Description:

This course provides a foundation in the specialty practice of faith community nursing (FCN). Foundational concepts such as faith, religion, and spirituality will be explored as well as the historical development of the specialty and present roles in practice. This exploration leads to the development and implementation of a project set in a faith community. This elective provides 1 course unit of study.

Objectives:

1. Discuss the historical development of the specialty leading to the present models of faith community nursing and FCN Scope and Standards of Practice.
2. Consider foundational concepts such as: faith, religion, spirituality, health, and wholeness as they relate to FCN.
3. Identify the role of the FCN as they relate to the nursing roles of practitioner, educator, coordinator, advocate, and counselor.
4. Identify the impact of ethical, legal, financial, cultural, spiritual, and psychosocial issues on FCN in the community.
5. Implement or participate in a health promotion/disease prevention project, or other project within the scope and standards of this specialty practice.

Course Requirements:
1. Class attendance is an expectation. Students are expected to be prepared, attend all class meetings and complete assignments prior to attending class.

2. If unable to attend a class, please contact the course faculty via email or phone. Students are responsible for obtaining any notes, handouts, or other class items from classmates.

3. Plagiarism is the intentional use of another’s words or ideas as your own. This can range from using another individual’s direct words or changing the words slightly (paraphrasing) without the appropriate citation to purchasing a paper from the Internet or a professional writing service. Refer to the Moravian College Academic Honesty Policy in the Student Handbook. APA format is required for all written assignments.

4. All examinations are to be taken at the scheduled time. An alternate examination may be utilized by the course faculty for any students who miss an examination due to illness or other excused absence.

5. Learning activities stated on the topical outline section of this syllabus are to be completed prior to class time. The student can expect to work approximately 10-12 hours per week in preparing for this class.

Students who wish to request accommodations in this class for a disability should contact Mr. Joe Kempfer, Assistant Director of Learning Services for Disability Support, 1307 Main Street (extension 1510). Accommodations cannot be provided until authorization is received from the office of Learning Services.

It is within the instructor’s purview to apply qualitative judgment in determining grades for an assignment or for a course and the syllabus is subject to change.
Methods of Evaluation:

Interview of a Faith Community Nurse or Pastor

Contact a faith community nurse (I have names and contact information) or a member of the clergy at a local faith community, or even your own faith community. Through this (in person or phone) interview explore the nurse’s practice of faith community nursing. Or contact a local member of the clergy and explore pastoral care of congregants across the lifespan and during periods of health and sickness. Ask clergy about FCN and how it is practiced in this faith community. If not practiced in this faith community, how much knowledge of this specialty practice does this pastor have, and would he/she consider this type of practice? Here are some addition questions for consideration:

1. What is your personal theology of faith, healing, and wholeness and how does this compare/contrast with the theology of the faith community? (Refer to Hickman ch. 3, be prepared to share aspects that touch your own faith journey or scholarship in this course to spark discussion)

2. How do you define health? These definitions of health may spark discussion:

WHO definition (this definition has not been amended since 1948):

“Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity.”

http://www.who.int/about/definition/en/print.html

FCN Scope and Standards Definition:

“The experience of wholeness, salvation, or shalom. The integration of the spiritual, physical, psychological, and social aspect of the patient to create a sense of harmony with self, others, the environment, and a higher power. Health may be experienced in the presence or absence of disease or injury.”

3. Where do you see the role of the faith community in health promotion and disease prevention?

4. Tell me about your practice within the faith community with congregants experiencing acute illness, chronic illness, and loss. With FCN interview, try to touch on the roles as described in Hickman chapter 2.

5. How do congregants in this faith community minister to each other in health and sickness?

Following the interview, complete a journal of the experience (no more than 3 pages of text) and connect your discussion to the reading and course objectives for this course. Use APA format, no abstract necessary. Include a reference page for any articles or books cited in the body of the paper.

Diverse Faith Traditions Seminar

Choose a faith tradition that is different from your own:

Judaism: Orthodox, Conservative, Reconstructionist, Reformed

Christianity: Roman Catholic, Orthodox Church, Episcopal Church in America (Anglican Church), Moravian, Lutheran, United Church of Christ, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptists, Mennonites, Brethren, Amish, Unitarian Universalists, Quakers, African American Churches, Others include: Mormon (church of Latter-day Saints), Jehovah’s Witness, Christian Scientists, Adventists, Pentecostalism

Islam

Hinduism

Buddhism

For the seminar, be prepared to discuss by comparing and contrasting to your own faith tradition:

- Basic doctrine: what elements of faith are part of this faith tradition? one God, more than one God? Who leads or teaches the doctrines?
- Important rituals/sacraments are part of religious expression
- View of illness
- How is healthful living supported
- Any aspects of the tradition that impact the family or cultural life of the congregation?

