, "no arrangements of society matter unless we get rid of war," Thomas advanced, "for out of war for the victors come profit and power, which men cherish above profit."

Thomas pointed out that he remembers when the "United States was proud of its non-military policy, of its lack of conscription and its small standing army." The United States is now a huge military state moving down the road to doom, for peace cannot be obtained through militarism.

Bombing of North Viet Nam should never have been started, according to Thomas. He feels that we should help any government, which the people choose, to restore the country which we have helped to destroy. In Viet Nam we are not stopping communism but merely providing opportunity for propagandists.

Pompey, Edwards Discussed In First History Symposium

by Nick Husak

The first Symposium on History was presented at Moravian College on May 3.

The Theta-Omega chapter of the Phi Alpha Theta Honor Society in History sponsored the event.

Leslie Jones, president of PAT presented each speaker.

"Pompey: The Lost Opportunity" by Vivienne Aldersley, discussed the early life and ambition of the Roman General.

Ambition and Military

He learned the art of war under his father. Ambition seemed to direct all his actions as he grew older. Marriage was a method of political alliance as evidenced in his marriage to Sulla's daughter.

Sulla the ruler along with the Senate, sent Pompey to Spain to fight, and also to remove an ambitious thorn from their side.

While in Spain he learned guerilla warfare. This unusual manner of warfare was used by Spartacus in his revolt against Rome.

Pompey won his greatest success in his defeat of Spartacus giving him the heroic reputation he needed to gain power.

He achieved the rank of consul and later was part of the first triumvirate.

Rubicon Crossed

He came into conflict with Caesar when the latter crossed the Rubicon with his army in his bid for political control. To maintain order the triumvirate was formed with Pompey and Caesar as the leading power figures.

Pompey missed his opportunity to become the ruler when he failed to make decisive use of his army as Caesar had done.

Church In Enlightenment

Albert Frank spoke on "Pietism and the Enlightenment." The Church at the time of the enlightenment had been the director of scientific thought. There was a curious mutual interest by both priest and scientist in each other's field.

Pascal and Newton both entered the field of theology giving their own thoughts to the many religious questions of their day.

"Jonathan Edwards in the hands of an Angry Historian" was presented by Jayne Wissel.

Edwards is a little-studied historical figure mainly because of the complex arrangement and mystery of his theology. Many a historian has become trapped in the web of his theology while looking for the historical in his life.

Edwards was a rather an enigma of his time. While his time worried about worldly problems, his thoughts centered on the other word of theology.

CUB News

by Eileen Fleming

Dance:

An informal dance will be held in the CUB dining room Saturday, May 13, from 8:30 to 12:30.

Film:

The movie, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," will be shown in Prosser on Friday, May 19. The two showings will be at 6:30 and 9:00.

This movie, starring Danny Kaye and Virginia Mayo, is James Thurber's wonderful story of wish-fulfillment that has given us a word for the language, vividly realized by Danny Kaye in an enjoyable production. The timid suburbanite, henpecked, who dreams of himself in many roles, plays them in his daydreams; a sea hero, a world-famous surgeon, a great fashion designer, a riverboat gambler. When one of his dreams comes to life, he really becomes a hero.

A short, "The Great Chase" will follow the movie.

Auction:

A WAC sponsored Faculty Auction will be held in Prosser, tonight at 7:00.
