Course Overview
This course is an introduction to basic theoretical principles of psychological coping and adjustment. Students will learn greater insight and efficacy in dealing with social and behavioral forces they encounter and will acquire an appreciation for the importance of psychology and its reliance on other disciplines to understand and improve complex social and behavioral phenomena.

Course Objectives: After completing this course students should be able to:
1. Understand the core concepts of psychology and how they apply to human relations and personal adjustment.
2. Think critically, work through problems logically, and make connections between psychological theories, concepts and approaches and real life experiences.
3. Gain greater insight and efficacy in their relationships and exchanges with others.
4. Work effectively as a member of a discussion group on a topic related to human adjustment.