Use your textbook as a starting point. At the end of the night please provide the course instructor with a the talking points that you were planning to share with the group and a bibliography of resources you used to prepare for the seminar.
Faith Community Nursing Exploratory Paper

Students will complete a paper which considers an aspect of FCN through scholarly inquiry. APA format is required for this paper. The body of the paper should be no longer than 8 pages. Please include an abstract and this scholarly inquiry should include 6-8 sources. Please note on the course outline when the topic for the paper, the outline and preliminary bibliography, and then the final paper is due. Here are a number of ideas for the paper:

- FCN caring roles for the client with: cancer, dementia, disability, mental health issue, etc
- Spiritual care needs of the client with: acute/chronic illness, terminally ill, bereaved, living in the community, homeless, or client who is: a child, teen, elder, etc. O’Brien (1999) will provide some direction for this scholarly inquiry.
- Choose an aspect of spiritual care (prayer, scripture, religious rituals, music, reminiscence, presence, etc and look at available research into this aspect. Hickman (2006) page 61 has a list of other examples.
- Servant leadership and FCN. O’Brien (2011) is a great starting point for this exploration.
- Is nursing a vocation? Profession only? Both? O’Brien (2011) is a good starting point for this issue.
- The FCN from the viewpoint of the congregation.
- The role of the FCN in Complementary and Alternative Medicine
- Choose any of the above topics or a topic of your own choosing (consult with instructor) and relate it to a nursing theory. Shelly and Miller (2006) and Hickman (2006) can be a starting point for this inquiry.

There is an opportunity for students to submit papers for possible presentation. Students who choose to relate the Neuman Systems Model framework to their exploration topic will be able to submit the paper for review and presentation at the 2011 NSM Symposia, which will be held in the Lehigh Valley June 9-11, 2011. Dr. Janet Sipple is a NSM trustee, and will share her expertise with the NSM framework during class as an exemplar of a nursing theory with connections to spiritual care and FCN. She is very willing to assist in NSM application to your topic of interest and encourages all to consider submission to this very prestigious symposium which will be in the Lehigh Valley this year.
Faith Community Nursing Project and Presentation

Students will partner with an existing faith community nurse or faith community to develop a project which is planned and implemented (if possible) during the semester. Projects can have a health promotion/disease prevention focus (e.g. children’s health fair, health screenings, adult health education), be focused on an initial faith community assessment, chronic illness management, or other areas that fall under the scope and standards of FCN practice. At the conclusion of the semester students will present their project to the class. Students who were able to implement their project may choose to present the information to their student colleagues via a poster presentation or podium presentation. Students who planned a project but were unable to implement it will be given time to explain the project and use our class as a way to pilot test the project and get feedback. Provide references for your choice of project and implementation.

Activities and Discussion: This course has been created to provide the student with the tools needed to begin to understand and develop a foundation in spiritual caring and FCN. As such, students will be expected to read and prepare for discussion, involvement in seminars, activities and other presentations. Readings are recommended, and also suggested, these suggested readings are just that, suggested, students may decide to read other literature that they feel is part of their personal tool development/study of faith community nursing. Please bring this information to class and help to inform your colleagues. Here are a few of the activities/discussions questions for consideration.

Activities/Discussion Questions for Week 2

1. Reflect on how concepts of caring were addressed in previous nursing courses or past nursing curriculum. Are these concepts evident to you in current nursing practice?
2. What historical events are shaping this decade and impacting nursing education? For RNs in the course, can you share any historical events from your first experience in nursing education that had an impact on your education at that time?
3. Where are you in the process of defining person, health, environment, and nursing, as part of a personal philosophy of nursing? Is this connected to a nursing theory? Is this connected to the philosophy and definitions from the Department of Nursing here at Moravian College? (Check the philosophy for definitions and the CHIP components in the student handbook)
4. Reflect on a recent clinical or practice experience and consider what might be different, if you approached it from Hickman’s Philosophical Base for Faith Community Nursing in Chapter 1.
5. Ask 2 people that are different from you (age, race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status) the following questions:
   a. What is health?
   b. What do you do to stay healthy?
Activities/Discussion Questions for Week 3

From Chapter 2:

1. Discuss four specific nursing interventions that you could use to integrate faith and health in a client situation. Newfield et al. may help with this.
2. Reflect on the content required for preparation as a FCN and consider this content in relation to your own nursing education. Are there content areas you need more preparation in? Reviewing Standard 8 in the Scope and Standards of FCN practice and the section on educational preparation may also help with this.
3. Reflect on your personal experiences in nursing when you acted in the role of client advocate. Consider your comfort level and success (or lack of success) in carrying out this role.

From Chapter 4:

1. Identify challenges in initiating a new faith community nursing program. Which do you see as most challenging?
2. Reflect on the list of volunteers (Box 4-2). How do you identify, educate, recruit, and sustain these volunteers?

Week 4 Activities/Discussion

Assessment of the Faith Community and Geopolitical Community

For class this week, conduct a Walk-about Assessment of a faith community, or a Windshield Survey of the community surrounding a faith community. Use your assessment information and look up the population demographics and vital statistics on sites such as:

US Census site: www.census.gov
The National Center for Health Statistics http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/
Behavioral risk factor surveillance system http://apps.nccd.cdc.gov/brfss/
PA Department of Health Website http://www.portal.health.state.pa.us/portal/server.pt/community/health_statistics_and_research/11599

Write three nursing diagnoses in the format described by Hickman (2006) p. 99:

Risk of ____________________ among ________________ related to ____________________

What aspect of the walk-about or windshield survey connected with the vital statistics you reviewed?
What types of data would you collect related to these diagnoses if you were conducting a congregational assessment? How would you collect it?

Prioritize your diagnoses and tell the group why your prioritized in this manner.

Activities/Discussion Week 9

1. Think about your FCN project, and come with some ideas for where to fund it, the textbook has a number of websites at the end of Ch. 14 to consider.
   a. Write a problem statement for your project.
   b. Consider sustainability of the project.
   c. What capacity issues would you want to describe for the potential funding source?
   d. How would you propose to evaluate the effectiveness of the project?
2. What data should the FCN collect prior to researching public and private funding sources?
